While improving yourself mentally and physically can be a lifelong process, some local health and financial experts say it's never too late to start.

FITNESS

According to Candy Smith, manager of Harbor Health and Fitness, anyone from 14 to 108 can benefit from a good, safe workout at Harbor.

"There is not an age where you would not be trying to be a little bit healthier," she said. "And we [illegible] work at whatever [illegible] people want to do."

She added, "W[illegible] [illegible] workout [illegible] Safety [illegible] workout [illegible]"

Harbor has free weights, strength and cardio machines and variety of classes.

"We have classes that include everything from cardio to hi-lo step to yoga and pilates," Smith said. "We have strength classes and sculpting classes and we even have one called 'Booty Blast' that emphasizes extra work for the gluteus maximus."

She added, "But there are all kinds of classes, like calming yoga where you get strength and ability to connect the mind and body so you can keep those resolutions and future plans."

Smith's tips for sticking to those resolutions:

- Remain consistent [illegible] every day [illegible] better than [illegible] a marathon once a year.

Scammers don't take a break during holidays

Sheriff George T. Lasater would like to remind citizens that the holidays do not stop scam artists.

Lasater warns that Christmas is prime time for Internet scammers aiming to take advantage of unsuspecting citizens.

Lasater would like to remind citizens that any e-mail correspondence asking for or promising money should immediately be treated as a scam. The most common scam that the sheriff's office sees are e-mails from an individual in a foreign country wanting to become a partner in business with the citizen. These e-mails are easily identified as they always ask you to be a sort of middleman and they will give you a certain percentage of their profits.

Lasater reminds citizens to be wary of any offer that seems too good to be true and to use the utmost caution when giving out personal information especially during the busy holiday season.

Warm weather melts hopes of shopping rush

SHOP

mation, due to a lack of snow.

Owner of Charlevoix Wear, Kirby Dipert, said his holiday business was good, but the post-Christmas rush he generally sees hasn't been there this year.

"There doesn't seem to be as many folks in town, but all in all we had a good year and a good season," he said. "We feel very fortunate that we are supported by the locals and thank everybody for shopping with us all year long."

Bridge Street Book Shop owner, Jim Berlage, said business is, "Usually pretty good," and blames the lack of snow for the lack of people buying his books this holiday season.

Other Charlevoix restaurants also did well this holiday season.

"We were way up this year," said Scott Forreider, owner and operator of Scovie's Gourmet.

Forreider credits the local population with the increase of business this year.

"We did a ton of gift certificates this year," he said. "We probably tripled the amount of gift certificates this year over previous years."

Forreider said Scovie's gift baskets were also in high demand this season.

"The local support and second homeowners are what really carry us through nine months of the year," he said.

Owner and operator of Charlevoix Ace Hardware, Mark Greyerbiehl, said sales were good, but they could have been better.

"The best way to describe it is mediocre. Folks were just not up here as much because they could look at mud down state or in Chicago or wherever," he said. "Comparatively speaking we were up because of the addition. If we would have had normal weather, business would have been up five to seven percent over last year — not taking into account the addition."

But, he added, "It's not all doom and gloom. We opened up at midnight after Thanksgiving. It was very cool. I think people appreciated the fact that we were open first...and a lot of people came from different areas for that. We stayed busy until about 3:30 in the morning and then things picked back up around 5 a.m."

Greyerbiehl attributed lack of snow and warmer than average temperatures for preventing what would have been a season of record sales.

"We are a seasonal business more so than anybody in this area as far as the greater Charlevoix area," he said. "We do a lot of heating stuff and furnace stuff so that was down."

He added, "When you look at the fact that locals (business owners) shop with us, but the folks are not here because there's no snow, so the shop owners are not coming in — it's a black snowball on business."

Emergency food and shelter funds allocated to Charlevoix

Congressman Bart Stupak announced that 25 counties in Michigan's 1st Congressional District have been awarded $493,000 by the Emergency Food and Shelter (EFS) Program.

The Emergency Food and Shelter Program is a federal program administered by the U.S. Department of Homeland Security's Federal Emergency Management Agency. The program supplements and expands ongoing efforts to provide shelter, food and supportive services.

"These federal dollars will help support worthwhile community and service agencies throughout my district," Stupak said. "I am pleased to see this funding come through to benefit northern Michigan residents when they are most in need."

In each funded county, including Charlevoix County, a local board advertises the availability of the funds, establishes local priorities, selects local non-profit and government agencies to receive supplemental funding, and monitors program compliance.

The following northern Michigan counties will receive funds under the most recent allocation: Alcona; Alger; Alpena; Antrim; Arenac; Baraga; Bay; Charlevoix; Cheboygan; Chippewa; Crawford; Delta; Emmet; Gladwin; Gogebic; Houghton; Iosco; Iron; Mackinac; Menominee; Montmorency; Oscoda; Otsego; Presque Isle and Schoolcraft.

The Emergency Food and Shelter Program National Board provides supplemental funding to shelters, soup kitchens and food banks. One-month awards for rent, mortgage and utility assistance are also available. The funds are used to help individuals and families with non-disaster, temporary emergency needs.

The Emergency Food and Shelter Program has been in existence since 1983 and was authorized under the McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Act of 1987. The program has distributed more than $2.952 billion to communities nationwide and has accounted for millions of additional meals and nights of shelter to the hungry and homeless most in need across the nation.

Top 10 resolutions of local movers and shakers

THE CRYING TOWEL

Benjamin Gohs

Whether it's weight loss, quitting smoking, cutting stress, spending more time with the family, doing more volunteer work or going further in your career, you will likely be one of the thousands of northern Michiganders planning to make at least one resolution this year — I know, I never fail to state the obvious.

This time of year people are bombarded by magazines, TV networks and company newsletters with tips on how to keep those New Year's resolutions — even a few insidious newspapers jump on the blasé bandwagon. And, since I'm sure you've already been beaten up one side and down the other with ideas on how to improve yourself, I'll save my annoying tips, tricks and hints for another time.

While the following predictions may be destined for the "Not so much" bin, my vaticinations (the wife got me a new thesaurus for Christmas) on the top 10 '07 New Year's resolutions of Charlevoix's movers and shakers stands — just to be safe, I consulted my doubly dependable slander and libel manual before delving into the realm of make-believe—so here goes:

10. Charlevoix Elementary School Principal, Dick Swenor, resolves to take his antics to the next level by donning a gorilla suit while skydiving blindfolded over a pool of hungry piranha after his students collectively read 1,000 books during the school year.

9. Judges May and Pajtas resolve to increase the "Fun" quotient in their courtrooms by allowing those convicted of minor crimes to choose their punishment, ranging in severity from appropriate to ludicrous, by spinning a large multicolored wheel.

8. To improve the image of the local municipality, City manager, Mike Wiesner, resolves to smile more and work the words, "Delightful, nifty," and "Bling" into his everyday vocabulary, while simultaneously eliminating the words, "Humbug, balderdash," and "Phooey."

7. Local clergy resolve to increase church attendance with the new 5 p.m. "Men's only" services every Friday by including beer and peanuts while sermonizing using only sports analogies.

6. After decades of living a lie, Mayor Norman (Boogie) Carlson resolves to take at least one dance lesson or change his nickname to something more suitable like Norm or Mayor.

5. For the betterment of harmony in City Hall, Third Ward Council member, Shirley Gibson, resolves next month to make Wiesner her valentine, affectionately referring to him as, "The Weez."

4. Bipartisan relations will get a boost when chair of the local republican party, John Haggard, resolves to take a wayward democrat under his right wing. In a shocking twist, green party organizer, Ellis Boal, resolves to say 15 positive things about President George W. Bush without becoming physically ill.

3. In an attempt to improve civilian-authority relations, Charlevoix Chief of Police, Gerard Doan, resolves that his officers will sing Miranda rights to the tune of, "If I were a rich man," from the stage production "Fiddler on the Roof," to perps before they are placed under arrest.

Not to be outdone, Charlevoix County Sheriff, George T. Lasater, resolves to instate, "Breakfast in Bed Sundays" with a complimentary copy of the New York Times and pulp-free orange juice.

2. Having gone eight consecutive years with never having a bad hair day, Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney, John Jarema, resolves to teach comb and styling techniques for those with bad hairdos down at the local learning annex.

Courier staff writer Benjamin Gohs resolves to lose 65 pounds if Charlevoix County Clerk Jane Brannon kicks cigarettes for one year.

1. While we're in the realm of fiction, the author of The Crying Towel resolves to lose 65 pounds if Charlevoix County Clerk, Jane Brannon, quits smoking for a year.

Thanks for putting up with "The Crying Towel" throughout 2006. Join me this year when I elevate the discourse by discussing misunderstood dictators, fashion for the obese and the positives of polygamy.

Time permitting I'll give cat lovers, orphans and whoever invented handicapped parking spaces a piece of my mind — good thing my publisher has the company's lawyer on speed dial.

It's warm but it's not global warming

EAR TO THE GROUND

Roger Knutson

That our winter to this date has been unseasonably warm is no surprise to anyone. I usually depend on clearing the driveway of snow for my winter exercise plan, but this year I need long walks and calisthenics.

One of the fascinations with out-of-season weather is the way those organisms with millions of more years experience of weather variation respond. With no snow cover the deer have stopped coming every night to our bird-squirrel-deer feeder. I suppose that's because there's abundant, easily available food elsewhere. Those organisms without a brain, but millions of years of weather experience, are to me even more interesting. How does a plant, with no good way of keeping track of what is happening weather-wise, behave when the seasons are confounded?

In the week before Dec. 25, and on that Christmas day, I walked around looking for examples of plant behavior. Between our home on Burns Street and downtown, I was able to collect five different plants that were in bloom — flowers, right here in late December.

Given even a few warm days at almost any time of year there will be dandelion blooms, and the English daisies and primroses in our yard are probably more tuned to the winter climate of northern Europe than they are to ours. Although Michigan botanist Ed Voss says that the English daises have been thriving in Michigan since 1897. The cultivated primrose escape from cultivation and manage to establish themselves. Ours have invaded the shady part of our lawn.

One of the blooming floral surprises next to the sidewalk was a plant that travels under the name pineapple weed, since the crushed blooms give off a distinct pineapple odor. It is not a pineapple relative, but is more closely related to thistles, and has moved into Michigan from the Rocky Mountains. The fifth winter bloomer is a tiny mustard relative, probably whitlow grass. It too is an immigrant, this time from Europe.

It makes sense that the out-of-season bloomers are not native to our usual climate. They are not as well adjusted to what happens here as those who have been in Michigan for thousands of seasons.

Finally, does our unusual winter have something to do with global warming? Probably not. The phenomenon is called global warming, not Michigan warming, and as the earth altogether warms up Michigan may be either warmer or cooler, wetter or dryer. The world is genuinely warming up, but what that might do to our local climate or the blooming of our flowers is not so easy to predict. This has been, up to now, a warm winter. Enjoy it as much as possible, but it is not good evidence of anything grander. That evidence comes from worldwide measurements and it is most convincing.

LETTER to the editor

CHARLEVOIX'S PRECIOUS JEWEL

Editor:

We have a precious jewel in the midst of our town. The Friends of the Library and Charlevoix voters, through the millage, had foresight and wisdom to use the empty (former Charlevoix) Middle School building on Clinton for the new library. The interior was completely rebuilt including an addition. The interior space is used so judiciously with many large wide open, high ceiling rooms, where all can be viewed with a sweep of our eyes, and then zeroing in on all the individual delights of a large variety of books.

There are larger computer areas, a delightful, well-stocked children's room, a teen lounge with comfortable seating, books and magazines. These are all the components of a well stocked library. However, the difference here lies in the grace and extraordinary beauty of this library.

The architecture, design, décor and furnishings are all in the Mission style. The high ceilings are coffered in many areas with understated lighting, the fireplace areas have beautiful Pewabic-like tiles surrounding them. The color schemes are tasteful in quiet, but rich tones of beige, cocoa, orange, brown, blue and turquoise.

There is a historical Michigan room with information and repositories of rare and historic books regarding our northern Michigan treasure. If we were visiting here to view wonderful and unusual sights, this library would be on the top of the list. As a little boy of about 6 came through the doors with his family, I heard him exclaim, "Look mom, it's so beautiful." How true.

Bring your friends and family to view and enjoy our wonderful library.

Guild donates $9,500 to PT department

As a final contribution in 2006, Chris Unbehaun, president of Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild and treasurer, JoAnne Friedman, recently presented a check to Lyn Jenks, director of the hospital foundation, in the amount of $9,500.

The contribution will cover the cost of the recently purchased elliptical machine and a NU-Step machine for use in the Charlevoix Area Hospital Physical Therapy Department.

The guild conducted numerous fund-raising events in 2006, the proceeds from which have been used to purchase equipment and services for Charlevoix Area Hospital. The hospital gift shop, run by guild members and volunteers, is a year-round contributor to the funds raised by the guild and this year, had sales in excess of $45,000.

As this year ends, Unbehaun will also be closing a chapter with the guild. She has served the guild for the past two years as president and turned over the gavel to Cass Williamson on Jan. 1. Unbehaun has assumed new responsibilities as presidential council to the guild.

Charles Thompson, an artist and painter chosen to create the curved mural in the entryway to the new Charlevoix Public Library, will present a program at 7 p.m. on Jan. 9 at the library.

Charles Thompson, an artist and painter, will be the honored guest at the annual gathering of the Friends of the Charlevoix Public Library at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, Jan. 9 in the community room at the library, located at 220 Clinton St.

Thompson, born in Cadillac, and raised in Hawaii and California, graduated from the San Diego School of Creative and Performing Arts, attended Kendall College of Art and Design in Grand Rapids, and graduated from The Academy of Art in San Francisco, Calif. Having returned to Michigan in 2004 with plans to commit himself to painting, he entered the competition for the creation of a mural for the new Charlevoix Public Library and won.

Thompson will describe how he developed the design and then painted the curved entry wall.

The public is invited to the presentation. Coffee and refreshments will be served.

OBITUARIES

Rev. Albert Mansen: May 13, 1913 - Dec. 19, 2006

Rev. Albert F. Mansen, 93, of Charlevoix, and formerly of Forest Grove, died Tuesday, Dec. 19, 2006, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

A funeral took place on Wednesday, Dec. 27, at the Community Reformed Church in Charlevoix. Rev. Larry Grooters officiated. Burial will take place in the spring in Barnard Cemetery.

Rev. Mansen was born May 13, 1913, in Eddyville, Iowa, the son of F.B. and Johanna (TeStrake) Mansen. He graduated from Hope College, Western Theological Seminary in Holland. On July 12, 1939, he married Donna N. Hendrickson in Grand Rapids. Rev. Mansen served churches in Michigan and Wisconsin, including, Martin, Bentheim, Jamestown and Friesland, retiring in 1976, from the Community Reformed Church in Charlevoix. After retiring, he and Donna moved to Forest Grove, where Rev. Mansen worked as assistant pastor and together they served the Forest Grove Reformed Church. They returned to Charlevoix in June of 2006, and she preceded him in death on Dec. 4, 2006. He was a member of the Community Reformed Church in Charlevoix.

Rev. Mansen is survived by his children, A. James (Cindy) Mansen; and Julaine (Sam) VanderHeide, all of Charlevoix, Dr. Thom J. (Cheryl) Mansen of Salt Lake City, Utah; grandchildren, Jana Mueller, Steven Mansen, Heidi Wilkinson, Brett VanderHeide and Cameron Mansen; seven great-grandchildren. Albert's sister, Alyce Wolf and brothers, Rev. Theodore Mansen, and B.H. "Red" Mansen preceded him in death.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Community Reformed Church in Charlevoix, or to the Forest Grove Reformed Church in Hudsonville.

Gladys Denny: May 22, 1923 - Dec. 21, 2006

Gladys Helen Denny, 83, of Charlevoix, died Thursday, Dec. 21, 2006, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

A funeral took place on Thursday, Dec. 28, at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. Rev. Nancy Rhode officiated. Burial followed in Maple Hill Cemetery in Charlotte.

Helen was born May 22, 1923, in Colorado Springs, Colo., the daughter of Roland and Gladys (Sheldon) Roberts. She graduated from Petoskey High School in 1941. Helen married Jack W. Cribb on May 16, 1947, in Charlotte. They made their home there, and Helen worked as a bookkeeper for the Eaton County Health Department, Curtis Buick and the GM Proving Grounds in Milford. Jack preceded her in death on Jan. 17, 1962.

Helen later married John H. Denny in 1963, in Charlotte. They moved to Charlevoix in 1974, and John preceded her in death on Jan. 31, 1990. Helen worked at the Bergmann Center in Charlevoix until retiring.

She is survived by her sons, Robert S. Cribb of Charlevoix, and Gordon K. (Frances M.) Cribb of Boyne City; grandchildren, Laura M. (John) Sanford of Saugatuck, Dr. Jack (Stephanie) Cribb of Charlotte, John G. Cribb of Petoskey, Jessica M. Cribb, and Ryan D. Cribb of Boyne City; great-grandchildren, Kaylea W. and Clayton E. Sanford, Garrett T., Sophia A.E., and Jacob Ryan Cribb, Preston Hughey; sister, Kathryn Zirkle of Truckee, Nev.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Bergmann Center in Charlevoix.

Establishment of Zones for Bovine Tuberculosis

(Identification, Testing, Permitting, and Movement Requirements)

Proposed Effective Date: March 1, 2007

All Zones within Michigan

Animal Identification

Effective March 1, 2007, all cattle must be identified with RFID Electronic identification eartags prior to movement from a premises within Michigan. Initial identification of cattle must utilize an RFID Electronic identification eartag issued by the Michigan Department of Agriculture to the premises at which the identification occurs. Official identification tags may not be transferred between premises or used on animals not included in the herd on the premises to which the tags were issued.

Livestock Inspection Check-Points

Any vehicle that may contain livestock must stop at any posted Livestock and Plant Inspection Point. Upon stopping of the vehicle, a person transporting the livestock shall produce documentation that contains the origin of shipment, official identification of livestock, any documentation required to move livestock, and the direct shipping destination of the livestock.

Modified Accredited Zone - includes the entirety of Alcona, Alpena, Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Crawford, Emmet, Montmorency, Oscoda, Otsego, and Presque Isle counties, and those portions of Iosco and Ogemaw counties that are north of the southernmost boundaries of the Huron National Forest and the Au Sable State Forest.

Surveillance Testing Requirements

All cattle herds must complete an annual whole herd bovine tuberculosis test of all cattle 12 months of age and older, and all goats, bison, or privately owned cervids 6 months of age or older in contact with the herd. Retesting of herds must be done within 9-15 months of the anniversary date of the initial whole herd test. Registered terminal operations or USDA approved feedlots are exempt from the annual whole herd testing requirement.

Movement Testing Requirements

Movement within the Modified Accredited Zone

- Cattle must comply with one of the following prior to movement:
  - a) Originate directly from a bovine tuberculosis accredited free herd, or,
  - b) Originate from a herd which has received a whole herd test within 60 days prior to movement, or,
  - c) Receive a negative bovine tuberculosis test within 60 days prior to movement.
- Calves less than 2 months of age may be moved if they originate from a herd that has completed a whole herd test within 12 months prior to movement.
- Steers or spayed heifers may be moved to a registered terminal operation, or between registered terminal operations without meeting tuberculosis testing requirements.
- Cattle may be moved to an FSIS approved slaughter plant, or through one concentration point to an FSIS approved slaughter plant, without meeting tuberculosis testing requirements.

Movement into another Zone within Michigan

- Cattle 2 months of age and older must comply with one of the following prior to movement:
  - a) Originate directly from a bovine tuberculosis accredited free herd, or,
  - b) Originate from a herd that has received a negative whole herd bovine tuberculosis test within 12 months prior to movement, and receive a negative bovine tuberculosis test within 60 days prior to movement (steers or spayed heifers do not need to meet the whole herd testing requirement).
- Cattle less than 2 months of age may be moved if they originate from a herd that has completed a whole herd test within 12 months prior to movement.
- Cattle may be moved to an FSIS approved slaughter plant, or through one concentration point to an FSIS approved slaughter plant, without meeting tuberculosis testing requirements.

Movement Permit Requirements

A Movement Permit from MDA is required to be obtained prior to movement of any cattle from a premises within the zone. All cattle with a destination of a concentration point must receive a new permit that identifies the final destination of movement, prior to leaving the concentration point facility. Cattle do not need to be re-permitted from the concentration point if they are moved directly to a slaughter facility that maintains a RFID Electronic eartag tracking system.

Modified Accredited Advanced Zone – includes the remainder of the Lower Peninsula of Michigan.

Surveillance Testing Requirements

All herds must obtain a premises identification number, and be placed into a database from which herds will be randomly selected for whole herd testing. Proportional samples of beef and dairy farms will be selected from each Michigan Agricultural Statistics Service agriculture district based upon the total number of farms in that district. Selection will occur on a two-year cycle.

Selected herds, or herds selected as a replacement for herds determined ineligible for testing, shall be subject to whole herd testing of all cattle in the herd 18 months of age and older, and all bison, goats, and privately owned cervids 6 months of age or older in contact with the herd. This testing must occur within 90 days after the person responsible for herd management receives notification that a whole herd test under this surveillance program is due and necessary.

Movement Testing Requirements

Movement into another Zone within Michigan

- Sexually intact cattle 6 months of age or older must meet one of the following prior to movement:

a) Originate directly from a bovine tuberculosis accredited free herd, or,

b) Be included in a whole herd bovine tuberculosis test at the premises of origin within 6 months prior to movement, or,

c) Receive a negative bovine tuberculosis test within 60 days prior to movement.

- Cattle less than 6 months of age, steers and spayed heifers of any age, or cattle moving to an FSIS approved slaughter plant or through one livestock concentration point prior to an FIS approved slaughter plant, do not need to meet tuberculosis testing requirements prior to movement.
- Sexually intact heifers that are moving to an USDA approved feedlot, or that are moving in approved feeder channels do not need to meet tuberculosis testing requirement prior to movement.

Movement within the Modified Accredited Advanced Zone

- No tuberculosis testing is required for movement of cattle within the zone, or through a livestock concentration point to a final destination within the zone.

Movement Certification Requirements

All cattle, unless moved directly to an FSIS approved slaughter plant, or through one livestock collection point directly to an FSIS approved slaughter plant, must receive an official movement certification prior to movement to any other zone within Michigan, and a copy of the certification must accompany the animals during movement.

Bovine Tuberculosis Free Zone - includes the entirety of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan.

Surveillance Testing Requirements

All herds must obtain a premises identification number, and be placed into a database from which herds will be randomly selected for whole herd testing. Proportional samples of beef and dairy farms will be selected from each Michigan Agricultural Statistics Service agriculture district based upon the total number of farms in that district. Selection will occur on a two-year cycle.

Selected herds, or herds selected as a replacement for herds determined ineligible for testing, shall be subject to whole herd testing of all cattle in the herd 18 months of age and older, and all bison, goats, and privately owned cervids 6 months of age or older in contact with the herd. This testing must occur within 90 days after the person responsible for herd management receives notification that a whole herd test under this surveillance program is due and necessary.

Movement Testing and Certification Requirements

All cattle, unless moved directly to an FSIS approved slaughter plant, or through one livestock collection point directly to an FSIS approved slaughter plant, must receive an official movement certification prior to movement to any other zone within Michigan, and a copy of the certification must accompany the animals during movement.

No tuberculosis testing is required to move within the bovine tuberculosis free zone, or to other zones within Michigan.

This order revises the order that established zones effective June 1, 2004.

Two programs aim to line city streets in trees

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

The City of Charlevoix Shade Tree Commission is on a beautifying mission.

The commission recently announced two new programs, Adopt-a-tree and the Memorial Tree Project, that aim to line the city streets in trees.

"If we want to keep Charlevoix beautiful, we have to maintain our trees. Part of Charlevoix's charm can be attributed to our trees," said Shade Tree Commission member, Ken Polakowski.

This fall, the commission, through the Champion Tree Project, headed up a city-wide survey to locate areas where street-side trees can be planted. It included an evaluation of the condition, age and species of existing trees as well as vacant locations. Of the property owners who responded to the survey, 60 percent of those with eligible sites expressed an interest in having a tree located there.

"People value the trees," Polakowski said.

In all, the study targeted 1,400 places in the city's right-of-way where trees could be planted. This number doesn't include other city properties or parks.

The commission estimated it will take about 14 years to meet the 1,400 tree goal.

The Charlevoix Shade Tree Commission recently announced two new programs, Adopt-a-tree and the Memorial Tree Project, that aim to line the city streets with trees like those pictured above.

Peggy Brennan

"If we could plant 500 trees in the first year, it would be fabulous. Can we do that? That's up to the public," said Shade Tree Commission member, Peggy Brennan.

Each year the city pays for new trees to be planted. In 2006, 106 new trees were added along Mason and Antrim streets in the valley. The plan for 2007 is to pepper Hurlbut and Upright streets with new trees.

However, the project is bigger than the city's budget and the Shade Tree Commission hopes the Adopt-a-tree and Memorial Tree Project will help ease the financial burden, expedite the project and involve the community.

Under both programs, trees are purchased for $150 each. The owner can then choose a location for their tree. The adopted tree owner also accepts nurturing responsibilities, like watering. The memorial program is being marketed as a way to not only help beautify the city but to mark a special occasion, or as Brennan put it, to be a "living legacy." Trees are planted and maintained by the City of Charlevoix Street Department.

Tree owners are registered at city hall along with the location of their tree.

Brennan said the benefits of the commission's tree planting efforts include improved property values and aesthetics as well as providing an environmental boost as trees provide shade and cleanse the air and ground water.

Information about both the Adopt-a-tree and Memorial Tree Project is included in a flyer enclosed in this week's Courier.

For more information, contact Peggy Brennan at (231) 237-0368.

ISD special ed director wins prestigious award

Diane Heinzelman, director of special education for the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District (Char-Em ISD), received the state's most prestigious award for special education professionals in a recent surprise ceremony.

Heinzelman was honored by her statewide peers with the Murray O. Batten Humanitarian Award, sponsored by the Michigan Association of Administrators of Special Education. The Batten Award was initiated in 1984 in honor of Murray "Bud" Batten, former state director of special education, who devoted his entire professional career to persons with disabilities.

The award is given to a practicing special education administrator who emulates the qualities of honesty, integrity, trust and compassion that were exemplified by Murray throughout his lifetime.

Heinzelman received the honor on Dec. 13, 2006 in a surprise ceremony in Lansing attended by her family and many colleagues from Char-Em Intermediate School District. As a recipient of the award, she received a specially designed, solid gold, commemorative ring.

In a letter nominating Heinzelman for the award, a co-worker cited "Diane's personal and professional ethics."

"I have heard many people from the health department, the local districts, Charlevoix-Emmet ISD, and others in the community say, 'My goal is to be like Diane Heinzelman,'" wrote Elaine Smiley, supervisor of the Intermediate School District's special education programs. "Diane is always there to do the right thing. As one colleague stated, Diane 'exhibits an extremely high sense of duty along with the ability to inspire an elevated work ethic in others.'"

Diane Heinzelman hugs her father, Dan Eskin, after receiving the news that she received the prestigious statewide Murray O. Batten Humanitarian Award. Looking on in the background is her daughter, Madison, and husband, John.

In his letter of nomination, Char-Em Intermediate School District Superintendent, Mark Eckhardt, called Heinzelman a true leader in every sense of the word.

"She makes decisions that are in the best interest of kids," Eckhardt wrote. "Diane has the respect of her colleagues both within the ISD and throughout the state. She is a tenacious fighter for the well-being of all children."

Others cited Heinzelman's work on statewide legislation and other issues impacting students with disabilities as reasons she deserved the award.

"Ms. Heinzelman is not one to sit behind her desk or hide herself in her office," wrote Kathi Clancy, director of special education with the Public Schools of Petoskey. "She is a woman admired and respected by her staff and colleagues and family. I believe she deserves this award for all the wonderful things she has given to those of us who work directly with students, families and staff because these precious bits of information and direction have helped to make the difference in many a student's life," Clancy stated.

A graduate of Armada High School, Heinzelman obtained her bachelor's degree in education and teacher certificate as well as her master's degree in education administration from Grand Valley State University. She joined the Char-Em Intermediate School District in 1985 as a teacher of students with learning disabilities and moved up the rank to her current position of director of special education — a position she has held since 1997.

Diane is married to John Heinzelman and has a daughter, Madison. They reside in Petoskey.

Study underscores need for tobacco initiatives

KIDS CORNER

Molly Cotant

A new study of youth smoking underscores the need to help teenage smokers quit and prevent non-smokers from starting to smoke.

■ The Health Department of Northwest Michigan is addressing this issue through tobacco prevention classes in schools, and tobacco cessation efforts at the Mancelona Ironmen Health Center.

"This new study from the CDC (Centers for Disease Control) shows that youth who are Native American or white have the highest smoking rates," said Molly Cotant, Family and Community Health Supervisor for the Health Department of Northwest Michigan. "Nearly all of the students in our counties fall into one of these high-risk categories."

The study, "Racial/Ethnic Difference in Prevalence of Cigarette Use by Youth and Susceptibility to Start Smoking," analyzed racial and ethnic group differences among youth who smoke, and identified Native American/Alaska Natives and non-Hispanic youth with the highest tobacco use rates of 12 to 17 year olds in the U.S. Rates of cigarette smoking varied widely among racial/ethnic groups from 23 percent of American Indian/Alaska Native youth to 4 percent of Asian youth. Non-Hispanic white youth smoking rate was 15 percent. The study also suggests that approximately one in five nonsmokers ages 12 to 17 years is susceptible to start smoking.

Cotant said the health department's Teen Health Project works with students in Antrim County through classroom and school-related activities. "We have had tremendous support from Antrim County schools to provide classes about the harmful effects of smoking and secondhand smoke," she said. "Our health educators and prevention specialists teach classes in middle schools and high schools that are well-received from students, and that help them develop skills needed to avoid tobacco use."

At the Ironmen Health Center, which serves youth aged 10-21 from Mancelona and the surrounding areas, a tobacco reduction initiative is underway, coordinating a variety of tobacco prevention and smoking cessation resources for students.

Tammy Hickman, the nurse practitioner at the Ironmen Health Center, talks to every student visiting the center about tobacco use.

"If a student is smoking, but not ready to quit, Ironmen Health Center staff work with the student to help him or her move to the next stage of 'readiness.' And for those students who want to quit smoking or quit using spit tobacco, we offer one-on-one counseling," Hickman said.

In addition to the prevention curriculum offered to youth in Antrim County, health educators and substance abuse prevention specialists from the health department offer prevention curriculum to students in Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego counties as well. The Tobacco Reduction Coalition continues to work with the community to implement smoke-free policies in bars and restaurants. Smoke-free policies not only protect residents from the health dangers associated with secondhand smoke exposure, but they also decrease rates of tobacco use among youth and adults.

The Health Department of Northwest Michigan is committed to promoting wellness, preventing disease, providing health care, and protecting the environment for residents and visitors of Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego counties. For additional information about tobacco reduction efforts in Charlevoix County, call Molly Cotant at (231) 547-6523.

'Must reads' from library director Valerie Meyerson

The following is a list of age specific books selected by Charlevoix Public Library director Valerie Meyerson for January reading.

ANDREW CLEMENTS, "BECAUSE YOUR DADDY LOVES YOU"
PRE-K TO SECOND-GRADE

A dad and his little girl spend the entire day together from packing up the car in the morning, to wiping sticky fingers, washing the dishes and reading a favorite story. After a full day, daddy can be counted on to carry his tired child up to bed and tuck her in. Here is a warm story of all the little things a parent does for their child.

BABY SIGNS FAVORITES
PARENTS AND BABIES

Communicating with babies has always been a guessing game. With the expanding interest in using simplified American Sign Language (ASL) with babies, this is rapidly changing. Baby Signs Favorites DVD teaches baby and parent simple signs for everyday use. Included are "Mealtime" and "Bedtime" baby board books and a quick reference chart of commonly used baby signs. Here is a simple start to understanding what signing with your baby can do.

PATRICIA REILLY GIFF, "WATER STREET"
MIDDLE SCHOOL AND UP

Set in 1870's Brooklyn, Water Street tells the story of immigrant families in the shadow of the newly constructed tower of the Brooklyn Bridge. A warm tale of friendship and family, this is set against the struggle when times are harsh, money tight and the lack of a doctor often meant death. Birdy helps her mother nurse the sick until a seriously ill child makes her question her path. Thomas, who moves often with his gentle drunk of a father, writes stories to ease his loneliness. Both face their last year of school relying on their friendship to find their way in the world.

Winter Activities at the Library

The New Year is starting with a bang at the Charlevoix Public Library. There are new programs as well as the tried and true favorites. Back by popular demand, the Paws for a Story program will kick off its second session on January 6th. This popular reading with a dog program allows new or hesitant readers to practice reading aloud to an always friendly, furry companion. The dog teams include certified therapy dogs trained to listen and enjoy. "Reading to a dog allows children to practice reading in a non-threatening, welcoming environment," states Chris Hauke, Youth Librarian. The Paws for a Story program takes place each Saturday in January from 10:30 a.m. 1:00 p.m. Registration is recommended, but drop-ins are welcome if a slot opens up.

Two new programs will begin in January: Movies at 2 and Game Nights. Movies at 2 will take place on the first Saturday of the winter months at 2 p.m. The first showing will be Lassie on January 6th. This 1994 remake of one of America's most beloved pets, Lassie, will make the audience cheer for the courage shown by this fearless dog. Bring the whole family for this classic, fun, free program. Game nights are happening the 2nd Thursday of each month, beginning with January 11th, from 5:30-7:30 pm. Games for all ages, Clue, Scrabble, Boggle, Hi-Ho Cherry-O, Twister and more, will be available in the youth department. Bring the whole family for some fun and games!

Twelfth Night events to take place Jan. 12 and 19

SEE-North's Twelfth Night events will take place on Jan. 12 and 19.

Folk legend says that on the twelfth night after Christmas, animals are given the gift of speech. SEE-North's Twelfth Night events have celebrated this tradition in northern Michigan for more than a decade. Families hike a candle-lit trail and talk with the forest animals. They can hear the story behind a beaver's tail, learn the legend of the raccoon's mask and discover how a fish lives in the winter.

Twelfth Night will take place from 6 to 8 p.m. on Jan. 12 and 19 at the Terrace Inn/Bay View Woods in Petoskey. Families will meet at the Terrace Inn, ride a horse-drawn sleigh to the trail head, and venture into the forest to meet the animals.

Those with young children may bring a small sled. Everyone should come dressed for a hike outdoors. SEE-North will provide snacks, hot beverages, face-painting and mask-making indoors.

Tickets are required. To register, call SEE-North at (231) 348-9700. No refunds will be issued unless the event is canceled due to bad weather.

Tickets for Twelfth Night are $7 per person, which includes the sleigh ride. Children under 3 are admitted free.

SEE-North's animals will be in the woods waiting to tell their stories, Jan. 12 and 19 at the Terrace Inn and Bay View Woods. For tickets, call SEE-North, at (231) 348-9700.

Charlevoix revelers ring in 2007

WEATHERVANE

VILLAGER PUB

In an effort to capture a sampling of New Year's Eve fun in Charlevoix, the Charlevoix Courier placed disposable cameras in three downtown bars that night: the Villager Pub, the Weathervane Restaurant and Grey Gables. People taking part in New Year's festivities at those businesses were invited to take random pictures of the evening as it unfolded. Page 14 of this week's edition of the Courier features some of those pictures. Since the Courier staff was not in attendance, all of the names of the people in the photos are not known. Therefor, the pictures are printed without cutlines. From the looks of things people at all three hot spots had a great New Year's Eve. All photos were taken by unknown photographers.

This shot of Round Lake submitted in early December by Charlevoix resident, Tom Conlan, is a reminder that Charlevoix did wear a wintry look at one point this season.

Just after sunset on Thanksgiving day, Natalie Jason of Charlevoix captured this amazing reflection of the sky on Higgins Lake.

Charlevoix resident, Brownie Flanders, sent this shot he took in August of Lake Charlevoix during Wednesday night sailboat races. Flanders said it's a good fit for the winter edition of That's My Photo as it helps remind readers why we live in northern Michigan.

Mark and Viv Winn of Central Lake used this shot of Cassie, their 3-pound Yorkie as the featured photo on their 2006 Christmas card. She was 8 years old when the shot was taken on Christmas morning in 2005. They call this picture, "No Batteries Required."

NOTICE OF SHOW CAUSE HEARING AND JUDICIAL FORECLOSURE HEARING NON-PAYMENT OF PROPERTY TAXES

On March 1, 2006 real estate with unpaid 2004 and/or prior years property taxes was forfeited to the Charlevoix County Treasurer pursuant to the General Property Tax Act, Public Act 206 of 1893, PA 206, MCL 211.1 to 211.157, as amended.

The Charlevoix County Treasurer is acting as the Foreclosing Governmental Unit in proceedings to foreclose on this property for unpaid property taxes.

There are two hearings scheduled to finalize the foreclosure process. This publication is intended to provide additional notice to parties of interest in these parcels as to the nature, time, and location of these hearings.

A Show Cause Hearing is scheduled for 10:00am-1:00pm, January 17, 2007 at the Treasurer's Office, 301 State Street, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

Any person with an interest in the property forfeited to the County Treasurer may appear at the show cause hearing and redeem that property or show cause why absolute title to that property should not vest in the Foreclosing Governmental Unit.

A Judicial Foreclosure Hearing is scheduled for 2:15pm, February 16 2007 at the 33rd Circuit Court, 301 State Street, Charlevoix, MI.

At this hearing the Foreclosing Governmental Unit shall ask that the court enter a judgment foreclosing the property as requested in the petition for foreclosure. A person claiming an interest in a parcel of property set forth in the petition for foreclosure, who desires to contest that petition, must file written objections with the clerk of the circuit court and serve those objections on the Charlevoix County Treasurer, the Foreclosing Governmental Unit. The docket number of the petition is 06-264-21-CZ.

If you are a person with an interest in property being foreclosed:

* You have the right to redeem this parcel from the foreclosure process by payment of all forfeited unpaid taxes, interest, penalties, and fees prior to the expiration of the redemption period. You should contact the Charlevoix County Treasurer for the amount required to redeem.

* You may lose your interest in the property as a result of the foreclosure proceeding.

* The title to the property shall vest absolutely in the Foreclosing Governmental Unit unless all forfeited unpaid delinquent taxes, interest, penalties, and fees are paid by April 2, 2007

PLEASE NOTE :

The following list represents parties that appear to have title, lien, or other apparent rights to the parcels being foreclosed by the Foreclosing Governmental Unit.

This notice is required to be given by law, even if the party no longer claims or desires an interest if it appears they hold any undischarged, apparent, or potential title or lien right to the property.

Listing of a party does NOT necessarily indicate that they are the owner of a parcel, or that they are liable for the property taxes.

This list is NOT an offering of property for sale. These parcels are NOT being sold, auctioned, or otherwise made available by virtue of this notice.

There is no procedure for purchasing these parcels from the Foreclosing Governmental Unit at this point in the foreclosure proceedings. Those parcels that are foreclosed and not redeemed may become available at public auction after July of 2007. These parcels remain the property of their current owner until redemption rights have expired. No party should make any attempt to inspect or enter upon these parcels assuming them to be for sale. This may constitute trespassing and subject the offender to criminal prosecution. The street address of the parcels listed is based on local records and is not guaranteed to be the actual location of the property.

The amount due listed indicates the balance which was due as of forfeiture on March 1, 2006. The current amount required to redeem must be obtained from the Charlevoix County Treasurer, as additional penalties, fees, and interest have accrued since forfeiture.

The New Year is starting with a bang at the Charlevoix Public Library.

There are new programs as well as the tried and true favorites. Back by popular demand, the Paws for a Story program will kick-off its second session on Jan. 6. This popular reading with a dog program allows new or hesitant readers to practice reading aloud to an always friendly, furry companion. The dog teams include certified therapy dogs trained to listen and enjoy.

"Reading to a dog allows children to practice reading in a non-threatening, welcoming environment," said Chris Hauke, youth librarian. The Paws for a Story program takes place from 10:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. each Saturday in January. Registration is recommended, but drop-ins are welcome if a slot opens up.

Two new programs that will begin in January are Movies at 2 and Game Nights.

Movies at 2, a free program, will take place at 2 p.m. on the first Saturday of each month this winter. The first showing, on Jan. 6, will be "Lassie," a 1994 remake of the story of one of America's most beloved pets, Lassie.

Game Nights will take place from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. the second Thursday of each month, beginning on Jan. 11. Games for all ages including Clue, Scrabble, Boggle, Hi-Ho Cherry-O, Twister and more, will be available in the youth department.

For more information or to register, call the youth desk at (231) 237-7350.

Bus drivers create store to reward good behavior

A special school store that grew from one student's idea — and lots of support from bus drivers — rewards students for good behavior on the bus.

Students at Orion, an educational program operated by the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District (Char-Em ISD) that supports students with severe emotional and behavioral needs, often ride the bus two hours each way to and from school. The long distance is due to the fact that students attending the school located in Boyne Falls come from all areas throughout Charlevoix, Emmet and northern Antrim counties serviced by the Intermediate School District.

Bus drivers noticed that students who had game or CD players appeared to be happier on the bus. After a conversation with his bus driver, 16-year-old Joseph Blanshan of Alanson suggested the school write a grant to Wal-Mart.

"We received $100 (from Wal-Mart) and bought some CD players," Blanshan explained. But Blanshan's idea didn't stop there.

With support from Orion administrators and the bus drivers, the idea grew into a year-round school store that rewards students for good behavior. Every week, each Orion student receives a 25 cent "credit" to spend in the school store, which is open every other Monday. Every time a student shows positive behavior on the bus, he or she earns another 25 cents "credit" toward purchasing items in the store.

On their own time and often with their own money, the bus drivers shop and fill the school store with a variety of items — candy and refreshments, toys and educational games. The drivers also solicit donations from area businesses. Orion teachers get into the act by also donating items and, with the drivers, turning in money collected from bottle returns.

"All our drivers participate and we've had great results from the students," explained Peg Grimes who along with her husband, Bob, are lead coordinators of the school store.

Peg has noticed a change in student behavior as a result of the school store and rewards system.

"Many of these students are on the bus for a very long time. Because of their emotional needs or impairments, they need to be entertained. With these rewards, they're busy on the bus and come to school in better shape to be in the classrooms and learn," she said.

"If you don't get a write up and you're good, you get an extra quarter," Blanshan said, adding that he's saving up to buy a toy he's had his eye on for a while.

Every other Monday, students line up for the school store. Bob Grimes mans the record keeping, informing individual students of how much "credit" they have to spend. Staff and transportation drivers are available to assist students in their selection.

Orion principal, James Rummer, gives all the credit to the bus drivers and staff.

"For them to take the initiative and do this on their own says a lot about them. I've been in and around schools for a long time and I've never seen this dedication to working together as a team to award students for good behavior," he said.

Charlevoix band students perform holiday concerts

The Charlevoix Public Schools bands were busy this holiday season with many performances throughout the city.

Charlevoix Middle School band students performed on Dec. 2 at the Downtown Merchants' Open House and performed a school concert on Dec. 5. The eighth-grade band performed a concert for the Charlevoix Elementary students as well as for a middle school assembly.

The Charlevoix High School band surprised their audience with everything from a trumpet fanfare to "Joy to the World" from the back of the auditorium.

Also included in this unique concert was the newly formed Charlevoix Adult Band, directed by Ev Wujcik. Also joining the high school band were members of an antiphonal brass choir. Wujcik and Mike Westenbroek on trumpet and Patrick Hannah and Gary Stutzman on trombone.

Small groups of high school musicians played Christmas carols at Sunnybank, and the Rayder Jazz Band performed for the Chamber of Commerce at the Grey Gables Restaurant as well as the Charlevoix Senior Center.

NEA awards Little Traverse Bay Bands of Odawa Indians Big Read Grant

The National Endowment for the Arts (NEA) has awarded the Little Traverse Bay Bands of Odawa Indians a $20,000 grant for the Big Read initiative.

The Little Traverse Bay Bands of Odawa Indians is one of 72 communities selected nationwide, one of the three communities in the state, and the only Indian tribe in the country to receive an National Endowment for the Arts Big Read grant. The Little Traverse Bay Bands of Odawa Indians and the Greater Community Big Read Project 2007 will run from January to June.

The Big Read is an initiative of the National Endowment for the Arts designed to restore reading to the center of American culture. The National Endowment for the Arts presents the Big Read in partnership with the Institute of Museum and Library Services and in cooperation with Arts Midwest. The Big Read brings together partners across the country to encourage reading for pleasure and enlightenment.

A 2004 report by the National Endowment for the Arts, found not only is literary reading in America declining rapidly among all groups, but the rate of decline has accelerated, especially among the young. The Big Read aims to address this crisis. It will provide citizens with the opportunity to read and discuss a single book with their communities.

The Little Traverse Bay Bands of Odawa Indians and the Greater Community Big Read Project 2007 selected Harper Lee's, "To Kill a Mockingbird" because of the socioeconomic, intergenerational and racial issues it explores.

Programming is expected to run from April to June. The project is intended to reach the tribal and non-tribal communities in the northern Michigan area and will include the Charlevoix Public Library, where books will be made available.

Winter programs available at Charlevoix pool

The Charlevoix Area Community Pool will offer a wide variety of classes, programs and recreational activities this winter and spring.

Programs include swim school (group lessons), semi-private lessons, private lessons, swim team, aqua exercise, lap swims, senior citizen swim, teen swim and open recreation. Rental times are also available.

Registration by mail, fax and drop off is now underway for all winter and spring programs. Mail registrations to the Charlevoix Area Community Pool at 11905 U.S. 31 North, Charlevoix, MI 49720 or fax the information to (231) 547-1754. Brochures are available at the pool.

Swim School starts Jan. 6, Feb. 17 and April 14 for Saturday classes. Classes are Red Cross certified and meet once each week for six weeks on Saturday mornings. Students must be at least 1-year-old. A class is also available for adults who would like to learn to swim or improve their swimming skills. The fee for the six-week course is $42 for recreation authority district residents (includes Hayes Township, Charlevoix Township and the City of Charlevoix) and $45 for non-district residents.

Stingray Swim Team starts six-week sessions on Jan. 2 and 3 and again Feb. 11 and 12. There will be a spring stroke camp starting Apr. 16, also for six weeks. The Charlevoix Stingrays are a year-round age group swim team. This is a competitive swim program designed for ages 7-18. Blue group meets from 4:15 to 5 p.m. on Tuesdays and is designed for 7, 8 and 9 year olds. Gold group meets from 3:30 to 5 p.m. on Wednesdays and Fridays. Silver Group meets from 3:30 to 5 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Fees range from $40-$70 in-district and $43-$73 non-district for the six-week sessions. An informational meeting will be held at 6:30 p.m. today, Wednesday, Jan. 3 for new families. Swim meets are optional, but swimmers are encouraged to participate when possible. Upcoming meets are Jan. 6 in Rudyard, Jan. 20 in Traverse City, Feb. 3 in Gaylord and Feb. 20 in Harbor Springs. The team generally competes in 10-12 meets during the season, starting in October and ending the first weekend in March at Alma College.

Aqua-aerobics is offered six times each week. These classes meet from 8 to 9 a.m. Monday through Saturday. Participants can drop in for $5 (in-district) or $5.25 (non-district). One month pass is $37 for in-district residents and $40 of those living outside the recreation district.

Semi-private swim lessons start Jan. 4, April 10 and May 1. These lessons will be offered from 4-5 p.m. on Thursdays. The lessons will be 30 minutes long. There will be a maximum of four students per class. The fee for the six-week class is $66 for in-district swimmers and $70 per non-district swimmer.

An American Red Cross certified Water Safety Instructor Course will be offered this spring to those interested in becoming swimming instructors. Students need to be 17 years of age and have an intermediate swimming ability.

An American Red Cross certified lifeguard training course will be offered in May for those interested in becoming lifeguards. Students need to be at least 15 years of age and be able to swim 500 yards.

Public swim times include Open Swim (all ages) from 6-8 p.m. Monday through Friday, from 3-4:15 p.m. Tuesdays, from 3-5 p.m. Thursdays and from 1-4 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays.

Dollar Nites will continue from 6-8 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

On Your Own (OYO for adults) is from 1-3 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday and from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday. The OYO swimmers share the pool with rehab patients from the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Senior citizen swim time is from 11 a.m. to noon on Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

Lap swimming is from 6-8 a.m. Monday through Friday, noon-1 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday, from 5-6 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday, from 9-10 a.m. and 5 to 6 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday, from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturdays and from noon to 1 p.m. Sundays.

Teen swim is offered from 8-9 p.m. on Mondays.

The first and third Monday night of each month, the pool will offer water polo. Adults are welcome.

Snorkeling for kids will be offered this spring depending on interest. Students will be divided by age and ability.

Masters Swim Team is a competitive program for those 19 and older which is offered from 8-9 p.m. on Wednesday nights. Written workouts to be followed during lap swims are also available for those who want to practice more than once a week.

Twinges in the Hinges (Arthritis Foundation) with Molly Tate is offered three times each week. These classes meet from 9-10 a.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. This class is designed for those with arthritis. Tate is a certified instructor and the pool is accredited with the National Arthritis Foundation. Twinges in the Hinges is a year-round program.

Expert advice on keeping resolutions in 2007

NEW YEAR'S

only exacerbate the problem.

- Don't overdo it — injuring yourself while exercising is the surest way to lose interest in a healthy routine.
- The cost is worth it — joining the gym for a year can cost less than dining out twice a month.

"We like to have people here all the time, but this is a good time of the year for people to evaluate things they do in their life," Smith said. "Exercise helps people in all walks of life not only lose weight, but keep their heart healthier, reduce stress and keep their digestive system healthier."

She added, "The mind even works better. Some studies show mental capacity increases through activity."

QUIT SMOKING

A resolution which may tie losing weight and getting into shape is kicking the addiction of nicotine and habit of smoking, but Freedom from Smoking Coordinator, Michelle Potter, said giving up tobacco doesn't have to be a pain in the butt.

"Absolutely (smoking cessation class) is for everyone young and old. I certainly love to see teenagers and 20-year-olds there because they are making the right choice early on before they're too addicted," she said.

Roughly 50 percent of those enrolled in the seven-week class make it to the end of the program.

Potter's tips for quitting and staying away from tobacco:

- Prepare to quit — knowing what you will do with excess time and energy in the absence of time spent smoking will help ensure your success.
- Quit cold turkey — don't draw the process out.
- The support of others helps — whether that help comes from family members or the Freedom from Smoking attendees.
- Decide your motivation — having a reason to quit will help you reach your goal, and everyone has a reason to quit.
- Persistence works — people come back years after the class to say they are still smoke-free.

"I am an ex smoker. I quit smoking six years ago," Potter said. "My mother was diagnosed with esophagus cancer directly related to smoking and died a year later. That was my motivation. When I quit, I felt I needed to help others."

She added, "Thousands and thousands of people quit smoking every day, so don't be discouraged. We're here to help (you) be one of the thousands also."

Potter's next program begins Jan. 9. Call (231) 547-8672 or e-mail Potter at potterm@cah.org to register for the free class.

SUBSTANCE ABUSE

While quitting smoking may be one of the more popular resolutions, folks wishing to deal with addictions to more serious drugs will also find help in the area.

"We do a great number of phone referrals," said executive director of BASES, Scott Kelly. "We probably get 50 phone calls a day just helping people find different resources. That can all be done anonymously."

Whether you're looking for an Alcoholics, Overeaters or Narcotics Anonymous meeting, BASES staff members can help.

The Alcoholics Anonymous hotline is (231) 348-5005. The Narcotics Anonymous hotline is (231) 348-1866.

"We can answer some general questions and if they want to have a sit down meeting with AA or NA people, we can make arrangements for that," Kelly said. "We can talk about what different problems they are seeing, what they are looking for — if they want to quit or look to control it or get their family off their case. Then we can help them identify some goals and come up with a plan with support to do their plan."

For more information on help for drug abuse, call Kelly at (231) 547-1144.

"Anyone can walk in (to an Alano club meeting), the only requirement is a desire not to drink," Kelly said.

For meeting times and more information about the Alano Club, call (231) 547-9184 or visit them on the web at www.charlevoixalano.org.

SAVING MONEY

It may be no surprise that saving money for the future, spending less on junk and reducing debt are popular goals right after Christmas, but they aren't impossible goals, said Derek Chowen, an investment representative with Edward Jones Investments.

"The obvious is to spend less than you make. The trick I used when I first got out of college was to write down or keep a receipt of everything you buy," he said. "It can be a pain, but if you do this for three months, you get into a habit. You see where you're spending your money, and you would be surprised how much you spend on junk food."

He added, "When it becomes habit, you can sharpen where you spend and make some cuts if necessary."

Chowen's fiscal tips:

- Take responsibility for your fiduciary mishaps — spend less money than you make.
- Budget — write how much you make at the top of the page. Then deduct your fixed costs, savings and rainy day fund to find disposable income.
- Seek counsel from a financial advisor — you need to spend about an hour with an advisor to get started in planning for your future.
- Keep more of your money by taking a little time and money to plan properly.
- Visit Yahoo finance for money management basics.
- It's never too late — the earlier you start saving, the better off you'll be and the less money you'll need to achieve your financial goals.

Public Notice?

Without it in your newspaper, you're left guessing what the government's doing in your community.

Public notice is the people's right to know the issues that affect them directly, and people know the place to find public and legal notices is in the newspaper. What you're holding right now is a historical document, printed and published with a date on every page. Public notices have been posted here since the days of colonial America. In our democratic society your newspaper fulfills an essential role in serving your right to know. After all, it shouldn't be your responsibility to know how to look, where to look, or when to look, let alone to know what you're looking for to be informed. Why guess? That is why you have, and read, your newspaper... where your right to know is already being served.

Send your events to the Courier at news@charlevoixcourier.com

JAN. 4
GIRLFRIENDS' EXCHANGE

Beth Martin is hosting a free Girlfriends' Exchange from 6-8 p.m. Jan. 4 at the Argonne Supper Club. New and gently used items will be available to swap or purchase. Approximately 20 vendors will be on-site. Table space is limited. To register, call (231). 547-1768.

JAN. 8
CLASSICS BOOK GROUP

The classics book discussion group will meet at 6 p.m. on Monday, Jan. 8, in the Armstrong Conference Room at Charlevoix Public Library. The book selected for this first meeting is "The Razor's Edge," by Somerset Maugham. Maugham's reflections on the nature of the human spirit are threaded throughout this journey through World War II and the Great Depression. Subsequent dates for this group are Feb. 19 and March 26, with titles to be announced at a later date.

JAN. 9
MURAL ARTIST PRESENTATION

Charles Thompson, an artist and painter, will be the honored guest at the annual gathering of the Friends of the Charlevoix Public Library at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, Jan. 9 in the community room at the library, located at 220 Clinton St.

JAN. 9
FREE FROM SMOKING

Charlevoix Area Hospital along with the American Lung Association wants to help you quit smoking.

This program will provide support, guidance and advice to those who are ready to quit.

The free, eight session, seven-week program, starts Jan. 9 and ends Feb. 27 and will be conducted at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Sessions will meet at 4:30 p.m. on Jan. 9, 16, 23, 30 and Feb. 1, 6, 13 and 27.

To register, call (231) 547-8672 or send an e-mail to potterm@cah.org.

JAN. 15
BOOK GROUP

A general book discussion group will be held at 6 p.m. on Monday, Jan. 15, in the Armstrong Conference Room. This group will be discussing "The Tender Bar," by J.R. Moehringer. Moehringer brings to life his childhood where he turned to the patrons of an old New York saloon as father figures. There, the flamboyant characters along the bar taught him, tended him and provided a kind of joint fatherhood. The group will choose books to be read for Feb. 26 and April 9 meetings.

JAN. 15
SOCCER REGISTRATION

Registration for the 4-H Travel Soccer league will take place at 5:30 p.m. on Jan. 15 in the cafeteria at Charlevoix Middle School, located at 108 East Garfield St. in Charlevoix.

The program is open to students in fourth through eighth grades. The cost is $85 per player.

A copy of the player's birth certificate and picture are required to register. Also a commitment to travel on Saturdays (girls) and Sundays (boys) is a must.

For more information, call Jill or Ron at (231) 547-6592.

JAN. 18
BLOOD DRIVE

The American Red Cross will host a blood drive from noon to 5:45 p.m. on Thursday, Jan. 18 at the Charlevoix Community Reformed Church located on the corner of U.S. 31 North and Meech Street.

To make an appointment, call 800-448-3543. Drop ins are welcome. Donors are asked to bring their American Red Cross donor card or government photo identification.

JAN. 18
CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ANNUAL MEETING

The 49th Annual Meeting and Dinner of the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce will take place on Thursday, Jan. 18, 2007 at Stafford's Weathervane Restaurant.

The evening will start with a cocktail hour at 5:30 p.m., with dinner served at 6:30 p.m. The chamber's most prestigious awards will be presented to honor persons who have given to the community and/or the Chamber of Commerce.

The cost is $30 per person, including tax and gratuity. Members and their guests are invited to enjoy an evening of great food, spirits and camaraderie.

To make a reservation, call the chamber at (231) 547-2101.

JAN. 26
TEXAS HOLD'EM TOURNAMENTS

What church was this? Where was it located? What is there now?

The Baptist Church, founded in 1888. It stood where the present fire hall is now, adjacent to the Charlevoix City Hall. Two of its most prominent summer parishioners were renowned American poet, Sara Teasdale, and Ransom E. Olds, founder of the Oldsmobile company.

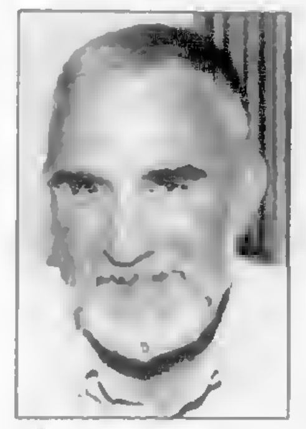
Council: Wiesner you're fired

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR



Mike Wiesner

Fireworks exploded at Charlevoix City Council's first meeting of 2007.

In a 4-2 vote, on Jan. 2, city council voted to initiate dismissal proceedings and to suspend current city manager, Mike Wiesner, who has held that post for 22 years.

The man behind the action was first ward councilman, Bob Timms, the same person who saved Wiesner's job in November 2005 when a motion to fire him was on the table. At that time, a heartfelt speech from city clerk, Carol Oebs, concerning Wiesner's effective management style turned the tide for Timms.

"The timing is a little better. Before it just didn't feel right. We have another year under our belts and it's time," Timms said. "The response has been about 98 percent positive. I feel better about it this time than last time."

Last week, it was a motion by Timms that was seconded by first ward councilman, Lyle Gennett, and supported by second ward councilman, Gene Beer, and third ward council member, Shirley Gibson.

Hospital welcomes first baby of 2007

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

In the new year, gifts and surprises will come in many shapes and sizes.

For two parents, 2007 started with the birth of their first child, Celeste Storm Green, who entered this world at 2:49 p.m. on Jan. 2. She was delivered by family health practitioner, Jeanne Haberer with the East Jordan Health Center, and is the first baby born at Charlevoix Area Hospital in the new year.

The tiny new arrival, weighing 6 pounds, 7 ounces and measuring 18 inches long, was showered with gifts to mark her birth. Everything from gift cards to diapers and formula were included in a huge basket assembled by the hospital staff with contributions from area businesses.

But for her parents, Ellsworth residents Alissa Baker and Andrew Green, both 17, the real gift was their baby's health.

On Jan. 4 the proud parents returned to their home in Ellsworth where they will dive into the world of parenthood. Andrew works at a diner in Ellsworth and for a construction company. Alissa is working toward her high school diploma at New Horizons in Boyne City.

The couple said they chose to deliver at Charlevoix Area Hospital because of its close proximity to their home. According to Mary Terryberry, nurse manager in the Charlevoix Area Hospital obstetrics department, other expecting parents choose the hospital for its family-friendly approach to birthing and its comfortable accommodations.

"We are family-centered, we have nice labor rooms and laboring patients have one on one nurse care," Terryberry said.

The Charlevoix Area Hospital obstetrics department offers eight private delivery rooms equipped with the latest technology. The department was completely renovated five years ago.

Terryberry said the number of deliveries is expected to increase over 2006 when 190 babies were born there.

"It's a typical OB unit. Sometimes we're bursting at the seams and sometimes there is one mother and one baby," she said.

The hospital has realized a steady increase in births since completing the renovation. In 2005, 184 babies were born there.

Hospital goals for the obstetrics department in 2007 include increasing births and possibly bringing on a new obstetrician.

Will city manager appeal his dismissal?

WIESNER

that put Wiesner's job back in the line of fire.

"I was the one that had to do it this time. I chickened out the last time. If it was going to be serious, it was up to me," Timms said.

Third ward councilman, Sherm Chamberlain, and second ward councilman, Greg Stevens, voted against it.

The reasons for his dismissal were the same grounds former second ward councilman, Gabe Campbell, brought to light in 2005. Timms said he asked Campbell for the wording to make his motion.

Grounds for Wiesner's dismissal as stated by Timms are, "Failure to properly supervise the city treasurer regarding the issuance of a check to CCMS in the amount of $222,978; failure to properly supervise the city wastewater treatment plant regarding the falsifying of records by wastewater treatment plant personnel; failure to provide, in a timely manner, the city council with information that will be considered at a city council meeting; and failure to provide monthly reports regarding the operation of city departments."

"That CCMS check came back to bite us — we are still fighting that. And I thought enough is enough. He should have seen it when it came across his desk and made sure it had both names on it. It was his responsibility," Timms said.

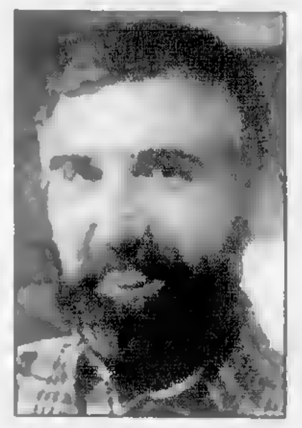
"Get out and see what's going on around departments to make sure things are under control and operating properly — the problem at the wastewater plant got away because he wasn't paying attention to it the way he should have."

Mayor Norman Carlson Jr. said council's decision is punishment for problems that occurred two years ago and were out of Wiesner's control.

"City council is every bit as at fault (for the CCMS issue). They approved the check register," Carlson said.

While the grounds for dismissal stated in the resolution are old news, Carlson said the decision to let Wiesner go will spark a host of new problems.

"How much irreversible damage will we have to put away," he said. "We are in the middle of budget planning, we have an $11 million project in the park, union negotiations, airport issues, Citizens Committee recommendations to implement and the Cool Cities project for a city without a city manager."



Mike Wiesner (1984)

Timms said he feels the city will weather the storm.

"Continuity is something we are concerned about. I think we'll get through it all right," he said.

Council's suspension of Wiesner, which stemmed from a motion by Gennett, was approved with pay for not more than 45 days.

Wiesner can file a request for a public hearing with Ochs by this Friday, Jan. 12.

This hearing would take place about two weeks after his request has been made. In conjunction with the hearing, Wiesner may respond to council's reasons for removal in writing up until five days before the hearing.

After this hearing, council may adopt a final resolution of removal. A majority vote is required for this to pass.

If Wiesner doesn't request a public hearing, council can adopt a final resolution of removal which may be made effective at once.

Carlson said he expects the final motion will be to remove Wiesner. And when Timms was asked if something brought up at the hearing could change his mind, he said his mind is made up.

Wiesner declined to comment as to whether he will call for a hearing.

Dismissal would result in activation of a severance package, including payment of Wiesner's salary, as well as continuation of his benefit package for a year. This would cost over $100,000.

In a previous interview during the 2005 dismissal process, Wiesner said he planned to work another eight to 10 years for the City of Charlevoix.

Proceedings to remove Charlevoix city manager, Mike Wiesner

1984 Wiesner hired

Jan. 2 Charlevoix City Council passes a preliminary resolution to dismiss Wiesner.

Jan. 2 Charlevoix City Council passes a motion to suspend Wiesner for 45 days.

Jan. 5 Charlevoix City Clerk, Carol Ochs, delivers Wiesner a certified copy of the preliminary resolution wording.

Jan. 10 Deadline for Wiesner to file a request with Ochs for a public hearing.

Jan. 15-26 Period of time during which Wiesner's hearing would be scheduled. After this hearing, council may adopt a final resolution of removal. A majority vote is required for this to pass.

Who's in charge?

Charlevoix City Council's decision to suspend and initiate dismissal proceedings for city manager, Mike Wiesner, didn't include a "next in command" decision.

City clerk Carol Ochs said she left council's Jan. 2 meeting knowing the leader at city hall wouldn't be there the next morning but with no direction as to who should assume his role.

"That showed a real lack of leadership and disrespect for the staff," Ochs said. "The people who made and approved the motion should have then taken some action. They shouldn't have just left us hanging."

First ward councilman, Bob Timms who set the wheels in motion to fire Wiesner, said it was his understanding that city policy was in place for city treasurer, Rick Brandi, to take the reins in Wiesner's absence.

Mayor Norman Carlson Jr. met with city staff to deliver the news the next morning, Wednesday, Jan. 3. From there, he and Ochs opted to use the hierarchy list established by Wiesner to determine second in command. The three people in order of command are Brandi, Wiesner's administrative assistant, Linda Weller and city fire chief, Paul Ivan.

As far as a long-term replacement goes, Timms said he doesn't "have the slightest idea" as to who will replace Wiesner. He said Brandi is next in line to take over temporarily and council will likely seek an interim manager.

"I would hope to find someone to fill in until a permanent new city manager is named," he said.

Quit the back room politics city council

EDITORIAL

We aren't going to sit down and argue about whether it was time for Charlevoix city manager, Mike Wiesner, to go.

The two main points of misconduct or poor management are a check writing mishap which resulted from a criminal act and doctoring of information at the wastewater treatment plant. Either in our eyes are serious enough offenses to merit removal.

But, council members beware — you work for the public, and a decision of this magnitude needs to be publicly addressed.

From what we understand, several people at the Jan. 2 council meeting, members of the audience included, knew what was going to shake out that night. Phone calls were made and coffee talk was shared. However did this important information, a plan to fire the city manager, appear in the most critical place — the meeting agenda? No.

Instead, first ward councilman, Bob Timms, opted to add "the city manager's employment" to the miscellaneous business part of the agenda which came at the close of the meeting.

The reaction was stone cold silence from Wiesner supporters like third ward councilman, Sherm Chamberlain, second ward councilman, Greg Stevens and mayor Norman Carlson Jr.

A decision that will cost the taxpayers over $100,000 should have been discussed and debated, instead everyone was blind-sided.

And, Wiesner and city residents weren't the only ones left reeling, city staff was also left hanging in the wind.

The disjointed process Timms and his henchmen initiated included no direction as to how leadership should be handled at city hall.

If you expect professionalism from the city manager, you better give your constituents the same service. Let them be prepared, have these discussions in public and show some leadership by directing those you've left hanging.

Maintaining healthy relationships in 2007

A LOOK AT LIFE

Gayle Gennett

With the fresh beginning of a new year I've discovered with uncanny regularity that individuals will begin, end or solidify their personal relationships.

Often I hear a man or woman state they want a clean slate to renew the year so why not leave my spouse or significant other. The same will be heard from others who share they are now going to start out the year committed to their special person and will seal it with a commitment. It's as if a deadline of Dec. 31 was established for making personal decisions. The dawning of a new year carries an eraser washing away 2006 as quickly as an incorrect problem on a classroom blackboard.

Once in awhile when I have time to ponder I wonder whether men and women were meant to live together. A man and woman may have differing views, interests, tastes in food and music. Their interests are similar while dating and they may begin to differ as time passes. Do we pretend to like what the other person likes so they will enjoy our company? Are we honest and communicative about our true feelings or do we keep them hidden with fears that the person we care about most will become angry or disappointed?

After some time spent helping couples in marriage the same issues arise that will either bind or break the relationship. Several come to mind when meeting with couples in the comfort of my home office. High on the list is whether being honest all the time is a good thing as it may hurt someone's feelings to share everything that's on your mind. Another hot topic is the issue of affection which is often confused with sexual activity. Third on my list would be the discussion about finances.

What do we admire about the opposite sex in general? The ability to nurture, show compassion, listen, offer strength and support, — they are all important. Which career they have chosen or the amount of money in their bank account is not important. I've spoken with spouses who ended their relationship with a wealthy individual when they felt they were not appreciated and heard. When a man knows he is important to his woman and she feels important to her man, they bring out the best in each other. In doing so they begin to enjoy each other more and feel a purpose in the relationship.

Honesty is still the best policy in all relationships. When keeping back the truth no matter what the information may be, trust is diminished. The rebuilding process after trust has been broken takes time. You can't turn on trust like a light switch. When honesty and cooperation exist, a couple is willing to share and build together. Neither wishes to lie and shade the truth but may do so to protect the other. How we handle hearing the sensitive issues is what usually turns to deception.

If you are someone looking for further information to assist you in your relationship for the New Year I'd like to recommend the following reading, "His Needs Her Needs," by Willard Harley Jr. and "The Proper Care and Feeding of Marriage," by Dr. Laura Schlessinger.

It's important to remember the reasons you began your relationship in the first place. What wonderful qualities attracted you to each other? Reflect on those and mention them to each other. Compliments are recognizing even the littlest of things they may have done and it can bring you closer as a couple. I wish all of you well in your mind, heart and body connections for the coming year.

CLIP AND SAVE

RECALL COUNCIL MEMBERS VOTING THEIR AGENDA

Editor:

I was appalled by the decision of the Charlevoix City Council to remove Mike Wiesner from his position as city manager. In my opinion he has done a wonderful job of administrating the City of Charlevoix for the last 20 years. He has been instrumental in obtaining millions of dollars in grants for local projects. He has assembled a very good group of people around him as department heads.

Two of the stated reasons for this action are the CCMS check, and the problem at the Wastewater Plant.

In the case of the treatment plant, the manager has only the information given him to work with, which would be like Greek to most people that are not professionals in wastewater treatment, so he has to make decisions from information received from the department head involved.

As to the CCMS check, since the manager is not directly involved in the check writing process how can he be held responsible for a wrongly sent out check that did not cross his desk.

I have personally worked with Mr. Wiesner on three different occasions, one being Hoffman Park, one the ornamental railing system on the draw bridge, and as an employee of the city for the last nine years of my working career as the equipment technician at the city golf course. In all cases, I found Mr. Wiesner to be very competent, professional and dedicated to the people of the City of Charlevoix.

This whole affair smacks of a witch hunt by certain current and past members of city council for personal reasons.

The responsibility of council members is to reflect the views of the people of the wards, not their personal agenda, which I don't believe is true in this case.

The removal of a man who has done so much for the City of Charlevoix will certainly do no good for the people of Charlevoix.

I would just as soon see the recall of any and all members of the city council who put their personal agendas ahead of the welfare of the people of Charlevoix.

Good luck, Mike, and keep fighting for Charlevoix.

RACIAL JUSTICE AND PRESIDENT FORD

Editor:

While I did not know Gerald Ford this story was told by him in an article he wrote for the Detroit Free Press on Aug. 10, 1999. Gerald Ford was a football player at the University of Michigan, 1931-1935. His coach at the time was my uncle Harry (Harry Kipke, brother to Ray Kipke of local interest — Kipke Field in Charlevoix and the Charlevoix Rayders spelled with a "y" for my dad). When uncle Harry coached at the University of Michigan he sought the best athletes regardless of race even though this was contrary to the times of racial segregation, even in the north. Fielding Yost, the coach prior to uncle Harry, would not allow a black player on the University of Michigan teams he coached.

One of Gerald Ford's teammates was a black player named Willis Ward. University of Michigan was scheduled to play against visiting Georgia Tech who insisted that Willis Ward be dropped from the roster because he was black. The team as a whole voted that they would not play the game without Ward on the roster. However, Willis insisted that he not play rather than forfeit the game.

President Ford's humanity and caring was evident even as a college student and continued throughout his lifetime. I like to think that my uncle helped lay his foundation for racial justice that stayed with him throughout his lifetime.

A four-part parenting series entitled, "Learn how to use a version of American Sign Language (ASL) with your pre-verbal babies," will be taught by Tonya Mann. Baby signing sessions will meet at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesdays from Jan. 23 through Feb. 13. Mann and her husband have used baby signing with their daughter and are now teaching it to their baby. Tonya has taught baby signing, approved by the American Federation of Sign Language, to many new parents, increasing communication between parent and child before babies can speak. For details, call the youth department (231) 237-7350.

CHS band students take Irish program to state conference

Nearly 40 Charlevoix Middle and High School students specializing in Irish folk music and dance will soon have the distinction of performing at the annual Michigan Music Conference.

The sixth through twelfth-grader's 11 a.m., Jan. 27 performance "Traveling Down an Irish Road" will occur at the DeVos Grand Gallery C in Grand Rapids.

"The purpose of the Michigan Music Conference is to provide annual in-service opportunities for the professional development of Michigan music educators and to serve as a coordinating body for collaborative inter-association initiatives in support of school music in Michigan," paraphrased Jayne Bennett, director of bands at Charlevoix Public Schools. "It's an honor to be selected to play there (and) it's a learning experience for them (music students). What we're doing is demonstrating how we presented the Irish music program last year. We'll be presenting the dulcimer, penny whistle and dancers as well as showing how we brought outside artists in to work with the students."

The students will also play a range of instruments including Bodhran drums and instruments which are similar to xylophones.

"Each group will be demonstrating how to play their instruments with several songs," Bennett said. "The dancing group will perform and we'll go over with directors how to put on a whole festival."

Bennett's decision to begin teaching Irish folk music came after a trip to Ireland.

"I toured Ireland with an Irish folk duo called Switchback and they joined us on our concert last year," she said. "I thought it (Irish music) was a lot of fun. And, I learned this area has a very large Irish heritage which made it even more interesting to study."

Bennett added, "Actually, some people from the island (Beaver Island) joined us on the Irish Festival."

Some of the Celtic themed art created by Charlevoix students, including castles, illuminated letters and calligraphy, will also be presented during the Michigan Music Conference.

OBITUARIES

Mary Hultgren: July 13, 1925 - Dec. 16, 2006

Mary Elizabeth Hollingsworth-Goodenough-Hultgren passed away after a long illness on Dec. 16 in her home in Elk Grove, Calif.

She was born on July 13,1925 in Flint. Her parents were Emmett Louis Hollingsworth and Ruth Margaret Freeman.

She is survived by her three children: Robert Arthur Goodenough of East Jordan, Mary Elizabeth, Frutchey-Voskuil and Bryan George Goodenough of Elk Grove, Calif.; five grandchildren, Scott and Susan Goodenough and Sarah, Edgar and Peter Frutchey; and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held in Elk Grove and she will be interred at the Freeman family plot at Glenwood Cemetery in Flint.

Memorial contributions can be sent your local hospice.

Muriel Archer: Nov. 5, 1933 - Dec. 25, 2006

Muriel V. Archer, 73, of Charlevoix, died Dec. 25 at Boulder Park Terrace Nursing Home in Charlevoix.

Born Nov. 5, 1933, in Detroit, the daughter of Edward H. and Esther M. (Kerr) Lang, she moved to Charlevoix at the age of 17. Muriel worked in the kitchen at Charlevoix Hospital for 28 years. She then worked for Charlevoix Linen Service for 19 years, and also at the Castle Van Haver where she managed the coffee shop.

Muriel attended the United Methodist Church in Charlevoix and the Grace Fellowship Mennonite Church in Charlevoix. She married Everett M. Swartout in 1963 in Charlevoix, and he preceded her in death in 1970. She was then married to Clarence "Shorty" Archer in 1972, and he preceded her in death in 2005.

Muriel is survived by her brother, Gary Murdick and sister, Jeryl Murdick, both of Charlevoix. A brother, Harold Lang, also preceded her in death.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Grace Fellowship Mennonite Church, 11675 Boyne City Road, Charlevoix, MI 49720. A memorial service will be held at the Archer home in the spring. The Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix is in charge of arrangements.

Ann Danly: Sept. 22, 1924 - Dec. 30, 2006

Ann A. Danly, 82, of Charlevoix, and Punta Gorda, Fla., and formerly of Hinsdale, Ill., died Saturday, Dec. 30, at her home in Charlevoix.

She was born Sept. 22, 1924, in Chicago, Ill. the daughter of Thomas and Margret (Kniesley) Abbott. She graduated from high school in Hinsdale, and junior college in North Carolina. On April 21, 1950, she married Bruce H. Danly in Hinsdale. They made their home in Hinsdale and summered in Michigan. They later moved from Hinsdale to Punta Gorda, Fla.

Ann was a very giving and generous person who loved her family and friends. She was preceded in death by her husband on May 22, 1994. Ann is survived by her loving children, Patricia Danly and her husband, William Hall of Trapper Creek, Ark., Nancy Danly of Charlevoix, Mary Danly of Laurel, Mont., Bruce and his wife, Jill Danly of Lake Bluff, Ill., and David A. Danly of Charlevoix; grandchildren, Matthew and his wife, Lisa Robinson, Ryan Fields, Clay and Hana Danly; and loyal friend, Brandy.

A graveside service took place on Saturday, Jan. 6, at Bronswood Cemetery in Oak Brook, Ill.

The Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix handled the arrangements.

Chuck Davis of Boyne City, died on Jan. 1, 2006 in a single car crash near his home. He was 81 years old.

Chuck grew up in Carnegie, Pa., and graduated from the University of Pittsburgh (1948) with a degree in mechanical engineering. He began his 40-year career in industrial sales in the Detroit area. He married Ruth Walle in 1950 and they had two daughters. In 1958, Chuck and his family moved to Kalamazoo, where he lived for the next 30 years, retiring as district manager of the Automatic Switch Company in 1986. Chuck's 37-year marriage to Ruth ended with her death. Chuck and Marian Liscum Harper were married in 1988, at which time Chuck became a full-time resident of Boyne City. Chuck was widowed again when Marian died in 1999.

Chuck was an active and caring member of the communities in which he lived. While his daughters were young he took on leadership roles in their schools' PTAs. He served as president of the board of directors of the Kalamazoo Junior Symphony Orchestra and supported its activities throughout his life. Chuck's volunteer work and support of arts and education grew following his retirement and move to northern Michigan. He regularly volunteered in the diabetic education program at Charlevoix Area Hospital. Chuck greatly enjoyed his one-on-one weekly reading hours with young students in Charlevoix County's STAR reading promotion program. Chuck also volunteered at the Crooked Tree Arts Center. He was instrumental in establishing and securing the future of the center's beginning strings program as a member of the advisory board of the Crooked Tree Youth Orchestra. Chuck had a wonderful time serving on the board of the Great Lakes Chamber Orchestra and rarely missed a performance.

Chuck was an active Mason, a member of several lodges including those in Boyne City. Charlevoix and Traverse City. In 2003, he was named District Mason of the Year, in recognition of his participation in the organization's governance and charitable activities.

Chuck is survived by his daughters, Wilhelmine Miller of Washington, DC, Karlotta Davis of Denver, Colo.; three granddaughters, Emily Miller, Lydia Miller and Sarah Menzel; and countless other family members and friends who will miss him.

A memorial service took place on Saturday, Jan. 6 at Church in the Hills in Bellaire.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests that contributions in Chuck's memory be made to the following organizations: Kalamazoo Junior Symphony 7145 Westnedge Ave., Room 344, Kalamazoo, MI 49007; Great Lakes Chamber Orchestra 438 E. Lake St., Petoskey, MI 49770; Crooked Tree Arts Center 461 E. Mitchell St., Petoskey, MI 49770; Charlevoix Area Hospital Foundation 14700 Lake Shore Drive, Charlevoix, MI 49720; or Head Start 321 South Park, Boyne City, MI 49712.

Stackus Funeral Home of Boyne City is serving the family.

City takes CCMS case to Supreme Court

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

Charlevoix City Council is taking its fight for cash lost in a criminal money grab to the Michigan Supreme Court.

After returning from a closed session discussion on Jan. 2, Charlevoix City Council voted unanimously to give their attorney, Robert L. DeJong of Miller Canfield in Grand Rapids, the go ahead to apply to the Supreme Court to review the appellate court decision in the controversial CCMS case.

"I don't think there's anything to lose at this point," second ward councilman, Greg Stevens said.

The city will incur attorney costs and application fees by continuing to pursue the CCMS fight. In July 2005 they contracted with DeJong and established a $290 hourly rate as well as 28 percent of the total amount the city may recover as a result of the judge's ruling.

Things were looking sweet for the city and DeJong in June 2006 when Charlevoix County Circuit Judge Richard Pajtas ruled in the city's favor, requiring Michigan Municipal League Liability and Property Pool, to cover not only the $222,978.36 cost of a check mix-up, but also $8,566.94 in interest that money would have earned had it sat in the city's coffers. Pajtas also awarded the city $4,616.80 for attorney fees incurred while defending a related lawsuit filed by United Fire and Casualty.

In late December 2006 the Michigan Court of Appeals reversed Pajtas' decision, ruling in favor of the Michigan Municipal League. The court ruled that the United Fire and Casualty claim was a breach of contract. The league specifically excludes from coverage any claim based upon a breach of contract.

Following that decision, DeJong said he was confident in the city's position and disappointed in the outcome.

"They (attorneys) feel that strongly even though the odds of the Supreme Court hearing it may not be very good," mayor Norman Carlson Jr. said.

According to the suit, DeJong said the Michigan Municipal League should have defended the city in a lawsuit filed by United Fire and Casualty and covered the city's losses.

The lawsuit the city feels should have been covered, stemmed from a check that was written on April 2, 2004 to CCMS and Associates, a contractor out of Sault Ste. Marie hired by the city in 2001 to work on roads and sidewalks.

However, the check was supposed to be written to CCMS insurer, United Fire and Casualty. United was then to pay subcontractors hired by CCMS for those projects.

"The insurance company said when the city issued the check, that check stemmed from a contract for improvements and insurance isn't intended to cover a breach of contract," Young explained in a previous interview. "The city's position was it was an honest mistake in issuance of the check made payable to CCMS only."

Charlevoix City Treasurer, Rick Brandi, claims he was not aware United Fire was supposed to be paid instead of CCMS. United Fire claims they sent a letter to Brandi with check writing instructions, but Brandi says he never received it.

Brandi's stamped signature as well as that of deputy city clerk Stephanie Brown, appeared on the check. At that time, Brown was sitting in for former clerk Liz Gooch, who had resigned.

When Brandi realized the check was issued in error, he called the city's bank and tried to stop payment but it was too late, CCMS owner William Montgomery had cashed the check.

CCMS never turned over any portion of that money to the bond company, United Fire and Casualty.

This mistake resulted in United Fire and Casualty suing the city in June 2004. In December 2004 the city agreed to end the suit by paying United Fire the over $220,000 it already paid CCMS.

Charles Davis killed in single car crash

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office is investigating a one vehicle crash that took place on Jan. 1 in Eveline Township that claimed the life of an 81-year old Boyne City man.

Charles F. Davis was traveling on Advance Road when he lost control of his 2002 Mercury while negotiating a curve at Olstrum Road. The vehicle left the roadway and slid sideways striking a tree. The crash was first discovered by a neighbor at 5:40 a.m. and is believed to have happened several hours before that. Davis was pronounced deceased at the scene by the Charlevoix County Medical Examiner's Office. The Boyne City EMS and Fire Department assisted at the scene.

The crash remains under investigation by the sheriff's office.

A memorial service for Davis was held on Jan. 6 at the Church in the Hills in Bellaire.

McSauba prepares for late season opening

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

Christmas break felt more like spring break in Charlevoix.

The warm weather meant no snow and bare slopes meant bored kids. Youngsters who traditionally burn off excess holiday energy on the hills at Charlevoix's Mt. McSauba were stuck looking for other activities.

Josh Hogan, a 12-year-old Charlevoix snowboarder, said he spent his two-week break from the classroom hanging out with friends, watching TV and hoping he could catch a ride with someone headed to Boyne Mountain or Nub's Nob.

Hogan used his time differently this year — during Christmas break 2005 he was a permanent fixture at McSauba which opened on Dec. 20, 2005.

"I was really disappointed," he said of McSauba's inability to open before Christmas.

According to Mt. McSauha manager, Bo Boss, who is entering his thirty-first season there, warm, rainy weather killed their chances of opening before Christmas and will likely delay opening until mid-January.

"This can't last forever. It has to turn the corner," he said of weather conditions.

Skiing and snowboarding lessons which were scheduled to start on Jan. 8 and run for five weeks have been pushed back indefinitely.

"There was just no way we could open barring a miracle," Boss said.

He said the big blast of snow that blanketed Charlevoix in November got his hopes up for an early season characterized by ideal conditions. But those hopes were doused by persistent rain and above freezing temperatures. McSauba's two new snow guns weren't powerful enough to fight Mother Nature.

"You can't weather this rain," he said.

Boss is hoping this will be the last year MeSauba finds itself on the losing side of the weather war. The City of Charlevoix is exploring new water sources which will allow snow to be made at the hill more consistently.

"Then we can be open like Nub's Noh, no matter what," he said.

The late start is unusual. Boss said the last time he can remember conditions like these was in 1983 when they opened on Jan. 27.

While this may seem like a recipe for disaster, Boss said the 1983 season still posted strong revenue.

"The kids were so excited, we still had a great year," he said. "We missed the Christmas out-of-towners this year. It hurts our revenue."

File photo

Charlevoix Mt. McSauba which generally opens before Dec. 25, has fought abnormally warm weather in its plight to kickoff the season. Manager, Bo Boss said it looks like skiers and snowboarders like the boy pictured above will be able to use the facility later this month.

Season details at Mt. McSauba

Mt. McSauba season pass rates:

1 skier	$80
2 skiers	$150
3 skiers	$200
4 skiers	$250
5 skiers	$300
6 skiers	$350

Equipment available for rental: Downhill and cross country skis, boots, snowboards, snowblades, snowshoes, sleds and glove guards.

Lessons for groups or individuals: Ski lessons are $40; ski lessons and rentals $45; snowboard lessons $45; snowboard lessons and board rentals $55; snowboard lessons, board and boot rentals $70.

Hours of operation will be from 5 to 9 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Thursday; 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday; and 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday.

More information, call (231) 547-3267.

Boss expects business to boom once the hills are opened thanks in part to some exciting new additions.

A deck has been added at the top of the main hill overlooking the snowboarding park. It is equipped with benches, a fire pit and a sound system.

"It's cutting edge," he said.

Users can drop from the deck into the snowboard park where they'll grind on new rails and hit new jumps.

Overall, McSauba offers six runs accommodating skiers and snowboarders of beginner to intermediate skill levels. The snowboard park is classified at the black diamond "advanced" level because of the jumps and obstacles it includes. The facility also encompasses 1.2 miles of lighted cross country ski trails and a sledding hill. Equipment rental is available.

Mt. McSauba is owned and operated by the City of Charlevoix. It is located in North Pointe, off McSauba Road, north of the City of Charlevoix. For more information about programs, call

What's happening at the Library this week?

Carol Goodenough is back at the Charlevoix Library talking genealogy and family research. On January 20, 10:00 am to 4:00 pm, Mrs. Goodenough will teach new genealogists the basics of genealogy and family history research. This is the perfect class for those who have tried to start their own family research but just didn't know where to begin. Mrs. Goodenough will review how to kick off your research, suggest easy to use resources, and give hands on tutorials. After this day long event, all participants will be well on their genealogical way. Mrs. Goodenough, has worked diligently to preserve her own family history as well as the history of Charlevoix County. She is active both in the Charlevoix County Genealogical Society as well as the Charlevoix County Historical Society. Call the library at 237-7340 to register. There is a $20 registration fee for this class.

For the paper craft enthusiast, join Beth Allan at the library on January 20, from 2:00 to 4:00 pm, to create a beautiful handmade journal with chipboard and patterned paper. This unique book features a built in spine as well as a fastener to hold pages for journaling. This clever project can be easily adapted into a mini scrapbook or sketchbook. The class fee is $10 and includes all supplies. Please call the library at 237-7340 to register. Registration deadline is January 15.

Parenting Series #1: Learn how to use a version of American Sign Language (ASL) with your pre-verbal babies. Join Tonya Mann on four Tuesdays, Jan 23 -Feb 13, at 6:30 p.m to learn "Baby Signing." Mrs. Mann and her husband have used baby signing with their daughter and now are teaching it to their baby. Tonya has taught baby signing, approved by the American Federation of Sign Language, to many new parents, increasing communication between parent and child before babies can speak. Seniors tackle tough college decisions

BY KIM WAY
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

The second semester of a high school student's senior year is one full of decisions. What's going to happen after graduation? Will I get into the college of my dreams? These questions and more fill the minds of the class of 2007.

Charlevoix High School senior Ian Hughes's dreams came true just a few months ago when his acceptance letter from the University of Michigan arrived at his home. With the goal of a mechanical or electrical engineering degree, Hughes is ecstatic to move to Ann Arbor in the fall.

Ian Hughes

"I love the (University of Michigan) campus," said Hughes. "The (engineering) program is in the top 10 in the nation — I can't wait."

Hughes is excited and nervous in the same breath.

"It'll be a challenge to get used to a new routine. Also, with my diabetes, it'll be a change to not have anyone there looking out for me," he added.

Charlevoix High School senior, Emily Heffling, isn't far from her dream-come-true either. After being asked to run hurdles for the Michigan State University track team in early November, Heffling is working hard to meet expectations from both the team and herself.

"I've never been more nervous for anything in my life," she said. "I'm mostly scared to work hard and prove myself to the team while still getting good grades and finding out what I want to do with my life."

While some are preparing for a new life at the college of their dreams, others are still awaiting acceptance letters.

Charlevoix High School senior, Ashlie Bradley, hopes to enroll at Grand Valley State University in the fall to pursue elementary education. When Bradley wasn't accepted right away, she became quite disappointed.

Ashlie Bradley

"I've worked really hard throughout high school," said Bradley. "I've maintained a 3.0 (grade point average) and got a 20 on the ACT test. It's hard to know that I've worked this hard and haven't met all (Grand Valley's) standards."

If Bradley doesn't get into the college of her choice, she has a back up plan. Bradley applied to both Saginaw Valley State and Ferris State University, and she has been accepted to both.

"I heard the (elementary education) program is really good at Grand Valley, but I'd be happy at any of these schools," she said.

The anxiety of making life changing decisions like where to go to college continues to control the minds of many high school seniors, but for many, this decision has already been made.

Student legislators

On Dec. 5 State Sen. Jason Allen, R-Traverse City, welcomed Charlevoix High School teacher, Anne Marie Conway, and her Charlevoix High School class to the state Capitol. The students participated in the House Civics Commission, an initiative which believes that one of the best ways to teach civics is to engage students in governmental processes. The students gave presentations on legislative documenting, global warming, the use of wind turbines and legislative redistricting.

Man loses fingers in ammo explosion

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

Chief of Charlevoix City Police, Gerard Doan, said the 68-year-old who injured himself while removing the bullet from a World War II-era antiaircraft shell will not be charged with any crime at this time.

Morris Ned Walker was home less than six hours after having surgery on his left hand after the cartridge exploded in his pole barn on New Year's Eve.

"Mr. Walker's left hand was basically missing the pinkie and ring finger along with a small section of his hand," stated Charlevoix City Police officer, Sarah Cooper, in her incident report, which the Charlevoix Courier received after making a request under the Freedom of Information Act. "He also had several cuts and lacerations to his other two fingers, however, his thumb was still intact."

According to Cooper's report, Walker makes arts and crafts from old military shells and weapons he believes are inactive.

"He also stated that he emptied some of the gun powder out of the shell before it went off," Cooper stated. "He said that he thought that he was familiar with such a device being that he loads his own shells for his rifle."

Before he was taken from the emergency room for surgery, Walker told Cooper another shell approximately 20-50 mm in size remained in his pole barn.

"He was not sure if it was mortar military issued or if it was just a shell with regular bullet casings," she stated in her report. "He stated he had been in the military previously and believed that they were anti-aircraft type weapons and that he had received them from his neighbor."

Cooper informed Det./Sgt. Steven W. Hickman of the Michigan State Police Bomb Squad Unit in Grayling of the ordinance on Walker's grounds.

"Hickman requested that no one enter the pole barn where the devices were located," Cooper stated. "When I drove by the pole barn, I noticed that there were several old canisters of what appeared to be compressed gasses."

Walker's wife told Cooper they were the type of tanks used for welding.

With Walker's consent, the pole barn was searched and at least (two) shells were removed.

"While there, Hickman also found the exploded round which (he) identified as tracer, which is highly flammable and explosive."

In a phone interview five days after the incident occurred, Walker's wife, Mary Jo said, "He's doing fine."

Charlevoix Area Hospital reported the incident to the local police department as required by law.

"A hospital or pharmacy in this state...to which (one) or more persons come or are brought suffering from a wound or other injury inflicted by means of a knife, gun, pistol, or other deadly weapon, or by other means of violence, has a duty to report that fact immediately, both by telephone and in writing, to the chief of police or other head of the police force of the village or city in which the hospital or pharmacy is located, or to the county sheriff if the hospital or pharmacy is located outside the incorporated limits of a village or city," as stated in MCL 750.411. "The report shall state the name and residence of the person, if known, his or her whereabouts, and the cause, character, and extent of the injuries and may state the identification of the perpetrator, if known."

Chamber Action & Business Briefs

New Year Welcomes New Board Members

Each year some of our Board members "retire" – and new members are elected.

This year, the Chamber is proud to welcome new Board members, Chris Cuffaro, Citizens Bank; Dirk Cox, St. Mary's Cement Company; Louis Hollow, Hollow & Associates; and Chris Turkelson, law firm of Hayes, Telgenhof, Turkelson & Groat, P.C.

Congratulations to our new officers, Chairman, Tom Conlan, Belvedere and Golf Club; Vice Chairman, Jeff Sprecksell, Stafford's Weathervane Restaurant; and Treasurer, Jay Bingham, Bingham Insurance Services.

We also welcome returning Directors Patricia Blanchard, Shop of the Gulls and Linda Bradley, Charlevoix Manufacturing Company.

As our new Board is getting to work, we also say a fond farewell and a very heartfelt "Thank You" for a job well done to our departing Board members, Jim Berlage, Bridge Street Book Shop who served at Chairman in 2005 & 2006; Judy Kehr, Friske Orchards who served at Vice-Chairman in 2006; and Ron Agnello, C.P.A who served as Treasurer in 2005 & 2006 in addition to their terms as directors. The progress we make in the future will be due to the steps you have taken to pave the way. To present and past Board members... Thank you for improving our quality of life. Charlevoix is a better place because of you!

BC Pizza relocates and plans for major changes

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

Regular customers of Charlevoix's BC Pizza are probably aware the restaurant was relocated from next-door to Sears to its new home at 149 M-66 Captain's Corner Plaza near Glen's.

However, owners Keith and Julie McBee said their plans for expansion are far from over.

"The other place seated approximately 40 and in this place we have (seating for) almost 80," Keith said. "Our plan for the future is to put a play area in. There's nothing in concrete, but we have a pretty good idea (we'll) make it happen."

Keith said he would like to have several games and an indoor style jungle gym for the younger kids.

"There's no place to go for birthday parties and other stuff," he said. "This would mainly be for the younger age kids, but there would be some video games."

The interior of BC's new location has been hand-painted by an artist from Boyne City.

"The atmosphere is more family friendly," Keith said. "The other place was more of a pick-up and this place is more of a dine-in, and I believe it's easier for people to stop in. We're close to Glen's and lot of people shop there."

He added, "I believe business is better."

While BC Pizza's menu hasn't changed drastically, buffet availability and selection has been increased.

"We extended the buffet to Monday through Saturday and made it a little better and a little bigger," Keith said. "It has pizza, salad, fruit, bread sticks and a variety of desserts."

The McBees employ two drivers and eight restaurant workers year-round, and while Keith wouldn't say exactly how much he spent on the move and renovation of the new facility, "It was quite a bit of money, but the investment is worth it."

BC Pizza owners, Keith and Julie McBee, pose in their new building with twins Landon and Delaney. The restaurant moved in October from their old location near Sears to Captain's Corner Plaza near Glen's.

BC Pizza, which delivers within a five-mile radius and is open seven days a week, may be one of the few local businesses which stays busy year-round.

"I don't think it's (business) that much different from wintertime to summertime — obviously a little — but we stay pretty steady throughout the winter," he said.

And, though there are other pizza stores in competition with BC, Keith said his franchise earns a respectable profit.

"We keep giving good stuff," he said. "That's the thing, giving customers good service and good pizza."

The Charlevoix location, operated independently, is one of more than 40 stores in at least two other states, Georgia and Kentucky.

The location is new, but Keith has been in the pizza business for nearly two decades.

"BC Pizza started in 1988 and I've been with them since 1990," he said. "I started working for them when I was 15 because I wanted to have my own business — here I am 18 years later."

The McBee family members helping make and deliver pizza include Keith's dad, niece and brother.

Keith said nobody really complained about the old location, but he's received numerous accolades from his regular customers for relocating.

CVB elects 2007 board members

The Charlevoix Area Convention and Visitors Bureau recently elected new board members for 2007. The election took place in December and officers were chosen.

Chris Kowal, general manager for the Edgewater Inn, was elected president. Michael Barton, owner of the Inn at Grey Gables Bed and Breakfast, was elected vice-president. John McKown, owner of the Bridge Street Inn, was elected secretary/treasurer. Tom Pfeifle, general manager at the Weathervane Terrace, and Judy Winter, a partner in Charlevoix Lakeside Rentals, were elected directors.

Outgoing president, Tracy Sell, thanked departing board members Irene Hizelberger and Elizabeth Rich for their time and dedication.

Tickets on sale for Jan. 18 Chamber of Commerce 49th Annual Meeting

The 49th Annual Meeting and Dinner of the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce will take place on Thursday, Jan. 18, 2007 at Stafford's Weathervane Restaurant.

The evening will start with a cocktail hour at 5:30 p.m., with dinner served at 6:30 p.m. Individuals may choose between an entrée selection of John Cross whitefish, alfredo pasta or pork loin. Meals include a first course and dessert.

The chamber's most prestigious awards will be presented to honor persons who have given to the community and/or the Chamber of Commerce.

The Ambassador of the Year Award recognizes an individual who promotes the spirit of the Charlevoix community and/or the Chamber of Commerce and its programs.

The Chairman's Award recognizes an individual who has volunteered time and/or resources to help the Chamber of Commerce.

The Outstanding Citizen Award recognizes an individual who, over a number of years, has given freely of time, talents and resources to make the Charlevoix area a better place to live.

The cost is $30 per person, including tax and gratuity. Members and their guests are invited to enjoy an evening of great food, spirits and camaraderie. To make a reservation, call the chamber at (231) 547-2101.

City bids adieu to longtime meter reader

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

> "Right now I'm looking forward to sitting by the fire, reading a book, relaxing, planning my next adventure and my whole new life."
> Ann Willis
> RETIRED CITY OF CHARLEVOIX METER READER

For almost three decades, the streets of Charlevoix were Ann Willis' office and she was the key player that kept water and electric billing for the City of Charlevoix running like clockwork.

Willis, 55, the longtime city meter reader, finished her last day on the job on Jan. 2 after 29 years of service. At her retirement party that afternoon she said no one wants to hear a speech from her. But it was her familiar, friendly voice that brought many of her customers to the good-bye party at city hall.

"I'll miss the people that I saw every day, they were wonderful. If I was having a bad day, someone would lift my spirits. People were so friendly. They were like my family," Willis said.

Willis was a pioneer in the local meter reading realm. Before she took the job in May 1978, she said meter reading was a man's job. Her service to the city since high school was her in.

During tenth grade at Charlevoix High School she worked in the billing department at city hall in conjunction with a work study program through the school. After graduating in 1969 she continued to work there part-time while attending North Central Michigan College where she took liberal arts classes.

But life behind a desk wasn't what she had in mind.

"I could have stayed in the billing department but I don't like office work. I love the outdoors — I like hunting, fishing, softball — I felt it was me to be outdoors," she said.

Willis was a shy, young woman when she accepted the job. She was uneasy about going into businesses and homes where water meters were in the basement or electric meters were upstairs.

Over the years, covering five to eight miles a day on foot while reading 400 meters, she built friendships with people at the over 4,000 electric and water accounts she monitored.

While she'll miss the friendships, she is looking forward to the free time.

Willis plans to work part-time at Michigan Scientific and will use the rest of her time to pursue her passion for the outdoors — hiking, biking kayaking and maybe getting back into bow hunting.

"Right now I'm looking forward to sitting by the fire, reading a book, relaxing, planning my next adventure and my whole new life," she said.

Willis is a Charlevoix native. Her parents, Jim and Dorothy Willis, live on Beaver Island.

At a Jan. 2 retirement party, City of Charlevoix mayor, Norman Carlson Jr., presented longtime city meter reader Ann Willis with a plaque of appreciation for her 29 years of service to the city.

Jan. 22 application deadline set for federal emergency food and shelter funding

Charlevoix County has been awarded $22,218 in federal funds under the Emergency Food and Shelter National Board Program.

These funds will be distributed by a local board to be used to supplement emergency food and shelter programs. The funding period is Jan. 1 through Sept. 30.

The selection was made by a national board that is chaired by the Federal Emergency Management Agency and consists of representatives from the Salvation Army, American Red Cross, United Jewish Communities, Catholic Charities USA, National Council of the Churches of Christ in the USA and United Way of America.

The local board was charged to distribute funds appropriated by Congress to help expand the capacity of food and shelter programs in high-need areas around the country.

The local board is made up of representatives from Char-Em United Way, the Salvation Army, the Red Cross, Catholic Human Services, Community Foundations, local religious congregations, the Little Traverse Bay Band of Odawa Indians, the Department of Human Services, local governments and a representative of the homeless population. This board will determine how the funds will be distributed among the emergency food and shelter programs run by local service agencies in Charlevoix and Emmet counties.

Under the terms of the grant from the national board, local agencies chosen to receive funds must be private voluntary non-profits or units of government; have an accounting system; practice nondiscrimination; have demonstrated the capability to deliver emergency food and/or shelter programs; and if they are a private voluntary organization, they must have a voluntary board. Qualifying agencies are urged to apply.

Emergency Food and Shelter funds were awarded to the following agencies last year: The Women's Resource Center, the Salvation Army, the Manna Project, St. Francis Church, Brother Dan's Food Pantry, Care and Share, Charlevoix Community Pantry, and Good Samaritan Family Services.

Public or private voluntary agencies interested in applying for Emergency Food and Shelter Program funds must contact Martha Lancaster at the Char-Em United Way, at (231) 487-1006 for an application.

The deadline for applications to be received is Monday, Jan. 22.

SPORTS reviewing the action

Glads tarnish Rayder basketball record

BY ALLEN TELGENHOF
SPORTS WRITER

The Charlevoix Rayders suffered their first loss of the season on the hardwood last Friday night losing to visiting Traverse City St. Francis, 62-56. Earlier in the week, the Rayders defeated Cheboygan, 83-64.

The loss to St. Francis (6-1 overall, 3-0 conference) drops Charlevoix (5-1, 2-1) one game between the Gladiators in the Lake Michigan Conference standings.

"We came out flat in the second half," coach Keith Haske said. "We've been having problems playing a solid 32 minutes all season long and against a good team like St. Francis, it caught up to us."

The Rayders led early as Corey Gotshall scored six points in the first quarter to key a 14-11 Charlevoix advantage. Gotshall scored the first two points of the second quarter, then later hit on a left-handed hook shot and blocked a Glad jumper as Charlevoix increased the lead to 20-13 with six minutes left in the half.

St. Francis battled back, using back-to-back offensive rebounds to lead to five points to cut the lead to two, then with 2:57 left in the quarter, the Glads took the lead briefly, at 22-21 and with a minute left, at 24-23.

A Derek Friske bucket off a pretty spin move and a Mitch Crandall drive gave Charlevoix a 27-24 half-time lead.

The Glads scored the first four points of the second half, and their very physical defense stifled the Rayders, holding them to only five third-quarter points as they built a 38-32 lead.

Especially noticeable was the lack of scoring from the post. While Charlevoix's post players combined for 14 first half points, they scored none in the third quarter.

"They just beat us up in the post in the second half," Haske commented.

St. Francis took its largest lead of the game at 48-37 midway through the fourth quarter. Chase Beatty answered for the Rayders with a three-point play. Nate LaBlance made two free throws, then moments later scored on a pretty finger roll to cut the lead to seven, at 53-46 with 2:55 left.

Following a Rayder timeout, Darren Munson tipped four straight Glad in-bounds passes out of bounds to fire up the Charlevoix faithful, but the Rayders could draw no closer than six the rest of the way.

Crandall led all scorers with 23 points. Gotshall scored 14 and LaBlance finished with 10.

Against Cheboygan, 13 players saw action in the first quarter as the Rayders built a 21-7 lead. The second quarter was more of the same as the Charlevoix press was too much for the Chiefs.

Charlevoix opened up a 46-24 half-time lead, largely behind Munson's aggressive play as he scored nine and played tenacious defense. The Rayders extended the advantage to 25, at 59-34 in the third quarter before Cheboygan scored the final nine points of the period.

In the final stanza, the Chiefs refused to give in and got as close as 12, at 74-62, but couldn't make it all the way back.

Crandall finished with 18 points and 11 rebounds. Munson finished with nine points, all in the first half.

Ty Haske had eight points and seven assists. Austin Wilhelm, Derek Friske and Gotshall also had eight points apiece. Cliff Jones contributed five steals and five assists.

The Rayders traveled to Boyne City on Tuesday, Jan. 9 before returning home to host Kalkaska on Friday, Jan. 12. Results from both games will appear in next week's Courier.

Charlevoix's Mitchell Crandall scored on this shot as Cory Murphy #4 and Parker Prusick #12 from Traverse City St. Francis try to guard him. In spite of their efforts, the Rayders fell, 62-56 to the Glads.

SPORTS reviewing the action

Rayder volleyball team takes third at Petoskey Volleyball Invitational

Charlevoix went 8-0 in pool play and eventually won the consolation match Saturday, Jan. 6 in finishing third in the 10-team Petoskey Volleyball Invitational.

"We played pretty well in pool play," said Charlevoix coach Liz Grunch, whose team is scheduled to play host to Lake Michigan Conference rivals Harbor Springs and Boyne City this week. "It really set the table for us going back into conference play.

"Things are looking pretty good. We're coming together pretty well on the court. Hopefully, it'll be a great season."

The Rayders defeated Harbor Springs, 25-14, 25-18; Petoskey, 25-19, 25-19; St. Ignace, 25-21, 25-20; and Cedarville, 25-13, 25-5; to win their pool on Saturday. In bracket play, the Rayders fell to Class A Monroe, 25-16, 25-13. Monroe won the tournament with a 25-17, 25-18 victory over Harbor Light Christian in the title match.

The Rayders then downed Petoskey, 25-18, 23-25, 15-9, in the third-place match.

Charlevoix's Zita Anderson earned a spot on the all-tournament team.

For the Rayders, Ashlie Bradley finished with a team-high 36 kills and 13 digs; Murphy Gillespie had 21 kills and 11 aces; Aubrey Way had 49 assists, 16 kills, 13 aces and 12 blocks; Sasha Spencley had 13 kills, 14 digs and 12 blocks; Emily Heffling was 94 percent on serve reception and had 27 digs; and Desi Faust added 12 kills.

The Rayders were host to Harbor Springs on Monday, Jan. 8 and then entertained Boyne City on Thursday, Jan. 11. On Saturday, Jan. 13, they go to the Mason County Invitational.

Results from these events will appear in next week's Courier.

Rayder wrestlers earn medals at Jan. 6 Frankfort invitational

Mat Golovich

Nate Tripplehorn

With a team of only eight wrestlers, five Charlevoix High School grapplers were medalists in the championship round on Saturday Jan. 6 at the Frankfort Wrestling Invitational.

Charlevoix's Zeke Daman recorded two pins and finished 3-0 on the day to win the 112-pound weight class on Saturday, Jan. 6.

Two other Rayders, Mat Golovich and Nate Tripplehorn, reached the championship match in their weight classes. Golovich finished 2-1 with a pin at 119 pounds, while Tripplehorn was 2-1 with two pins at 189.

Two Charlevoix freshmen, Chris Levins and Zack Smith, and first-year wrestler J.D. Speigl also won matches by pin on the day.

The overall team score landed the Rayders in sixth place for the day of the 12 schools that competed.

The Rayders will compete on Thursday, Jan. 11 at Grayling and on Jan. 13 at the Rogers City Tournament.

4-H Travel Soccer registration is Jan. 15

Registration for the 4-H Travel Soccer league will take place at 5:30 p.m. on Jan. 15 in the cafeteria at Charlevoix Middle School, located at 108 East Garfield St. in Charlevoix.

The Charlevoix Assembly of God Church will host new classes and programs for 2007.

Sunday's begin at 9:30 a.m. with two adult classes "A Study of the Old and New Testament, Basic Theology," taught by Doug Way and the study of the Allender/Longman book, "The Cry of The Soul," taught by Vicki Hankins.

Worship begins at 10:30 a.m. on Sunday with Pastor Ryp Hankins ministering. Sunday evening meetings begin at 6 p.m. Charlevoix Assembly of God combines both contemporary and traditional music styles in each service.

From 7 to 9 p.m. each Tuesday, community prayer/intercession is held with live worship led by Jackie Boog and the praise/worship band. Communion is available during this night where participants can come and go at their convenience.

Wednesday night ministries are from 7 to 8 p.m. and consist of nursery, Calvary's Kids (elementary grades), Youth Group (grades 6-12) and Adult Bible Discovery which is currently in a study of the book of Hebrews.

"First Friday's" kicked off on Friday, Jan. 5 at the home of Pastor Ryp and Vicki Hankins. This new ministry targets young adults, ages 18–35 and will be a casual time of sharing relevant issues and interests. "First Friday's" takes place on the first Friday of every month at locations to be determined.

On Saturday, Jan. 20 there will be a Men's Breakfast at 8 a.m. at the church with Zach Sanger sharing. Attendees are asked to register for this event by calling the church.

A food pantry is available for those in need by appointment from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Tuesday through Friday.

Services and most programs are held at 05291 M-66 North in Charlevoix near Castle Farms.

For more information about the ministries of Charlevoix Assembly of God, call the church office at (231) 547-6430 or visit www.charlevoixag.com.

Robber targets Central Drugs

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

At around 8:45 a.m. on Tuesday, Jan. 16, Central Drugs in Charlevoix was the scene of an attempted robbery.

Dispatchers warned local police to be on the lookout for a white, heavyset male in his 20s, about six feet in height with dark hair, wearing glasses, dark colored clothing and possibly armed with a handgun.

"He came in, gave us a note and I told him I was not going to give him anything," said John Ochs, owner of Central Drugs in Charlevoix. "He demanded narcotics."

According to Ochs, no one was threatened with bodily harm.

"He had his hand in his pocket, but that was it," he said.

Over two decades of service came to an abrupt end on Monday when Charlevoix city manager, Mike Wiesner, threw a cease fire proposal on the City Council table.

Under the proposal council unanimously accepted that night, Jan. 15, Wiesner, 62, agrees to waive his public hearing and leave quietly and city council agrees to give him his severance package.

China 1 in Charlevoix is back in business just months after its owners were arrested and scheduled for deportation.

China 1 legally reopens

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

China 1 of Charlevoix is back in business less than five months after the husband and wife owners and operators were convicted of attempted racketeering, tax fraud and scheduled for deportation.

The restaurant, located in the Glen's Plaza, has apparently been a focal point of scrutiny by some community members and officials questioning how Yong Sheng Dong is operating the business in light of recent legal proceedings.

"I've had at least one call so far from a concerned citizen," said Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney, John Jarema.

However, according to Tim Counts, spokesman for Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE), Dong has every right to run his Chinese restaurant.

"The reason he is back at work is he is legally authorized to work," Counts said. "He has Green Card Status otherwise known as Legal Permanent Residency."

He added, "His status is...somewhere between visiting the U.S. and Wiesner takes severance and quietly leaves post anything more than he's entitled to," city mayor, Norman Carlson Jr. said. "I think he thinks this is the best thing for the city and the best thing for him. He's just protecting his interests. If council wants him to go, he wants to make sure he gets what's rightfully his.

"If I were Mike Wiesner, I wouldn't want to go back to an office to look over my shoulder to see who was watching every move I was making. It's too bad he had to put up with that for so long."

Final approval of the agreement is pending review by Wiesner's attorney, Gretchen Olson.

In the proposal, Wiesner states that his intent is to, "...avoid further controversy and to settle this matter without further cost and legal conflict."

The payoff includes a lump sum for all accumulated and unused vacation and personal days, a car and cell phone allowance for a full year, salary for 12 months, 21.8 percent of his salary directed to his retirement account and continuation of medical, life and accident insurance.

According to Rick Brandi, who was officially appointed acting city manager and city treasurer, the total cost of the approved severance package is around $122,000. Brandi's pay was bumped from $57,392 to $70,773 to compensate him for the extra workload.

Wiesner, who had held the manager's post for 22 years, submitted the proposal on Jan. 11, just one day after he entered his request for a public hearing to hash out the details of his Jan. 2 dismissal by a majority vote of city council.

He left Monday night's council meeting after reading a statement thanking the community for the opportunity to serve and commending city staff.

It was a motion by first ward councilman, Bob Timms, that was seconded by first ward councilman, Lyle Gennett, and supported by second ward councilman, Gene Beer, and third ward council member, Shirley Gibson, that early this month put Wiesner's job in the line of fire.

Timms said he justifies the cost of the severance package in two ways. He said by letting Wiesner go the city will avoid future costly mistakes and his replacement will "come at a lower price."

The reasons for his dismissal were the same grounds former second ward councilman, Gabe Campbell, brought to light in 2005.

Grounds for Wiesner's dismissal as stated by Timms are, "Failure to properly supervise the city treasurer regarding the issuance of a check to CCMS in the amount of $222,978; failure to properly supervise the city wastewater treatment plant regarding the falsifying of records by wastewater treatment plant personnel; failure to provide in a timely manner the city council with information that will be considered at a city council meeting; and failure to provide monthly reports regarding the operation of city departments."

City council also agreed to review a job description for a new city manager at the next meeting, Feb. 5. A special meeting may be scheduled before Feb. 5.

Schools locked down in wake of attempted robbery roughly 45 minutes when the alleged perpetrator exited the building and drove south in a black coupe.

As soon as a 9-1-1 call was placed from Central Drugs, all area schools went on lock down.

"All we know is 9-1-1 called us and told us to go on lock down," said Northwest Academy office manager, Leslie Herriman. "When 9-1-1 calls us and tells us to lock all exterior doors, that's what we do."

Jim Cooper, superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools, said the elementary, middle and high school buildings were still on lock down hours after 9-1-1 dispatchers alerted him of the incident.

"When they (law enforcement) feel the safety of the kids is not an issue, then they notify us," Cooper said. "We rely on their professionalism and intuition."

He added, "Basically, this is the first time we've been instructed to use it. Everything has been practice runs to this point."

Even though the attempted robbery had nothing to do with the school, Cooper said the idea is to prevent a desperate and potentially dangerous person from using the school as a place to hide.

"We monitor all the exits and if a parent insisted and called to tell us they were coming (to get their child), we deal with that individually," Cooper said. "But, with the lock down and issue of safety, this is probably the safest environment."

Demand accountability for police misconduct

THE CRYING TOWEL

Benjamin Gohs

A few area officers have recently been in the headlines for breaking laws they swore to uphold. Angered and intrigued, I wondered if this was a fluke or a growing problem.

I won't presume to condemn a profession on the actions of some, but I will point the finger of shame at the dozens of scofflaw Michigan cops.

The case of David Meder is one of the more disturbing around here. He was convicted in 1994 of drunk driving, remained a cop and then slammed his vehicle into a utility pole after a night of drinking in 2006. He fled the scene, where he left a loaded weapon then lied about the incident. His abhorrent actions resulted in two misdemeanors, a $6,000 fine and transferred to a police station in a lovely resort community.

Let's hope Meder isn't so drunk when he pulls you over that he mistakes your wallet for an Uzi.

Some cops, like Charlevoix's own Brian VanMeter, get adequate punishment for their actions. He went from charges of reckless driving and assault/battery to careless driving, but was forced to resign. Meanwhile, former Petoskey Michigan State Police commander, Aaron Sweeney, was demoted, transferred and charged with the responsibility of training other cops after being convicted of domestic violence.

Don't think northern Michigan is the only area plagued with bobbies behaving badly.

Eugene J. Williams, Detroit, was fired in 1971 for a fatal hit-and-run while he was drunk, but he was reinstated three years later. While off-duty in 1979, he shot and killed a man during a domestic dispute. He then shot his wife during a domestic dispute in 1984. He wrongfully beat a student in 1989, smashing out four of the child's teeth and shot and killed an allegedly unarmed 16-year-old. The matter remains under investigation.

John J. A. Debono, a sheriff reserve deputy in Genesee, used his cell phone to record a friend's wife having sex with a 13-year-old girl. Instead of the 20-year felony for producing child pornography, he faces a four-year felony for possessing sexually abusive material of a child and a two-year felony for attempting to accost a child for immoral purposes. At least he is no longer a deputy and must register as a sex offender.

Ryan LaPratt, a Battle Creek cop who savagely beat a motorist after stopping him for a loud muffler, was fired, but I can't figure out how his partner, Andrew Olsen, who did not stop the act, was merely suspended without pay and put on probation for five years. Kudos, however, to their police chief for sharing the video with the public and media. It's good to know there are policemen who refuse to help cover-up or diminish the severity of police misconduct.

Flint police officer, Andrew Gauthier, was fired for beating a 15-year-old on a bus, but Jeff Lutz, the Eaton County cop who shot himself and then spurred a manhunt by lying about the incident, got the benefit of being put on medical leave, and Robin Harrington severely injured another woman when she crashed her car while drunk this New Year's Day. The Ann Arbor policewoman is on paid leave, not fired, pending the outcome of her February hearing.

Hundreds, maybe thousands, of incidents of illegal activities involving police in the last few decades across the nation are not chance occurrences, but an ongoing problem for both civilians and law-abiding cops whose jobs are made more difficult by the actions of a few juris-jackasses.

I planned a rant on the importance of government accountability and zero tolerance for bad cops until I discovered our governor refused to veto a new law which blocks the public from statements made by officers during internal investigations — no help there. I guess hiding psychological profiles and disciplinary records wasn't enough.

If you are ashamed of your record as a police officer, you have no business being one.

We trust these people to patrol the streets armed with firearms, Tasers, batons, pepper spray and unnatural amounts of trust and power. When they molest that trust, it leaves an odious funk on the citizenry's collective taste buds. Trite though it may be, bad things happen when good people — good cops especially — do nothing.

It seems a reasonable assumption that an officer who knows his every action will be exposed might think twice about misbehaving, so fire up those camcorders, cell phones, digital cameras and report suspected misconduct.

Until our protectors are truly held to that oft quoted myth of a higher standard, the community you save may be your own.

War and its victims unchanged over a century

EAR TO THE GROUND

Roger Knutson

During World War I, a young man named Eric Maria Remarque was removed from his school with a number of classmates, trained briefly and sent to fight in France for the German army.

In 1929, he wrote a novel based on his wartime experiences. In German it was called, "Im Westem Nicht Neues." By 1984 that novel had been translated into 26 languages and had sold more than three-and-a-half million copies worldwide. The English translation is "All Quiet on the Westem Front." It has been described by numerous reviewers as the greatest of all war books. It tells the story of war from the point of view of soldiers, not of generals. Remarque has put into the mouths of his German soldiers words that sound as true today as they did almost 90 years ago.

"All Quiet on the Westem Front" is dedicated to "a generation of men who, even though they escaped its shells, were destroyed by the war." During lulls in the battles the soldiers speak of what they understand of war. One of them says, "Every full-grown emperor requires at least one war, otherwise he wouldn't become famous." Another says, "Anyway, it is better that the war is here instead of Germany." (World War I was fought primarily in France.) Still a third soldier speculates, "There must be some people to whom the war is useful."

It is remarkable how little war has changed in almost a century. There are still people who create their legacy with wars, those who profit from them and those who are pleased that the war is in someone else's yard.

My favorite paragraph from the entire book is a proposal by yet another German soldier named Kropp. "Kropp on the other hand is a thinker. He proposes that a declaration of war should be a kind of popular festival with entrance tickets and bands, like a bullfight. Then in the arena the ministers and generals of the two countries, dressed in bathing drawers and armed with clubs, can have it out among themselves. Whoever survives, his country wins. That would be simpler and more just than this arrangement, where the wrong people do the fighting." Kropp seems to speak the wish of almost every soldier who has ever fought in a war.

"All Quiet on the Westem Front" should be read or reread by anyone — general, Secretary of Defense or president who proposes to take a country's army to war — lest we forget history and be forced to repeat it.

War is no more clean or civilized now than it was in 1917. There will always be many who escaped the shells and bombs, but who were still destroyed by it.

WIESNER KEPT BEST INTEREST OF CHARLEVOIX IN MIND

Editor:

For the last three years the board of Charlevoix Community Skatepark Inc. worked closely with the city manager (Mike Wiesner) and his staff to raise funds and build a local skatepark. Granted at times it was stressful, it was very hard and it was a tremendous amount of work.

We had many meetings with Mike Wiesner, and the common denominator in all these meetings by Mr. Wiesner was the best interest of Charlevoix. Many times we had to go back and cross our t's and dot our i's at his request. His position to protect the city never wavered. Sometimes requests took longer because of it but it was done right to protect the city. We assumed he did the same with his department heads.

Being a manager means to delegate and to trust who you are delegating the task to. We as a group took this very seriously. Mr. Wiesner took the city's position and the possible liabilities that may occur very seriously. Last summer, after our first season, the positive feedback we got from parents and users was that this was the best run park they had ever been too, it was safe, organized and they were glad it was supervised. We feel we are a bright spot in Mr. Wiesner's tenure. Thank you (Mike) for working with us to provide the youth of Charlevoix another recreational outlet to use.

WHAT BECAME OF MONTGOMERY?

Editor:

Maybe I'm missing something. In trying to keep up with the details of this mess, I don't remember reading why William Montgomery, the owner of CCMS, has not been forced to return the money which was not his.

Surely he should be in prison for grand larceny or some such crime. If not, why not?

John Bradbury
St. Louis, Mo. and Charlevoix

Editor's note:

Because the CCMS check was cashed in St. Ignace, local authorities have been working with the Michigan State Police post there. The Michigan State Police entered a request for charges with Mackinac County Prosecuting Attorney Clayton Graham.

According to Charlevoix County prosecuting attorney, John Jarema, Graham opted not to take the case. Jarema said he requested an opinion from the state attorney general's office as to whether he could try the case in Charlevoix. The attorney general's office determined that the only way for Jarema to get jurisdiction is to be appointed a special prosecutor in Mackinac County.

Since this process began, Graham has been appointed Mackinac County Probate Judge. Jarema is now in the process of working with the new prosecutor, Alfred E. Feleppa, to act as a prosecutor in Mackinac County which will allow him to travel and try the case there.

THANKS TOYS FOR TOTS SUPPORTERS

Editor:

On behalf of the Marine Corps League, coordinating the Toys for Tots program in Emmet and Charlevoix counties, a heartfelt "thank you." Your generous donations from caring communities collected over 3,500 toys this past holiday season.

Without your support, many families would not have had a truly joyful Christmas. A thank you to all the volunteers who spent many countless hours preparing bags and boxes of toys and food for delivery on Christmas to deserving children.

We of the Marine Corps League salute you, Semper Fi, always faithful.

SHELVES STOCKED AT SAFE HOME

Editor:

The Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan (WRC) extends heartfelt thanks for the community's response to our Harvest Food and Supply Drive to benefit the Domestic Abuse Program's Safe Home. The generous support shown through donations of food, supplies, financial assistance and gifts has stocked up our shelter pantry and provided holiday cheer to many families in our community.

As the only shelter for victims of domestic abuse in Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Emmet and Otsego counties, the Safe Home provides emergency shelter 24 hours a day, 365 days a year and a 24-hour crisis phone line. In the past year, 68 women and 74 children took refuge at Safe Home to escape the peril of emotional, verbal and/or physical abuse. Contributions received from the community during the Harvest Food and Supply Drive, and throughout the year, play an imperative part in the WRC's ability to provide these critical services to victims of domestic abuse and their children.

Sincere appreciation goes out to all the service groups, schools, churches, businesses, clubs and individuals who recognize that domestic abuse is happening every day in our community and have taken action at the local level to support victims in our area. Your assistance directly impacts the lives of many families in need in Northern Michigan

Two nurses bid farewell to Charlevoix Area Hospital

Courtesy photo

Josie Young, RN, emergency department manager, and Nancy Walker, RN, surgical nurse, are two longtime members of Charlevoix Area Hospital's nursing staff who are retiring this month.

Two longtime members of Charlevoix Area Hospital's nursing staff are retiring this month, leaving jobs they've loved and a profession both say has changed dramatically since they began their careers.

Josie Young, RN, emergency department manager, and Nancy Walker, RN, surgical nurse, were recently honored at a hospital reception for colleagues and friends.

Although the pair launched nursing careers in 1963, they took different routes to Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Young, a Central Lake native who earned her nursing degree from Northwestern Michigan College in Traverse City, spent 13 years working at the University of Michigan Hospitals in Ann Arbor before returning to her home community. She has served as Charlevoix Area Hospital's emergency room manager for 20 years, watching the emergency department grow from four beds to a state-of-the-art, 10-room facility.

Walker began her career in Kentucky, where she graduated from nursing school, and worked in several states before arriving at Charlevoix Area Hospital 26 years ago. Like Young, she has witnessed many changes in her profession — most notably the role today's nurses play.

"Nurses provide more treatment now and technicians handle many of the tasks we used to do," she said. "I think nurses have earned the respect of physicians. Our input is valued and we have a greater voice in patient care."

Both retirees plan to remain in the area, and they may continue filling in at the hospital from time to time.

"We'll miss our coworkers here, and the direct patient care," said Young.

But for now, they have new agendas. Young is putting together an around-the-world cruise and enjoying more leisure time with family and friends. Walker, an avid golfer, fisher and crafter, looks forward to pursuing her interests and "just sitting down to relax with a good book."

Eveline Township treasurer resigns before recall election

BY FRED GRAY
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW
STAFF WRITER

Debra Jason

In a brief letter read on Tuesday, Jan. 9 at the Eveline Township Hall, Debra Jason announced her resignation as township treasurer, effectively ending a recall campaign that began in September when she refused the board's request to resign.

The board then voted 4-0 to accept her resignation.

At last September's township meeting, Eveline Township supervisor, John Vrondran, read a resolution listing a catalogue of complaints against Jason, and township attorney, Jim Young, pleaded with her to heed the sentiments of the board and the citizens who attended the meeting.

Jason then made what she said had been an "offer of resignation" but withdrew it two days later.

A recall campaign ensued, which Jason characterized as "an unfortunate distraction." She accused Vrondran of threatening and bullying her.

Jason was not present at Tuesday's meeting, at which Vrondran read her resignation letter and thanked her for her service.

While recall organizers said the resignation put an end to their campaign, Charlevoix County clerk, Jane Brannon, said last week that the process for recall is set by the state and she would have to consult with the State Election Board on whether the resignation came too late to avoid having the question put on the Feb. 27 ballot.

Brannon said the ballot, which will include a millage proposal for Peaine Township on Beaver Island, had already been sent to the printer. Last October, she estimated the cost of the recall election to Eveline Township at several thousand dollars.

In her resignation letter, Jason states, "As treasurer for the past six years, I have enjoyed working and serving the residents of Eveline Township. I have always felt that those who seek and hold public office are there to serve and represent the people who elected them to office with honesty, honor and humility.

"By these standards, I have fulfilled my obligations to the township and its residents. However, I feel that working environment with the 'leadership' on the Eveline Township board has become unworkable. After much deliberation, I have concluded that it is in my best interest and the best interest of my family for me to tender my resignation effective Jan. 9, 2007.

"As of Jan. 9, 2007 all books and computer equipment necessary for tax collection will be turned over to the deputy clerk, Gail Andersen. Any remaining material will be returned to the township within 14 days."

Organizers of the recall said after the meeting that they held no ill will against Jason personally and commended her for resigning.

"I'm glad she did it. It saved her a lot of embarrassment and the whole township, as far as that goes," said Jim Karlskin, one of the recall organizers.

Gladys Guerci, another member of the recall committee, said, "It's unfortunate that it had to come to this but I think it's in the best interest of everyone, and I wish Debra the best of luck."

Armed robbery suspect requests thousands for experts

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

Danny Lee Russell

A man suspected of robbing a Family Video clerk at gunpoint in Charlevoix last August will be back in court at 1:30 p.m. on Friday, Jan. 19.

Danny Lee Russell, who has been charged with armed robbery, unlawful imprisonment, felony firearm, felon in possession of a firearm and carrying a weapon with unlawful intent, hopes the taxpayers will pay for three experts to investigate the case on his behalf.

According to court documents obtained by the Charlevoix Courier, homeless defendants are privy to, "Adequate investigation."

"Daniel Lee Russell is indigent and cannot afford to pay the costs of conducting an investigation. There are numerous witnesses that will need to be interviewed and there is not adequate time for defense counsel to do these interviews on his own," stated Russell's defense attorney, Michael J. Atchison in a Motion for Appointment of Investigator dated Jan. 9. "For these reasons, Danny Lee Russell asks that this court appoint Mark Elliott, at state expense, to assist counsel in preparing for trial and to authorize payment of his fees up to $2,000, which equals 50 hours of investigation at rate of $40 per hour, as well as provisions for interim billing."

The second request Atchison made was for Speckin Forensic Laboratories located in Okemos, who are experts on fingerprint identification.

"There is physical evidence in the form of small pieces of paper (believed to be checks taken from the complaining witness) from which fingerprint evidence may be obtained," Atchison wrote. "There is mention of a glove print taken from the crime scene which should be analyzed by a defense expert also."

He further stated, "The possibilities of mistaken identification and a wrongful conviction are ones that this court should seek to avoid, and an informed trier of fact regarding the problems with fingerprint identification testimony will help to guard against that danger."

Atchison's third request was for eyewitness identification expert, Dr. Solomon Fulero.

"There are several witnesses who gave partial descriptions of the alleged perpetrator in this case. The descriptions were based on observations made under a variety of difficult conditions and some of the descriptions changed during subsequent interviews with police," Atchison stated.

Russell's trial is scheduled for March 7, 8, 9, 14 and 15.

Ready to talk cool?

Cool Cities phone survey kicks off Jan. 23

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

Downtown Charlevoix — whether you love it or loathe it, now is the time to talk.

A group of 20 volunteers will conduct a random telephone survey between 7 and 9 p.m. on Jan. 23 to gather information for the Cool Cities Blueprints for Michigan's Downtowns market study.

Calls will be made across the downtown Charlevoix customer base which the Cool Cities Process Committee has defined as including Charlevoix, the Bay Harbor area, Beaver Island, Boyne City, East Jordan, Central Lake and Eastport.

"It's a wide area. That reflects the belief that a lot of customers do come from Antrim County and future growth may be south more so than north of here," Cool Cities coordinator, Keith Carey, said.

Carey said the goal of the phone interviews is to gather a sample of 100 respondents. These people will be asked to participate in a five to 10-minute interview.

"We are hoping folks will put some thought in and consider what they might say in advance," Carey said.

Questions to be asked include, "How often do you come to downtown Charlevoix? Why do you come to downtown Charlevoix? Where do you do most of your family shopping? What types of new businesses would you use?"

"We are looking for current perceptions and future suggestions that will help attract people to the downtown and create a more year-round experience downtown," Carey said.

Second homeowners will also be called on. Carey said the goal is to reach about 50 of these people. Some of the out-of-town contact information being used has been gleaned from condominium associations.

The focus of these phone surveys is similar to that of the business survey distributed in early December.

These two elements will be combined with information gleaned from focus group discussions on Jan. 30 and a Community Vision Session to take place on Jan. 31 at the Charlevoix Public Library to provide the critical community input portion of the Cool Cities study.

The Community Vision Session will take place from 7 to 8:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Jan. 31 and was described by Carey as "All about input."

Consultants with the firm, HyettPalma will be on-hand at the session to listen and facilitate. The consultants will then use the information from the business and phone surveys as well as from the focus groups and vision sessions to formulate the Cool Cities Blueprints for Michigan's Downtowns market study for Charlevoix and to develop a five-year economic enhancement action strategy.

Carey said he expects the group to formulate preliminary findings before they leave town on Feb. 1. However, the complete study, which will include recommendations as to what direction Charlevoix should move in to enhance its economic viability, will not be ready for three to four months.

"What direction that might be is anyone's guess at this point," Carey said.

For more information, call Carey at (231) 547-3270.

What's happening at the Library this week?

"A Land Conservationist in Kenya"
Calling all travel buffs for an exciting adventure to Africa on Tuesday, January 23 at 7 pm at the Charlevoix Public Library. Little Traverse Conservancy executive director Tom Bailey will share pictures and stories from his travels to Kenya, East Africa, in the spring of 2006. The trip involved work to protect natural land threatened by sprawling development near Nairobi, and visits to two of Kenya's premier wildlife areas. The photos illustrate a variety of wildlife, and a glimpse of the Masai culture, while the stories outline some of the similarities and the many differences between land conservation efforts in the US and Africa.

"Sleepy Time Stories Return"
Back by popular demand, the Charlevoix Public Library is hosting "Sleepytime Stories," an evening pajama story hour for children of all ages. Families can join the library staff for some quiet stories, songs and a craft at 7:00 p.m. on Tuesday, January 16th. Evening story hour at the library was developed because there are many working parents that do not have the opportunity for traditional story hour during the day, who requested more programs in the evening when they could attend. "Story hour is a wonderful family activity that helps bring children into the laps of their parents for a cuddly evening of fun," chimes Mrs. Hauke, Youth Services Librarian. So join in for a toasty, warm evening at the library.

Courier welcomes senior advice columnist

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

Mary Jane Cargill

While finances, relationships, mental health and sexuality may be taboo topics of discussion among many senior citizens, there is now a free source of help in the area for people who have questions.

Mary Jane Cargill will utilize her 30 years of experience as a psychologist to give advice in her new column "Hey Jane," scheduled to appear on the new senior page entitled "Just Golden" which will be published the third Wednesday of each month in the Charlevoix Courier.

While she specializes in issues facing seniors, Cargill said, "It's similar to a "Dear Abbey" format for anyone who wants advice."

Cargill practiced in Houston, Texas for nearly 30 years and is currently a school psychologist for the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District.

"Some of the serious (topics) are depression, alcoholism, marital dissatisfaction, parenting adult children, parenting grandchildren, the sexual life of elderly people, dealing with grief of losing a longtime partner," she said. "In my mind, I think about dealing with holes in your life after you retire. You had a job, relationships, family — now you're trying to fill that, so you volunteer, stay meaningful, yet at the end of the day still feel like there should be something more."

Cargill, who said there is a need for emotional help for the aging, hopes to educate people on how to overcome problems they face.

"Seniors need to be educated that, just because they're retired, does not mean they should give up on living," Cargill said. "But, many of them suspend manners (and) suspend reality on what's necessary for quality of life."

She added, "Sometimes husbands and wives need to look at each other and readjust the parameters of their life."

Cargill said the highest suicide rate in the nation is white men between 80 and 85 years of age.

"That all goes back to, 'Is this all there is?'" she said.

Geriatrics may be in its infancy, but the field is growing.

"Even in the last few years we have new geriatric medicine and rehabilitation," she said. "My generation didn't have models. My grandparents were dead and we did not watch our parents parent our grandparents. With the longer life span, younger people are aware of elderly people still part of the family and the affects of their well-being."

She added, "A reality facing our generation is medical technology provides for a longer life span now, but we'll learn how to do this."

Cargill said she is not licensed in Michigan as a psychologist because it would prevent her from giving advice in a column format and as a soon-to-be 65-year-old said she is well versed on senior issues.

An example of issues upon which Cargill has advised include a 70-year-old who angered his wife when he purchased viagra without first discussing the matter with her and a man unhappy that he had to retire to care for his aging parents.

"It is estimated that we will parent our own elderly parents as long as we did raising our own children," Cargill said. "There's that myth that you'll retire and run off and play golf everyday, but you still have family obligations — there has to be balance."

Cargill said people must face the realities of retirement.

"It's really, really great, but there's also a reconfiguring of emotional pitfalls in our society," she said. "Let's talk about relationships."

Cargill said a popular myth is that elderly people begin to lose their manners and stop taking care of themselves mentally and physically because it is a natural part of the aging process.

"They say, 'Oh, grandma is set in her ways,' but I think they're depressed and cut themselves off from the feedback loop of living and this is not quality of life," she said. "We talk about healthy reconnecting with family, educating yourself about growing older physically, being sensitive to what alcoholism looks like, what drug dependency looks like."

Cargill hopes her column will empower people to find answers to their concerns as they age.

"We cannot retire away from life," she said.

County names Ed Holm director of veterans' affairs

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

Ed Holm

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners unanimously approved the new Veterans' Affairs director during their Tuesday, Jan. 3 organizational meeting.

Vietnam veteran and Purple Heart recipient, Ed Holm, took over for former director, Bob Drebenstedt pending the outcome of Holm's background check and the finalization of some paperwork.

"I belong to all the (veterans') organizations and have helped Bob (Drebenstedt) in the past and I have been on the veterans' board. I've seen a lot of what takes place and (this job) needs somebody who believes in it, and I believe in it," Holm said. "I would be very happy to get the vets that need assistance what they've got coming to them."

He added, "I have seen an attitude that veterans just want something for nothing, but that's not true. They earned it by serving in the military and if something happens to them medically or whatever, they deserve it."

Aside from being highly decorated during wartime, Holm has been a maintenance supervisor at Big Rock Point nuclear power plant, worked for his father's auto sales company among other ventures.

Holm is married and has three grown children.

The Veterans' Affairs Director position is a part-time job.

"He'll hit the road running with funerals and paperwork to get them (veterans) into the VA medical system — they'll be coming in almost every time the door's open," Drebenstedt said. "He'll be working with those that might need some sort of financial support to get down to Detroit VA hospital or Ann Arbor VA hospital and just answer questions."

He added, "We have a whole lot of veterans in this county. Some are fortunate enough to go to warmer climates in the winter time, but most are right here and those veterans need help with their medicines and disabilities, and sometimes they're just lonely."

Drebenstedt said the Veterans' Affairs office is a safe haven for forgotten veterans.

"It's not in the job description, but the compassionate person like (Holm) has shown (his worth) by belonging to service organizations, picking veterans up and bringing them to this office and flipping pancakes at the American Legion pancake breakfast," he said.

Newly elected District Five County Commissioner, Drebenstedt, cannot hold an elected and a hired position with the county per state law, but Drebenstedt said, this would have been his final year as administrator regardless of the election results.

"Nine years I have worked at this (Veterans' Affairs) and this is a burnout job," he said. "You just get burned out seeing so many people that you get acquainted with pass on. You can't help but become good friends with the World War II vets, but then they pass on and that's more than I took into account."

He added, "Here I am an infantryman who should not be bothered with those things, but going to funerals just about every week is difficult."

Drebenstedt said he will continue to advocate for the proper treatment of veterans from his new post on the board of commissioners.

Hey Jane!

Jane

Hey Jane!

I feel my daughter is being a hypocrite. When her daughter wanted to live with a boyfriend during the last year of college everybody had a conniption. She and her husband are very committed in their church values and their position is that living together is sinful and that there should be no sexual relations unless the couple is married. I agree with those values particularly when it comes to me. I've been living in a retirement community and have met another love of my life and we want to get married. My daughter doesn't feel this is a good decision. She suggests that we should just live together because marriage at our age is too complicated. Why is marriage good for the young and not a good idea for seniors? I think she just wants to make sure he doesn't get my money. GF

Dear GF:

Senior remarriage can sometimes be hampered by unhappy kids who are simply concerned about the well-being of their parent. In your case you have not addressed exactly why your daughter feels marriage for you is complicated. Honestly, why is your daughter gun-shy of your trip down the aisle? In the past was your marriage (marriages) traumatic for her? How many marriages have you had? How many has he had? Now is the time for open and kindly exchange of concerns from both sides. Bring in professional help if your communications break down. By the way being in love doesn't mean you get stupid so take care of yourself in the accountant and lawyer department. Don't let this difference with your daughter get away from you.

Jane

Enlightened Elder

Sue Bergmann

Many people in Charlevoix County find themselves becoming caregivers to seniors or adults over 18 with a debilitating illness such as Alzheimer's or stroke.

The demands of 24-hour care giving are great and many need a break. Baby boomers in the sandwich generation find themselves caring for parents and children at the same time.

Charlevoix County Commission on Aging has in-home respite care available as well as out-of-home respite at the Adult Day Program, located in East Jordan in the lower level of the senior center. There is a registered nurse and certified nurse assistant trained in special care needs for adults, especially those with memory or cognitive problems, such as Alzheimer's.

The Adult Day Program staff assist with daily medical and personal care needs as well as providing a variety of stimulating activities designed to improve memory. There are nutritious meals offered at the East Jordan Senior Center. Activities such as community choir, music from volunteer musicians, bingo, games, puzzles, gardening, crafts and therapeutic exercise are designed to meet individual needs.

Some of the participants with memory loss hear a familiar tune or see a picture and memories return that were once forgotten. Artwork, crafts and puzzles that they have displayed on the walls bring a smile to their face when they remember making them.

Participants may participate in activities or will be given one-on-one attention by a registered nurse, certified nurse's aide or one of the many volunteers who contribute to the program. Volunteers are always welcome and this is an opportunity to care for others and offer their unique gifts and talents to enrich the lives and make a difference.

Participants who attend the Adult Day Program sometimes have improved memory, sleep better at night and have increased self-esteem and self-value. They are treated with dignity and respect and their independence is encouraged.

Caregivers also receive guidance and support by our Alzheimer/Caregiver Support Services and support groups. They are held from 1:30 to 3 p.m. on the third Tuesday of the month at the Commission on Aging office, located at 207 Antrim St. in Charlevoix. Brochures and informational visits by a registered nurse are also available through the Commission on Aging.

For more information about Charlevoix County's Adult Day Service, in-home respite or other services, call the Commission on Aging at (231) 237-0103.

Local share of marina project over budget

Phase three bids higher than expected

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

The last piece in Charlevoix's East Park and marina renovation construction puzzle is in place.

Bids were opened on Jan. 11 for the third phase of the project which was projected to cost about $7.2 million. Of the four bids submitted, the low bidder, Hallmark Construction of Traverse City, bid the project at $6,788,205.

"I'm happy with the (total project cost) number coming in at about $10 million. People have described this as a $11 or $12 million project. I think we're doing well," mayor for the City of Charlevoix, Norman Carlson Jr., said.

Farrington Construction, also a Traverse City business, was the second low bid entering an amount of $7,108,577.10. No Charlevoix construction groups bid the project.

Charlevoix City Council has not yet awarded Hallmark the bid. Approval of the phase three contract will first need to come from the state funding agency, the Waterways Commission, which is funding 75 percent of the project as it relates to the marina. The balance is being funded by the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority.

The city's total cost for all three phases of construction is $5.2 million — early estimates of the local share were $4.8 million. Carlson attributed the increase to price changes from three years ago when initial estimates were calculated, shifts in what the state will fund and design changes, including the addition of future infrastructure like sewer lines.

The bond request the city approved for $5.5 million gives the city $4.9 million after costs for bonding, to spend on the project.

City treasurer, Rick Brandi, said the funding equation hasn't been set in stone and there may be more funding available from the state to cover the $300,000 shortfall. If Waterways doesn't come through, the city has additional bonding capacity or they may look at an Act 99 loan.

If Hallmark has met the bid requirements Carlson said the "established, reputable business" will likely get the job. Hallmark has been in business for 29 years.

Phase three is expected to begin in late February with demolition of existing buildings that include the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce, the Odmark Pavilion commonly called the "bandshell," the portable bathroom trailer and the fish pond. This phase also includes construction of the new performance pavilion and harbormaster's facility as well as site work, landscaping and underground excavation.

While Hallmark will likely wear the general contractor's hat for the project, Denny Fedorinchik, owner of Hallmark Construction, said local subcontractors are expected to work on the project as well.

"We are looking forward to a nice project for the community," he said. "We've had an extensive hand in public work throughout northern Michigan. It (the Charlevoix project) should he a good fit. As far as we're concerned, it's a local contract."

Other recent public projects that Hallmark was involved in include the Clinch Park Marina in Traverse City which was completed in 2004, construction of the new Cherry Capitol Airport which wrapped in 2005, construction of the North Central Michigan College multi-purpose facility in 2004 and construction of the new Grand Traverse County Probate Court facility in 2006.

Bids were opened for phases one and two, the seawall replacement contract and new dock system contract, on Oct. 19 and came in around $3 million.

Molon Excavating Inc. of Traverse City was awarded the $1.6 million contract to replace the existing sea wall and Flotation Docking Systems Inc. of Cedarville won the $1.3 million contract to construct and install the new floating dock system.

The seawall replacement project, which is currently under-

Steel storage did not breach phase one marina contract

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

A bid war has been quieted by city attorney, Jim Young, who determined the City of Charlevoix's contract with Molon Excavating Inc. has not been breached.

After reviewing the city's $1.6 million marina contract with Molon, a Traverse City-based business, Young determined the contractor can store steel in East Park and at the foot of Clinton Street.

According to City of Charlevoix Street Superintendent, Pat Elliott, Molon attended the same pre-bid meeting and was given the same set of project specs and prints as all the other contractors who bid on the project.

"Everyone had the same set (of prints and specs). It was not stated that materials had to be brought by barge," Elliott said.

The issue arose in late December when steel to be used to rebuild the existing sea wall was delivered by 16 trucks, three weeks ahead of schedule. When Molon representatives asked city manager, Mike Wiesner, if the materials could be stored in East Park, his answer was, "Yes."

"I feel we made a logical decision that is supported by the documents they bid from," Elliott said. "My goal is to get this project done as efficiently and as cost effectively as we can and that's what I feel I did there. Now we've gotten into this predicament when we are in the early stages of an $11 million project that took five years to plan. We need to keep the ball rolling. Nothing was done illegally. The bid was fair."

Molon's competition brought this fairness issue to the table.

Ben Cunningham, owner of R.B. Lyons Inc., a local marine construction specialist, whose bid came in $105,000 higher than Molon's for the Charlevoix marina project, claims had he known on-site material storage was an option, he would have won the bid.

"As one of the bidders on the project, we and all the other contractors bidding the project, were told emphatically that there was to be absolutely no downtown storage of materials," Cunningham states in a letter dated Dec. 9 to city council and city administrators.

"We were told, as is shown on the plans, that the city had provided a storage area for materials, along the channel, by the fish hatchery."

In the plans, the site Cunningham referred to is marked and it reads, "Contractor may use this site on the south side of the channel for barge unloading/loading areas for steel sheet piling, fabricated steel and removed steel items from project site."

Cunningham claims materials were to be picked up by barge and brought to the job site. He calculated the cost of barge and tug rental, crew time and other transportation and man hours associated with material storage and retrieval at around $134,000.

"I don't understand why the contractor who was hired has been given concessions that we were not," Cunningham states.

Because it was decided that the contract language doesn't require steel to be stored elsewhere, the city will not pursue a deduct in its contract with Molon.

Al McDonald, the East Project foreman for Molon, said he wasn't given preferential treatment and his number one goal is to keep the project moving.

"I feel like everyone is seeing all this money they can grab from us. This is a long project. We have to work together for this project to get done on time. You can't have everything one way. You have to work with me on this too. It (storing the steel in the park) wasn't a wild request," McDonald told Charlevoix City Council early this month.

Second ward councilman, Gene Beer who initially took Cunningham's side said, "I think we need to just keep going. Anything to stall it at this point would be a mistake. I'm satisfied with the decision."

The Molon crew has been working in the park since late November. The full scope of their work will include removal of the 17 existing piers, which at the furthest point extend 75-feet into Round Lake, installation of new sheet pile running the length of park, 850-feet, and other miscellaneous work. Their targeted completion date is near the end of April 2007. Elliott said Molon is on schedule.

way, is called phase one. It will include removal of the 17 existing piers, which at the furthest point extend 75-feet into Round Lake, installation of new sheet pile running the length of the park, 850-feet, and other miscellaneous work. The targeted completion date for phase one is near the end of April 2007.

Installation of the new docks is referred to as phase two. It includes installation of a 67-slip floating dock system that extends 220-feet into Round Lake at the furthest point. The docks are being fabricated this winter and will be installed once ice conditions allow in the spring. Utilities are expected to be hooked up and operational near the end of June 2007.

Construction of phases one and two is expected to take about four-and-a-half months. The ultimate goal is to have the water side of the project complete by Memorial Day 2007.

Phase three will extend into the 2007 tourist season.

Snowmobile club ride-in Jan. 27 at Ferry Beach

BY BENJAMIN GOHS

File photo

From 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 27 at Ferry Beach; people in the area of any age may enjoy free hamburgers, bratwurst, chili, coffee and hot chocolate at the 2007 Charlevoix Snowmobile Club Snowmobile Ride-in.

While mother nature takes another whack at whitening the landscape, the Charlevoix Snowmobile Club plans activities.

A lack of snow forced the organization to cancel one of their biggest events of the year last year, but club president, Kevin Wright, said come hail or high water, the 2007 Snowmobile Ride-in will go on.

"Its location has moved down to Ferry Beach pavilion due to the new construction in East Park, but we're going to have it this year regardless (of the weather)," he said.

From 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 27, people in the area of any age may enjoy free hamburgers, bratwurst, chili, coffee and hot chocolate.

"We're also doing free giveaways," Wright said. "Local merchants donated stuff to give away as door prizes, so it should be a good afternoon, snow or not."

He added, "This is for anybody in Charlevoix interested in coming out for free barbecue — whether they have a snowmobile or not — they are welcome to come out and have lunch with us."

Club registration information will be available during the event.

"If you join the club, you're helping support the club and the endeavors that the club does," Wright said. "It costs money to put up trail signs in town and repair bridges and fences."

Wright said the financial support of members allows the club to maintain trail navigation aides on sites like Harbor Industries.

"In turn that keeps Harbor Industries happy because it keeps sleds from running all over the place," he said. "Other benefits are that you are out doing volunteer work and you are indirectly involved with a sport you enjoy. The benefits are twofold."

At 8:30 a.m. on Saturday, Jan. 20, snowmobile club members and non members will meet at the Flight Deck and Paul Bunyan Lanes before heading south for the club's annual Ride-Out.

"Our destination is currently unknown. It depends on how many show up and what the conditions are like," Wright said. "Last year we went to Lakes of the North (a restaurant/resort area) east of Mancelona."

He added, "If the conditions in Charlevoix are not (acceptable), but they are good in East Jordan, we'll trailer down to East Jordan, but we'll still meet at the Flight Deck. We're supposed to be getting a big storm (this week), so hopefully we'll have some snow."

For more information, call (231) 547-1901 or visit the club's Web site at www.chxsnowmobile.com.

Chamber of Commerce kicks off 2007 with 49th Annual Meeting and new board

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

This week, the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce will celebrate the contributions of key community players from 2006 and will officially welcome aboard 2007 board members.

During the chamber's 49th Annual Meeting and dinner on Jan. 18 at the Weathervane Restaurant, the 2006 Ambassador of the Year will be honored and recipients of the Chairman's Award and Outstanding Citizen Award will be named.

As the chamber ushers out 2006, board members will welcome 2007 with the passing of the torch to four new board members and three continuing members who will assume new seats.

New board members, installed on Jan. 1, are Chris Cuffaro, community president and finance manager of Citizens Bank, Dirk Cox, plant manager at St Marys Cement, Louis Hollow of Hollow and Associates and Chris Turkelson, an attorney with the law firm Hayes, Turkelson and Groat.

They join five returning board members, Tom Conlan, manager of the Belvedere Club and golf club, Jeff Spreeksell, manager of the Weathervane Restaurant, Jay Bingham, owner of Bingham Insurance Services, Patricia Blanchard, owner of Shop of the Gulls and Linda Bradley, operations manager at Charlevoix Manufacturing.

Outgoing members are former chairman, Jim Berlage, who owns the Bridge Street Book Shop, former vice-chair, Judy Friske-Kehr, director of retail for Friske Orchards and former treasurer, Ron Agnello, a local Certified Public Accountant.

Conlan, who is in his second year as a chamber board member, is replacing Berlage as chairman, Spreeksell has accepted the vice-chairman's position and Bingham will assume the treasurer's seat.

"This is a really good group with a lot of energy," said Conlan.

They will direct that energy to accomplishing several key initiatives in 2007.

Their work will kickoff this month with a performance evaluation survey mailed to existing chamber members.

"This will help us get new ideas and solve any existing problems," he said..

Conlan added that a key fac-

2006 chamber award recipients to be named on Jan. 18

CHAMBER

tor in Charlevoix's success is the cooperation of various local entities.

"The chamber, the DDA (Downtown Development Authority), the CVB (Convention and Visitors Bureau) and the city all have the same end goal and need to work together better. If I can accomplish that I'll feel like I've accomplished something," Conlan said.

In an effort to maintain current membership and to attract new members, the board has established a membership and ambassadors committee led by Bradley.

"The committee will serve as the customer service division of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce. It was created to help existing and new members identify existing resources to maximize their membership," Bradley said. "We hope to increase our membership by identifying potential members, contacting them about joining and showing them the benefits of being a member."

The group is also participating in the Cool Cities market study being directed by the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority and a program called Creating Entrepreneurial Communities. The latter of the two is being steered by Cuffaro and aims to assist members in creating business.

These new endeavors are joined by the continuation of the Farmer's Market, a carry-over from 2006.

Who: Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce
What: 49th Annual Meeting
When: 5:30 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 18
Where: Weathervane Restaurant, 106 Pine River Lane

Added to the chamber's full plate will be their move to their new location in the former post office on Mason Street.

Conlan said he expects the chamber office to move before the end of February.

"Its not quite as visible but it's a better facility with more space," he added.

For more information on Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce activities or the upcoming annual meeting, call (231) 547-2101 or visit www.charlevoix.org.

Rayder basketball post two key conference wins

BY ALLEN TELGENHOF
SPORTS WRITER

After losing their first game in the Lake Michigan Conference last week, Charlevoix got back to its winning ways, posting two conference wins — on the road over Boyne City, 72-58 and at home over Kalkaska, 82-65.

"I was real pleased with the Friday game (against Kalkaska)," coach, Keith Haske, said. "We gave a full effort for 32 minutes and avoided the third quarter lull we've had quite a bit this season."

Haske was less pleased with the win over Boyne City, where the Rayders led by just four in the fourth quarter before pulling away.

"I was disappointed after the game because we just weren't playing how we're capable of playing," Haske explained. "We had a week of soul searching and came out with a good performance against Kalkaska."

Charlevoix blew the Kalkaska game open with a 22-11 second quarter advantage, opening a 40-28 half-time lead. The Rayders led 59-44 after three periods.

Senior, Mitch Crandall, paced the Rayders with 20 points and seven rebounds. Sophomore, Justin Friske, scored a varsity career-high 17 points.

Corey Gotshall posted a double-double with 10 points and 10 rebounds. Senior, Trevor Mays, had seven points and nine rebounds.

Ty Haske handed out eight assists while Darren Munson contributed six rebounds and four steals.

At Boyne City, Charlevoix led by five, 14-9, after one quarter, and 33-27 at the half. The Ramblers cut the lead to only four at 48-44 headed into the final stanza.

Crandall led the Rayders with 19 points and four steals. Justin Friske had 10 points and 11 rebounds. Mays had nine points and six rebounds.

Gotshall also scored nine. Ty Haske had five assists and three steals.

Solid post play was a key to both wins, according to coach Haske.

"Justin Friske had two very good games," Haske noted. "Trevor Mays' play also really picked up this last week."

"Both of those guys raised their games. That's good because consistent inside play will help us down the road."

Charlevoix (7-1 overall, 4-1 conference) played at Elk Rapids on Tuesday, Jan. 16. Next week's Courier will have all the details on the outcome. The Rayders play at rival East Jordan on Friday, Jan. 19.

Senior, Mitch Crandall, scores two of his 20 points on a lay up in the first half of the Rayder Winterfest game against Kalkaska, Friday, Jan. 12. The Rayders claimed the Lake Michigan Conference win 82-65.

Wrestlers to host Take Down Tournament this Saturday, Jan. 20

The Rayder wrestlers traveled to Rogers City on Saturday, Jan. 13 to compete in a Super Dual Tournament.

Joining the Rayders were St. Ignace, Rogers City, Alpena, Oscoda, Newberry, Wittermoore Prescott and Onaway.

Zeke Daman

Zeke Daman and Mat Golovich each had four wins and one loss. Golovich won two of those matches with pins. Woody Nitchman won three of his five matches, one with a pin. Chris Levens was three for five, with two pins. Nate Tripplehorn won three for five, two with pins. Trevor Cole won two of five, one with a pin. Zach Smith and JD Speigl each won a match.

On Thursday, Jan. 11, the Rayders traveled to Grayling for dual meets with Grayling and Bay City. Against Grayling, Zeke Daman won his match in overtime, 3 to 1, and Mat Golovich won his match with a pin. The Rayders fell to Grayling 15-54. Against Bay City, Daman and Golovich succeeded again, this time both of them pinning their opponents in 1:18 and 4:30, respectively. The Rayders lost to Bay City, 12-60.

The Rayder wrestling team will compete at home this week, with a dual meet against Boyne City and Mio, starting at 6 p.m. on Thursday, Jan. 18. Starting at 10 a.m. on Saturday, Jan. 20 the Rayders will host the annual Take Down Tournament.

Rayder volleyball team deliver two big wins

Charlevoix got 13 kills from Bethany Pearson Thursday, Jan. 11 in topping Boyne City, 25-18, 25-14, 18-25, 25-22, in a Lake Michigan Conference volleyball match.

The victory lifted Charlevoix's league record to 4-0, while Boyne City slipped to 3-1. The Rayders are 15-6 overall.

"Our top hitter, Ashlie Bradley, sprained her ankle in warm-ups," Charlevoix coach, Liz Grunch, said. "She didn't play, but the team stepped up and this was a great win."

"Charlevoix came mentally ready to play and we did not," Boyne City coach, Casie Parker, said. "We had opportunities to win and we didn't capitalize. We definitely took a step backwards tonight. Hopefully we'll get things changed around before Monday."

In addition to her 13 kills, Pearson had seven blocks. Also for the Rayders, Sasha Spencley had 12 kills, 12 digs and three aces; Aubrey Way had 17 assists, 15 digs and four kills; Desi Faust had 11 kills; Zita Anderson had 14 assists and 12 digs; Murphy Gillespie had eight kills; Emily Heffling had 11 digs and passed at 93 percent.

For Boyne City, 13-7-1, Jessica Nichols had nine kills, 12 digs; Lindsay Baie had seven kills and 14 digs; Caitlyn Wonski had six kills; Lindsay Clemens had 28 assists; and Stacey Spaniak added 11 digs.

Charlevoix won the JV match, 20-25, 25-20, 26-24. For Charlevoix, Shauna Spencley had six kills, two aces, two blocks, four digs and two assists; Lauren Mielke had four kills and five aces; Sarah Potter had four kills and three aces; and Tammy Potter had three kills and four assists.

The Boyne City win followed a Jan. 8 Rayder sweep.

Spencley had 18 kills and Bradley added 17 Monday, Jan. 8 as Charlevoix did not drop a game in beating both Harbor Springs and Grayling in a pair of Lake Michigan Conference volleyball matches.

The Rayders downed Grayling, 25-4, 25-13, 25-17; and the Rams, 25-8, 25-17, 25-18.

Pearson added 12 kills for the Rayders, while Emily Heffling had 49 digs, five aces and finished 97 percent in serve reception.

Also for the Rayders, Spencley had 32 digs, five blocks; Bradley had 22 digs, six aces; Pearson had six blocks; Way had 17 assists, 15 digs; Anderson had 11 digs and 22 assists; and Gillespie added four blocks.

The Charlevoix-East Jordan boys, who finished 10th, were led by Mac Brennan (above), who was 16th in GS and 20th in slalom.

It was only fitting Mother Nature decided to cooperate Tuesday, Jan. 9 at the annual Petoskey-Harbor Ski Invitational at Boyne Highlands.

Looking and feeling more like winter, 14 teams took to the slopes in the annual event, which saw a pair of defending Class A state champions display the form that earned them titles last February.

The Charlevoix-East Jordan boys, who finished 10th, were led by Mac Brennan, who was 16th in GS and 20th in slalom. Behind him were teammates Tanner Fisher, 29th in slalom; and Nic Williams, 36th in GS.

Liz Hasseld paced the Charlevoix-East Jordan girls, who also placed 10th, as she was 17th in slalom. Teammate Mary Gocha was 29th in slalom.

Defending Class B-C-D GS state champion, Katherine Rowley, was second in GS following her first run but fell in her second run and did not finish. Rowley also was a DNF in slalom.

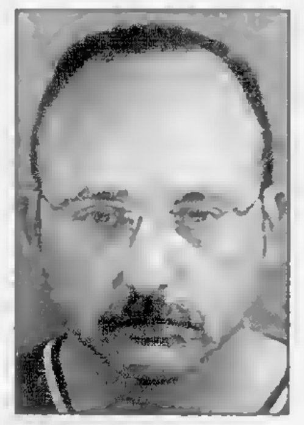
VanMeter takes plea deal, resigns as deputy

BY STEVE ZUCKER
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW STAFF WRITER



Brian VanMeter

"(The agreement) provided certainty that (VanMeter) will not be reinstated."

Charles Koop
ANTRIM COUNTY PROSECUTING ATTORNEY

The special prosecutor appointed to handle an assault case involving a now ex-Charlevoix County Sheriff's deputy and the former deputy's attorney say a host of factors played into a last-minute plea-agreement that prevented the case from going to trial on Jan. 8.

Brian VanMeter, 42, of Charlevoix had been slated to face a one-day jury trial in 90th District Court on Jan. 8 on misdemeanor charges of reckless driving and assault and battery. But on Friday, Jan. 5, VanMeter pleaded responsible to a civil infraction of careless driving in exchange for which the other charges were dropped. He was sentenced to pay $200 in fines and costs.

VanMeter was employed as a deputy with the Charlevoix County Sheriff's office at the time of the Oct. 5 incident that led to the charges. Although VanMeter was not on duty at the time of the incident, county sheriff George T. Lasater placed VanMeter on unpaid suspension a short time after.

Both attorneys in the case said the deal also included an agreement on VanMeter's part to resign from his position effective at 5 p.m. Monday, Jan. 8 and an agreement that he would not sue the sheriff's office or the county over the ending of his employment. For his part, Lasater agreed to pay VanMeter for the time while he was on suspension and to provide him with a letter confirming his time of employment with the sheriff's office and the fact that he resigned, the attorneys said.

The case was prosecuted by Antrim County prosecuting attorney, Charles Koop, who was appointed to handle the case by the state attorney general's office at the request of Charlevoix County prosecuting attorney, John Jarema.

Koop said a call from the victim saying he didn't want to proceed with the case was one factor that played into the plea deal. Another factor, Koop said, was that the agreement "provided certainty that (VanMeter) will not be reinstated (to his deputy position)."

Koop explained that the move to allow for VanMeter to receive his back pay was done to prevent the county from the hassle and expense of arbitration.

"In my experience, if the sheriff had fired him, you'd be looking at three months of arbitration. With the attorney's fees, it would far exceed the cost of just paying him," Koop said.

VanMeter's attorney, Mary Beth Kur, said her client took the plea deal, because he felt it was in his and his children's best interest, given the risks involved in going to trial.

"From the beginning (VanMeter) has maintained his innocence in all criminal charges," Kur said. "His acceptance of the plea illustrates that. If anything, this incident amounts to a simple traffic matter."

"When he balanced all the risks of going to trial against a traffic ticket and a $200 fine and not having to put his kids through the publicity surrounding the trial, the choice was pretty clear," Kur added.

The charges stem from an incident that took place in and south of Charlevoix early Oct. 5 between VanMeter and his estranged wife's boyfriend, Brad Sanderson. According to police reports and earlier testimony, VanMeter allegedly confronted Sanderson shortly after he had left the VanMeter home.

Sanderson said VanMeter threatened him and then followed Sanderson as he drove back toward Charlevoix. Sanderson said VanMeter drove aggressively, following very closely at times and eventually forcing him to stop near the intersection of U.S. 31 and M-66. Sanderson said VanMeter got out of his car and, after attempting unsuccessfully to make Sanderson get out of his car — ostensibly intending to fight with him — VanMeter fled the scene.

VanMeter was originally charged with a felony count of assault with a dangerous weapon (the car). But a judge threw that charge out following a preliminary examination in November. The judge found that there was not enough evidence showing that VanMeter had the "specific intent" to use his vehicle to put the alleged victim in fear of immediate harm to warrant sending the matter to circuit court.

NRC releases Big Rock property for unrestricted use

Last week, Consumers Energy's Big Rock Point Restoration Project received approval from the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) to release the majority of the former nuclear plant property for unrestricted use.

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission's action confirms that the site meets all regulatory requirements and allows any type of use — from parks to playgrounds to housing — on the property.

The release applies to approximately 435 acres and 1.5 miles of Lake Michigan shoreline. The property is a mixture of shoreline, mature hardwoods and wetlands and contains Pitcher's thistle, Dwarf Lake iris, Houghton goldenrod and Lake Huron tansy, all listed as protected plants. Activities associated with the operation of Big Rock Point Nuclear Plant actually encompassed less than 20 acres of the property.

"Our goal was to ensure that the property was well below the very strict standards established by regulations," said Big Rock Point site general manager, Kurt Haas. "We are very pleased with the results of our work. This beautiful piece of property is ready to be enjoyed by those who come after us."

Site decommissioning and restoration began immediately after the plant was closed for economic reasons in 1997. Restoration activities included extensive air, water and soil surveys over the entire property and physical demolition and disposal of all plant equipment, buildings and foundations.

The Big Rock Point decommissioning effort has been cited as a model for other decommissioning projects and plant personnel have hosted visitors from around the nation and world to share information. In December 2006, Nuclear Regulatory Commissioners, Jeffrey Merrifield and Ed McGaffigan Jr., both publicly praised the site's decommissioning and restoration work.

The plant's dry fuel storage facility remains under Nuclear Regulatory Commission jurisdiction and is located on a separate parcel from the 435 acres released for unrestricted use.

Big Rock Point was the nation's fifth and Michigan's first commercial nuclear plant. It began operation in 1962 and was the nation's longest running nuclear power plant when it closed in 1997.

Big Rock Point was named a Nuclear Historic Landmark by the American Nuclear Society for its many contributions to the nuclear and medical communities. The State of Michigan recently approved a State Historical Plaque commemorating the site for its nuclear and medical achievements and the historical and cultural significance of the property to the Little Traverse Bay Band of Odawa Indians.

Consumers Energy, the principal subsidiary of CMS Energy Corporation (NYSE:CMS), provides natural gas and electricity to 6.5 million of the state's nearly 10 million residents in all 68 Lower Peninsula counties.

Couple reopen restaurant following tax fraud conviction

a U.S. citizen."

When Dong's lawyer filed an appeal on his case, Dong's deportation proceedings were paused.

"They (the immigration court) agreed to reopen his case which essentially means his legal status is intact until court proceedings are completed," he said. "Dong's (status) includes pretty much all rights as U.S. citizens with a couple distinctions — he can't vote and cannot get certain government jobs."

Jarema's Chief Assistant Prosecutor, Shaynee Fanara, who has received questions about the restaurant's operation from at least two people, was dumbstruck by the ordeal.

"It was my understanding from immigration that they would be deported — especially Yong Dong who had deportation orders from 1998 — and that's why we fast-tracked them," Fanara said. "I'm not only surprised, but also extremely disappointed that they're right back doing business and seem to not be in the custody of immigration anymore."

The fast track process for Dong and his wife included waiving their preliminary examination, accepting a plea deal which lessened the original charges of eight felonies and two misdemeanors involving alleged money laundering, embezzlement and tax fraud before being arraigned and sentenced on Tuesday, Aug. 22, 2006.

Racketeering consists of conducting a criminal enterprise usually in order to make money.

Fanara said the couple pocketed profit from cash sales and failed to claim withholding tax on employees and should not be allowed in the country.

But, Counts said, "He (Dong) has been placed in what is commonly referred to as deportation proceedings, but like everyone, he has the right to due process. His case has been reopened in the immigration courts, and while the process is ongoing, people are often released on their own recognizance and bond."

Dong will likely go before the Executive Office of Immigration Review. If the deportation orders are upheld there, Dong may once again appeal with the Board of Immigration Appeals. If the deportation orders were upheld there, Dong could appeal to the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals.

"It can be weeks, maybe months sometimes — they can go for years, but typically are concluded in weeks or months," Counts said.

Dong, who speaks Mandarin Chinese, declined an interview citing the language barrier and lack of an interpreter.

Sentencing for those involved in alleged misconduct at China 1 stores located throughout northern Michigan will take place at 9 a.m. on Friday, Jan. 19 in Charlevoix County 33rd Circuit Court.

According to Fanara, the list of those to be sentenced includes: Traverse City China 1 owner, Wen Bing Wang, Cheboygan China 1 owner, Cui Min Chen, and Gaylord China 1 vice-president, Fa Yang and president, Zhen X. Chen.

Crooked Tree Arts Center opens new Motion & Color display

Crooked Tree Arts Center is hosting Motion & Color, a display of the provocative abstract work by Kate Roesch and the elegant positioning of dancers in bronze by Norma Penchansky-Glasser.

Both artists reside in Ann Arbor and are represented by the Washington Street Gallery.

Roesch completed undergraduate studies at the University of Kansas and came to Ann Arbor to get her master's degree from the University of Michigan in nursing. Later, Roesch returned to school and earned a bachelor of fine arts and a master of fine arts degree from Eastern Michigan University. Roesch is highly recognized for her work in abstract painting as well as her monotype prints. Roesch once described art for her "is like walking in a landscape that is familiar and hidden."

Also represented will be the bronze work of Norma Penchansky-Glasser who in addition studied at Eastern Michigan University where she received a master of fine arts degree. Glasser's work is represented all across the United States with commissions in Arizona, Indiana and Oklahoma. In 1996, she had a solo exhibition at the Dennos Museum in Traverse City. Glasser taught at the Ann Arbor Art Center for 20 years. Most of Glasser's work suggests the spirit of dance and movement.

"I believe the power of the figures gives my work its signature," she said.

Motion & Color will be on display from Jan. 13 through March 3.

For more information, visit the Crooked Tree Arts Center at 461 East Mitchell St. in Petoskey or call (231) 347-4337.

If it hadn't been for the screeching of her cat, "Missy," (pictured above) Juanita Gerbracht (left) may have been killed in a house fire that Charlevoix Township fire chief, Curt Thompson said was caused by a Cozy Max heating blanket of the same make and model as the one shown. The blanket was a Christmas gift for her son, Jason Price (right). There are no existing recalls for this blanket.

Fearless feline saves local woman

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

An attempt to curb Old Man Winter's chill almost cost a Charlevoix woman her life.

If it hadn't been for the screeching of her cat, "Missy," Juanita Gerbracht, may have been killed in a house fire that Charlevoix Township fire chief, Curt Thompson said was caused by a Cozy Max heating blanket she bought for her son, Jason Price, for Christmas.

Gerbracht was awakened at around 4:30 a.m. on Jan. 13 by Missy. She opened her eyes, began coughing and quickly realized thick smoke was hanging over her bed. She dropped to the floor and crawled toward the light switch. Flipping on the lights did nothing — she couldn't see through the smoke plume that filled her double wide mobile home in Charlevoix Estates.

She opened the windows, grabbed her cats and dog, ran to her car, called 9-1-1 and reported the fire.

Smoke detectors installed in the home did not go off, but according to Gerbracht, the batteries were recently changed and the detectors were tested.

The Charlevoix Township Fire Department responded.

According to Thompson, when his crew arrived the smoke was light — most of it had filtered through the open windows. But a distinct burning smell lingered. A thermal imaging camera was used to uncover a hot spot on Price's twin size bed.

"Fortunately no one was sleeping there that night. It was unusual. We removed the blanket and found a molten mass about 18 inches in diameter of what was left of a melted electric blanket," he said. "It burned a hole right through the sheet and mattress."

Thompson removed the cord which was undamaged.

State's budget woes spell disaster for schools

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

Helpless school officials continue to wonder how much funding they may lose when the governor unveils her plan to deal with the state's $850 million deficit on Feb. 8.

"We're watching and waiting to see what the number really will be, but we probably will not know until March, so we're really probably going to be focusing on the '07-'08 budget for our district," said Shawn Biddle, Charlevoix Public Schools business manager.

"I've heard different numbers (from $60 per pupil to $224) which makes it very difficult for schools to know really how they're going to end up at the end of the fiscal year."

Michigan's overall projected budget will be short by nearly $3 billion in the next couple years, forcing cuts to law enforcement, corrections, education, emergency services and the arts among others. This and next year's budgets will see the largest decrease in revenue from the elimination of the Single Business Tax, a cost of nearly $2 billion, according to a press release from Governor Jennifer Granholm's office.

Fire officials respond to electric blanket emergency

FIRE

"I think what actually happened was within the coils itself," he said.

Thompson credits the lack of flames to fire retardent bedding.

"Fortunately, most bedding manufacturers now meet flammability controls," he said.

Gerhracht said she ordered both of her boys, Price, 15 and Matthew Gerbracht, 18, the blankets through a catalog.

"Thank goodness both my boys were not here," she said.

Brady's Carpet Cleaning Inc. was brought in to remove the smoke damage from the home. Gerbracht spent the three-day cleanup time at a local motel.

Thompson said this was the first time in his over 30 years as a firefighter that he's responded to an incident related to an electric blanket but it wasn't the first time a homeowner's pet was also their hero.

"Animals are sometimes smarter than we are," he said.

Gerbracht said she's thankful Missy woke her up and she walked away from the incident. But the road to a full emotional recovery will be bumpy.

"I'm not sleeping very well, but I still have a home. It could have been three times worse — I guess it's just not my time to go," she said.

Gerbracht said an investigator with her insurance provider picked up the remains of the blanket and is handling her claim.

According to John Drengenberg, manager of consumer affairs, for Underwriters Laboratory, there are no existing recalls on Cozy Max blankets.

Safety tips

- Use electric blankets that have been approved by testing agencies like Underwriters Laboratories, Inc. (UL).
- Replace all electric blankets that are more than 10 years old.
- Turn your electric blanket off when not in use.
- Do not plug your heating blanket into an outlet that is controlled by a light switch.
- Do not tuck heating blankets underneath mattresses or other items.
- Never ball up a heating blanket and leave it on.
- Do not wash a heating blanket.
- Turn your heating blanket off before you go to sleep.

An electric blanket made by the same manufacturer as this Cozy Max blanket was found melted at a recent house fire in Charlevoix Estates.

Fast facts

Cozy Max blankets are manufactured by Bilt Safe Technologies.

No federal recall of Cozy Max electric blankets has been filed.

Cozy Max electric blankets are Underwriters Laboratory (UL) listed which means they are tested for safety.

UL will initiate a field report investigation into the local Cozy Max blanket incident to see if it's an isolated problem or if there is a larger issue that needs to be addressed.

More electric blankets are used in the southern U.S. than northern.

Consumers can file complaints with UL at www.ul.com.

Information on recent recalls can be obtained from the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission at www.cpsc.gov.

Lessons learned in Mabee retail 101

JUST A THOUGHT

Julie Witthoeft

There is a huge group of Charlevoix residents and seasonals who are part of an unofficial, yet elite club — graduates of Mabee retail 101.

While my time in Mabee retail is limited to two summers in my teens — one spent hawking floral apparel at Bloomin' Wear and the second at Kids' Wear, both of which have since been discontinued — my experience helped shape my understanding of quality customer service. Their not-so-secret recipe for success is to offer products of value supported by knowledgeable staff.

The Mabee retail curriculum started with Jim Mabee Sr. who now lives comfortably retired in a home overlooking Lake Michigan in Norwood.

He and his wife, Sue, moved their family to Charlevoix in 1974 from Waterford where he and his brother, the late Richard Mabee, were partners in Jumpin' Jeans where denims sold for $5 a pair during the "jean craze."

Jim Sr., whose retail career started at J.C. Hudson's in Detroit, said he wanted to get out of the city. So, together they moved their four children, Jim Jr., Jacqueline, Judy and Sue to "Charlevoix the beautiful."

Waterford's loss proved to be Charlevoix's gain.

Jim Sr. and his wife Sue established a chain of clothing stores that operated under the umbrella of Harbor Wear. Their first store, The Clothing Company began in the Market Mall where they functioned for three years before moving to its current location at the corner of Mason and Bridge streets.

While Jim Sr. and Sue retired in 1997, their legacy lives on with over 30 stores individually owned in operation in Michigan, Wisconsin, Maine and Florida. The majority are ran by former employees, friends and family members employing a total of over 90 people.

The growth of the operation is something any self-made business owner would be proud of. But Jim Sr. and Sue have earned something more valuable than the worth of all the stores — their four children, carry the torch by owning and operating two Harbor Wear stores each. Judith (Mabee) Hitz owns stores in Petoskey and Harbor Springs. Their daughter, Sue Mabee, owns Bay Wear stores in Frankfort and Suttons Bay. Jim Jr. owns stores in Mackinaw City and Florida. And Jacqueline and her husband, Kirby Dipert keep the Charlevoix flame lit at the Clothing Company, Charlevoix Wear and Color Wear.

All four children started out, like their father, working at the jeans stores down state.

Jim Sr. said as a child, independent-minded Jacqueline was the most resistant to joining the family business and even worked at other Charlevoix stores during her college years.

But her accounting studies at Western Michigan University coupled with her genetics lead her down the same path her parents helped pave. In 1997, she purchased The Clothing Company from them and has since maintained its status as a community anchor store.

She and Kirby Dipert have also continued the Mabee legacy of community service.

Jim Sr. and Sue were key players in the Bridge Street streetside tree planting effort and establishment of Charlevoix's signature Apple Festival.

Charlevoix retail moguls, Kirby Dipert, Jim Mabee Sr., Jacqueline (Mabee) Dipert and Sue Mabee, pose for a picture after the Diperts received the Ambassador's Award at the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce Annual meeting on Jan. 18 at the Weathervane. The Mabee family has established a local retail legacy. See related story on page 18.

The Diperts are active volunteers with Charlevoix Public Schools and are past members of the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors.

Kirby is a member of the Downtown Development Authority, a group Jim Sr. helped establish, the Cool Cities Process Committee, the Rotary Club and is chairman of the annual Chamber Car Raffle.

Jacqueline is a member of the board of directors at Charlevoix State Bank and the Retail Committee of the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce.

There were plenty of teary eyes at last Thursday's 49th Annual Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce meeting when Jacqueline and Kirby Dipert were given the Ambassador of the Year award. Two of their three daughters, Annie and Jill walked out with Sue and Jim Sr. to congratulate their parents.

I would bet, 20 years from now, these two will be standing behind the counter at Clothing Company continuing their grandfather's rich tradition.

The Mabee investment in this community is something that should be recognized and valued. As nationwide we move toward a Big Box mentality this type of mom and pop legacy is a rare treasure. I am blessed to have had an opportunity to work under Jacqueline and Kirby Dipert and Charlevoix is lucky to have them.

Congratulations to the Mabee-Dipert family on decades of retail success.

CITIZENS GROUP FIGHTS LIMESTONE QUARRY IN COURT

Editor:

This is the third communication being sent by the Norwood Township Citizens for Health and Safety (NTCHS) to keep people informed about the attempt to establish a new limestone quarry in our township.

On Nov. 30 we alerted you to the Department of Environmental Quality hearing that was held on Dec. 7 at the Charlevoix County Sheriff's facility. Thank you to the 30 citizens of our community who braved the awful snowstorm to testify. Also thank you to the many that submitted written testimony prior to the mid-December cutoff date and to those who have written to the Norwood Township Citizens for Health and Safety at P.O. Box 312, Charlevoix, MI 49720. There has not been a decision issued as yet from that hearing.

There will now be a legal hearing held at 11 a.m. on Jan. 29 in Charlevoix Circuit Court. The Norwood Township Citizens for

Health and Safety have been compelled to sue Norwood Township and Norwood Limestone Quarry, LLC developers Wayne and Micheline Wynkoop in an attempt to stop the huge limestone quarry which is being established on the margin of the historic Village of Norwood. The hearing will be conducted by visiting Judge Thomas Power of Grand Traverse County. At the hearing, our citizens' group will oppose the decision by the Norwood Township Zoning Board to permit this industrial operation to be established in an agricultural district of the township.

We oppose the quarry for many reasons including its potential to produce noise, air and water pollution and heavy truck traffic for which township and county citizens will bear the cost of road maintenance. We believe this quarry is a threat to the health and safety of our citizens, farm animals and a threat to our cultural and natural resources. Why, you might ask, is this project of concern to citizens who live in other areas of the county and northern Michigan?

First, the limestone quarry development should be an affront to all those who believe in fair and open government. The developer, Wayne Wynkoop, is also the supervisor of Norwood Township and during the past year he has both nominated and voted for appointments to the township boards and commissions.

These very people have and potentially will continue to rule on aspects of his quarry operation. We consider these actions contrary to the code of ethical conduct required of township officials. At the very least, it gives the appearance of impropriety.

It also seems to us that the Wynkoops have run roughshod over our township ordinance. Our ordinance does not permit limestone mining or quarrying in an agricultural zone. Our ordinances do however require a permit to build private roads to burn; to remove topsoil from the township; and to remove buildings.

Besides the major challenges to good government, neighbors of the Wynkoops contend that the actions of creating and working the quarry will cause irreparable harm to cultural and natural resources. Many of these resources including Whiskey Creek, Lake Michigan and the wetlands of Fisherman's Island State Park are in public ownership.

The quarry area is also adjacent to over 700 acres of private land that has either been deeded to the land conservancy, given to wetland reclamation, is being actively farmed or has purposefully been left fallow by owners.

In 2005 the citizens of Norwood Township responded to a questionnaire concerning the hopes for the future. Like many citizens of northern Michigan, they overwhelmingly hope to raise their children and grandchildren in a clean, quiet and rural environment. The proposed quarry would thwart these fondest hopes.

THANK YOU WELL-WISHERS

Editor:

I would like to express my sincere gratitude to those of you who have helped me and my family throughout my illness. Your cards, prayers, meals, gifts and kind wishes have all warmed my heart and played a major role in my recovery. I feel so blessed to be a part of this community, who has so readily rushed to my side. You have helped in many ways, and for that, I thank you.

Overall, I'm feeling well. My spirits are high and I am continuing to fight through this. They say having a positive attitude is half the battle, so I focus on being optimistic and am taking it all one day at a time. The support and love I have received from everyone has made that task even easier.

I wish you all health and happiness for the new year.

Thank you again.

CHRISTMAS PROJECT SUPPORTERS MAKE SEASON BRIGHT

Editor:

I would like to thank the members of our local community Christmas programs including Monica Crawford, Kathy Reid, Rosemary Horton, Ardith Hawley, Ruth Witenski, Bev Boss, Mary Helen Riggle, Deb Gelderblom, Arlene Staley, Kay Woehlert, Kay Smith, Mary Eveleigh, as well as the many other behind the scene helpers for making this such a successful year.

A big thank you to Connie Boyle from Beaver Island that always supplies us with wonderful gifts. Captain Rob DeGeorge and Roman Hank of the Salvation Army who help numerous families in Charlevoix and Emmet counties. I would also like to extend a big thank you to Lois Gilbert for her coordination of the distribution of names and donors for the Department of Human Services. We couldn't have completed this enormous task without the tremendous efforts of Jerry Walker, Russ Bolt, Bob Nolan and Charlie Butcher with the Marine Corps Toys for Tots. They work year-round gathering toys and needed items to provide a happy Christmas for children in our communities.

I would also like to thank the many individuals, businesses and school classrooms who donated items or took entire families and shared their Christmas spirit to make a brighter Christmas for those in need. Without you it would be impossible to provide for so many families. Thank you to the groups and individuals who also donated money to our agency to help those in need now and throughout the year.

The Coats for Kids drive this year was very successful. What generous communities we live in. We received over 350 coats, brand new as well as gently used ones, snow pants, mittens, gloves, hats and scarves. These items have been distributed throughout Charlevoix and Emmet counties. We still have coats available in our office for those that need them. Thank you to all who have donated.

Times are difficult for many and with the continued generosity, care and concern of giving individuals such as yourselves it makes life easier for many.

ENGAGEMENT

Hall — Ramsey

Bethenie Lynn Hall and Bradley Steven Ramsey are announcing their engagement. The couple is planning a June 22 wedding at Skinner Lake of Charlevoix.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Michael and Leannie Hall of Elmira and Edie and Dave Bierschbach of Charlevoix. Bethenie is a 2002 graduate of Charlevoix High School and is a graduate of early childhood education in 2006 from North Central Michigan College. She plans to graduate in July 2007 with a bachelor's degree in business administration from the American InterContinental University online.

The groom-to-be is the son of Marge and Gary Ramsey of Charlevoix. He is a 2002 graduate of Charlevoix High School. He attended the M-Tech Center in Traverse City for carpentry.

Sam Balasz

Congressman Bart Stupak (D-Menominee) has selected Sam Balasz of Charlevoix to be a Congressional Page for the U.S. House of Representatives for the 2007 spring semester.

As a Congressional Page, Balasz will be employed by the U.S. House of Representatives for a semester while also continuing his high school studies in Washington, DC.

"Sam has an impressive record of achievement and he will benefit a great deal from this unique opportunity to see the legislative process up close," Stupak said. "While a number of extraordinary young people from across northern Michigan applied for the position and it was difficult to select just one, I believe Sam to be a smart, motivated young man who will bring a lot to the Page program."

Sam, the son of Charlevoix residents Kris and Jay Balasz, is currently in his junior year at Charlevoix High School where he has been active in school athletics, lettering in cross-country and playing both basketball and baseball. Last year, Balasz attended a mission trip to Cameroon Africa where he assisted his father, who is a dentist, in providing dental care to the local population.

Balasz said that his recent appointment as a Page has stirred in him a new interest in politics.

"Before being accepted into the Page program I was pretty much focused on a career in health care," said Balasz. "Since being accepted to the Page program, I have broadened my interests and follow politics much more closely."

"Sam really has taken an interest in Washington and the legislative process," his mother, Kris, added. "These days I often find him watching C-Span."

Through the House Page Program, high school juniors spend a semester studying in Washington and working for the House. Balasz will leave Charlevoix for Washington this month to join the spring page program. The spring term begins Jan. 28 and ends on Friday, June 8. Congressional Pages receive a stipend for their work and continue their high school studies during the program. Pages have served the House for more than 200 years.

"The Page program is an amazing opportunity for a young person to see how the House of Representatives works day in and day out," Stupak said. "I know Sam will represent northern Michigan well and benefit tremendously from this experience."

St. Mary School to host book fair Jan. 27-Feb. 4

St. Mary School will host a Scholastic Book Fair beginning on Saturday, Jan. 27 and running through Sunday, Feb. 4.

The book fair will be open from 6 to 8 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 27 and will be open after each Mass on Saturday and Sunday through Feb. 4. The book fair will also be from 3:15 to 4:15 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

The fair will offer specially priced books and educational products, including new releases, award-winning titles, children's classics, interactive software, adult books and current bestsellers from more than 150 publishers.

Attendees can help the school build classroom libraries by purchasing books for teachers through the Classroom Wish List and One for Books activities.

From 6 to 8 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 27, St. Mary School will host a spaghetti dinner to kickoff and celebrate Catholic Schools Week.

The school children will invite a special person to lunch on Tuesday, Jan. 30 and visit the Book Fair afterwards.

St. Mary School is located at 1005 Bridge St., in Charlevoix. For more information, call (231) 547-9441.

ADVERTISE IN THE CLASSIFIEDS!

What's happening at the Library this week?

"The Charlevoix Public Library is technological savvy"

The Charlevoix Public Library's Coeling Computer Lab is buzzing with activity. The lab, named for long time library supporter and trustee, Ethel Coeling, is an ideal spot for teaching computer classes. It houses ten computers and a teacher station which projects images onto a screen. The lab is open every afternoon for patrons to utilize the computers for homework, internet surfing, and other applications, but is closed to the public while classes are held. As stated in the Library's Strategic Plan, "all patron's will have free access to computer literacy education." The Library Board of Trustees is taking their plan to heart offering many different opportunities for learning about computers and their many applications. The library staff has a two pronged approach, "to meet the objective of our strategic plan, we are offering free basic computer skills classes, and then work with the college to offer more advanced computer classes with professional computer teachers," stated adult services librarian, Linda Adams.

The Computer Basics course is a three part program to help the novice learn the basics. The class starts at the absolute beginning: computer parts and terminology, driving a mouse, and using the Internet. Although the January course is filled, Mrs. Adams will be offering another session in March. This class is free, but registration is required, call the adult services desk @ 237-7340. The Library is also offering Computer Tidbits, which are short demonstrations of different computer applications. Computer Tidbits meet Wednesdays at 1:00 pm in the computer lab. This program is also free and walk-ins are welcome. The topics of interest include: February 7- Internet tricks, February 14- online health information, February 21- online security, February 28- making the most of your library.

"In order to reach a more advanced audience, we are collaborating with North Central Michigan College to provide computer courses," explains Mrs. Adams. Upcoming classes include an Introduction to Digital Photography, on Saturday, February 3, 1:00 4:00 p.m. This course will provide information about lenses, image resolution, memory, shutter speed, batteries and what zooms mean. It will also bring an understanding of lighting, exposure, focus and composition. The course fee is $29.00 and all students must register through NCMC, call 348-6613. An MS Word, Level II class will also be held. Plan to attend two Saturdays, February 10th and 17th from 1:00 4:00 pm to build on your basic Word skills. Students will learn to customize documents, add visual appeal with tables and graphics. Mail merge, labels, and templates will also be highlighted. The fee for this course is $59.00 and all students must register through NCMC, call 348-6613.

All computer courses are held in the Charlevoix Public Library's Coeling Computer Center. For more information about these or other library programs, visit the library website at www.charlevoixlibrary.org.

For further information about this or other youth programming opportunities, call the youth services desk at 237-7350.

St. Mary School Mission Statement

The St. Mary Catholic School community empowers students to grow spiritually, academically, artistically, and physically so they may experience, understand and live their responsibilities to God, family, community and self.

St. Mary School Philosophy

St. Mary Catholic School is a Faith Community — students, parents, staff, parishioners and friends. Teachers, in partnership with parents, are dedicated to providing the spiritual and academic development of each child.

Each person is a child of God, a unique and gifted individual. The curriculum is designed to nurture creativity, academic excellence, and spiritual, physical and emotional growth.

We instill responsibility, respect and compassion for all people. We are committed to aking our students aware of social issues while providing the foundation and experiences necessary to be living examples of the Gospel.

Michael Barnard: Feb. 29, 1948 - Jan. 13, 2007

Michael L. Barnard, 58, of Duck Key, Fla., and formerly of Charlevoix, died Saturday, Jan. 13, in Charlevoix.

Born on Feb. 29, 1948, in East Jordan to Lewis and Lois (Healey) Barnard, he graduated from East Jordan High School. Mike graduated from General Motors Institute and worked as an engineer at General Motors for 15 years. In 1981, Mike married Susan Anderson in Lansing, and moved to Charlevoix in 1982, where they built and operated Nanny's Restaurant. He worked as a developer and built the Market Mall, and Lake Michigan Heights in Charlevoix, Aspen Commons in Gaylord, and Baraboo Commons in Baraboo, Wis. Mike was a private pilot and certified scuba diver. He enjoyed skiing, boating and motorcycling.

He is survived by his wife, Susan of Duck Key, Fla.; daughter, Karlee A. Barnard of Charlevoix; brother James (Jill) Barnard and family of Bellaire; mother-in-law, Donna Anderson of Charlevoix, sister-in-law, Shelly (Dr. Glenn) Paramo and family of Charlevoix.

His son, Kelsey, preceded him in death in 2002.

Friends met the family on Thursday, Jan. 18 at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. No other services will be held.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, P.O. Box 718, East Jordan, MI 49727.

Lyle Walker: Oct. 10, 1921 - Jan. 15, 2007

Lyle J. Walker, 85, of Charlevoix and formerly of East Jordan, died Monday, Jan. 15 at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Funeral services took place on Saturday, Jan. 20 at the Penzien Funeral Homes Inc. in East Jordan. Rev. Jim L. Jordan officiated. Interment will be in Brookside Cemetery in Charlevoix.

Lyle was born on Oct. 10, 1921 in East Jordan, the son of William and Mary Katerina (Cooper) Walker. Lyle graduated from East Jordan High School in 1938. For many years, Lyle owned and operated Walker's Service Station in Ironton. Later, he worked for Gulf & Western, later known as Dura, in East Jordan. Lyle retired in 1973.

Lyle loved working on cars, trucks and anything mechanical. He also helped both of his sons build homes.

Lyle is survived by two sons, Jerry John (Bonnie) Walker of Houston, Texas and Mickey Paul (Marjorie) Walker of Charlevoix; one sister-in-law, Linda Walker of East Jordan; as well as many nieces and nephews.

Lyle was preceded in death by one granddaughter, Jessica Walker, his parents, and two brothers, Burl and William Walker.

Memorials contributions may be given to the Charlevoix County Humane Society.

Police search for drug store robber

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

> "I have lots and lots of people who match the physical description of the suspect."
> Scott Hankins
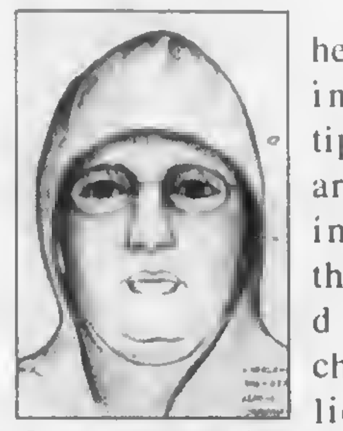
> DEPUTY CHIEF OF CHARLEVOIX CITY POLICE

Charlevoix City Police officials are still searching for the suspect wanted in connection with a robbery attempt at Central Drugs in Charlevoix last Tuesday, Jan. 16.

"We've been receiving some tips and we are following up on those," said deputy-chief of police, Scott Hankins, during a Monday, Jan. 22 interview. "We have been in contact with the (Michigan) State Police lab and asked them to put a rush on some evidence we received."



A composite sketch of the armed robbery suspect.

He added, "We're continuing the investigation and I have been in contact with Crime Stoppers. A reward may be forthcoming (for information leading to apprehension of the perpetrator) but there is none yet."

The suspect is described as a white, heavyset male in his 20s, approximately 5 feet-10 inches in height with dark hair, who was wearing dark colored exercise clothing and possibly armed with a handgun and driving a newer black coupe or sedan.

"I have lots and lots of people who match the physical description of the suspect," Hankins said. "We're still actively seeking any information from anyone who may have witnessed anything at the scene or who may know the person involved."

Citizens with information related to the incident should contact Hankins, the lead investigator on this case, at (231) 547-3258.

The Central Drugs bandit asked for pen and paper, then slipped a note to pharmacist George Franklin (Frank) Ochs who then notified his son, pharmacist, John Ochs, that the perpetrator demanded narcotics. When Ochs refused, the thwarted thief ran out of the building and headed south in a car.

"I didn't see the gun...dad was at an angle where he thought he saw a gun in the guy's pocket," Ochs said.

Since Central Drugs is not equipped with surveillance cameras, a sketch of the alleged perpetrator was released by the City of Charlevoix Police Department.

Police refused to disclose what type of narcotic was requested.

Pine River Lane hotel plan changes again

New high density cottage plan requires ordinance change

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

A cottage project might be the cure for what's ailing a local neighborhood.

"I think the people will be much happier," mayor Norman Carlson Jr. said of a Pine River Lane development plan that's being considered.

In 2006, two development plans for the same piece of property sent residents in and around Pine River Lane to battle for their neighborhood's character.

Both plans proposed to be developed by Catt Development of Gaylord were for resort hotel projects on a .7 acre piece of land at 115 Pine River Lane owned by Peter Carey, Julie Bandfield and Randy Carey. The property is currently for sale for over $1.7 million.

Residents argued the projects would compromise the residential character of the neighborhood and could pose a risk to their homes' structures during the construction process. Other concerns included soil erosion issues, light pollution, mechanical noise, trash removal, walls and fencing.

Now, a third plan for 18 two-and-a-half story cottages with a maximum of 1,500 square feet of living space even has one of the most vocal opponents of the prior development plans on board.

Steve Hansen, owner of the property at 113 Pine River Lane, said that if the cottage project is approved by the city, he'll sell his land which has been in his family for over a century, to the developer.

Hansen said he was approached by the developers with this plan.

"They may have been influenced by some notion of what would be best for Charlevoix — I'd like to think that they have Charlevoix's best interest at heart and in my opinion this kind of project at this location on Pine River Lane is more in Charlevoix's best interest than the previous project," Hansen said.

Developer, Drew Spanding of Catt Development, said, "We would like to have something people are proud of."

Hansen added that the project carries a more residential character which he and others have advocated.

A committee made up of First Ward Charlevoix City Councilman, Lyle Gennett, and second ward councilman, Greg Stevens, Charlevoix city planner, Gerry Harsch, representatives of both the City of Charlevoix Planning Commission and Catt Development met on Jan. 17 to hash out the details of the project and to see how they can maneuver around the zoning barriers.

"It's a breath of fresh air," planning commission member, Diana Gully, said of the new design. "I don't think any of us were really crazy about the last one."

While those in attendance were pleased with the new design, it faces a major hurdle — density. The cottage project layout is 18 units on eight-tenths of an acre. The property is zoned for commercial use and the city zoning ordinance doesn't allow dense residential developments in this district.

"This development and the zoning ordinance don't match. How do we do this?" questioned Wayne Seger, a land use consultant with Mansfield and Associates, who is working with Catt.

This is the same question Charlevoix resident John Haggard needs answered. Haggard was also in attendance to discuss a condominium project of similar density on the property of Pete Phillips off Petoskey Avenue on Charlevoix's north side.

He described his plan as a 14-unit condominium development similar to Chez Charlevoix, spanning a total of 60,000 square feet.

Harsch recommended amending the uses allowed in the zoning ordinance to make way for this type of high density residential development in the commercial district as a special use.

He expects to have language drafted by the end of this month for the planning commission to consider at its meeting on Feb. 12. Any change to the zoning ordinance will require review and approval of Charlevoix City Council.

The evolution of development plans at 115 Pine River Lane

The first proposal: Rivulet Pointe, a 12-unit resort hotel spanning over 30,000 square feet, stretched the City of Charlevoix's definition of hotel for the commercial zoning district as described in the zoning ordinance. The developer, Travis Catt of Catt Acquisitions of Gaylord, eventually withdrew the plan.

The second proposal: They came back this summer with a second attempt for the same property — Charlevoix Pointe, a three-story hotel resort proposal featuring 30 hotel units. The design required no variances and in spite of heavy opposition from surrounding homeowners, was approved in November 2006 by Charlevoix City Council as it met the requirements of the zoning ordinance.

The current proposal: This hotel has been trumped by the less controversial cottage concept which incorporates the Hansen property at 113 Pine River Lane. Plans show 18 two-and-a-half story cottages with a maximum of 1,500 square feet of living space on eight-tenths of an acre of land. The property at 115 Pine River Lane is on the market for $1.7 million.

Find help and healing for the hurt of separation and divorce through Community Reformed Church's DivorceCare program

You don't have to go through it alone...

DivorceCare is a friendly, caring group of people who will walk alongside you through one of life's most difficult experiences. Don't go through separation or divorce alone.

Most people will tell you that separation and divorce are the most painful and stressful experiences they've ever faced. It's a confusing time when you feel isolated and have lots of questions about issues you've never faced before. Our DivorceCare group meets weekly to help you face these challenges and move toward rebuilding you life.

A Seminar with Experts

DivorceCare seminars and support groups are led by people who understand what you are going through and want to help. You'll gain access to valuable DivorceCare resources to help you deal with the pain of the past and look forward to rebuilding your life.

During the first 30-40 minutes of the meeting, each DivorceCare group watches a video seminar featuring experts on divorce and recovery subjects. These videos are produced in an interesting way to watch television, a magazine format featuring expert interviews, real-life case studies and on-location video.

A Support Group with Focus

Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix offers DivorceCare recovery support groups that meet on Tuesdays & Thursday evenings, (choose the one that fits your schedule) from 7-9p.m. at the "Servants Quarters." 100 Oak Street (Located next door to the Community Reformed Church, one mile north of the bridge.)

231-675-1925

After viewing the video, DivorceCare group participants spend time as a support group, discussing what was presented in that week's video seminar and what is going on in the lives of group members.

County posts handicapped parking sign

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

Apparent controversy over a handicap accessible, or barrier-free, parking space at the Charlevoix County Building has been resolved.

What began with concerns that plowed snow was being piled up in a barrier free parking space and led to a county maintenance man temporarily fixing the situation by removing the handicap accessible placard, ended with opinions by county officials that the space must remain barrier free.

"Anybody that goes to the clerk's office, the elderly in particular, will pull into that parking space and there was no longer a handicap parking space — it was an everybody for themselves type of thing," said District Five Charlevoix County Commissioner, Bob Drebenstedt. "One of the concerns I (had) was I have veterans that park there and use that space to come in the south door. They push their walkers and (ride) wheelchairs down to the Veterans' Affairs office."

He added, "We have gone to every length to have handicapped bathrooms that are wheelchair accessible, and this removal of one parking space was against all those improvements we've made."

While there were also some arguments over whether the lot was open to the public, Charlevoix County Building Department supervisor, Ken Doty, said the small lot on the south side of the building between the Charlevoix County Clerk's office and the Circuit courtroom is not a private parking area, though it has been treated as such in the past.

"The information has been passed on to the person in charge of the maintenance around here and that sign will be going back up and (the parking space) will be striped properly," Doty said. "It will be changed to full-size — 20-foot-long and eight-foot-wide."

Doty said his office follows the Michigan Barrier Free Laws which tend to be more stringent than the Americans with Disabilities Act. There must be one barrier-free parking spot for every 25 parking spaces in the lot regardless of the lot's size.

"Even these small mom and pop gas stations are supposed to have a barrier-free spot," he said.

Doty said the handicap accessible parking space in question was not required by law.

"It was not part of the original layout when the parking lots were placed here, but when we had a gentlemen who was an attorney and was in a wheelchair... Mike (Webb, maintenance department) just conveniently said, 'Well, he's coming here all the time and there's a ramp there,'" Doty said. "He did that on his own accord to place the sign there."

Bay Township resident, Bob Taylor, voiced concerns about the whole ordeal.

"The thing that fascinated me is I have been (urging) the previous board forever and a day to get that snow removed from out of there (handicap spot) and once we really needed a decision to do that, all of the sudden somebody removes the sign," Taylor said. "I have problems with that sir and I...wonder who supervises (maintenance personnel), if (they have) a position description, by what authority (do they) conduct work around here and who rates (them)."

District Three County Commissioner, Ron Reinhardt, who said the Building and Grounds Committee supervise the maintenance department, said the handicap placard will definitely be replaced.

"If we're going to be nice and do all these good things that are absolutely enjoyed by (handicapped) people, we cannot turn around and limit their access to come into the courthouse,"

Longtime deputy sheriff prepares to retire

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

Jim Pettis, a Charlevoix native and 25-year veteran of the Charlevoix County Sheriff's office, will officially retire as a deputy sheriff later this March.

Pettis will continue working part-time as a patrolman for the City of Charlevoix Police Department which he began doing in summer 2006.

"It is really hard to walk away from half my life," Pettis said. "I'm really going to miss this, but I do look forward to being able to spend more time on other personal interests."

The 50-year-old peace officer plans to spend more time with his three children and enjoy outdoor activities.

"I would like to work for another five years," he said. "I look forward to doing more hunting and fishing and taking some shorter trips."

Charlevoix County Sheriff, George T. Lasater, who has worked with Pettis his entire career said, "Statistically, peace officers who last over seven years typically hang in there until retirement. I think it's a reflection on the individual, the county the person works in, the office that person works in, that things are going relatively smooth to hang in for 25 years."

Pettis added, "And the boss, you've got to (include) the boss in there too."

Lasater said hiring locally seems to work well for the community.

"In Jim's case, that has proved to be a good policy. It's exciting for me through the years that I've been here to see a young man come up," he said. "I attended Jim's wedding, watched his children be born, watched his family come up and then obviously his retirement (and) I've been through crises with him."

He added, "When you have a small department or office that you work with, even though you have small squabbles from time to time, you look out for each other, you take care of each other's needs when they arise."

Pettis said, "It's almost like leaving my family."

Pettis began his career working for the Harrison Police Department through a training program while attending Central Michigan University.

"I was looking for a job that would subsidize the tuition bills and things and this position "opened up," he said.

THEN Jim Pettis (1985)

Though law enforcement wasn't his childhood dream, Pettis said he couldn't see himself doing anything else all these years later.

"It was just one of those things where the circumstances presented themselves and once I got into it I saw this was something I really enjoyed," he said. "The next thing I knew, 25 years was over."

Pettis received multiple citations and commendations throughout his career, but doesn't give them much thought.

"Over the years, it wouldn't have mattered if I received no recognition. The job was getting done and that's what mattered," Pettis said. "I personally don't thrive on recognition. (In) some professions, that's the goal to become CEO of this corporation or that corporation, but that's not what law enforcement is about."

NOW Jim Pettis (2007)

He added, "My recognition was going home and knowing you did the best you could for the day.

Lasater said Pettis' professionalism and people skills made him standout as a peace officer.

"I've had multiple people approach me and say, 'Deputy Pettis handled my complaint and he seemed like he really cared,'" he said.

The secret to his success, Pettis said, was treating people as he would like to be treated.

"That works 90-plus percent of the time — just taking that extra couple of minutes," Pettis added.

A candidate has yet to be chosen to replace Pettis.

"Right now we have a good pool of candidates and there's a lot of very bright young people who have graduated from academies and colleges who are coming up," Lasater said. "Not that Jim's shoes are going to be easy to fill, but there are people out there who will approach this job with the values that Jim Pettis has."

One of Pettis' fonder memories of police work was when he was working undercover as a narcotics agent for 22 months searching out and seizing marijuana crops.

"There were some unusual places and methods where peo-

Hey Jane!
I feel my daughter is being a hypocrite. When her daughter wanted to live with a boyfriend during the last year of college everybody had a conniption! She and her husband are very committed in their church values and their position is that living together is sinful and that there should be no sexual relations unless the couple is married. I agree with those values particularly when it comes to me! I've been living in a retirement community and have met another love of my life and we want to get married. My daughter doesn't feel this is a good decision. She suggests that we should just live together because marriage at our age is too complicated. Why is marriage good for the young and not a good idea for seniors? I think she just wants to make sure he doesn't get my money.

"But, we took the dope as we were required to do and took the 500 buckets that it was grown in to spell out SANE and left it for them."

Pettis said he has received both bad attitudes and appreciation from many people during his career. But overall his experience has been positive.

"I was blessed to serve in the community I grew up in. This area has probably done as much if not more for me than I have done for it. It's a wonderful place with wonderful people and I can't think of a better place to serve for 25 years," he said. "What I'm going to miss most...is the time I spend with fellow employees, citizen contact and one of the most wonderful things here is I really truly don't know what I'm going to do when I come in."

Norwood Historical Society awarded building grant

The Charlevoix County Community Foundation recently awarded a grant to the Norwood Area Historical Society to stabilize the interior of the Norwood School and allow for year-round, energy efficient use of the property.

The Norwood Area Historical Society was founded in 1994 to preserve information and artifacts pertaining to the Norwood area and promote interest in, and knowledge of, local history. Two years ago, the society purchased the old 1890's Norwood school house from the Norwood Methodist Church. The church had owned the building since 1957 when the small one room school, which sits in the center of the Village of Norwood, was consolidated into the Charlevoix School District.

With the additional responsibility of the school building, society members efforts have expanded to include the necessary renovation and restoration work to make the school safe and sound, so that it may be used for society meetings as well as available for other community events.

Early projects have included roof replacement, chimney and bell tower repair, basement door and window replacement, a barrier free ramp, five main beam jacks, an electrical upgrade and new exterior drainage. Over half of the 86 members have been active in working on fund-raisers or have volunteered time, equipment and expertise to meet these project goals. Approximately $45,000 in improvements have been achieved at a cost to the society of $30,500.

Currently, there are four projects that were not originally anticipated in restoring the headquarters, but became evident after using the building — the need for a new well, basement door, windows and re-pointing of the interior basement foundation. The grant money is to be applied to the first three of these projects.

In five years, what kinds of goods and services will you find Downtown?

In five years, what activities will be available Downtown?

In five years, who will be Downtown's customers and users?

In five years, what would you like Downtown's image to be?

If the residents, the business community, and your government were to work together over the next five years to make Downtown Charlevoix the very best it could be, what would you like to see result from that effort?

Consider these questions and bring your answers to a COMMUNITY VISION SESSION conducted by the national consulting firm HyettPalma to develop a new vision for our Downtown.

Get computer savvy at Charlevoix library

The Charlevoix Public Library's Coeling Computer Lab is buzzing with activity. The lab, named for longtime library supporter and trustee, Ethel Coeling, is an ideal spot for teaching computer classes. It houses 10 computers and a teacher station which projects images onto a screen. The lab is open every afternoon for patrons to utilize the computers for homework, Internet surfing, and other applications, but is closed to the public while classes are held.

As stated in the library's strategic plan, "All patron's will have free access to computer literacy education." The Library Board of Trustees is taking their plan to heart offering many different opportunities for learning about computers and their many applications.

"To meet the objective of our strategic plan, we are offering free basic computer skills classes, and then work with the college to offer more advanced computer classes with professional computer teachers," said adult services librarian, Linda Adams.

The Computer Basics course is a three-part program to help novices learn the basics. The class starts at the beginning — computer parts and terminology, driving a mouse and using the Internet. Although the January course is filled, Adams will offer another session in March. This class is free, but registration is required. To register, call the adult services desk at (231) 237-7340.

The library is also offering Computer Tidbits, which are short demonstrations of different computer applications. Computer Tidbits meets at 1 p.m. on Wednesdays in the computer lab. This program is also free and walk-ins are welcome. Topics of interest include Internet tricks on Feb. 7, online health information on Feb. 14, online security on Feb. 21 and "Making the Most of Your Library" on Feb. 28.

"In order to reach a more advanced audience, we are collaborating with North Central Michigan College to provide computer courses," Adams said.

Upcoming classes include an Introduction to Digital Photography from 1 to 4 p.m. on Saturday, Feb. 3. This course will provide information about lenses, image resolution, memory, shutter speed, batteries and what zooms mean. It will also bring an understanding of lighting, exposure, focus and composition. The course fee is $29. All students must register through North Central Michigan College by calling (231) 348-6613.

A Microsoft Word Level II class will also be held. Plan to attend from 1 to 4 p.m. on two Saturdays, Feb. 10 and 17 to build on basic Word skills. Students will learn to customize documents, add visual appeal with tables and graphics. Mail Merge, labels and templates will also be highlighted. The fee for this course is $59. All students must register through North Central Michigan College by calling (231) 348-6613.

All computer courses are held in Charlevoix Public Library's Coeling Computer Center.

For more information about these or other library programs, visit the library Web site at www.charlevoixlibrary.org.

THERE ARE GOOD REASONS WHY
PUBLIC NOTICE
APPEARS IN YOUR NEWSPAPER.

Currently, and historically, it is the responsibility of state and local government to publish public and legal notices here in Michigan's newspapers. This paper you're holding right now is a historical document, printed and published with a date on every page. And its pages hold your right to know what the government is doing in your community. In fact, it's law.

In our democratic society your newspaper fulfills an essential role in serving your right to know. After all, it shouldn't be your responsibility to know how to look, where to look or when to look, let alone to know what you're looking for to be informed. That is why you have, and read, your newspaper, where public notices are published with accountable circulation and presented to you on these pages in clear black and white.

Chamber recognizes key players in local business

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

Members and supporters of the Charlevoix business community came out in droves for the 49th Annual Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce meeting on Jan. 18 at the Weathervane Restaurant in Charlevoix.

Chamber president, Jacqueline Merta, said the event drew 130 people, a record number of attendees.

At the meeting, three Charlevoix residents were recognized by the chamber's board of directors for their contributions to the community.

Jacqueline and Kirby Dipert, Charlevoix's signature retail couple that has withstood the town's economic ups and downs, currently operating three successful clothing stores, The Clothing Company, Charlevoix Wear and Color Wear, were named recipients of the 2006 Ambassador Award by the chamber board.

Kirby was surprised by the honor and went to the meeting expecting his wife to be recognized, he said he had no idea he was included.

According to Merta, the Diperts, who have been married for 15 years and have three children, exemplify the aim of the ambassador's award in all that they do.

"Their consistency of service, dedication to perfection and the stability that they have brought to the chamber and the community confirm that consistency of excellence in service is a product of soaring minds and spirit," Merta said.

Aside from their important role as local merchants, the Diperts are active volunteers with Charlevoix Public Schools and as past members of the chamber board.

Individually, Kirby is a member of the Downtown Development Authority, Cool Cities Process Committee, the Rotary Club and is chairman of the annual Chamber Car Raffle.

Dipert quoted the Rotary motto when asked why he gives so freely of his time.

"He who serves the best profits the most. If you give, you receive," he said.

Jacqueline is a member of the board of directors at Charlevoix State Bank and the Retail Committee of the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce.

Like Kirby, Jacqueline said the benefits of community service far outweigh the cost.

"It's a great town and a great bunch of people to work with. It's not a chore," she said.

Winner of the 2006 Outstanding Citizen Award, Charlevoix State Bank president, John Kurtz, echoed Jacqueline's sentiments in describing his selfless community involvement as "fun."

Newly instated chairman of the chamber board, Tom Conlan, said, Kurtz is a man who has Charlevoix in his heart.

"A lot of people talk about giving to our community but this man lives giving back to the community. It's part of his being because Charlevoix is in his heart," Conlan said.

Kurtz is a longtime, active supporter of Big Brothers, Big Sisters, the Charlevoix Community Reformed Church, the chamber, the Charlevoix Venetian Festival, Charlevoix Area Hospital and Charlevoix Public Library. He is a member of the Charlevoix Lions Club, the Charlevoix Club and the Cool Cities Process Committee.

In accepting the award, Kurtz humbly recognized the many deserving potential recipients in the room.

"I am very grateful and proud, thank you," he said.

The chamber also recognized the service of its outgoing board members including former chairman, Jim Berlage, who owns the Bridge Street Book Shop, former vice-chair, Judy Friske-Kehr, director of retail for Friske Orchards and former treasurer, Ron Agnello, a local Certified Public Accountant.

New board members, instated on Jan. 1, are Chris Cuffaro, community president and finance manager of Citizens Bank, Dirk Cox, plant manager at St Marys Cement, Louis Hollow of Hollow and Associates and Chris Turkelson, an attorney with the law firm Hayes, Turkelson and Groat.

They join five returning board members, Tom Conlan, manager of the Belvedere Club and golf club, Jeff Sprecksell, manager of the Weathervane Restaurant, Jay Bingham, owner of Bingham Insurance Services, Patricia Blanchard, owner of Shop of the Gulls and Linda Bradley, operations manager at Charlevoix Manufacturing.

Schuilings named 2006 Chairman's Award winners

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

Bill and Karen Schuiling were given the Chairman's Award during annual Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce award ceremonies on Thursday, Jan. 18.

The Chairman's Award is bestowed each year on individuals who go above and beyond to help the chamber with its mission to improve Charlevoix.

"The recipients of this year's Chairman's Award have a great love for their community and have a commitment to philanthropy," said Jim Berlage. "Their service to our community and to their fellow man, are only surpassed by their integrity and the high regard in which they are held by all who know them."

"I'm honored. I knew nothing about it," said Bill Schuiling in a phone interview from Virginia. "It's very special and I'm very appreciative."

Bill's wife, Karen, was unavailable to comment.

"I was born in Grand Rapids, got into the car business and did just beyond anyone's expectations and decided to come back home to Michigan from Washington D.C. about 15 years ago," Schuiling said.

Despite living all over the world, "At least twice," Schuiling said Charlevoix is the best place on earth.

"After living in Virginia and Washington where nobody says hi I was walking downtown in Charlevoix and maybe 10 people said hi to me even though they didn't know me," Schuiling said. "Between the friendly people and the flowers, I knew Charlevoix was the place for me."

Berlage said Schuiling and his wife have helped with the Charlevoix Area Pool, humane society and Venetian Festival just to name a few.

"On numerous occasions they have brought flowers to all the residents at Boulder Park Terrace... to cheer up the residents," Berlage said. "Since moving to Charlevoix...they have contributed over $10 million to students, organizations and individuals."

The Charlevoix Community Christmas Project would like to take this opportunity to thank all of the individuals, organizations, and business people who helped make our program a success this year.

Thank you!

We were able to help 180 families this year. (313 adults & 334 children) We operate on donations only, so you can see that it was only through your generosity that we were able to do this. So many of you helped in so many ways, and we know that we didn't get the names of everyone who helped. If you helped in any way and your name is not on this list, please know that your efforts were very much appreciated, and that you did help someone have a Merry Christmas! Our town may be known as "Charlevoix the Beautiful" because of all the natural beauty that surrounds us, but our committee members know that the real beauty of Charlevoix is in the generous giving hearts of our people. Thank You.

Philanthropy, outreach earn Schuilings chamber award

AWARD

Schuiling also spends much of his time helping the poor, battered women and the uneducated.

"My favorite thing in the world is to help other people and eventually I hope to give around $50 million to the (Charlevoix) area," he said. "It doesn't make any difference if you give people money or volunteer, the important thing is to help people. If you can volunteer, that's actually better because anybody can volunteer."

He added, "It doesn't matter how much money you have, you can help your fellow man. It's not about me or Karen, it's about people that are desperate and not happy and whose spirits are broken — a little helping hand can really be a big help."

The Schuilings have also helped with the City Band, Great Lakes Chamber Orchestra, Charlevoix Public Schools and relocation costs of the chamber.

"Each year they award Laddie Scholarships to all graduating students who have earned a 3.0 grade point and who show good character and complete a successful senior interview," Berlage said. "Every year at Thanksgiving and Christmas, they supply turkeys and dinner trimmings to those in need."

Irish Boat Shop names Michael Esposito president

Michael Esposito

Michael Esposito has been named president of Irish Boat Shop by David Irish who founded the company in 1961. Irish will retain the title of chairman.

"Irish Boat Shop is widely known for outstanding customer service," said Esposito. "I am proud to build on the Irish Boat Shop tradition of excellence while looking ahead to meet the future needs of our customers."

As president, Esposito will lead the company operations at its facilities in Harbor Springs and Charlevoix. With 50 full-time employees, Irish Boat Shop provides new and used boat sales, comprehensive power and sailboat service, dockage, complete restorations and repair, winter storage, and other services to boating and sailing enthusiasts throughout the Great Lakes.

Esposito joined Irish Boat Shop in 1994 as general manager of the Harbor Springs facility. Previously, he was general manager of Crowley's Yacht Yard in Chicago, Ill. His early career included working for Tillotson-Pearson Inc., in Warren, Rhode Island and J World Inc. in Newport, Rhode Island.

Growing up in Rhode Island and around boats since childhood, he became involved in sailing instruction, boat building and sailboat racing on the regional and national level. In 1986, Esposito was employed as a design engineer with the "America II" challenge for the Americas Cup by the New York Yacht Club in Perth, Australia.

"Michael has the right combination of talent and experience to lead the Boat Shop into the future," said David Irish: "He brings vast experience in the marina industry, strong business and technical knowledge and a passion for having fun on the water."

Esposito earned a bachelor of arts in economics from the University of Rhode Island in 1982. He is treasurer and a former president of HARBOR Inc. Esposito, his wife Debbie and their two daughters reside in Harbor Springs.

Prizes await winners of Friske's 4th Annual Cherry Recipe Contest

Friske's Farm Market is hosting its 4th Annual Cherry Recipe Contest.

Anyone presenting cherry recipes, except professional chefs, Friske's employees and their families, are eligible to enter. Categories include soups, cakes and tortes.

Entries must be received by Feb. 12 at the Friske's Farm Market. Six finalists will be named in each category and final judging will take place at 10:30 a.m. on Feb. 24.

Registration forms are available by calling Friske's Farm Market at (231) 599-2604.

This year's prizes include $100 in cash, a two-night stay at the Jordan Inn and a Friske Cherry Goodie Bag for the first place winner in the soups division. The second place soup winner will take home $50 in cash, an overnight stay at the Grey Gables B&B and a Friske Cherry Goodie Bag. And the third place soup winner will win $25 in cash, lunch for two at the Water Street Cafe (Boyne City) and a Friske Cherry Goodie Bag.

The first place winner in the combined cakes/tortes division will win $100 in cash, an overnight stay at Black Star Farms and a Friske Cherry Goodie Bag. The second place winner in this division will win $50 in cash, an overnight stay at The House on the Hill B&B and a Friske Cherry Goodie Bag. And the third place winner will be awarded $25 in cash, lunch for two at Thick n' Juicy in Boyne City and a Friske Cherry Goodie Bag.

Chamber seminar designed to help businesses grow

A Chamber University seminar designed to grow business in 2007 is being offered to local area chamber members.

NOTICE OF FORECLOSURE

TO ALL INTERESTED PERSONS:

This firm is a debt collector attempting to collect a debt; any information we obtain will be used for that purpose.

MORTGAGE SALE

Default has been made in the terms and conditions of a mortgage made February 1, 2000, by Gary R. Marvin and Heather R. Marvin, husband and wife, as mortgagors, to The Bank of Northern Michigan, and recorded on February 8, 2000, at Liber 382, Page 077, Charlevoix County Records, as modified by a Modification of Mortgage dated October 1, 2001, and recorded on October 10, 2001, at Liber 438, Page 746, Charlevoix County Records. The entire balance secured by said mortgage has matured and become fully due and payable according to the terms of said mortgage and the promissory note secured thereby, as modified; and on which mortgage there is claimed to be due and unpaid at the date of this notice $226,299.33 principal and $3,253.15 interest; and no legal or equitable proceeding having been instituted to recover the debt or any part of the debt secured by the mortgage; and the power of sale contained in the mortgage having become operative by reason of the default.

Notice is now given that on Friday, February 9, 2007, at 11:00 o'clock a.m., in the main lobby of the Charlevoix County Building, 301 State Street, in Charlevoix, Michigan, that being the building where the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix is held, there will be offered for sale and sold to the highest bidder, at public sale, the premises described in the mortgage, situated in Charlevoix Township, Charlevoix County, Michigan, and described as follows:

Commencing at a square bolt at the West quarter corner of Section 35, Town 34 North, Range 8 West; thence along the West line of said section South 00 deg. 17'41" East 340.35 feet to a T-iron stake on the South line of the North 340.35 feet of the North half of the Southwest quarter of said section; thence along said line North 89 deg. 56'04" East 982.53 feet to a 3/4 in. pipe on the Westerly line of Highway M-66; thence along the Westerly line of Highway M-66 South 22 deg. 15'23" East 288.00 feet to a T-iron stake, being the Point of Beginning of this description; thence continuing along said highway line South 22 deg. 15'23" East 200.00 feet; thence leaving said highway line South 67 deg. 44'56" West 268.26 feet; thence North 23 deg. 09'48" West 200.00 feet to a T-iron stake; thence North 67 deg. 44'37" East 271.43 feet to the point of beginning; being a part of the Northwest quarter of the Southwest quarter of Section 35, Town 34 North, Range 8 West.

This sale is for the purpose of satisfying the amounts due and unpaid on the mortgage, with annual interest at the default rate of 11.5% per year, together with the legal costs and charges of sale, including the attorney fees allowed by law and in the mortgage, and any sums which may be paid by the mortgagee subsequent to the date of this notice to protect its interests in the premises.

The length of the redemption period will be six (6) months from date of sale.

Charlevoix schools could lose $289,000 in funding

BUDGET

with us. It's like pulling teeth to find out for sure what they are doing," said Gary Stutzman, co-administrator of Northwest Academy in Charlevoix. "They blame (the potential decrease in per pupil funding) on poor economics and they've tried to soften the blow by putting it in the news that there's this huge deficit. Then they say part of this program and this program and this program is going to be cut."

Indeed, the U.S. economy grew an estimated 3.3 percent last year and will grow 2.1 percent this year and 2.8 percent in 2008, according to the Senate Fiscal Agency's economic forecast.

Meanwhile, the Michigan economy is estimated to have only grown 1.1 percent in 2006 with a grim prediction of 0.6 percent this year and next.

The Michigan Senate Fiscal Agency's mission is to assist the state with fiscal advice and give national and state economic predictions.

According to Gary Olson, director of the agency, the governor is limited on what she can do to fix the financial shortfall.

"The revenue estimating conference identified a deficit in the school aid fund of $377 million," Olson said. "The governor could recommend cutting spending on corrections, she could recommend cutting spending in the school aid fund or the governor could recommend raising taxes, but that doesn't happen unless the legislature approves it."

Biddle attended the Revenue Estimating Conference on Thursday, Jan. 18.

"I really didn't get a sense of optimism from anyone," she said. "It was a pretty quiet group as we filed out of that session."

Stutzman said the worst part about the budget cuts are that they occur nearly half a year after budgets are made and teachers are hired.

"With a school like ours it's very hard to create a fund equity because we're right to the wire with payments," he said. "Word floating around says we could lose $210 per student. It's huge for any school when you make your plans and make your budget and hire teachers (during summer)."

He added, "The state giveth and the state taketh away."

If the governor makes a proposal to eliminate the deficit, and the legislature disagrees with that proposal, the reduction in the per pupil funding amount could go as high as $224.

"In all likelihood, that is the worst case scenario," Olson said. "The options are either you cut spending on school aid or you raise more revenue through tax changes."

Stutzman said one way to survive is to budget for the upcoming year as if no increase will be given.

"But, we're still right to the wall because of our operations and keeping the lights and water running, paying teachers — underpaying them," he said.

"$16,000 is going to be really tough on us. If that happens, we're going to have to take a real serious look at our staffing and our offerings and we may have to cut a program or two," Stutzman said. "But, you have to do it in areas that you can afford to do it and not jeopardize what the state is mandating."

He added, "They come up with all these mandates...then don't give you the funding to support it. Every school is being asked to do more and more in the classroom. If they don't support us with reasonable funding, how are you going to do it?"

If Olson's worst case scenario occurs, the Charlevoix Public Schools could lose more than $289,000 and Northwest Academy could lose nearly $19,000.

"The governor is likely to recommend some alternative to the $224 cut, but if her alternative is raising taxes and the legislature doesn't approve it, the $224 cut would take effect and they only have 30 days after her recommendation to negotiate this — by early March," he said. "We're anticipating the governor will make a recommendation to the legislature on Feb. 8."

The $224 figure is determined by dividing the $377 million deficit by the number of students in Michigan roughly 1.6 million.

Weathering this financial storm could devastate Charlevoix Public Schools $326,604 fund balance.

An apparently simple change which would help the schools immensely, Biddle and Stutzman agreed, would be to set Michigan schools' fiscal years to the same timeline as the state's fiscal year.

"The schools' fiscal year begins July 1, the state's doesn't start until Oct. 1, but it takes them until late November to finalize. They don't have a solid revenue number until November, but the consensus revenue conference doesn't take place until January," Biddle said.

She added that she usually knows how much money she will have to work with within four months after the start of the fiscal year, but this year they won't know until nine months after.

"You have no idea what you're going to get," Stutzman said. "That's the hell of it."

Biddle said the most important thing parents and taxpayers can do is to contact their legislators and demand a positive change to the way schools are funded.

Rayder basketball tally two more in blowout win streak

BY ALLEN TELGENHOF
SPORTS WRITER

Responding well to adversity looks to be a trademark of the Charlevoix Rayders on the basketball court this season.

After two of Charlevoix's three leading scorers moved from the school district after last season, the Rayders opened this season with an impressive 6-0 record.

Now after suffering their first loss of the season two weeks ago to Traverse City St. Francis, the Rayders responded with four straight blowout wins.

Charlevoix (9-1 overall, 6-1 league) added two more victims this past week, stomping Elk Rapids, 85-57 and East Jordan, 87-45.

The Rayders have won their last four games (including three on the road) by an average margin of 25 points.

While St. Francis is getting the hype (recently ranked No. 2 in Class C by the Associated Press), the Rayders have quietly moved back into a first place tie with the Gladiators atop the Lake Michigan Conference standings.

"Personally, I think we're the best team in the league," Rayder coach, Keith Haske, said. "We need to keep working hard and playing well, and hopefully that will play out for us in the end."

One of the keys to Charlevoix's resurgence is balanced scoring. Senior, Mitch Crandall, was leading scorer in the Rayders' first eight games of the season. But defenses can no longer focus solely on Crandall, as sophomore, Justin Friske, has become an inside force, as shown by his 37 points in two games last week.

Trevor Mays

"Our perimeter guys have been pretty consistent all year for us, but the big kids (Justin Friske, Trevor Mays, Derek Friske and Corey Gotshall) are really starting to play well," Haske noted. "The emergence of Justin Friske has been huge for us. Trevor Mays has been very good, too."

"They are really stepping up and finishing on offense, that allows us to press more which helps in other areas."

East Jordan began last week's contest slowing the game down to control tempo, but three straight Austin Wilhelm rainbow jumpers gave Charlevoix a 22-12 lead at the end of the first quarter.

Austin Wilhelm

"Austin had a very good game," coach Haske commented. "He shot the ball very well for us."

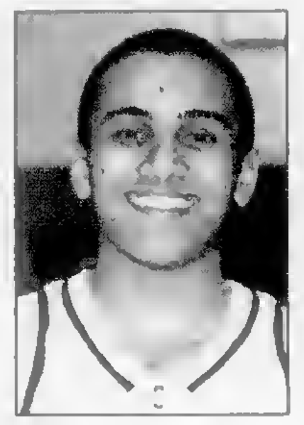
In the second period, the Rayders ended the game for all intents and purposes as the lead ballooned to 21, at 38-17, on a Mays baseline drive. Charlevoix led 48-29 at the half, keyed by Justin Friske's 16 first half points.

The second half was also all Rayders with a Nate LaBlance layup at the third quarter buzzer giving Charlevoix a 75-39 advantage.

Justin Friske finished the night with 23 points, on 10 for 12 shooting from the floor, and five rebounds. Wilhelm scored 16, hitting 8 of 10 shots. Crandall had 15 points, six rebounds and three steals. Mays was also in double figures with 10.

Senior, Ty Haske, dished out 13 assists. Dan Swenor grabbed six rebounds.

Justin Friske also paced the Rayders in scoring at Elk Rapids, finishing with 14 points and seven rebounds. Ty Haske had a season-high 13 points and five assists.



Ty Haske

"Ty has been looking to be more offensive minded," coach Haske said. "That's good because we don't need him to score (a lot) for us every night, but when we need him, he needs to be able to do that."

Crandall finished with 10 points, four steals and four assists. Mays tallied nine points. Three Rayders — Kyle Jones, Corey Gotshall and Wilhelm — had eight points apiece.

Kyle Jones also had eight rebounds. LaBlance contributed six rebounds and three steals.

The Rayders' balance means playing time is at a premium, which in turn means the players are competitive.

"The kids are starting to push each other quite a bit," Haske said. "And that is a good thing. They want playing time and they know the way to get it is to go hard in practice."

Charlevoix hosts Harbor Springs on Friday, Jan. 26 in a key conference contest.

Rayders take third at weekend Take Down Tournament

On Thursday, Jan. 18, the Rayder wrestling team hosted a dual meet with Mio and Boyne City. Facing Mio, JD Spiegl and Nate Tripplehorn both won by pinning their opponents. Other winners against Mio were Zeke Daman, Mat Golovich and Corey Loucks. Against Boyne City, Daman, Golovich, Woody Nitchman, Zach Smith, Tripplehorn and Trevor Cole won by void.

On Saturday, the Rayder wrestlers hosted Charlevoix's Annual Take Down Tournament. Schools attending the tournament were Manton, Frankfort, Elk Rapids, Gaylord and Mancelona.

Daman and Golovich went undefeated with five wins each. Both wrestlers received first place medals in their weight division. Nitchman and Cole both won four of their five matches, receiving second place medals in their weight classes. Tripplehorn won three of his five matches and received a third place medal. Winning fourth place medals were Chris Levens, Loucks, Smith and Speigl. Charlevoix placed third overall in the team rankings.

The wrestlers will travel to Gaylord High School for a tournament this Saturday, Jan. 27.

Soccer clinics for coaches, players

Charlevoix 4-H Soccer clinics will take place on Jan. 30 and Feb. 13 at Charlevoix Elementary School.

The first is a coaches clinic which will take place from 7 to 8 p.m. The clinic is open to all interested coaches regardless of skill level.

The other is a free players' clinic from 5:45 to 6:45 p.m. The clinic is open to players ages 8 to 14 regardless of skill level. It will be conducted by two qualified coaches.

Share your vision of Charlevoix's future on Jan. 31

The final information gathering round in Charlevoix's Cool Cities initiative will take place on Jan. 30 and 31.

Phone and business survey results gathered since December will be combined with information gleaned from focus group discussions on Jan. 30 and a Community Vision Session to take place on Jan. 31 to provide the critical community input portion of the Cool Cities study.

The Community Vision Session will take place from 7 to 8:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Jan. 31 at Charlevoix Public Library.

Consultants with the firm, HyettPalma will be on-hand at the session to listen and facilitate. The consultants will then use the information from the business and phone surveys as well as from the focus groups and vision sessions to formulate the Cool Cities Blueprints for Michigan's Downtowns market study for Charlevoix and to develop a five-year economic enhancement action strategy.

The group is expected to formulate preliminary findings before they leave town on Feb. 1. However, the complete study, which will include recommendations as to what direction Charlevoix should move in to enhance its economic viability, will not be ready for three to four months.

For more information, call Cool Cities coordinator, Keith Carey at (231) 547-3270.

Hayes Township planners seek input at Jan. 24 public forum

Hayes Township residents, business people and other interested parties are encouraged to join the township planning commission at a public forum to give comments early in the planning effort to update both the township master plan and zoning ordinance.

This public informational forum to review background studies, goals, and discuss future land uses in Hayes Township will be facilitated at 7:30 p.m. on Jan. 24 at the Hayes Township Hall, located at 09195 Old U.S. 31.

The public input gathered through this meeting and results of an opinion update questionnaire will assist the planning commission in updating the master plan and zoning ordinance.

Residents can provide opinions to the township on key planning and zoning questions via an opinion update questionnaire at the public forum, by accessing it on-line at the Hayes Township portion of the Charlevoix County Web site (http://www.charlevoixcounty.org/hayes.asp) or by contacting Hayes Township clerk, Marlene Golovich at (231) 347-2899.

Work sessions devoted to the master plan and zoning updates typically take place on the fourth Wednesday of the month at the township hall.

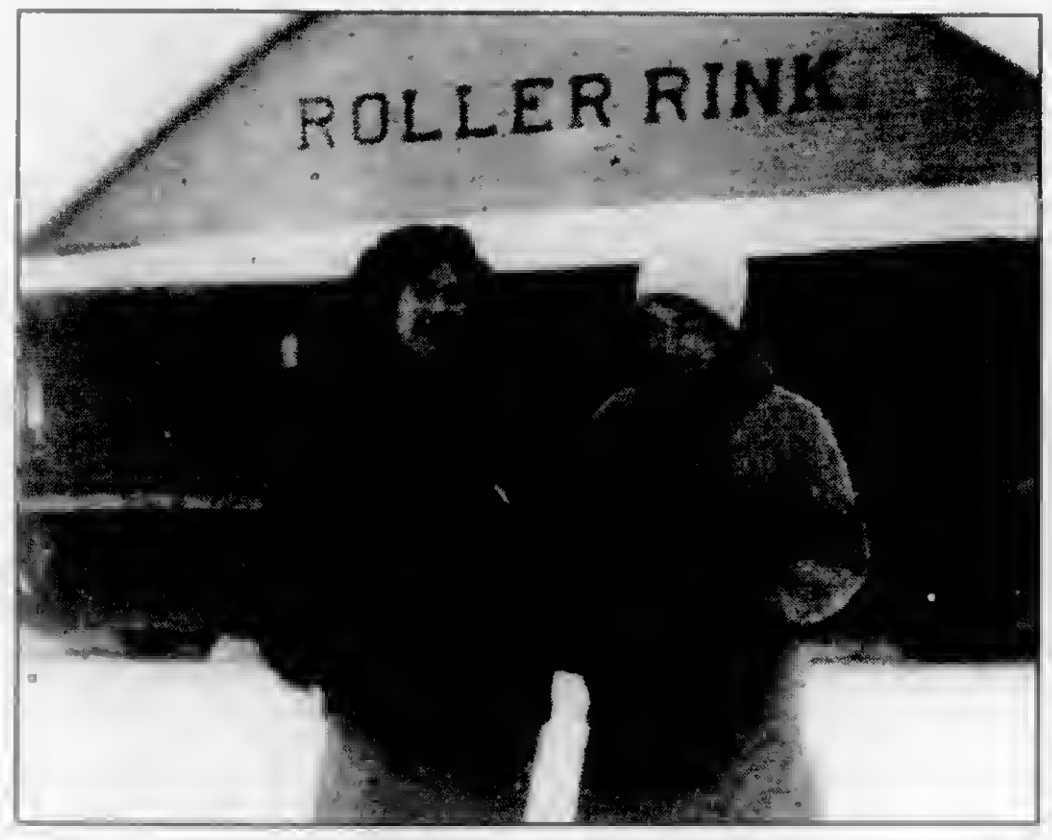
Did you KNOW? Results



Congratulations to William Bellinger of Charlevoix who correctly identified the location of the rink. He will receive a free three-month subscription to the Courier for participating and providing the correct answer.

Where in Charlevoix was this roller rink located?

The roller rink building was located just to the west of the huge boathouse that is now the Harbour Club Condominiums on the south shore of Round Lake.

Fight leads teen to attack

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

An argument over his sister lead a Charlevoix teen to grab a kitchen knife and stab 20-year-old Charlevoix Township resident, Lyle Sundelius.

Deputies with the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office responded to the stabbing incident that occurred at 9:36 a.m. Monday morning, Jan. 22 at a residence on Black Road in Marion Township.

According to Sheriff George T. Lasater, Sundelius was stabbed with a large knife by a 16-year-old male who is a sophomore at Charlevoix High School and lives at the Black Road residence.

The alleged perpetrator has a juvenile petition filed against him

Judge closes Wynkoop's Norwood mine

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

Wayne Wynkoop's limestone quarry will soon be silent now that Judge Thomas G. Power overturned a Norwood Township Zoning Board of Appeals decision from mid-May 2006 which upheld Wynkoop's right to mine the property.

Power, the Traverse City judge assigned to preside over the Norwood limestone saga after Judge Richard Pajtas recused himself to avoid a conflict of interest because he and his wife, Dana Pajtas, were adverse to the project, said the deciding factor for him was the issue of abandonment by Wynkoop of the right to mine the property.

"Here there is actual evidence of intent not to make efforts for several years (to operate a mine)," Power said.

Power noted that, since Wynkoop signed a land contract in 1983 with a stipulation that he not mine the property for commercial use until the property was paid in full, Wynkoop relinquished his rights.

Per Norwood Township zoning law, an abandonment and intent to abandon for at least a year dissolves a previously held non-conforming use.

During the hearing, attorney for Norwood Township Citizens for Health and Safety, Karen Ferguson, accused Wynkoop of everything from destroying the Fritz Trail site and excavating without permits to having a conflict of interest by bringing hi quarry proposal before the boar on which he serves.

The judge did not acknowledge the Fritz Trail comment and aske Ferguson if she contacted th proper authorities if she thought Wynkoop had worked without and the individual confessed and he was removed from the school."

Romero said the suspected individual was identified almost immediately.

"We did not go into lock down, but the students were contained in their classrooms," Romero said. "We didn't see the need to cause any kind of frenzy or panic (because there was no bomb)."

According to Romero, the student is now on a behavioral plan to prevent similar incidents in the future.

"We have not had any problems with this student before," she said.

A statement from the Charlevoix City Police Department stated, "At no time were the students or staff in any danger, and police praised Northwest Academy staff for their cooperation and immediate response in this serious situation. Police did make an arrest in this incident. However, due to the age of the person involved, police declined to release any further identification of the student."

The student has been ordered by the court to attend Great Lakes, the Boyne Valley alternative school.

"It's a four-year felony for a false bomb threat and that's what he's been charged with," said chief assistant Charlevoix County Prosecutor, Shayne Fanara. "He has been placed in non-secure detention and given pre-adjudication probation with a probation officer (similar to when an adult is given bail or bond.)"

A more lenient sentence which the student could receive would be if the judge presiding over his case gave him a plea under advisement, which is similar to a deferred sentence for good behavior.

"His next court date has not been scheduled yet, but there will be a pretrial conference and an adjudication to set a plea," Fanara said. "We get about one (bomb threat at local schools) a year. One year we had two."

Fanara said there has never been a real bomb involved with juvenile bomb threats on any case she's worked on.

for "Assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder."

The victim sustained a wound to his abdomen and was treated and released from Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The perpetrator appeared in family court on Jan. 22. He is currently being held in secure detention at a facility in Indiana. The felony charge is being handled under the jurisdiction of Charlevoix County Probate Court and allows the courts to keep jurisdiction until he's 19.

The juvenile has multiple unrelated charges pending against him including a possession of marijuana charge, a possession with intent to deliver charge and a minor in possession of alcohol charge all out of Emmet County from December 2006.

The Sheriff's Office was assisted at the scene by Charlevoix City Police Department and City of Charlevoix EMS.

Address short on realistic solutions

THE CRYING TOWEL

Benjamin Gohs

A scientific poll of 12 people, a hound dog and a block of cheese shows 70 percent of us watched the president's State of the Union Address last week.

The audience belied Bush's low poll numbers by applauding his patriotic grunts at least 66 times that night.

The chief, who spoke of earmarks, said "The time has come to end this practice." He knows all about "this practice" considering he signed off on a bill which contained 6,300 earmarks to the tune of almost $300 billion.

Next he called to re-authorize No Child Left Behind. Schools must account for their actions, but standardized tests do not best represent a student's ability and teachers are forced to waste time teaching to the test so their students succeed. Then you have tired or vindictive students who blindly fill in the bubbles. And, the act doesn't differentiate between functional local schools and districts which excel only at failing. This act cannot be re-authorized without first undergoing major changes.

The president said, "All our citizens (should) have affordable and available health care." I wish he would be honest. We know he's against national health care, as any good capitalist should. We are no more deserving of affordable health care than we are of cheap gas. He also wants to, "Protect good doctors from junk lawsuits," limiting valid cases and he wants to spend $1.2 billion of our tax money on the African AIDS crisis. The American wallet should not hemorrhage for people who believe STD's are cured by raping children.

Bush said we need to reduce our addiction to oil. I don't care about his crude background or that he will turn ANWR (Arctic National Wildlife Refuge) into a granite Wiffle ball, but the 20th Century was built on massive oil consumption, and humans are not an environmentally frugal bunch. We'll get serious about alternatives when it's too late.

Even I clapped when Bush told the senate to grow some grapes and stop stalling judicial nominees — It's easy, vote up or down.

Now to the War on Terror™ and the Attack on Iraq©. I'm not going to pretend I have a clue on what to do with Iraq — something the president and I have in common. And, if it wasn't so terrifying, I would find it humorous that the president now blames the horrors created by U.S. invasion on the newly created dem-raq-racy. Bush saying the infantile Iraqi government must tidy the mess we made reminds me of when my uncle used to grab my wrists, smack me in the face with my own fists and then say, "Stop hitting yourself. Stop hitting yourself. Stop hitting yourself."

As far as the so-called War on Terror™ goes, I fear something so vague and shapeless as a war on an idea is destined for eternal life. Take The War on Drugs™, which began in the late 1800s and only continues to escalate. The president said 19 men, driven by hate and extremism, boarded planes and killed 3,000 Americans. In turn, U.S. actions have prompted the deaths of at least 20 times that number. When will our thirst for attrition be slated?

The president said, "To win the war on terror we must take the fight to the enemy," but terrorists may exist in every state on the planet. Will our armies invade Canada, Paraguay and North Dakota as well?

Shortly after we achieved victory in Iraq in 2003, Bush said, "The War on Terror™ is not over, yet it is not endless. We do not know the day of final victory, but we have seen the turning of the tide." Last week he said, "The War on Terror™ we fight today is a generational struggle that will continue long after you and I have turned our duties over to others." I do believe that is as close to a confession as we're going to get for his war without end.

People ask for a definition of victory, the administration resists. The truth is, victory as we would like to imagine it is not achievable in this scenario. There will be no Paris Accord, no Treaty of Versailles. As with any determined enemy, well versed in guerilla warfare and spread over a good sized jungle or city, in this case jungles, deserts and cities spanning a globe, the only way to defeat him is by eliminating him. However, the baby born of jihad today will be ready to walk a backpack full of explosives into a nightclub, deli or hospital in six or seven years — Can we complete a campaign of genocide in that short a time?

Bush said give his new plan a chance, but waging an egotistical battle of, "You started it, but we're going to finish it" is not a plan.

In 100 years, no one will remember why they must remove their shoes before entering the grocery store; why they must carry a national I.D. card; or why mandatory, random searches of homes are conducted in America each night. They will only know them to be necessary evils in the War on Terror™.

Don't get me wrong, I'm not one of those who write Bush off as a moron, to do so would relieve him of culpability for some very bad decisions. All in all the State of our Union is good — a testament to the Constitution, America and the people who keep her running — not the result of one man waging what appears to be a holy war driven by confusion, anger and delusions of grandeur — no, it is the State of the World for which I am concerned.

Let us hope the great decider has some better news for us come January 2008.

LETTERS to the editor

UNFOUNDED MEAN-SPIRITED RANT

Editor:

I write to express my disappointment in your Jan. 17 piece demanding accountability for what you regard as police misconduct. Your mean-spirited rant draws unsupported conclusions from a random assortment of untimely incidents, and offers wild assertions about "thousands of incidents of illegal activities involving police." You would have the reader believe that police misconduct is rampant in the town where you live and work. Although you claim to be angered and accuse police of molesting the public trust by abusing their authority and ignoring their oath, I suspect the real facts are that you and your family have been well-served and protected by city and county law enforcement.

Most of your examples are well out of date and took place in urban areas of southern Michigan, which more resembles a third world country compared to the crime in Charlevoix. The two local examples of old news you do drag out are instances where problems between a husband and wife got out of hand and overflowed into the public arena. There is nothing in those situations that would support your condemnation of an entire profession. Was it misconduct? Apparently. Was accountability ignored? Hardly. The very fact that those problems were identified to the public and were addressed by the appropriate authorities in a manner that resulted in career-damaging consequences is evidence there is no one here sweeping any problems with police conduct under any rug.

Last summer, I came close to leaving Charlevoix and did a comparison of about two dozen cities nationwide listed in books and magazines as desirable places to live. I compared economic and demographic data that made them look pretty attractive, particularly compared to this area's miserable economic condition. I also compared federal crime statistics for all types of crime, and found that Charlevoix was far and away the safest place I could live. The reason I and my family (and you and your family) can live as securely as we do is, in large measure, because of the diligence and dedication of Charlevoix city and county law enforcement personnel. They are overworked, understaffed, underpaid, and, if your writing is any indication, unappreciated. But every day they are out there engaged on your behalf in an ongoing battle against drunk drivers, drug dealers, child molesters and every other sort of common criminal and deviant living among us. They deserve your thanks, not your demand for accountability or insinuations of misconduct.

WRITER DOESN'T UNDERSTAND DISCIPLINE PROCESS

Editor:

The title of Benjamin Gohs' article, "Demand Accountability for Police Misconduct," is misleading and not supported by the content of the article.

To the contrary, the article speaks to the discipline that department administrators imposed in the cases cited. Law enforcement administrators do not and will not tolerate officer misconduct. However, they must deal with an officer's right to due process, labor agreements and arbitration decisions. Mr. Gohs' reference to the Ann Arbor officer who, "is on paid leave, not fired, pending the outcome of her February hearing," is an example. Her case must be handled in accordance with applicable labor contracts and departmental policies. She has the right to a hearing rather than being summarily fired. It is apparent that Mr. Gohs is not well informed when it comes to disciplinary processes. Perhaps he needs to do some research before he jumps to conclusions on these cases.

The article lends itself to sensationalism rather than journalism.

RANDOM ACT OF KINDNESS

Editor:

I want to personally thank the kind, caring person who returned my brand new Nikon digital camera. I had gotten that camera for a Christmas gift from my aunt. I had recently lost it at one of the high school boys' basketball games, and thankfully someone returned it.

I am so grateful and thankful that they had returned it. Thank you so very much.

Input sought at Cool Cities vision session

The final information gathering round in Charlevoix's Cool Cities initiative will take place on Jan. 30 and 31.

Phone and business survey results gathered since December will be combined with information gleaned from focus group discussions on Jan. 30 and a Community Vision Session to take place on Jan. 31 to provide the critical community input portion of the Cool Cities study.

The Community Vision Session will take place from 7 to 8:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Jan. 31 at Charlevoix Public Library.

Consultants with the firm, HyettPalma will be on-hand at the session to listen and facilitate. The consultants will then use the information from the business and phone surveys as well as from the focus groups and vision sessions to formulate the Cool Cities Blueprints for Michigan's Downtowns market study for Charlevoix and to develop a five-year economic enhancement action strategy.

The group is expected to formulate preliminary findings before they leave town on Feb. 1. However, the complete study, which will include recommendations as to what direction Charlevoix should move in to enhance its economic viability, will not be ready for three to four months.

For more information, call Cool Cities coordinator, Keith Carey at (231) 547-3270.

Feb. 8 forum addresses health care in northern Michigan

Health care in northern Michigan will be the topic of a public forum on Feb. 8 at Charlevoix Public Library.

The program is free and open to the public.

"Business owners, employees, the uninsured, health care providers and the community at large will find this program to be an excellent opportunity to learn more about this critical issue from a broad spectrum of informed viewpoints," said John Kurtz, recently retired president of Charlevoix State Bank and one of the planners of the program.

The discussion portion of the program will be moderated by Annemarie Conway, the Charlevoix High School government teacher.

The keynote speaker will be Jack Wheeler, Ph.D., professor of health management and policy at the University of Michigan's school of public health. Wheeler is an economist who has done extensive research in health care management and the economics of health care delivery.

Spencer Johnson, president of the Michigan Health and Hospital Association, will also appear. A study completed last summer for his association showed that health care is Michigan's largest private sector employer, providing 737,000 jobs that pump $31.6 billion into Michigan's economy.

Also participating will be William Jackson, president and CEO of Charlevoix Area Hospital; Niki Kenny, director of the Community Free Clinic in Petoskey; James Jeakle, M.D., of Charlevoix Women's Health Care; and Ben Cohen, business health benefits consultant with Kushner and Co.

The program's presenters will analyze the history of health care and the state of our system as it is today. Policy options for the future will be discussed, ranging from comprehensive and universal health coverage to consumer-driven health plans.

Audience participation will be encouraged.

Doors will open at 5:15 p.m. The program will start at 6 p.m.

North Central Michigan College will offer continued education units to health care professionals who attend this program.

A Grizzly Adventure @ the library
The Charlevoix Public Library is kicking off their Travel Series with a grizzly adventure. Kimberli Bindschatel, an accomplished photographer and publisher of Whisper in the Woods Nature Journal will be sharing her Alaskan adventures with the community on Tuesday, February 6 at 7:00 pm. Kimberli finds her own inspiration in nature and has built her life around bringing that joy to others. "Kimberli will journey with us to Alaska and we will experience close up, the lives of coastal grizzlies," states Linda Adams, librarian. Kimberli's slide show presentation will begin at the Grizzly sanctuary and go beyond into the wilds of Alaska. OBITUARIES

Douglas Gregory: Died on Dec. 22, 2006

Douglas F. Gregory, 69, of East Jordan and formerly of Charlevoix, died on Friday, Dec. 22 at Grandview Medical Care Facility, after a long illness. He was born in Charlevoix and spent many years in Farmington.

When in good health he enjoyed sailing and was a member of the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club. His greatest pride was his three children and four grandchildren. He is survived by his children, Charlevoix resident, Jennifer Clubb, Jill Cooper of Grosse Pointe and Jon Gregory of Denver, Colo.; his grandchildren, including Charlevoix residents Brandon Story and Christopher Clubb and Ashley and Jay Cooper; his sister, Sue Soulliere and her husband Jim; and Doug's niece, Jessica McDonnell, of Charlevoix.

His parents, Willis and Margaret Gregory and his brother, Tom, who passed away this fall, preceded him in death.

A private service will be held in early March. Arrangements are being handled by the Winchester Funeral Home. Memorial contributions may be directed to the American Diabetes Foundation.

William Preston: March 1, 1919 - Jan. 19, 2007

William F. Preston, 87, of Charlevoix, formerly of Manistee and Wildwood, Fla. died Friday, Jan. 19 following a brief illness at Sunnybank Assisted Living Residence where the staff provided loving care and support.

William was born on March 1, 1919 in Jackson, the son of William F. and Blanche (Douglas) Preston. He married Betty Jane Hamilton, also of Jackson, on March 16, 1942 in San Antonio, Texas during World War II.

At age 22, upon graduating from Jackson Community College, William served with pride in the U.S. Army Air Force in World War II from 1941 to 1946, achieving the rank of Major. William was a pilot in the Air Force following graduation from Corsicana, Randolph Field, and Advanced Flying School at Kelly Field in Texas. After William served as a B-24 and B-29 flight instructor, William was assigned a B-29 crew which was stationed in Guam and flew missions over Japan in the 21st Bomb Squadron 501st Bomb Group. He was awarded the Asiatic Pacific Service Medal, American Campaign Service Medal, World War II Victory Medal and a special Air Medal for saving the life of a Colonel. He enjoyed many reunions with his crew over the years.

William owned and operated the Preston Insurance Agency in Manistee from 1952-1985 when he and wife retired to Wildwood, Fla. He is a lifetime member of the VFW, American Legion, Elks Lodge, Kiwanis Club and the First Congregational Church in Manistee.

He is survived by his wife of 64 years, Betty Jane; his son, William F. (Pei-Chen) Preston of Tucson, Ariz.; daughter, Linda (John) Yaroch of Charlevoix; four grandchildren, Heather Preston (Dean) of Traverse City, Lisa (Chad) Eckhardt of Manistee, Kelly Yaroch of Charlevoix and Thomas (Blair) Yaroch of Rochester; and 7 great-grand children.

A graveside service with military honors will take place in the spring at Brookside Cemetery in Charlevoix.

In memory of William, memorials may be directed to Hospice of Northwest Michigan.

The Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix is handling arrangements.

Elizabeth Seese: May 10, 1924 - Jan. 22, 2007

Elizabeth B. Seese, 82, of Charlevoix, died Monday, Jan. 22 at Boulder Park Terrace Nursing Home in Charlevoix.

A funeral took place at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. Pastor Pete Aronson of the Safe Harbor Baptist Church in Charlevoix officiated and burial will take place in Barnard Cemetery.

Elizabeth was born May 10, 1924, in Charlevoix, the daughter of Timothy and Byrd (Sweet) Shores. She married William Seese on Oct. 18, 1945, and he preceded her in death on Dec. 18, 1996. Elizabeth loved playing softball, snowmobiling and bowling. She was employed by Hooker's Cleaners in Petoskey for over 30 years, retiring in 1977.

Elizabeth is survived by her sons, Gregory (Sheri) Seese of Charlevoix, and Albert (Joyce) Seese of Ellsworth; daughter, Patricia (Art) Sutton of Charlevoix; 14 grandchildren; several great-grandchildren; one great-great-grandchild; sisters, Helen Cunningham, Patricia Haggerty and Katherine Ager all of Charlevoix. Her brothers, Joseph, Timothy and Richard preceded her in death.

Events planners: 'The shows will go on'

City council approves alternate location for summer events

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

2007 events scheduled for White and Erber parking lots:

June 16 4th Annual Taste of Charlevoix
June 22-23 Summer Solstice Art Show
July 14-15 39th Annual Charlevoix Art and Craft Show
July 21 15th Annual Street Legends classic Car Show
Aug. 11 49th Annual Waterfront Art Fair
Oct. 12-14 28th Annual Apple Festival

This summer, local festival planners won't have their number one pick of event venues, East Park, but they will have a prime downtown location.

The East Park renovation project will extend through the 2007 tourist season leaving festival planners who have typically called the park home, homeless.

"Due to construction everybody has to make some concessions and we all understand this is only for this season and back to normal next year with a more beautiful, renovated park," City of Charlevoix street superintendent, Pat Elliott, said.

The $4.7 million East Park overhaul is expected to begin in late February with demolition of existing buildings that include the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce, the Odmark Pavilion commonly called the "bandshell," the portable bathroom trailer and the fish pond. It also includes construction of a new performance pavilion and harbormaster's facility as well as site work, landscaping and underground excavation.

The grand opening for the entire East Park and marina project is expected to take place on Sept. 23, 2007.

In an attempt to accommodate the wants of local merchants and events planners, Charlevoix City Council recently approved an alternate event location. The decision was based on a recommendation by a three-person committee, made up of Elliott, Charlevoix City Police Chief, Gerard Doan and mayor, Norman Carlson Jr.

Many festival events typically held in the park, including Taste of Charlevoix, Street Legends Car Show, the Waterfront Art Fair and Apple Festival will have use of the Erber and White parking lots which extend from Clinton to Mason Street, parallel to Bridge Street, as well as the first half of the 100 block of Mason Street. The Beacon Center lot between Mason and Antrim streets will be open. The Venetian Festival was not considered in this festival plan.

The portion of the Erber lot that runs behind Central Drugs and the alley that runs behind Birdie's Beauty Shoppe will remain open to facilitate deliveries to businesses.

The 49th Annual Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair is losing its namesake location but festival planners say the show must go on.

Chair of the Waterfront Art Fair, Mary Beth McGraw, said

Shows that have traditionally been staged in East Park, like the Street Legends Car Show pictured above, will be moved to the White and Erber parking lots during summer 2007 to accommodate East Park construction.

New event venue results in loss of 87 parking spaces

EVENTS

"Everybody is working together to make the best of the situation. There are a lot of things to figure out. We'll work those out and make this a quality show."

'With the events schedule in place, and the venue locked, one thing is for sure — the summer will have its signature crowd attractions. But where will patrons park? The plan will result in the loss of 87 prime parking spots.

Doan said discussions have taken place about providing a shuttle service to parking lots at and around the Charlevoix Municipal Airport to make up for the loss.

"It will cause some inconvenience but I don't think it will be a major inconvenience. I think people will adapt. They're going to have to," he said.

As far as safety is concerned, Doan said the proposed location is even safer than East Park. With a required fire lane maintained on Mason Street and having people confined to the lots, he said fewer people will be crossing busy streets.

Over the past couple of months, the festival committee has also looked at other sites, including the library area, Ferry Beach and Michigan Beach. The consensus among festival planners and merchants was to keep things as close to downtown as possible.

"It isn't an ideal setup. But when the park isn't available it's our next best option," Doan said.

Venetian coordinators strive to keep festival downtown

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT

As event planners strategize hosting their summer attractions in two downtown parking lots, coordinators of Charlevoix's main event — the $250,000 Venetian Festival — are exploring their resources to keep the bulk of the week-long festival in downtown Charlevoix.

The 77th Annual Venetian Festival will take place July 22-28. In the past, main events like Kids' Day, the Rhythms of Venetian concert series and the stadium fireworks display have been centered around East Park.

With the park under heavy construction this summer, Dan Barron, president of Charlevoix Venetian Festival Inc., said his group's focus is on keeping the festival downtown.

"We are trying to keep the festival centered in the downtown area. That's one of the most unique aspects of Charlevoix Venetian Festival — the concentration of events and activities in the downtown area for people of all generations," he said.

Rhythms of Venetian will be scaled back to include local and regional acts. Performances will be scheduled simultaneously in Bridge Park and three-quarters of the first tier of East Park, closest to Bridge Street.

Kids' Day will be moved to the Charlevoix Public Library property at 220 Clinton St. And spectators will have to jockey for seats for the stadium fireworks display and grand electrical boat parade on July 28 in Round Lake.

The Charlevoix Venetian Festival carnival location hasn't been finalized. Barron will approach Charlevoix City Council at 7 p.m. on Feb. 5 at city hall with a proposal to stage the carnival in the same location as the past, the White and Erber parking lots which extend from Clinton to Mason Street, parallel to Bridge Street, as well as the entire 100 block of Mason Street.

"They are allowing the other festivals to stage in that area of Mason Street. And we've proved that fire safety access is available. The carnival can be configured to provide fire safety access to buildings on Bridge and Mason," Barron said.

The one member of Charlevoix City Council who will need some convincing before supporting a motion to allow the carnival to continue on Mason Street is newly elected First Ward Charlevoix City Councilman, Lyle Gennett.

Chase ends in fiery crash, arrests

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

Multiple police agencies were involved in a pursuit that started in Emmet County and continued into Charlevoix County where it ended with a fiery crash.

The pursuit started on U.S. 31 in Emmet County when a Michigan State Police unit tried to pull over a pickup truck driving at excessive rates of speed after the passenger tossed a Budweiser can out the window and the driver refused to stop.

The chase then continued down Camp Daggett, Church, Old Horton Creek and Boyne City roads. During that part of the pursuit, the Michigan State Police unit was rammed three times.

A Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office unit became involved in the pursuit on Horton Bay Road, where the sheriff's office unit was rammed and forced off the road. The second Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office unit responding to the pursuit approached the fleeing vehicle on Boyne City Road near See Road and had to take a defensive approach as the driver tried to hit him head on. The pursuit continued out U.S. 31 heading towards Petoskey, when the Michigan State Police unit was rammed again, disabling the unit. The two Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office units still pursued the vehicle attempting to alert oncoming traffic of the reckless driver approaching.

The vehicle being pursued left U.S. 31 North and headed down Burgess Road, Old U.S. 31, Quarterline Road, Maple Grove Road, Church Road and then into an area of two tracks referred to by locals as the Ponderosa area.

The two Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office units were still in pursuit when the vehicle went over a steep embankment, rolled over and caught fire. Both deputies exited their vehicles and attempted to put the fire out and remove the occupants from the burning vehicle. The passengers and driver had to be dragged out by deputies and pulled to safety before the vehicle burst into flames and was totally engulfed.

The driver, Sean Michael Dennis, a 24-year-old Petoskey resident, was arrested and arraigned on Jan. 26 on multiple felony charges including two counts of felonious assault which carry a possible four-year prison sentence each; two counts of third-degree fleeing and eluding, which each carry a possible five-year sentence; and operating while intoxicated-third offense, a felony punishable by one to five years in prison.

One of his two passengers, Daniel Joseph Munson, 24, of Petoskey was also arrested on an outstanding warrant for failure to appear in court on a drunk driving charge. He is not being charged in relation to the chase.

The incident resulted in $3,700 in damage to the Michigan State Police cruiser and $10,000 in damage to the sheriff's office vehicles.

Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater praised the efforts of Sergeant Pat Avery and Deputy Bill Church for their efforts, using good judgment, common sense and excellent law enforcement procedures in attempts to stop this vehicle before someone was seriously injured.

"Without Sergeant Avery and Deputy Church risking their own lives to rescue the three from the burning vehicle, this pursuit could have ended much differently for the driver and his two passengers," sheriff Lasater said.

The two deputies were assisted at the scene by Charlevoix Sheriff's Auxiliary Officer Don Williams.

Venetian to use Bridge Park, library for events locations

VENETIAN

Charlevoix Fire Department's ability to respond to a structure fire in the vicinity of the Masonic Lodge at 100 Mason St. is compromised when the Venetian Festival carnival is staged there.

In a written response to those concerns, fire chief, Paul Ivan, states, "The location of the Venetian Festival carnival does limit the fire department's apparatus placement from what is normally available. Even with these limits, access to the buildings that border on Mason Street during the carnival is the same as buildings like the Beacon Center (which is in the center of the 400 block of Bridge Street) all year long."

Students score above average on MEAP test

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

The fall 2006 Michigan Educational Assessment Program (MEAP) test scores were released by the state last week and Charlevoix Public Schools showed serious improvement over last year's scores.

Charlevoix High School assistant principal and curriculum director for Charlevoix Public Schools, Suzanne Klinger, is pleased with the scores.

"Overall, I think we did outstanding when you compare our scores to the state's MEAP (scores)," she said. "With 28 tests taken, we're ahead of state levels in 24 of those."

She added, "Obviously, if 86 percent of our grades are above the state, I think we're pretty successful in that area."

Most of Charlevoix students' scores were improved from last year's scores.

Suzanne Klinger

"We've spent a lot of time over the last few years aligning our curriculum to the state K-8 Grade Level Content Expectations and also around instructional strategies," Klinger said.

Klinger attributes the school's focus on closing gaps and removing redundancies from the local education system for higher test scores.

One area in need of improvement, she said, is writing.

Klinger said improving the lowest of all scores, writing, can be fixed by focusing on the six traits of good writing.

"Educating parents on what those components are and how they can support them at home," Klinger said, will help children become more astute scribes.

The following are the test scores for Charlevoix Public Schools for 2006 and 2005:

Third-grade students were tested in math, reading, writing and integrated English language arts (ELA) with scores of 94.7, 94.7, 56 and 84 percent respectively compared to 2005 scores of 90.3, 84.7, 43.1 and 79.2 respectively.

Fourth-grade students tested in the same subjects in the same order met or exceeded with 80, 79.7, 28.4 and 74.3 percent respectively compared to 2005 scores of 88.6, 91.4, 54.3 and 81.4 percent respectively.

Fifth-grade students were tested in math, reading, science, writing and English language arts.

Nearly 80 percent of students met or exceeded standards in math, 89 percent met or exceeded standards in reading, 88.2 percent met or exceeded standards in science, 67.1 percent met or exceeded standards in writing and 84.9 percent met or exceeded standards in English language arts compared to 77.1, 83.1, 70, 60.2 and 79.5 percent respectively from 2005.

Sixth graders were tested in math, reading, social studies, writing and English language arts.

The following percentages are for students who met or exceeded standards: Math 76.1 percent, reading 90.8 percent, social studies 74.2 percent, writing 79.3 percent and English language arts 87.4 percent compared to 2005's scores of 69.8, 86.5, 85.5, 90.4 and 86.5 percent respectively.

Seventh graders were tested in math, reading, writing and English language arts.

The following percentages reflect students who met or exceeded standards: Math 77.4, reading 91.3, writing 80.8 and English language arts 88.5 compared to 2005 scores of 81.8, 93.8, 89.6, 95.8 percent respectively.

Eighth graders were tested in math, reading, science, writing and English language arts.

The following percentages reflect students who met or exceeded standards: Math 88.5, reading 91.5, science 94.9, writing 85.1 and English language arts 86.2. The 2005 scores were 76.2, 84.3, 89.7, 69.9 and 80.7 percent respectively.

Of the 84 ninth graders, who were tested in social studies, 88.1 percent of them met or exceeded testing standards. The scores were down from 91.8 percent in 2005.

Help your Children Heal from the Pain of Divorce through Community Reformed Church's DivorceCare for Kid's (DC4K) program

How are your children feeling?

Are your children angry, hurt & confused about your divorce? Finding help for your children can be frustrating. DivorceCare for Kids, DC4K, provides a safe, fun place where your children will...

- Learn to understand their feelings
- Express their emotions appropriately
- Fell better about themselves
- Develop coping skills
- Be introduced to biblical concepts that will bring comfort

More about DivorceCare for Kids.

Some children struggle deeply with the separation and divorce, while others seem to bounce back quickly. In the long run, all children are affected. DC4K will help minimize and eliminate the short and long-term negative effects of divorce on your children's schoolwork, emotional health and spiritual life.

As your children begin to heal from the pain and confusion, their relationships with you, God and others will grow healthy and strong.

DC4K group meetings are offered each Thursday afternoon, from 4-5:30 p.m. at the Charlevoix Elementary School and each Tuesday afternoon, from 3-5 p.m. at the Ellsworth Elementary School during the months of February through May.

Connect your children with our DC4K group today! Heal together by attending our DivorceCare groups for Adults.

Illuminated signs may shine in Charlevoix

Proposal bans billboards, permits internally lit signs

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

McDonald's signature golden arches, Burger King's traditional glowing buns and 7-Eleven's trademark beaming green and orange sign may soon light up Charlevoix's night sky.

Charlevoix City Council will host a public hearing at 7 p.m. on Feb. 5 in council chambers at city hall to consider sign ordinance revisions that would open the door for internally lit signs outside the central business district and shut it to billboards altogether.

According to Greg Johnroe, one of four owners of 24 Burger King restaurants in Michigan, including the Charlevoix location, during the 15 years Burger King has had a local presence, they have received complaints about their wooden sign.

"We've had complaints that it looks dark when people drive by," he said.

While this may confuse patrons, Johnroe said overall he doesn't feel it has hurt business.

"I don't think it has that much. Our competition has the same issues," he said.

Johnroe said if city council approves the sign ordinance revision, Burger King will weigh the pros and cons and probably make the change to an internally lit sign. His competition, neighboring McDonald's, will light up its arches if council passes the revision.

Owner of Charlevoix McDonald's, Doug Rozek, who bought the eatery in December 2003, said, "If it can be lit it will be a nice touch to let customers know we're open."

McDonald's currently has roof beams lit during regular evening business hours. Signs at Rozek's other McDonald's locations, including those in Cheboygan, Petoskey, Indian River and Rogers City, are all internally lit.

Rozek said he would also be interested in adding an LED lit electronic greeter board that advertises the day's specials if sign ordinance revisions pass.

City planner, Gerry Harsch, said the planning commission unanimously made the recommendation to city council to approve the sign ordinance change due to concerns with glare from up-lighting and other unsightly measures businesses take to light their signs.

"A well-designed interior lit sign can frequently be more pleasing than what people come up with when forced to do exterior lighting," Harsch said.

JJ Tuncat, manager of Charlevoix 7-Eleven, said reducing glare complaints would be one reason his store would be on board with making the change to an internally lit sign.

"We get a lot of complaints about lights on the sign and canopy," he said. "We would love to (make the change)."

Currently, internally lit signs are prohibited by the sign ordinance throughout the City of Charlevoix. Some exceptions have been achieved by variances including a sign at Harbor Industries on the south side and at Don's IGA on the north side.

Council to consider sign ordinance revision

SIGN

If city council passes the ordinance revision, businesses outside the central business district will be able to implement internally lit signs without a variance.

Those that will still be prohibited are located in the central business district which encompasses both sides of Bridge Street from and including the Oleson's Plaza north to the Pine River Channel. It also includes the properties between Bridge and State Street from the Oleson's Plaza to Park Avenue.

Harsch said he hasn't gauged what the response from the business community will be.

"I think new businesses coming in that have as a standard format internally lit signs will want to have one," he said.

If the sign revision is approved, many businesses will jump for joy at the prospect to shine and others who want to advertise products and services in billboard format will be out of luck.

In 1997, Harsch was told by city attorney, Jim Young, that the ordinance needed to be revised to include billboards so it wouldn't be deemed exclusionary.

"If we don't have some provisions for them we could end up with billboards in places we don't want them," Harsch said.

The city found that if signs were regulated in the zoning ordinance as opposed to through the sign ordinance — a stand alone police ordinance — they could be legally prohibited. In the revision, billboards are not a permitted use in the zoning ordinance.

The revised ordinance proposal is a mixed bag for Charlevoix resident and long-time Keep Charlevoix Beautiful member, Bruce MacArthur, who is a staunch opponent of billboards and internally lit signs.

"Keep Charlevoix Beautiful was not organized for petunias, it was organized because we were concerned about signs and the impact of signs on the impression you get of the community. Now we'll have internally lit signs as we enter and leave Charlevoix," he said.

Plan Revision offers glimpse of future growth

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

Enclosed in this week's edition of the Charlevoix Courier is the City of Charlevoix 2006 Plan Revision, the basis of the city's revised master plan.

"It really identifies the kinds of activities the city will undertake as it goes out into the future," city planner, Gerry Harsch said.

He added that area residents should take the time to read the 12-page plan because, "There may be things people disagree with or the public thinks should be included but aren't."

The information is broken down into six broad goals that are dissected into objectives which taper down into individual policies. The goals and objectives will be implemented using the city's zoning ordinance.

The six goals are to enhance Charlevoix's beauty, maintain its unique features, maintain the scale of the community, maintain community diversity, enhance Charlevoix as a full-time year-round community and recognize the city's connection with neighboring municipalities.

The plan advocates accessory apartments, which aren't currently allowed, to address the issue of affordable housing and discusses a need to implement new urbanist principles which recognize the need for greater density in residential areas. On the commercial side of things, the plan recognizes there's very little developable land in the city and encourages industrial development in cooperation with surrounding townships.

The master plan revision has been in the works for over two years. In the end, the new plan will guide capital improvements and development in the city for the next 20 years.

It was last updated in 1984. While Harsch said a revision is overdue, he said a more long-range plan makes sense in Charlevoix, a city that is virtually "built out."

"In a growing community the plan should be revised about every five years — we're not a changing community. There's very little to grow into. It's more about what we have in place than about new development," he said.

The city is within less than 25 acres of being totally built out. That acreage is concentrated along May Street, south of the new apartment complex, a piece behind the Wojan Window and Door Corporation plant, about eight acres by Irish Boat Storage off Carpenter Avenue and Pete Phillips' piece off Petoskey Avenue on Charlevoix's north side.

Harsch said the majority of this property is zoned residential.

The enclosed plan revision includes results from a survey distributed in November 2005 to gauge residents' goals and objectives for growth in the city as well as extensive work by the City of Charlevoix Planning Commission.

Once the master plan has been adopted, the planning commission will work with Charlevoix City Council to support the plan's goals through zoning and a capital improvement plan.

Charlevoix City Council will consider adopting this plan following a public hearing at 6 p.m. on Feb. 12 in council chambers at city hall.

Find help and healing for the hurt of separation and divorce through Community Reformed Church's DivorceCare program

You don't have to go through it alone...

DivorceCare is a friendly, caring group of people who will walk alongside you through one of life's most difficult experiences. Don't go through separation or divorce alone.

Most people will tell you that separation and divorce are the most painful and stressful experiences they've ever faced. It's a confusing time when you feel isolated and have lots of questions about issues you've never faced before. Our DivorceCare group meets weekly to help you face these challenges and move toward rebuilding you life.

A Seminar with Experts

DivorceCare seminars and support groups are led by people who understand what you are going through and want to help. You'll gain access to valuable DivorceCare resources to help you deal with the pain of the past and look forward to rebuilding your life.

During the first 30-40 minutes of the meeting, each DivorceCare group watches a video seminar featuring experts on divorce and recovery subjects. These videos are produced in an interesting way to watch television, a magazine format featuring expert interviews, real-life case studies and on-location video.

A Support Group with Focus

Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix offers DivorceCare recovery support groups that meet on Tuesdays & Thursday evenings, (choose the one that fits your schedule) from 7-9p.m. at the "Servants Quarters." 100 Oak Street (Located next door to the Community Reformed Church, one mile north of the bridge.)

231-675-1925

After viewing the video, DivorceCare group participants spend time as a support group, discussing what was presented in that week's video seminar and what is going on in the lives of group members.

Centurion celebrates milestone birthday

Ada Kelly, a Boulder Park resident originally from Columbus, Ohio, will be turning 100 on Feb. 2.

Her life has spanned a century of political turmoil and remarkable technological progress. She has witnessed a myriad of inventions that have changed the face of technology from electric lights to lasers, from radios to iPods, from wringer washing machines to push button appliances, from Model T's to turbo jets. She survived the stock market crash, the Great Depression, two world wars and countless others under the leadership of 18 presidents, from Theodore Roosevelt to George W. Bush. In order to adapt to all the determining factors which shaped her life, Kelly has always maintained a zest for life.

Living 100 years is a milestone that most of us will never achieve, but Kelly has never been one to give up on life. After her husband died in 1981 and until she was in her mid-80s, she lived an active life on her own in her home in Columbus, Ohio, close to neighbors and friends who checked up on her. But 15 years ago, Kelly finally admitted that her vision was causing problems in measuring out her diabetic insulin injections. With the same positive attitude that carried her through life to that point, she moved to Charlevoix, her earthly possessions packed up in a U-Haul truck.

She moved in with her son, Rich and his wife, Anne Kelly. Her five grandchildren agree, that she added dimension and insight into their very busy lives. Kelly lived with her son's family in their home until two years ago, enjoying the day to day happenings that comprise family life: Church, school, ball games, concerts, plays, family vacations and parties, graduations and weddings and eventually, the birth of eight great-grandchildren.

"Several years ago, while Ada was recuperating from one of her many bouts in the hospital, I was able to sit her down and have her recount her life story," her daughter-in-law, Anne, said. "We accomplished this over the period of a few sessions, which is remarkable when you consider that we were spanning nearly a century. Sometimes her thoughts would wander and I'd have to draw her back. Sometimes I'd have to use an interviewer's questioning or prompting techniques. Even though she had not yet lost her ability to recall, she was easily exhausted after searching through her memories for the ones she chose to share."

Courtesy photo

Ada Kelly, a Boulder Park resident originally from Columbus, Ohio, will be turning 100 on Feb. 2.

Her story will be an heirloom for her grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

"It made me marvel at the continuum of life," Anne said. "Most of us are born, we are nurtured or not, we establish relationships, we learn by our mistakes or don't, we achieve a few major, but mostly minor accomplishments, and hopefully we leave a legacy of sorts when we die."

Kelly is still alive at 100. However, after suffering several close calls with death, and living with congestive heart failure and diabetes for many years, and after losing almost every contemporary including her husband, two daughters and recently, her only son, one has to believe in the human power of sheer determination to survive.

"Ada's legacy is not found in money or the fruits of scholarly pursuit. She is a simple, gracious person with many friends and a family that admires her for her many attributes. Among these are patience, her inner strength, her unconditional love, her non-judgmental attitude and her easy sense of humor. Her former expertise at cookie baking and entertaining, her ability to whip up everything from a Swiss steak dinner to a carefree cocktail and her uncanny dedication to the Ohio State Buckeyes and sports in general, have endeared her to all of us. Her legacy is how she touched all of our lives. We see beyond the failings of the mind and body, the loss of mobility, vision and hearing, and embrace her indestructible spirit. We will be playing the Ohio State Fight Song at our family's private dinner celebration with Ada on Feb. 3."

Hey Jane!
I feel my daughter is being a hypocrite. When her daughter wanted to live with a boyfriend during the last year of college everybody had a conniption! She and her husband are very committed in their church values and their position is that living together is sinful and that there should be no sexual relations unless the couple is married. I agree with those values particularly when it comes to me! I've been living in a retirement community and have met another love of my life and we want to get married. My daughter doesn't feel this is a good decision. She suggests that we should just live together because marriage at our age is too complicated. Why is marriage good for the young and not a good idea for seniors? I think she just wants to make sure he doesn't get my money.

U-Haul opens Charlevoix dealer at Viatec site

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

Whether you are a college student, snowbird or just need to move a bed from one side of town to the other, the new authorized U-Haul dealership on the corner of U.S. 31 and Martin Road can help.

From boxes, hand trucks, four by eight trailers or 14-foot moving trucks, Dave Balyo has what you need.

"The fact that you can take the equipment anywhere and leave it there, that most of the equipment is fairly new are advantages to using U-Haul," Balyo said. "You can rent a small trailer (4X8) for as low as $9.95. The most you can spend on a trailer, in town, is $29.95 a day for a 24-hour period."

Balyo said truck rental rates run the range of $19.95 per day plus mileage to $39.95 per day plus mileage. The 26-foot truck would cost .59 cents per mile on the weekdays and .79 cents per mile on the weekends.

As required by the U-Haul company, Balyo operates the authorized dealership out of his main business, Greenskeeper Landscape Maintenance.

"They (U-Haul) wanted a location here in Charlevoix," he said. "They used to have one on the south end of town, but since that closed, the other dealerships in the area have been taking Charlevoix's traffic."

If Balyo does not have what you need, he will work with the other authorized dealers in the area: Petoskey, Boyne City and Conway.

"Whether someone is moving up from Tennessee or moving out of the area, they can pick the truck up or drop the truck off from me and I'll do the best to accommodate them to get the truck to their preferred location," he said. "If you need it on the spot and we have it to rent (for in-town use) we'll do that."

While the end of December may not be known as a time of frenzy for business activity, Balyo said his first few weeks since have been positive.

"I wasn't sure what to expect, but it's been surprisingly busy," he said. "Of course, I got started at the end of December and at the end of the month people's leases are up and students (were) traveling back and forth to school."

While Balyo's wife, Angela, is currently helping him with his new business, he said he will likely hire at least one person if things continue to pick up into summer.

Call (231) 547-1076 from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday and by appointment on Saturday. The Charlevoix U-Haul location is closed on Sunday.

Bay Winds pays bonus dividend to members

Bay Winds Federal Credit Union paid a bonus dividend of over $250,000 to its member-owners on Dec. 31. The board of directors declared this special year-end bonus dividend as a way of thanking the membership for their continued support and participation.

The bonus dividend was based on dividends earned on qualifying share accounts and/or interest paid on applicable loans in 2006.

"Member response to the bonus dividend has been very favorable, especially when understanding that part of the calculation was based on interest paid on consumer loans in addition to savings accounts," said David Leusink, president and chief executive officer of Bay Winds Federal Credit Union.

Bay Winds Federal Credit Union was founded in 1969, and today serves the residents of Charlevoix, Emmet and Antrim counties. Bay Winds Federal Credit Union has more than 17,000 members and $87 million in assets.

SPORTS reviewing the action

Rayders fight back to beat Rams 64-57

BY ALLEN TELGENHOF
SPORTS WRITER

Charlevoix rallied from a 14-point first half deficit to beat Harbor Springs, 64-57, last week in Lake Michigan Conference basketball play. The win kept the Rayders tied with Traverse City St. Francis for first in the league with a 7-1 league record.

"I was pleased with our second half," coach Keith Haske said. "Our energy and intensity went up a couple of notches. Another key was we finally started finishing offensively."

"In the first half, I was impressed with Harbor's energy. They really came out after us, I was disappointed it took us so long to react."

The Rams came out running and gunning, pressing the Rayders full court and shooting three-pointers from all over the court.

They led by as many as 13 in the first quarter, at 21-8. The second quarter was more of the same as they extended the lead to 29-15.

Charlevoix scored the last six points of the half on a Darren Munson driving lay-up, two Derek Friske free throws and an Austin Wilhelm jumper, to leave the floor trailing by only seven, at 33-26.

Wilhelm opened the second half, finding the seams in the Rams' zone defense, hitting two more jump shots to cut the lead to 35-30. Minutes later, baskets by Corey Gotshall, Munson and Justin Friske, pulled the Rayders into the first tie of the night, at 38-38 with 2:27 left in the third period.

Harbor responded with four straight points but a big three-pointer by Kyle Jones closed the third quarter with the Rayders back within one, 42-41.

After the Rams hit another three, to take a four-point lead, Charlevoix went on a 12-0 run, holding Harbor scoreless for three-and-a-half minutes. It was a three-pointer by Ty Haske that gave the Rayders their first lead of the night, at 46-45. Charlevoix would never trail again.

A Mitch Crandall three with 4:43 to go upped the lead to 51-45. Later in the stanza, a Crandall drive and Justin Friske hoop gave the Rayders their largest lead of the night at 57-47.

Harbor Springs cut the lead to 60-57 with 1:29 left in the game but could get no closer.

Crandall, despite a rough 5 for 16 shooting night, led the Rayders with 13 points and 12 rebounds. Justin Friske had 11 points and eight rebounds.

Haske finished with eight points and four assists. Wilhelm and Munson each had eight points and five rebounds. Gotshall contributed seven points and five rebounds.

Charlevoix (10-1 overall) hosted Benzie Central on Tuesday, Jan. 30 and travel to Grayling on Friday, Feb. 2. Results of these contests will appear in next week's Courier.

Charlevoix girls named champs at Knights of Columbus free throw contest

Maggie Hamilton and Katie Mays of Charlevoix won their age divisions in the Knights of Columbus free throw championship. They will now compete at the diocesan level on Feb. 17.

Twelve boys and girls from Charlevoix, Petoskey, Indian River and Cheboygan, ages 9 to 14, were named district champions at the 2006 Knights of Columbus Free Throw Championship and have earned the right to compete at the Diocesan level.

District Deputy #83, Richard H. Witulski, sponsored the district competition at Bishop Baraga school. All youngsters ages 9 to 14 were eligible to participate.

Maggie Hamilton of Charlevoix was the 10-year-old girls' champion and Joey Hislop of Cheboygan was the 10-year-old boys' division winner.

In the 11-year-old bracket, Hanna Scholten of Petoskey was the girls' champion and Dominic Raber of Indian River was the boys' champion.

The 12-year-old winners in the girls' and boys' division were Annie Hansen of Petoskey and Isiah Bevier of Cheboygan.

The 13-year-old girls' division was won by Katie Mays of Charlevoix and the boys' division by Drew Hanel of Indian River.

The 14-year-old champions were Kerby Tamm in the girls' bracket and Jared Goodrich in the boys' both from Petoskey.

Each contestant was allowed 25 free throw attempts in the contests. Ties were settled with successive rounds of five free throws per contestant until a winner emerged.

Each of these winners will compete in the diocesan competition to take place on Feb. 17 at St. Mary School, located at 310 W. Mitchel St. in Gaylord. Winners will move on to the state and international levels.

Wynkoop weighs mining operation options

WYNKOOP

proper permits.

As far as a conflict of interest, Power said, "I don't see anything egregious here. In this case, he's not the one who brought this case to the Zoning Board of Appeals. There is nothing so egregious so as to strike it down on that basis."

It would be extreme and unfair, Power said, to tell board members they may not exercise the same right as other citizens to bring proposals before the board, even if they serve on said boards.

While Power did not budge from his opinion that the Norwood Zoning Board of Appeals had erred in their decision, he said this doesn't mean Wynkoop can never mine the property again. However, reopening the quarry would necessitate Wynkoop obtain a special use permit.

Pending an appeal from Wynkoop, Ferguson will now author a preliminary injunction with input from Wynkoop's attorney, Edgar Roy III.

Roy opted not to argue the appropriateness of the preliminary injunction, but asked Power to allow Wynkoop to fulfill several contractual obligations made prior to the day's proceedings.

Ferguson objected to allowing Wynkoop to conduct any more business on the property.

"We put everyone on notice in January '06 because we felt his (Wynkoop's) actions were in violation of the law," she said. "I was in contact with the (Charlevoix County) Road Commission... but they went ahead all knowing they were at risk."

Wayne Wynkoop

Despite Ferguson's objections, Power allowed Wynkoop to sell the material in question so long as no new mining occurs.

"Pending appeal, we're dealing only with a preliminary injunction," Power said. "I assume you are not asking for permanent action."

Ferguson responded, "I just don't have any sympathy for them."

She wanted to know how the citizens of Norwood could be certain only those three or four piles of stone already unearthed would be removed for sale.

"I presume we'll have an injunction. If Mr. Wynkoop violates the injunction and you catch him, he'll go to jail," Power said. "There is a remedy, is my point."

Power instructed representatives from both parties to visit Wynkoop's property and record the locations of the several piles of limestone which were already contracted to go to entities including the Charlevoix County Road Commission and Drenth Brothers Inc. of Ellsworth.

The injunction and Zoning Board of Appeals proceedings were the second day of mine matters as Power had his hands full with the controversial issue last week when he heard a motion from the mine's opponents on Friday, Jan. 26 requesting Power not perform an on-site visit to the Norwood Limestone Quarry LLC, which had been requested by Wynkoop.

Kirk Wilson, who resides near Wynkoop's property, attended Monday's hearings.

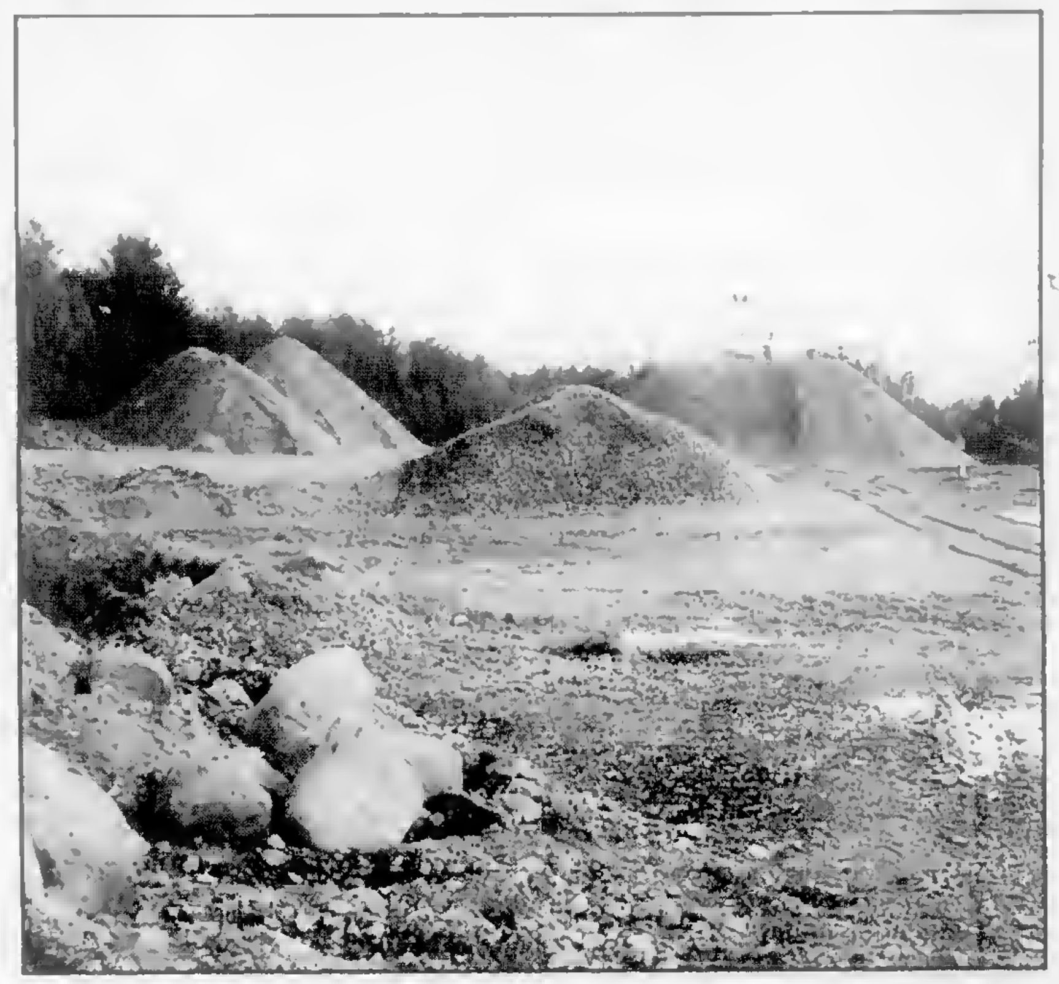
"When he was running for office, he told me he was digging a pond," Wilson said. "If he had told me the truth, I wouldn't have voted for him."

He added, "He has annoyed me with smoke, dust, vibration and noise. I feel like I've already been harmed."

Wilson said at least now Wynkoop will be forced to establish working hours and make some compromises with his mine.

During an interview one day after the hearing, Wynkoop said Power's focus on the abandonment issue was improper.

"I don't feel (Power's decision) was fair. He was supposed to see if the ZBA followed proper procedure in arriving at their decision and whether they utilized all the information and evidence properly," Wynkoop said. "In the beginning of the hearing, the judge said it wasn't his job to make a decision to overturn the ZBA's decision if he disagreed with (them), but that's what he did."



File photo

On Monday, Jan. 30, Traverse City Judge Thomas Power halted Wayne Wynkoop's Norwood Township mining operation located at 01195 Norwood Road. The order allows Wynkoop to fulfill existing material contracts and prohibits any further mining at the site. Wynkoop may appeal the decision or apply to the Norwood Township Planning Commission for a special use permit. If a special use permit is approved, mining operations can continue.

While Wynkoop will spend the next couple weeks deciding whether he will appeal the judge's decision, apply for a special use permit or surrender, he said he fears for the next landowner who comes along with a project.

"I don't think this was a victory or a defeat on anyone's part, I think it was a misfortune," he said. "It did, to some degree, give (Norwood Township Citizens for Health and Safety) that shot of adrenaline that they're right in their actions and everyone else is wrong."

Local man crashes car into Lake Charlevoix

A Charlevoix resident was involved in a car accident that ended in Lake Charlevoix.

The Charlevoix City Police Department is investigating a property damage accident that occurred at approximately 2:15 a.m. on Jan. 17.

Police officers were attempting to locate a Subaru that was speeding on Belvedere Avenue but lost sight of it. A few minutes later, the Subaru was located in Lake Charlevoix after failing to negotiate a curve. The Subaru ended up approximately 125 feet from shore in approximately 3 feet of water.

The 29-year-old driver, Kevin Balch of Charlevoix, was located nearby with minor injuries.

The Charlevoix Police Department was assisted at the scene by the Charlevoix City Fire Department.

According to a press release from the police department, speed and alcohol are believed to have contributed to the crash. An investigation is underway. Charges are pending.

NOTICE OF FORECLOSURE

TO ALL INTERESTED PERSONS:

This firm is a debt collector attempting to collect a debt; any information we obtain will be used for that purpose.

MORTGAGE SALE

Default has been made in the terms and conditions of a mortgage made February 1, 2000, by Gary R. Marvin and Heather R. Marvin, husband and wife, as mortgagors, to The Bank of Northern Michigan, and recorded on February 8, 2000, at Liber 382, Page 077, Charlevoix County Records, as modified by a Modification of Mortgage dated October 1, 2001, and recorded on October 10, 2001, at Liber 438, Page 746, Charlevoix County Records. The entire balance secured by said mortgage has matured and become fully due and payable according to the terms of said mortgage and the promissory note secured thereby, as modified; and on which mortgage there is claimed to be due and unpaid at the date of this notice $226,299.33 principal and $3,253.15 interest; and no legal or equitable proceeding having been instituted to recover the debt or any part of the debt secured by the mortgage; and the power of sale contained in the mortgage having become operative by reason of the default.

Notice is now given that on Friday, February 9, 2007, at 11:00 o'clock a.m., in the main lobby of the Charlevoix County Building, 301 State Street, in Charlevoix, Michigan, that being the building where the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix is held, there will be offered for sale and sold to the highest bidder, at public sale, the premises described in the mortgage, situated in Charlevoix Township, Charlevoix County, Michigan, and described as follows:

Commencing at a square bolt at the West quarter corner of Section 35, Town 34 North, Range 8 West; thence along the West line of said section South 00 deg. 17'41" East 340.35 feet to a T-iron stake on the South line of the North 340.35 feet of the North half of the Southwest quarter of said section; thence along said line North 89 deg. 56'04" East 982.53 feet to a 3/4 in. pipe on the Westerly line of Highway M-66; thence along the Westerly line of Highway M-66 South 22 deg. 15'23" East 288.00 feet to a T-iron stake, being the Point of Beginning of this description; thence continuing along said highway line South 22 deg. 15'23" East 200.00 feet; thence leaving said highway line South 67 deg. 44'56" West 268.26 feet; thence North 23 deg. 09'48" West 200.00 feet to a T-iron stake; thence North 67 deg. 44'37" East 271.43 feet to the point of beginning; being a part of the Northwest quarter of the Southwest quarter of Section 35, Town 34 North, Range 8 West.

This sale is for the purpose of satisfying the amounts due and unpaid on the mortgage, with annual interest at the default rate of 11.5% per year, together with the legal costs and charges of sale, including the attorney fees allowed by law and in the mortgage, and any sums which may be paid by the mortgagee subsequent to the date of this notice to protect its interests in the premises.

The length of the redemption period will be six (6) months from date of sale.

MORTGAGE SALE

Default has occurred in the conditions of a mortgage and assignment (the "Mortgage") made by Lange Limited, L.L.C., a Michigan limited liability company, mortgagor, to Migaldi Family, L.L.C., mortgagee, dated September 22, 2003, and recorded in the Office of the Register of Deeds of Charlevoix County, Michigan, on September 26, 2003, at Liber 574 Pages 419 through 426 inclusive, which mortgage was assigned to GJDM Development, LLC, a Michigan limited liability company, with an address of 3420 South Creyts Road, Lansing, MI 48917 on November 18, 2004 and recorded in the Office of the Register of Deeds of Charlevoix County, Michigan on September 19, 2005, at Liber 705, Pages 189 through 190 inclusive. Because of the default, the undersigned has elected to declare the entire unpaid amount of the Mortgage immediately due and payable. At the date of this notice there is claimed to be due for principal and interest on the Mortgage the sum of Five Hundred Sixteen Thousand Eight Hundred Fifty Two and 80/100 Dollars ($516,852.80). No suit or proceedings at law have been instituted to recover any part of the debt secured by the Mortgage.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in the Mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, and to pay said amount with interest as provided in the Mortgage, and all legal costs, charges and expenses, including attorney fees allowed by law, the Mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the mortgaged premises at public vendue to the highest bidder at the lobby of the County Courthouse in Charlevoix, the place of holding the Circuit Court within Charlevoix County, Michigan, on Friday March 2, 2007 at 11:00 a.m. local time.

Pursuant to Section 3240(7) of the Revised Judicature Act of 1961, as amended, (MCLA 600.3240(7); MSA 27A.3240(7)), the redemption period shall be six (6) months from the date of the foreclosure sale, unless the premises are determined to be abandoned in accordance with MCLA 600.3241a; MSA 27A.3241a, in which case the redemption period shall be thirty (30) days from the date of the sale.

The premises covered by said mortgage is commonly known as 2774 Blackbird Road, and is situated in the Townships of Hayes and Charlevoix, Charlevoix County, Michigan, described as follows:

Mystery tracks

Snowmobile tracks on Lake Charlevoix near Holy Island leading into a hole in the ice but not back out prompted two ice fishermen to call the authorities last week. Charlevoix emergency responders and the rescue dive team responded. Divers including Russ McCraney pictured above did not discover a sled or person in the water. For more information on the dive and ice safety tips, see page 13.

Teen charged in high school drug bust

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

A Charlevoix High School student forfeited a knife and pleaded guilty last week to use of a controlled substance after a Dec. 12 incident at the school.

THE INCIDENT

According to police documents obtained through a Freedom of Information Act request made to the Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney's office, Charlevoix High School principal, Gary Grundman, caught a student attempting to snort crushed OxyContin off a heat register in one of the school's stairwells.

"As he approached one of the boys, who was identified as (17-year-old) Travis VanNorman, (VanNorman) quickly brushed a white powder substance off from the top of the heat register," stated Charlevoix County Sheriff Deputy and school liaison officer, Robert Scholey in a police report dated Dec. 12. "(Grundman) then asked the boys what they were doing, and asked them to empty their pockets. The other boy (who was not charged)... said he didn't have anything. (VanNorman) reached into his pocket and pulled out a pocket knife and handed it (to) Mr. Grundman."

Gary Grundman

Grundman then released the students, Scholey stated.

"At the time it occurred, I didn't realize what was going on and 20 minutes later I investigated it further because I felt there was something wrong and that's when I discovered what I thought was the problem (white powder in the stairwell) and I immediately had Suzanne Klinger (Charlevoix High School assistant principal) call officer Scholey."

The sale agreement between Charlevoix Public Schools and Charlevoix Public Library for the former library property at 109 Clinton St. (above) has fallen through.

Library sale falls through

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

Once thought by Charlevoix school and library officials to be mere contractual adjustments from a sale, the 109 Clinton St. property is back on the market.

Despite being aware of an existing deed restriction on the property, which would revert ownership of the building and land to Connie Saltonstall and her sister should the property be used for purposes other than education, the school board made a $300,000 offer for it back in autumn 2006. However, during the closed session period of the Jan. 8 regular meeting, the Charlevoix Public Schools Board of Education rescinded their offer pending a last minute change of heart by the Saltonstalls.

"The board decided not to adopt the agreement," the board stated in their meeting minutes. "Direction was given to superintendent (of Charlevoix

Prosecutor questions principal's actions in drug case

DRUGS

Grundman said.

Scholey further stated, "Mr. Grundman then took a piece of paper and attempted to recover some of the white powder."

Neither the county's narcotics dog, Rex, or the Michigan State Police crime lab gave any indication of the presence of drugs from the residue.

"I asked Mr. Grundman if he wanted me to take (Rex) by the two students(') lockers. He stated 'No' he had already searched them and they were 'Clean,'" Scholey stated.

Scholey then waited in Klinger's office while Grundman retrieved the kids from class then proceeded to interview them.

"We then walked over to his office and attempted to enter. We were given a hand signal from Mr. Grundman telling us not to come in," Scholey stated. "We then returned to Mrs. Klinger's office and waited (for) Mr. Grundman. (Grundman) further (went) on to advise he told both students to not give me any statements."

Following the interview, Grundman told Scholey the boys admitted the powder was OxyContin VanNorman stole from his mother. VanNorman's alleged accomplice was apparently acting as a lookout.

THE INVESTIGATION

In Scholey's supplemental report, dated Dec. 21, 2006, he questioned Grundman further on the incident.

"First I asked Mr. Grundman why he waited so long to report the crime to law enforcement," Scholey stated.

Grundman said, aside from being physically ill that day, he had a couple other dynamics he was dealing with at the time.

"This was the first time I dealt with an issue like this in my 34 years as an educator. In my gut I felt something was wrong and I couldn't let it lie," Grundman said. "As soon as I had a suspicion of what was happening...(Klinger) called Roh because I didn't have a voice that day as I was extremely sick."

THE FALLOUT

Jarema is concerned with apparent drug use in a local school and why school officials waited nearly an hour to notify the authorities.

"I think it could have been handled and should have been handled a little different," Jarema said. "I wish the police were called sooner or gotten involved sooner to preserve the scene."

Superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools, Jim Cooper said school officials erred in waiting to call the police, but he doesn't believe a conspiracy is afoot.

"Obviously that puts (the police) in a bad spot and it does hinder their investigation," Cooper said. "But I certainly don't think it was to cover that up."

Cooper added, "It's imperative we contact law enforcement as soon as possible when we think a crime is committed on school grounds."

Scholey also determined VanNorman had snorted OxyContin on at least one other occasion in the lumber room of the shop area.

"Anytime we're approached with (drug use in the school) I have concerns about it," Cooper said.

Scholey also asked Grundman why he released the students to class and didn't secure the crime scene before contacting law enforcement.

"He (Grundman) said it was because he is not a police officer, and his primary duty is to the safety and well-being of the students and staff in his building, not to investigate crime," Scholey stated. "I then asked him who and when the area was cleaned up. He said that he didn't specifically have the area cleaned, but believes it was cleaned up after I had completed my investigation and left the building."

Grundman said he thinks he did the right thing.

"Was there a mistake? As soon as I understood what was going on, I made a call to the authorities," Grundman said. "Would I do something different next time? You're always learning. If I would have realized it immediately, I would have secured the area."

Whether there will be any repercussions for Grundman, Cooper said, "That is an internal issue we'll discuss and after getting both sides of the story, we'll continue to monitor it."

THE COURT

VanNorman, who was originally charged with controlled substance - possession (narcotic/cocaine) less than 25 grams, a $25,000, four-year felony and one count of possessing a weapon in a weapon-free zone which is a 93 day, $2,000 misdemeanor, was suspended from school for six days and was told to have a drug screening performed at BASES.

"I'm extremely concerned with kids getting into drugs, and what really worries me is that they don't understand. Even though we tell them and their parents tell them and law enforcement tells them, they just don't understand until they're in too deep," Grundman said. "My concern is always for the safety of the kids. Here's the scary part, when they have these types of drugs, it doesn't mean they are going to use it. They can sell it, give it to their friends who can use them in the bathroom."

He added, "We (must) try to make sure we keep our contact and keep close to them. It's an endless battle for all of us — parents, educators, community members."

Signs announcing dead of winter is here

THE CRYING TOWEL

Benjamin Gohs

It's that special time of year again, when tofu-skinned northerners brave the 18-degrees-below-sanity to prove they are far too high in the food chain for hibernation by engaging in a little downhill screaming and cross country frostbite.

Not that I have anything against people enjoying northern Michigan's outdoor winter activities, but a personage of my unique physical attributes and considerable girth would surely slalom his way to a cold weather coronary.

To serve this six-month sentence of frigid gloom takes either a sense of humor and optimism or deep-seated masochism.

Other phenomena which only occur in the dead of winter include the act of people of average intelligence who shun the highly educated meteorologists in the TV trenches.

With their brains slowed by the effects of hypothermia, these folks forego experts armed with million-dollar gadgets, sophisticated software and Doppler radar for the prognostication of that pathological liar the groundhog.

Granted, many official weather reports appear as though they were made by a one eyed half-wit armed only with a rectal thermometer and a five-year-old's Crayola rendering of the jet stream. But switching on the TV isn't quite as interesting as standing shoulder to shoulder in a sea of slack jawed humanity while a low-level politician in a top hat pretends to divine the secrets of nature from an overfed woodchuck.

For me, the dead of winter is also a reminder that I'll soon be one year older and that, at age 31, I'm much younger than I look — see also unique physical attributes.

This year's frosty doldrums got a kickoff when the water pipes under Chateaux Gohs froze up tighter than Dick Cheney's arteries.

Now, I'm a night owl, so when the wife roused me at 5 a.m. asking why there was no water, I responded in short bursts of single syllable, four-letter words. My anger, paralleled only by my confusion, subsided when I realized that, having forgone her customary 28-minute shower and two pots of coffee, the wife looked as bad as I felt.

As I donned my low-cut slippers and coat, my son informed me that the batteries in the flashlight were dead — another act of vandalism by the notorious I Didn't Do It.

After wading through snowdrifts and wishing to God I'd worn socks and boots, the boy and I located the 100-foot orange knot which was once an extension cord. I grabbed Ye Olde electric space heater complete with frayed wires and a decal of a water bucket with a frowning face and headed for the other side of the domicile.

Despite being buried under a foot of snow, we were able to locate the spigot topped water line sticking eight inches from the ground because it resides less than a foot from the natural gas main.

Visions of my father and I on our backs in the crawl space of an Indian River shack in '84 or '85 zipped through my sleep-addled brain. I chuckled as I plugged the 2500 watt beast in — I wasn't about to spend all day upside down with a travel-sized hair dryer.

After several trips back and forth to see if the water was moving, sleep deprivation (or just plain idiocy) told me it was a good idea to turn the outside spigot on full blast.

My life didn"t quite have time to flash before my eyes when water suddenly shot full blast from the pipe and began pooling at the plastic, stubby feet of the heater, but my heart did tumble to my colon when I realized I was merely inches from a source of heat and electricity perched precariously between water and natural gas.

Shame overcame terror when I realized my death would likely make the white trash hall of fame or end up a part of a Jeff Foxworthy comedy routine — "If your neighbor is crouched in the snow bank next to his trailer home at 6 a.m. while trying to jam an electric heater between a gas main and a leaking water pipe..."

Well, at the very least, you might know you're in the dead of winter.

Living as a technologically challenged person

A LOOK AT LIFE

Gayle Gennett

Living in the age of high-tech I often feel left in the dust.

We recently changed to a new phone service which provides the ability to take messages while you are already on the phone with someone. Sounds simple enough, right?.

First problem, I was not aware that I should be putting in a pin number so I could retrieve the messages. Three weeks passed and a number of individuals had said they returned my calls yet I wasn't sure where in cyberspace they were located.

Our daughters didn't bother with leaving messages as soon as they heard a computerized voice. They knew mom probably didn't have a clue how to retrieve them. Reviewing the phone services manual and carefully typing in a pin number following the directions given by a pre-recorded voice, I was able to acquire my 24 messages.

The story doesn't end there. I was still being billed from my former phone company for a number that no longer existed. Thinking all I needed to do was place a call or two to fix things I found myself taking on two phone companies with my story. Each very polite person I spoke with from both companies would send me on to yet another person I felt certain was located in some remote region a thousand miles away. My old ears found it difficult to decipher their quick tongue and heavy accent. Since childhood I have been a force to reckon with when it comes to speed talking. These individuals had me beat, and with a heavy dialect to boot. I was eventually referred to someone in the financial department to arrange a reduced payment plan. I explained it was not that I was unable to pay. Rather, I wanted the bills to stop so I would not have to pay for a number that was no longer in existence. After an hour on the phone explaining my plight I thought it was beginning to move in the right direction.

I now need to wait for a computer to spit out the next bill for a number that has been cut off for two months and file a dispute claim.

Convenience of modern appliances doesn't seem to end, but there are days I wish some didn't exist. I would rather change the television station by actually getting my body up off the couch and switching the channel. The latest remotes

LETTER to the editor

BLOOD DRIVE SUCCESS

Editor:

The American Red Cross Great Lakes Region needs to collect nearly 700 units of blood each day, Monday through Friday, to keep up the three-day supply needed by 70 Michigan hospitals. On Thursday, Jan. 18, the Red Cross was able to collect 98 units in Charlevoix at the Reformed Church.

Experienced donors and four first-time donors that day humbly and patiently gave their time and blood to this most worthy cause. I hope they are aware of how much they are appreciated.

I would like to recognize and honor a few of the donors who received gallon pins on Jan. 18 — anonymous female, four gallons; Kit Foster, three gallons; Pat McKeown, 15 gallons; Wendy Perrett, one gallon; Debra Seelye, one gallon; Carl Waghom, 18 gallons; Kathy Waghom, 10 gallons; Ronald Willams, one gallon; Theda Willams, two gallons. I apologize if I have missed anyone who may have received a pin.

The American Red Cross and all of the volunteers do a remarkable job of preparing and following through with the work involved in a successful blood drive. I want to thank each of them, from the volunteers who made reminder phone calls to donors, the bakers that made the blood drive the best place in town that afternoon for a great snack, the Charlevoix Water and Electric Department for putting up the banners, businesses who displayed posters and handed out flyers, the Charlevoix Lions Club for handling all of the Red Cross supplies and the Community Reformed Church.

Bethany Lutheran Church will be hosting a blood drive from noon until 5:45 p.m. on March 15. The next community drive at the Reformed Church is from noon until 5:45 p.m. on May 17. I hope to see as many of you as possible to thank you in person.

Living the non-tech alternative lifestyle are fascinating to my grandchildren but I can get us off cable in a heartbeat by selecting the wrong button. I'm still not sure I understand the full use of every word printed on the microwave, washer and dryer.

All of this recent activity may not have frustrated me so much if we had not purchased new razor cell phones. Mine slipped out my pocket and purse with its aerodynamic sleek design. I did find that my phone still works after falling into a snow bank. Unfortunately my sister's didn't. She had left her new phone on the passenger seat up front. After braking for a red light, in true Olympic style, it dove into her cup of hot coffee which sat innocently secured in a carrier.

I'd like to know what part of technology is simplifying my life. I am grateful to witness technology in the field of medicine and library science. My car can be hooked up to a computer to find problems with ease. I, on the other hand, cannot hook up to a computer and figure out any of my own problems.

While in a grocery store with my sister, she had said let's go through the self check aisle. Here we go again. I wonder how their customer service will help me through this one.

I'm thinking of becoming Amish. It may be my lifestyle solution.

Jacob Wimmer named scholar-athlete finalist

Jacob Wimmer

Charlevoix High School senior Jacob Wimmer, was named a 2006-07 Michigan High School Athletic Association's Scholar-Athlete Award finalist for Class C schools.

There is a total of 12 finalists in the Class C boys' division. There is a total of 120 finalists statewide.

The program, which has been recognizing student-athletes since the 1989-90 school year, will honor 32 individuals from Michigan High School Athletic Association member schools who participate in at least one sport the association sponsors a post-season tournament.

Farm Bureau Insurance underwrites the Scholar-Athlete Award, and will present a $1,000 scholarship to each recipient. This year, 2,205 applications were received from 492 schools.

Scholarships will be awarded to three female and three male Class C student-athletes.

Class C and D scholarship recipients will be announced on Feb. 13. To honor the 32 Scholar-Athlete Award recipients, a ceremony will take place during half-time of the Class C Boys' Basketball Finals at the Breslin Student Events Center in East Lansing on March 24.

To be eligible for the award, students must have a cumulative grade point average of 3.50 (on a 4.0 scale), and have previously won a varsity letter in at least one sport in which the Michigan High School Athletic Association sponsors a post-season tournament. Students were also asked to respond to a series of short essay questions, submit two letters of recommendation and a 500-word essay on the importance of sportsmanship in educational athletics.

Crooked Tree Culinary Arts Series

Crooked Tree Arts Center is registering participants for their winter 2007 Culinary Arts Series.

The popular cooking series will be held from 6-8 p.m. every Tuesday night during February and March.

The following restaurants have agreed to share some of their culinary secrets with students: Feb. 13 Bay Harbor Yacht Club & Esperance; Feb. 20 Julienne Tomatoes; Feb. 27 The Crow's Nest; March 6 Chandlers; March 13 The Galley Gourmet; March 20 Stafford's Hospitality; and March 27 City Park Grill.

For more information or to register for a class, visit www.crookedtree.org.

What's happening at the Library this week?

North Central Michigan College, Charlevoix Area Hospital Foundation, Charlevoix State Bank, Charlevoix Public Library, Charlevoix Public Schools and the Charlevoix Community Foundation have joined together to sponsor a series of public discussions during 2007 on topics of importance to the community. The public is invited to attend and admission is free.

The first program in the series entitled, "Perspectives: Understanding through education," is on health care in northern Michigan. The event will take place on February 8, 2007, in the Charlevoix Public Library's community meeting room. The discussion will be moderated by Annemarie Conway, Charlevoix High School government teacher.

The keynote speaker will be Jack Wheeler, Ph.D., professor of health management and policy at the University of Michigan's school of public health. Professor Wheeler is an economist who has done extensive research in health care management and the economics of health care delivery. Spencer Johnson, president of the Michigan Health and Hospital Association, will also appear. A study completed last summer for his association showed that health care is Michigan's largest private sector employer, providing 737,000 jobs that pump $31.6 billion into Michigan's economy.

The program's presenters will analyze the history of health care, and the state of our system as it is today. Policy options for the future will be discussed, ranging from comprehensive and universal health coverage to consumer-driven health plans. To help prepare for the session, information packets are available at the library's information desk. Audience participation will be encouraged.

Doors will open at 5:15 p.m.
The program will start at 6 p.m.

Ragamuffins present mini women's retreat on Feb. 10 at Charlevoix library

Ragamuffin Theatre & Company will be presenting a special mini retreat for women from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., on Feb. 10 at the new Charlevoix Public Library.

Entitled, "A Forever Kind of Love," the three-hour event provides mothers, daughters, sisters and friends the opportunity to gather together over a delicious brunch while soaking up a variety of dramatic selections, media presentations and dance pieces.

Guest speakers will intermittently share real life stories relating to the many heartfelt needs women face today while participants journey toward finding a deeper connection with God.

"This mini retreat gives women the chance to connect with other women by building bridges through encouragement, compassion and authenticity. We all experience very real pain in life and our goal is to provide real hope and comfort for those in pain," said event coordinator, Kathleen Whittaker.

Carolyn Hoover, a professional actor from Elk Rapids, will present a gripping monologue depicting the struggle of a woman facing depression, while guest speakers touch on subjects dealing with spousal abandonment, addiction and loss.

Ragamuffin Theatre will also be presenting each participant with a complimentary gift and the opportunity to win door prizes.

For more information visit www.ragamuffintheatre.com or call (231) 237-9686. Tickets for the event are available online as well as at the door.

Paul McKernan: April 16, 1985 - Jan. 25, 2007

Paul M. McKernan, 21, of East Jordan and formerly of Gaylord died Thursday, Jan. 25 in Mississippi. Paul had been working to help rebuild after hurricane Katrina.

He was born in Gaylord on April 16, 1985 and was a 2003 graduate of East Jordan High School.

Paul loved motorcycles, music and horses and will be remembered as a true and devoted friend.

He is survived by his mother, Kathleen (Mike Johnson) Wixon of Traverse City; brother and sister, Patrick and Katie Lynn McKernan, both of East Jordan; stepmother, Karen Rezenberger of East Jordan; aunts and uncles, Michael Wixon of Gaylord, Jeffrey (Donna) Wixon of Johannesburg, Charles, Thomas (Karen) and Robert (Noreen) Wixon all of Gaylord, Joseph Wixon of Lansing, Julie Wixon of Belding, Dorr (Lana) McKernan of Gaylord, and Kelly (Dave) Henning of Charlevoix; and several cousins. His father, David McKernan preceded him in death in 2005.

Funeral services were held on Friday, Feb. 2 at the Nelson Funeral Home. Pastor Philip Douglass officiated. Burial will take place in the spring at Hallock Cemetery in Elmira Township.

Memorial contributions may be made to the family through the Nelson Funeral Home, P.O. Box 1548, Gaylord, MI 49734.

Ralph Mapes: July 15, 1927 - Jan. 30, 2007

Ralph E. Mapes, 79, of Charlevoix, died Tuesday, Jan. 30 at his home.

A funeral took place on Friday, Feb. 2 at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. The Rev. David Behling officiated and burial will take place in the spring at the Undine Cemetery in Hayes Township.

Ralph was born July 15, 1927, in Boyne City, the son of Burley and Emma (Coblentz) Mapes. During World War II, Ralph served in Japan as a Corporal in the U.S. Army. He married Luella DeJonge on Oct. 15, 1966, in Boyne City. In 1989, Ralph retired from the McLaughlin Company in Petoskey. He enjoyed reading and woodworking and loved gardening.

Ralph is survived by his wife, Luella of Charlevoix; children, Mike (Mary) Mapes of Boyne City, Joyce (Andy) Rowbotham of Charlevoix, Karen McCary of Boyne Falls, Rick (Cheryl) Mapes of Cadillac; grandchildren, Mark (Becky) Rowbotham, Julie Rowbotham, Brian Mapes, Jason McCary, Shawn Kilmer, Logan Patrick; great-grandchildren, Debbie, Katie and Angie Rowbotham, Matthew and Zach Szafranski; brother, Gerald (Charlotte) Mapes of Boyne City; sisters, Betty Speigl of Boyne City, Geneva Reynolds of Lakewood, Calif.; brother-in-law, Walter Charon of Boyne City.

Ralph's son Robert, brothers Richard and Racil, and sister Helen Charon preceded him in death.

In lieu of flowers, contributions may be made to the Northern Michigan Hospital Foundation General Cancer Fund, 360 Conable, Petoskey, MI 49770.

Wilfred 'Bill' Rasmussen: Aug. 3, 1924 - Feb. 1, 2007

Wilfred J. "Bill" Rasmussen, 82, of Charlevoix, died Thursday, Feb. 1 at his home.

The Rosary will be recited and a memorial service will take place at 6:30 p.m., Saturday, Feb. 10, at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. The Rev. Jerry Hunko of Saint Mary Catholic Church will officiate. Interment will take place at Saint John's Cemetery in Davison.

Bill was born Aug. 3, 1924, in Ashland, Wis., the son of Carl and Gertrude (Bos) Rasmussen. He served in the U.S. Army from 1943 to 1945, with the North Atlantic Wing – Air Transport Command. On Dec. 30, 1944, he married Laufey "Libby" Sorensen in Reykjavik, Iceland. They made their home in Davison before moving to Atwood in 1972, where Bill was a self employed carpenter and mechanic. In 1996, they moved to Charlevoix. Bill was a member of Saint Mary Catholic Church in Charlevoix.

He is survived by his wife, Libby; children, Mary Spencer of San Diego, Calif., John (Donna) Rasmussen of Flint, Jean (Bill) Ayers of Florida, Jim (Cathy) Rasmussen of Otisville, Jerry (Janet) Rasmussen of Ellsworth, Karen (Leslie) Lugihihl of Charlevoix; 11 grandchildren; and 13 great-grandchildren.

His daughter, Nancy preceded him in death.

Making the most of college financial aid

KIDS CORNER

Julie Witthoeft

Sticker shock is a common deterrent to students and parents looking ahead to a college education.

Astronomical college tuition costs have many saying, "I can't," or "It's not for me." But in this business climate, where a college degree is like a high school diploma, there are plenty of against all odds success stories told by those that have said, "I will make it happen."

Charlevoix High School class of 1998 graduate Leah (Dulaney) Olson is a prime example of someone whose college aspirations came with a hefty price tag. But perseverance and a little extra time earned her the education she wanted.

Olson, the daughter of Sharmon Dulaney of Charlevoix and the late Pat Dulaney, was a parent's dream come true — with a 3.9 grade point average, she not only planned for college but also made finding funding for that dream her part-time job.

Her mission started with a goal to attend DePaul University in Chicago, Ill. Her reality, which included studying at DePaul where tuition was $24,000 a year, was realized through hard work. She spent one year at North Central Michigan College in Petoskey earning introductory credits while working and establishing scholarship opportunities at DePaul.

She then studied for one-and-a-half years at DePaul's business school before she realized the steep tuition was too rich for her blood and came back to Michigan.

Olson transferred to Oakland Community College in Rochester Hills from where in 2004 she earned a bachelor's' degree in science and marketing and a minor in management information systems.

Her three college treks to her degree cost a total of $48,000. Readers probably gasped at the thought of spending that kind of moolah.

But over half of that, $28,000, came from scholarships and grants. Olson said her out-of-pocket cost for her education was around $20,000, only $9,000 of which she maintained with student loans.

It was a Charlevoix High School financial aid seminar Olson attended during her junior year that spurred her to action — she heard encouragement for making any college aim materialize.

She applied for and was awarded Pell grants, grants from colleges she attended, state grants based on standardized testing scores, as well as local scholarships from the Zonta Club and Wal-Mart.

In all, Olson said over the course of a few years she spent about two weeks total researching and applying for grants and scholarships. That two weeks of work was worth thousands of dollars.

Charlevoix High School counselor, John Prescott, said almost 100 percent of Rayder grads require some form of financial aid. That can come in the form of student loans or with a little elbow grease it could be free-of-charge.

Olson said students who shy away from "complicated" applications need to learn shortcuts. In her case, many applications asked similar questions and she was able to recycle essay responses. She said in some instances she refocused high school English papers and used those in applying.

Aside from the grants, she also worked as a nanny in Chicago, Ill. which covered her room and board and as a consultant in the Detroit area to offset her costs.

In the end, Olson's consulting experience coupled with the degree she earned won her the favor of Charlevoix State Bank execs who hired her as the information technology manager.

Now, at 26, Olson has a degree in her pocket and a professional position in her hometown where she will establish her family with husband, Todd Olson.

Her message to up and coming Rayder grads is simple, dream big and work hard to reach your goals.

Leah Olson's advice for students who want to keep a tight budget:

Don't put yourself in major debt.

Stay in-state.

Look at public versus private universities.

Contact financial aid offices at your school of choice to inquire about available scholarships.

Work through school to manage debt and gain experience.

Apply for grants and scholarships even if they seem out of reach.

Charlevoix to host regional PA tournament

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

For the first time in the school's history, Charlevoix High School will host the Michigan Interscholastic Forensic Association regional theater competition.

Beginning at 9:30 a.m. on Saturday, Feb. 10 in Charlevoix High School's Performing Arts Center, Charlevoix students will see if their version of "Little Shop of Horrors" will stack up to Kelloggsville's "French Toast," Big Rapids' "Shut and Bar the Door," John Glenn's "A Midsummer Night's Dream," Forest Hills Eastern's "The Money in Uncle George's Suitcase," and East Grand Rapids' "A Comedy of Errors."

"I've been raving for this show for years," said Alex Urban a Charlevoix High School student who plays Seymour Krelborn in "Little Shop of Horrors." "It's probably one of the funniest I've heard as far as scripts go — it's a hilarious script."

Urban, a 17-year-old senior who has played leading roles in "Into the Woods" and "Isle of Tears," has been a student of performing arts for four years.

"I just love the feeling after a show. I love seeing the appreciation people give you for a performance," he said. "I just knew (PA) would be a place where I could open up and I've liked it ever since."

He added, "I like that the class really centers around competition."

In forensic association competition, students have 45 minutes to setup their props, give the performance, break the set down and vacate the stage.

"You are docked points after you go over 45 minutes," Urban said.

Rayder performers recently took third place against students from five schools in district competition in Greenville which qualified them for a spot in the regional.

The local performers placed high in the acting and technical performance categories.

Urban, Jordan McCarthy and Brian Whitley received excellent acting awards. Urban and Travis Klooster received a superior award for set design and construction. Whitley received an excellent award for puppet design and construction and Sam Kantola received an excellent award for program design.

"I was extremely pleased with how well our students did," stated show director, Connie Ford, in a press release. "Our community should be very pleased with the caliber of these young people."

Senior and stage manager, Nicole Mackowiak, plans to make sure the set and people are in working order.

"I love how it's arranged," she said. "Instead of it being a one-sided comedy, it's got a lot of different aspects to it."

For fans of the Rick Moranis, Steve Martin movie version of the show, Mackowiak said, "There are definitely some similarities."

According to Ford, she is thrilled Charlevoix High School will be hosting the regional competition.

"This is a great opportunity for the public to come see some very talented young performers from around the state," she said. "The selections are varied and I think that anyone who comes to the festival will be impressed with these productions and have a wonderful experience."

Admission is free. No cameras or other recording devices are allowed in the building.

Reward offered for Central Drug bandit

Two national crime prevention organizations are offering a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of the person responsible for an attempted robbery of a Charlevoix pharmacy last month.

RxPATROL and Crime Stoppers is offering the reward in connection with an attempted robbery that took place at about 8:30 a.m. on Jan. 16 at Central Drug Store, 301 Bridge St., in Charlevoix when an unknown suspect entered the pharmacy, asked for pen and paper and wrote a note demanding OxyContin and morphine. The owner observed the suspect had a gun in his waistband. A delivery man entered the pharmacy and the suspect fled in a black, newer-model dark-colored sedan, which was parked behind the store without obtaining any medications.

The suspect is described as a white male about 20 years old, 6 feet tall and 215 pounds, average build and clean shaven. At the time of the robbery, he was wearing glasses, black sweatpants and a gray hooded sweatshirt.

Anyone with information about either the robbery is asked to call RxPATROL Crime Stoppers at 1-888-4RXTIPS.

The cash reward is donated by pharmaceutical company Purdue Pharma L.P., the distributor of OxyContin (oxycodone) tablets.

"It's important for people to know that all information that we get is kept completely confidential. Callers never have to give their names or appear in court. The RxPATROL/Crime Stoppers tip line does not use any tape recording or caller ID devices," said RxPATROL/Crime Stoppers coordinator Chuck Kreimer.

Anyone with information about this incident is asked to call RxPATROL Crime Stoppers at 1-888-4RxTips. Those with information may also call the Charlevoix Police Department at 547-3258 or 9-1-1.

RxPatrol is an organization that works with police to collect and distribute information in an effort to help protect pharmacists, guard against potential robberies and burglaries and assist police in apprehending and prosecuting criminals.

ANNUAL DRINKING WATER QUALITY REPORT OF THE
City of Charlevoix Water Supply

January 2007

Here is this year's Annual Quality Water Report.

It is designed to inform you about the quality drinking water and services we deliver to you every day. Our constant goal is to provide you with a safe and dependable supply of drinking water. We want you to understand the efforts we make to continually improve the water treatment process and protect our water resources. We are committed to ensuring the quality of your water. The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity.

Our water comes from Lake Michigan, considered surface water. The State has preformed an assessment of our source water in 2004. A determination of sensitivity and susceptibility to contamination was by made by reviewing our source water geology, water chemistry, and potential contamination sources nearby the lake. The State has determined that our source water has a moderate sensitivity rating along with a moderate susceptibility to contamination. You may obtain a copy of the State report by contacting the City of Charlevoix Water Treatment Plant.

We are pleased to report that your drinking water is safe and meets all State and Federal requirements.

This report is a snapshot of the quality of the water we provided to you in the year 2006. Included are details about where your water comes from, what it contains, and how it compares to Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and State of Michigan standards. If you have any questions about this report or concerning your water utility, please contact Jim Caldwell at the Charlevoix Water Treatment Plant, (231) 547-3256, or Don Swem at the Charlevoix Water Department, (231) 547-3278. We want our valued customers to be informed about their water utility. The City of Charlevoix Water Supply routinely monitors for contaminants in your drinking water according to Federal and State Laws. This report shows the results of our monitoring for the period of January 1 thru December 31, 2006. All drinking water, including bottled drinking water, may be reasonably expected to contain at least small amounts of some constituents. It's important to remember that the presence of these constituents does not necessarily pose a health risk.

Contaminants that may be present in source water include:

Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations and wildlife.

Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals which can be naturally occurring or result from urban stormwater run-off, industrial or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining or farming.

Pesticides and herbicides, which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture and residential uses.

Radioactive contaminants, which are naturally occurring.

Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban storm water runoff, and septic systems.

The State of Michigan and Environmental Protection Agency require us to test our water on a regular basis to ensure its safety.

We met all monitoring requirements for the year 2006.

Charlevoix Water Treatment Plant and Distribution System personnel sampled and tested for over 100 contaminants that were NOT detected in our water supply. The following constituents were detected at low but safe levels, well below the MCL (Maximum Contaminant Level)

In the following tables you will find many terms and abbreviations you might not be familiar with. To help you better understand these terms we've provided the following definitions:

Parts per million (ppm) or Milligrams per liter (mg/l) - one part per million corresponds to one minute in two years or a single penny in $10,000

Parts per billion (ppb) or Micrograms per liter - one part per billion corresponds to one minute in 2,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000.

Picocuries per liter (pCi/L) - A pico equals one part per trillion; the measurement of radiation in water.

Nephelometric Turbidity Unit (NTU) - nephelometric turbidity unit is a measure of the clarity of water. Turbidity in excess of 5 NTU is just noticeable to the average person.

Action Level (AL) - the concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow.

Treatment Technique (TT) - A treatment technique is a required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.

Maximum Contaminant Level (MCL) - is the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.

Maximum Contaminant Level Goal - (MCLG) is the level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.

NA: not applicable

ND: not detectable at testing limit

Lead and Copper - Lead and copper testing is on a three (3) year schedule, test results reported here are from the 2006 year; next round of testing is year 2009.*

*NOTES: * Turbidity - turbidity is a measure of the cloudiness of the water. We monitor it because it is an indicator of our filtration system.*

Unregulated contaminants are those for which the EPA has not established drinking water standards. The purpose of unregulated contaminant monitoring is to assist EPA in determining the occurrence of unregulated contaminants in drinking water and whether future regulation is warranted.

We're pleased that your drinking water meets or exceeds all Federal and State requirements. We have learned through our monitoring and testing that some constituents have been detected. The EPA has determined that your water is SAFE at these levels.

All sources of drinking water are subject to potential contamination by substances that are naturally occurring or man made. All drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that the water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline at 1-800-426-4791.

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by cryptosporidium and other microbiological contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791)

Call us if you have any questions.

About our system. . . .

The City of Charlevoix operates a Direct Filtration Water Treatment Facility which uses water from Lake Michigan. With a capacity of 3 million gallons per day, water enters the plant through a submerged intake structure. Storage includes a one million gallon above ground reservoir at the plant, and a 300,000 gallon elevated tank (water tower) on Charlevoix's north side. The City has approximately 32 miles of distribution lines serving approximately 5,000 customers in the City of Charlevoix and areas of adjoining Charlevoix Township, as well as, the influx of summer visitors to the area. Present flow rates vary from around 400,000 gallons per day in the winter to as much as 2.5 million gallons per day in the summer. In service since 1987, it is a modern, efficient facility staffed by licensed, well trained operators. Charlevoix is continually improving its distribution system assuring fresh water and adequate pressure throughout our entire service area. An electrical generator at the Water Plant assures normal operation at full capacity in the event of an electrical power loss to the City. We at the Charlevoix Water Treatment Plant and Distribution System work around the clock to provide top quality water to every tap.

Please help us protect our water resources, which are the heart of our community, our way of life, and our children's future.

Divers respond to ice rescue false alarm

DNR: Ice conditions remain unstable

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

On Feb. 1, a rescue crew stood in deep snow staring at a hole in the ice on Lake Charlevoix just off Holy Island with snowmobile tracks leading to it, but not away from it.

"People shouldn't be on the ice anywhere right now," Tim Kochanny, an officer with the Michigan Department of Natural Resources said.

The fear was that a snowmobiler had ventured onto the ice and had fallen into open water where a homeowner had used a bubbler around their dock to keep ice away.

The crew, which included the City of Charlevoix rescue dive team, responded to the call that came in at around 10:30 a.m. that morning from two ice fishermen who reported sled tracks leading into open water. As the dive team prepared to search the icy waters, the ice anglers watched from their fishing hole about 100 yards from the scene.

Two divers, Bill Brodin who is also a shift commander for the city fire department and Russ McCrancy, who doubles as a corrections officer with the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office, pulled on dive suits and prepared for a cold winter swim.

While their goal was a potential rescue on their first ice dive of the year, the two hoped to come up empty handed.

Submerged in the 37 degree water, McCraney, whose face was his only exposed body part, peered around the dark water for almost 15 minutes.

"My face went numb in about a minute," he said.

The water's depth ranged from inches where the sled would have entered the water to about 25 feet deep where he searched.

Brodin joined him but had regulator issues and wasn't able to stay under long.

Their search produced no snowmobile or rider.

"It would be tough for a sled to get to deep water without severe broken ice. We've had six inches of snow over the last eight hours. It's possible that the tracks leaving could have been covered up. There were too many unanswered questions," Brodin said.

Bill Brodin, a shift commander with the City of Charlevoix Fire Department and a rescue diver, suits up to look for a snowmobile believed to have fallen through the ice. The dive in icy Lake Charlevoix water did not turn up the vehicle or a rider.

Two divers with the Charlevoix County dive team, which is part of a multi jurisdictional group of divers from Emmet, Charlevoix, Antrim, Kalkaska, Otsego and Crawford counties, followed up with an extensive underwater search. The team was involved in a training exercise at the sheriff's office when the call came through.

"They checked thoroughly and found no sign of anything," Charlevoix County Sheriff George Lasater said.

While this rider appears to be one of the lucky ones, Department of Natural Resources officials posted a warning for ice fishermen and snowmobilers at www.michigan.gov/dnr stating ice conditions across the state aren't safe.

"Ice on lakes and rivers should be presumed to be unsafe and urged extreme caution when traveling across lakes given the mild winter that the state has been experiencing," the warning states.

Ice Safety Tips

- Avoid crossing frozen bodies of water in a single file.
- Never venture onto the ice alone or without telling your plans to a responsible adult.
- Any time you are on the ice and have not personally checked the ice thickness consider yourself in harm's way. Check the thickness of the ice with an ice spud before venturing onto the ice.
- Never drive a car or truck on the ice.
- Avoid standing or walking in areas with a group of people.
- Always wear a life jacket when on the frozen surface of a lake or river.
- Carry a pair of ice picks. These are designed for a self rescue and are two handles with a nail device in one end attached to each other by a length of rope.
- Look for large cracks or depressions in the ice..
- Learn and practice rescue techniques by using ropes, boats, ladders, etc.
- Ice does not form with uniform thickness on any body of water. Underwater springs or currents can wear thin spots on any body of water.
- Clear ice is the strongest. Ice formed by melted and refrozen snow appears milky, is very porous and very weak. Ice covered by snow should always be presumed unsafe.
- Four inches of ice will generally hold an average-sized person on foot. Snowmobiles and ORVs need at least eight inches of solid, consistent ice.

The photos on this page taken by Charlevoix residents and visitors were submitted to the Charlevoix Courier for this monthly feature. Photos can be dropped off at the Courier office at 112 Mason Street or e-mailed to news@charlevoixcourier.com. Information about the photographer and photo, including when it was taken and a brief description of what is pictured must also be submitted.

Charlevoix resident Julie Christiansen captured one of winter's mild moods at around 8 a.m. on Jan. 3 when she photographed the South Pier lighthouse with the moon going down in the background.

Katie Kiteley, 10, of Charlevoix took this shot of her daily visitor on Jan. 10 outside her home.

Proud father, Mark Erndt took this picture of his son, Tanner Erndt, 13, of Charlevoix with his first buck of the season, shot in November.

On Jan. 26, Charlevoix resident and Charlevoix Courier freelance sports photographer, Scott Richards, snapped this shot of Charlevoix Elementary School teacher Nicole Sterrett leading her class with Audrey Deion at her side. The students sang the national anthem before the Charlevoix and Harbor Springs basketball game.

That's my photograph!

Residents want year-round business

BY LOUISE NELLE
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW STAFF WRITER

Charlevoix residents flocked to the Charlevoix Public Library Wednesday, Jan. 31 to attend a Cool City Community Vision Session and voice their opinions of how to improve Charlevoix's downtown in order to build a stronger community.

Leading the session was Dolores P. Palma, the president and co-owner of HyettPalma, a consulting firm which specializes in enhancing downtown districts.

Issues that came up several times included parking, traffic flow, empty storefronts, affordable housing, diversity in the downtown shops, the need to portray Charlevoix as a welcoming and relaxing community and the need for strong leadership.

Several residents said downtown shops do not cater enough toward locals. Although year-round residents understand the importance of tourism, they stressed that Charlevoix should not be just a tourist town.

"I think we have become a tourist town, not a resort town," said resident Connie Saltonstall. "The overall effect is that we have stores downtown that are summer stores. They close up and go away during the winter, and if we had a more resort friendly downtown that would focus year-round then I think (Charlevoix) would be a more viable community."

The kind of downtown that residents would like to see is one which provides practical and affordable items such as clothing for all ages, housewares, sporting goods, as well as basic supplies such as hardware products and pharmaceuticals.

Other residents addressed the need for a more welcoming community, rather than a community with a negative attitude toward tourists and new residents.

Gene Beer, a member of the Charlevoix City Council, remembered feeling like an outsider when he first moved to Charlevoix.

"I always felt that if you weren't born and raised here that you didn't belong here, and that's wrong," said Beer.

Vision session shapes five year Cool Cities market plan

COOL

Not only do residents stress their community should be more friendly toward visitors, but that Charlevoix should focus on becoming a more relaxing community. Several people stressed that visitors come to Charlevoix to relax, to get away from their busy lives and enjoy the area.

Resident Jeff Porter suggested addressing this issue by changing the way the city uses its parks.

"I'd like to see Charlevoix's three parks used for relaxation opposed to entertainment," Porter said. "People come not to be entertained, but to relax and I think we have gotten away from that and I think Charlevoix has become much too busy with all of these festivals and fairs."

However, before Charlevoix can turn ideas such as these into a reality, the community agreed as a whole that strong leadership is key.

"The DDA (Downtown Development Authority) has done an excellent job," said local resident John Campbell. "They're the ones that have taken the bull by the horns."

Campbell added that even though the Downtown Development Authority has provided great leadership so far, it must continue to do so in order for the downtown project to be successful.

Although residents provided countless ideas during the session, the city would like to receive additional input regarding improvements to Charlevoix's downtown. Persons who would like to share their ideas are encouraged to contact Charlevoix Cool Cities coordinator, Keith Carey, at kcarey@cityofcharlevoix.org.

Louise Nelle can be contacted at (231) 439-9339, or lnelle@petoskeynews.com.

Tickets on sale now for Feb. 10 Firemen's Ball

Tickets are on sale now for the 8th Annual Firemen's Ball on Feb. 10.

The ball is an event aimed at recognizing local firefighters for their sacrifices and efforts as well as helping raise some funds for equipment.

The event will take place from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. on Feb. 10 at Mahogany's restaurant located at the Charlevoix Country Club. Tickets cost $30 each or two for $50 and can be purchased at the fire department or from the president of the Firefighters Association, Winfield Scott.

There will be live and silent auctions, a dinner, raffles and dancing to tunes provided by DJ the DJ at this year's ball.

The fundraising efforts allowed the department to purchase new handheld radios and an auxiliary trailer for their dive team among other things.

The ball is open to the public.

For ticket information, call Scott at (231) 547-2821.

Telgenhof joins law firm Running, Wise and Ford

Allen Telgenhof

Attorney Allen Telgenhof has joined the law firm of Running, Wise & Ford, PLC as of Jan. 1.

Running, Wise & Ford's Charlevoix office is located at 201 State St. on the upper level, above Citizens Bank.

"It is a great opportunity for me," Telgenhof said. "I have had a great deal of respect for the attorneys of Running, Wise & Ford over the years and it is an honor to join them."

In making the move, Telgenhof joins his former longtime law partner, Mike Corcoran. Telgenhof and Corcoran practiced together for 10 years previously. Katrina Martin also practices in the Charlevoix office.

Telgenhof will continue to practice in the areas of civil litigation, business formation and guidance, estate planning, real estate and family law. He will also expand his work in municipal law.

"One of the most exciting parts of the move is that I have the ability to draw on a number of resources, primarily 'picking the brains' of a number of lawyers who have a great deal of experience in the fields in which I practice," Telgenhof explained.

In 2006, four Running, Wise & Ford lawyers, John Blakeslee, Richard Ford, Miles Gerberding and Catherine Jasinski were named "Super Lawyers" in the inaugural Michigan edition of the magazine. "Super Lawyers" is a consumer guide to outstanding attorneys based on a multi-step selection process including a survey and peer review.

The firm started in Traverse City in 1946 and now has 13 attorneys in its offices in Charlevoix, Traverse City and Frankfort.

Bay Winds offers free tax preparation services to benefit low income clients

Bay Winds Federal Credit Union recently launched an innovative Internet-based program to provide low to moderate-income individuals and families with free access to file for state and federal income tax credits and refunds.

These include the federal Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC), which can be as high as $4,536.

Dubbed "Just file it! We'll help: Free tax preparation resources for those who need it most," the program is available through a link on the Bay Winds Web site www.baywindsfcu.com.

"More than $214 million in federal tax refunds went unclaimed in Michigan for the 2004 tax year by the people who need it most — low-income families and individuals," said David Leusink, president and chief executive officer for Bay Winds.

There are a variety of federal and state tax credits in addition to the EITC that can benefit low to moderate-income individuals. Additional federal tax credits include the Child Tax Credit and the Federal Child and Dependent Care Credit. Michigan tax credits include the Home Heating Tax Credit, the Homestead Property Tax Credit and the Child Deduction. These credits are available to those who file income tax returns and those who are exempt from filing requirements.

"It's money that families can use to put food on the table, move into better housing, invest in education or save for the future," Leusink said.

Rayder basketball team claim overtime conference win

BY ALLEN TELGENHOF
SPORTS WRITER

It took a tremendous comeback on the road but the Charlevoix Rayders stayed atop the Lake Michigan Conference with a 78-72 overtime win at Grayling last Friday night. Earlier in the week, the Rayders trounced Benzie Central, 93-68 in non-league action.

"Justin Friske stepped up big in the fourth quarter, scoring 11 points," Charlevoix coach Keith Haske said. "We were down by eight with four minutes to go and we just started getting the ball into him."

"We were fortunate to get out of there with a win, no doubt."

The Rayders are 12-1 overall and 8-1 in the league. They play at conference co-leader Traverse City St. Francis in a showdown game on Feb. 9. Charlevoix's only loss was to the Gladiators earlier this season.

Headed into the fourth quarter at Grayling, the Rayders trailed 59-52 before rallying. Charlevoix outscored the Vikings, 9-3 in the extra period for the victory.

Senior Mitch Crandall led the Rayders with 24 points, eight rebounds, five steals and three assists. Justin Friske finished with 17 points.

Corey Gotshall had 13 points and five rebounds. Ty Haske scored 10 points and had six assists.

"Grayling played a very good game," Haske commented. "Their guard play improved immensely from the first game we had against them."

It was a contrasting game earlier in the week as the Rayders ran Benzie Central off the floor, leading 48-29 at the half and cruising to the win.

"We played well," Haske noted. "We had contributions from a lot of different guys. Our bench did another great job for us."

Crandall again was high scorer with 22 points and eight rebounds. Sophomore Justin Friske had 20 points and eight rebounds. Cliff Jones added eight points off the bench.

Despite the 12-1 record and Charlevoix's past success in the state tournament, the Rayders are still unranked in all polls, receiving no votes in the most recent Associated Press basketball poll. St. Francis was ranked eighth in Class C by the AP, seventh by the Detroit News and fifth by the Detroit Free Press.

Prior to the St. Francis showdown, the Rayders played at rival Petoskey, featuring former Charlevoix Rayders Chad Ellis and Dustin Dibble. Results were unavailable at press time.

Harbor Light takes top honors at Charlevoix Volleyball Invitational

Desi Faust

Harbor Light Christian beat two state-ranked teams in its final two matches to claim the title at the Charlevoix Volleyball Invitational on Saturday, Jan. 27.

The Swordsmen defeated Pellston, ranked fifth in Class D, in the semifinals, 26-24, 25-19; then topped Lake City, No. 6 in Class C, 25-22, 25-17.

Harbor Light went undefeated in pool play, beating Benzie Central, 25-21, 25-10; Charlevoix JV, 25-5, 25-6; and Lake City, 25-22, 25-17.

The Swordsmen are 22-1-1 and ranked third in Class D.

Charlevoix topped Pellston in the consolation match, 25-15. Charlevoix is 24-10-1 after winning its pool, 25-8, 25-8 against Rudyard; 25-18, 25-19 against Inland Lakes; 25-21, 25-12 against Pine River; then losing to Lake City in the semifinals, 11-25, 26-24, 15-13.

"There were a lot of good teams at the tournament and we keep improvising," Charlevoix coach Liz Grunch said. "We're right there with the tougher competition. It was nice to come out strong against Lake City like we did and it was nice to play Pellston like we did in the consolation bracket. It was really a good team effort, a lot of girls are stepping up and are improving their game every day."

For the Rayders, Desi Faust had 33 kills and 12 aces; Bethany Pearson, 16 kills, 21 digs and 15 blocks; Murphy Gillespie, 14 kills, 4 aces; Aubrey Way, 38 assists, 11 kills, 20 digs, and nine aces; Zita Anderson, 28 assists; Sasha Spencley, 12 kills, 10 blocks, 28 digs, six aces and 94 percent passing; Emily Heffling, 26 digs and 90 percent passing.

Rayder wrestlers place fifth at Feb. 3 tourney

On Feb. 3, the Charlevoix wrestling team traveled to Traverse City where St. Francis hosted a conference tournament.

Placing second in the tournament were Zeke Daman, Mat Golovich and Woody Nitchman. Corey Loucks took third place in his weight class. Placing fourth were Chris Levens, JD Speigl, Corey Gotshall and Trevor Cole.

Charlevoix placed fifth overall in team points.

The Rayders will be in the Petoskey Tournament this Saturday, Feb. 10.

NOTICE OF FORECLOSURE

TO ALL INTERESTED PERSONS:

This firm is a debt collector attempting to collect a debt; any information we obtain will be used for that purpose.

MORTGAGE SALE

Default has been made in the terms and conditions of a mortgage made February 1, 2000, by Gary R. Marvin and Heather R. Marvin, husband and wife, as mortgagors, to The Bank of Northern Michigan, and recorded on February 8, 2000, at Liber 382, Page 077, Charlevoix County Records, as modified by a Modification of Mortgage dated October 1, 2001, and recorded on October 10, 2001, at Liber 438, Page 746, Charlevoix County Records. The entire balance secured by said mortgage has matured and become fully due and payable according to the terms of said mortgage and the promissory note secured thereby, as modified; and on which mortgage there is claimed to be due and unpaid at the date of this notice $226,299.33 principal and $3,253.15 interest; and no legal or equitable proceeding having been instituted to recover the debt or any part of the debt secured by the mortgage; and the power of sale contained in the mortgage having become operative by reason of the default.

Notice is now given that on Friday, February 9, 2007, at 11:00 o'clock a.m., in the main lobby of the Charlevoix County Building, 301 State Street, in Charlevoix, Michigan, that being the building where the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix Is held, there will be offered for sale and sold to the highest bidder, at public sale, the premises described in the mortgage, situated in Charlevoix Township, Charlevoix County, Michigan, and described as follows:

Commencing at a square bolt at the West quarter corner of Section 35, Town 34 North, Range 8 West; thence along the West line of said section South 00 deg. 17'41" East 340.35 feet to a T-Iron stake on the South line of the North 340.35 feet of the North half of the Southwest quarter of said section; thence along said line North 89 deg. 56'04" East 982.53 feet to a 3/4 in. pipe on the Westerly line of Highway M-66; thence along the Westerly line of Highway M-66 South 22 deg. 15'23" East 288.00 feet to a T-iron stake, being the Point of Beginning of this description; thence continuing along said highway line South 22 deg. 15'23" East 200.00 feet; thence leaving said highway line South 67 deg. 44'56" West 268.26 feet; thence North 23 deg. 09'48" West 200.00 feet to a T-iron stake; thence North 67 deg. 44'37" East 271.43 feet to the point of beginning; being a part of the Northwest quarter of the Southwest quarter of Section 35, Town 34 North, Range 8 West.

This sale is for the purpose of satisfying the amounts due and unpaid on the mortgage, with annual interest at the default rate of 11.5% per year, together with the legal costs and charges of sale, including the attorney fees allowed by law and in the mortgage, and any sums which may be paid by the mortgagee subsequent to the date of this notice to protect its interests in the premises.

The length of the redemption period will be six (6) months from date of sale.

MORTGAGE SALE

Default has occurred in the conditions of a mortgage and assignment (the "Mortgage") made by Lange Limited, L.L.C., a Michigan limited liability company, mortgagor, to Migaldi Family, L.L.C., mortgagee, dated September 22, 2003, and recorded in the Office of the Register of Deeds of Charlevoix County, Michigan, on September 26, 2003, at Liber 574 Pages 419 through 426 inclusive, which mortgage was assigned to GJDM Development, LLC, a Michigan limited liability company, with an address of 3420 South Creyts Road, Lansing, MI 48917 on November 18, 2004 and recorded in the Office of the Register of Deeds of Charlevoix County, Michigan on September 19, 2005, at Liber 705, Pages 189 through 190 inclusive. Because of the default, the undersigned has elected to declare the entire unpaid amount of the Mortgage immediately due and payable. At the date of this notice there is claimed to be due for principal and interest on the Mortgage the sum of Five Hundred Sixteen Thousand Eight Hundred Fifty Two and 80/100 Dollars ($516,852.80). No suit or proceedings at law have been instituted to recover any part of the debt secured by the Mortgage.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in the Mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, and to pay said amount with interest as provided in the Mortgage, and all legal costs, charges and expenses, including attorney fees allowed by law, the Mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the mortgaged premises at public vendue to the highest bidder at the lobby of the County Courthouse in Charlevoix, the place of holding the Circuit Court within Charlevoix County, Michigan, on Friday March 2, 2007 at 11:00 a.m. local time.

Pursuant to Section 3240(7) of the Revised Judicature Act of 1961, as amended, (MCLA 600.3240(7); MSA 27A.3240(7)), the redemption period shall be six (6) months from the date of the foreclosure sale, unless the premises are determined to be abandoned in accordance with MCLA 600.3241a; MSA 27A.3241a, in which case the redemption period shall be thirty (30) days from the date of the sale.

Settlement talk surfaces in Venetian fireworks suits

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

The Monday, Jan. 29 trial to decide whether the defendants in the 1997 Venetian Festival fireworks tragedy are financially liable was over before it began.

Judge Richard M. Pajtas, of the 33rd Circuit in Charlevoix, was under the impression the case was essentially resolved between the defendants and plaintiffs rendering a trial unnecessary.

"No final orders have come through at this point," said court administrator, Melinda Morgan. "But, there were representations (that a settlement would be forthcoming) made by both sides."

Morgan said none of the nine original firework lawsuits have been officially settled.

The plaintiffs in the case, Lisa and Mark Sokolowski, are looking for monetary damages for, among other things, Lisa's extensive injuries caused when a commercial grade firework shell allegedly exploded prematurely hurling jagged chunks of steel into spectators, vehicles and even a boat, killing Charlevoix native, Mark Yager and wounding more than a dozen others.

According to court documents submitted by Sokolowski's attorney, John D. Tallman, dated Jan. 23, Lisa's left leg was cut through and nearly amputated below the knee.

"Steel from defendant's fireworks trailer sliced completely through both bones of Lisa's lower leg and severed her pe(r)oneal nerve. Lisa has a permanent condition known as profound foot drop, meaning that she has no function of the muscles on the top of her foot and ankle," Tallman stated. "She cannot walk and move normally because she has lost the use of muscles which control her foot and ankle and which allowed her to raise her foot to begin each new step and maintained her balance."

Tallman declined to comment until the case is closed.

Lisa's leg has deteriorated for nearly the past decade, and her doctor believes this will continue to degrade over the next 10 or 15 years.

The defendants' attorney, according to Tallman's brief, has previously questioned the extent of injury, deterioration and the potential for future deterioration.

Daniel P. Steele, attorney for the multiple defendants, Fireworks North Inc. - the nonprofit group hired to procure, transport and launch the fireworks, Richard Davis - the operator of the fireworks display who then worked for Fireworks North Inc., Michael Jaye, Curtis Crawford, Lawrence Grice - who assisted Davis, and Second Chance Body Armor Inc. and Second Chance Body Armor, also declined to comment on the case.

Some of the defendants have been accused of carelessness for the incident with the exploding shell.

"Three of the four defendant fireworks operators, Crawford, Jaye and Grice were drinking liquor on the scene of the fireworks display in Charlevoix just before the explosion. In particular, defendant Jaye was drinking tequila and was drunk. Defendant Jaye was so intoxicated that he shoved a police officer who attempted to stop the fireworks after the explosion," Tallman stated in documents dated Jan. 25. "Here, it is plain that there is nothing about defendants and fireworks that was not negligent. From start to finish, defendants' devil-may-care, rules-be-damned attitude demonstrated throughout the 'Scheme, plan or system' having to do with the fireworks."

The defendants claimed the fireworks manufacturer may have delivered a defective shell. However, Tallman's brief argues the defendants never explained why or how the shell was defective.

An update on this story will be forthcoming as soon as a settlement is reached or further court proceedings are scheduled.

Rescue workers remove an injured spectator from the East Park area following the July 1997 fireworks explosion that killed one man and injured 15 others. After almost a decade of court dates, the parties involved in the lawsuits that followed the tragedy are said to be close to a settlement.

Library property back on the market

LIBRARY

> "I'm pleased that it will have the opportunity to become a commercial or professional building downtown."
> Connie Saltonstall
> HEIR TO THE 109 CLINTON ST. PROPERTY

Public Schools), (Jim) Cooper to have a meeting with Valerie Meyerson (director of the Charlevoix Public Library) to discuss the possibility of getting the assistance of the library board in lifting the deed restriction."

Valerie Meyerson

Despite several meetings between school and library officials in the weeks following the board meeting, Saltonstall stuck to her proverbial guns by refusing to lift the deed restriction unless the property is sold to a private buyer.

"I'm pleased that it will have the opportunity to become a commercial or professional building downtown," Saltonstall said.

Some are left scratching their heads at the school's most recent decision not to purchase the property after outbidding an unnamed law firm which eventually withdrew their offer, allegedly for reasons unrelated to the school's counter offer.

"They (the schools) withdrew their offer because of the deed restriction," Meyerson said. "We were under the impression they didn't have a problem with it because they knew about it up front."

Both boards will now revert to prior protocol in this situation.

"We are looking at putting the property up with a Realtor," Meyerson said. "We're going on the agreement we had last summer that we'll put the property up for sale and split the proceeds (between the school and library boards)."

Saltonstall said, if anything, the Cool Cities meeting on Jan. 31 strengthened her opinion that the school should not purchase the old library.

"It showed that there is a need for that kind of a building and that kind of space," she said. "It's a much better use for a location within a block of Bridge Street."

Though a longtime opponent of the school's desire to own the 109 Clinton St. facility, Saltonstall isn't alone in her desire to see the building used commercially.

"I would do anything and everything to make sure no more nonprofit (organizations) go in downtown," said Don Voisin, owner of The Charlevoix Agency. "I would love to see two or three businesses — a CPA office, attorney office, brokerage firm — go in there."

He added, "I am a big proponent of the downtown and keeping the tax base up."

The most important thing to remember about this ordeal, Saltonstall said, is that she and her sister won't think twice about signing off on the deed restriction if a private buyer makes a move. She also reminded that, in 2002, she and her sister vowed to sign off if school officials would trade the 109 Clinton St. property for the current library property. School officials refused the deal saying they had no interest in the old library.

The nearly 6,500-square-feet building in question, which has been vacant since the Charlevoix Public Library relocated in fall 2006, was last appraised at $720,000.

School officials intended to use the property for new administration offices.

Currently, no new offers to purchase the building have been made.

FEB. 8
HEALTH CARE FORUM

Health care in northern Michigan will be the topic of a public forum on Feb. 8 at Charlevoix Public Library.

The program is free and open to the public.

The discussion portion of the program will be moderated by Annemarie Conway, the Charlevoix High School government teacher.

The keynote speaker will be Jack Wheeler, Ph.D., professor of health management and policy at the University of Michigan's school of public health.

Spencer Johnson, president of the Michigan Health and Hospital Association, will also appear. A study completed last summer for his association showed that health care is Michigan's largest private sector employer, providing 737,000 jobs that pump $31.6 billion into Michigan's economy.

Also participating will be William Jackson, president and CEO of Charlevoix Area Hospital; Niki Kenny, director of the Community Free Clinic in Petoskey; James Jeakle, M.D., of Charlevoix Women's Health Care; and Ben Cohen, business health benefits consultant with Kushner and Co.

The program's presenters will analyze the history of health care and the state of our system as it is today. Policy options for the future will be discussed, ranging from comprehensive and universal health coverage to consumer-driven health plans.

Audience participation will be encouraged.

Doors will open at 5:15 p.m. The program will start at 6 p.m.

FEB. 8
ARTIST PRESENTATION

Charlevoix artist, Glenn Waehler will present a free lecture entitled, "The Art of Meaningful Giving," at 6:30 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 8 at the Gallery on Main in Bay Harbor. For more information, call (231) 439-2745.

FEB. 9
WINE TASTING BENEFIT

Chef John Norman of the City Park Grill in Petoskey is staging a six-course wine tasting dinner for the second year in a row to benefit the Charlevoix Area Hospital Foundation.

For $100 per person ($60 tax deductible), guests will be treated to some of the chef's finest fare.

The menu includes grilled curry chicken sate tostada, southwest beef carpaccezo roll, mixed green salad, grilled crawfish salmon roulade, red wine herb roasted beef tenderloin and white chocolate fudge brownie. Each course will feature complimenting wines provided by Bayside Beverage Company.

Dinner begins at 6:45 p.m. on Feb. 9. Tickets are available by calling Charlevoix Area Hospital Foundation at (231) 547-8685.

FEB. 9
YACHT CLUB FRIDAY FEATURES

The Charlevoix Yacht Club will host a series of programs called Friday Features. At 7 p.m. on Feb. 9 Jim Neumann of North Sails, will present "Develop a Successful Racing Program for your Boat." Neumann will discuss his system for success on the race course. The free public presentation will take place at the Charlevoix Yacht Club, located at 209 Ferry Avenue in Charlevoix. Council considers $32 million budget

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

East Park and marina improvements are the big stories for the second year in a row in the City of Charlevoix's proposed budget for 2007-2008.

The proposed 2007-2008 city budget shows a total of $32 million in it — $9.7 million of that money is for capital improvement projects such as the marina and East Park renovations and $6.2 million of that is from federal and state grants.

Proposed capital spending is down about $5 million from last year.

The marina and East Park projects are at the top of this year's capital spending list with a total cost of $4.68 million.

The second largest capital project is the airport clear zone purchase slated to cost $967,500. According to city treasurer and acting city manager, Rick Brandi, these funds will be used to purchase property off Old Norwood Road in Charlevoix Township where Waste Management used to operate, to ensure nothing is in the way of the Capital spending: $9.7 million

Millage rates: Operating millage, 9.05 mills; infrastructure millage, 2.237 mills; trash millage increased .1 mill to .8 mill

Rate increases: 2 percent increase on water rates; 5 5 percent increase on sewer rates; $35 increase on season passes at Charlevoix Golf Club

What's next: City council will review the budget at 5:30 p.m. on Feb. 19 in city council chambers at city hall.

City council: Lights out on signs

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT

The benefits of "sign language" in Charlevoix aren't universally understood.

Whether opening the gate to internally lit signs in Charlevoix through wording in the sign ordinance would help or hurt business is a matter of opinion.

On Monday night, Feb. 5 some local residents successfully bent the ears of Charlevoix City Council members and sent city planner Gerry Harsch back to the sign ordinance revision drawing board.

Harsch was asked to remove language from the proposed ordinance revision that would allow internally lit signs outside Charlevoix's central

John Jarema

Charlevoix County Prosecutor John Jarema won't let William Montgomery take the money and run.

Jarema claims Montgomery must be held accountable for cashing a check for $222,978.36 in April 2004 that Jarema says he knew didn't belong to him.

"I think the guy committed a crime. Why should he get away with it? And look at the fallout (recently dismissed city manager Mike) Wiesner lost his job

Jarema pursues charges against Montgomery in check debacle

CCMS

— right, wrong or indifferent, this guy should be held accountable," Jarema said.

Jarema had been fighting for jurisdiction to bring charges against Montgomery for over a year. On Feb. 1, his request was granted by the Michigan Attorney General's office.

Now, he will travel to the Mackinac County Courthouse to pursue justice in the matter.

The check in question was written from the City of Charlevoix on April 2, 2004 to CCMS and Associates, a contractor out of Sault Ste. Marie hired by the city in 2001 to work on roads and sidewalks.

However, the check was supposed to be written to CCMS insurer, United Fire and Casualty. United was then to pay subcontractors hired by CCMS for those projects.

When Charlevoix City Treasurer Rick Brandi realized the check was issued in error, he called the city's bank and tried to stop payment but it was too late. Montgomery, owner of CCMS, had cashed the check and never turned over any portion of that money to the bond company United Fire and Casualty.

Because the CCMS check was cashed in St. Ignace, local authorities have been working with the Michigan State Police post there. The Michigan State Police entered a request for charges with former Mackinac County Prosecuting Attorney Clayton Graham.

According to Jarema, Graham opted not to take the case.

Current Mackinac County Prosecuting Attorney Fred Feleppa said that since the majority of the issue had Charlevoix ties his office determined Jarema would be the better man to handle the case.

Jarema said he requested an opinion from the state attorney general's office as to whether he could try the case in Charlevoix.

"The impact was felt here," he said.

The attorney general's office determined that the only way for Jarema to get jurisdiction is to be appointed a special prosecutor in Mackinac County.

Since this process began, Graham has been appointed Mackinac County Probate Judge. Jarema is now in the process of working with Feleppa, to act as a prosecutor in Mackinac County which will allow him to travel and try the case there.

Last week, he met with Richard Harris a representative of the U.S. Department of Treasury in Marquette to hash out details of the case. Jarema claims Montgomery never claimed the money on his taxes or paid sales tax on it. Instead, he invested two $100,000 cashiers checks into an Ameritrade account.

"We'll see if he'll cough up the cash," Jarema said.

Brandi, who is currently the acting city manager, said regardless of how much cash Jarema is able to get, he's happy to see Montgomery being pursued.

"He's the guy we feel is the bad guy in this. Whether or not we get anything from the prosecution is one thing — but at least it will feel better," Brandi said.

The city's luck in covering the check mishap thus far hasn't been good.

This mistake resulted in United Fire and Casualty suing the city in June 2004. In December 2004 the city agreed to end the suit by paying United Fire the over $220,000 it already paid CCMS. The city then filed suit against its insurer Michigan Municipal League Liability and Property Pool, to try and recoup its expense.

In June 2006 Charlevoix County Circuit Judge Richard Pajtas ruled in the city's favor in the matter. But that decision was overturned in December 2006 by the Michigan Court of Appeals.

Early this month, Robert L. DeJong of Miller Canfield in Grand Rapids, who is representing the city in this matter applied to the Supreme Court to review the appellate court decision.

Lock the door, bilingualism has arrived

LA TOALLA LLOROSA

Benjamin Gohs

I was surprised to find out recently that apparently I am an idiot and so are many of you.

It seems we've ignored insults from a local home improvement store and allowed our rich heritage to be ignored.

Though xenophobia goes back to Grog hating Grink for worshipping an oak stump instead of a pile of manure, today's pseudo controversy began with a woman's letter to the editor of the Petoskey News-Review stating, "The corporate 'Thinkers?' at Lowes have... completely ignored our rich heritage. Instead of trying to assimilate(,) they have posted their store entry and every subsequent sign in English and Spanish in equal sized letters."

"Spanish? Equal sized letters?" gasp northern Michiganders. OK, maybe the sucking sound is the synchronous mouth breathing of bigots salivating in anticipation of a self-imposed xenophobic frenzy, but if your heritage includes fear and loathing of those unlike you, perhaps it is time you're ignored.

The author went on to wager, "We do not have a second language here, and if we did it would not be Spanish."

Xeno Worrier Princess could have said an American Indian dialect would be the second language if European invaders' hadn't done such a hang-up job assimilating and embracing the culture out of existence. It seems the American Indians were simply pandering to the incompetent whites.

Lighthearted citations of genocide notwithstanding, I venture there are more Spanish speakers in Michigan than all remaining American Indian tribes combined. The truth is, most of the nearly 10 percent of the population who don't speak English speak Spanish.

Now, before you pull out your "I Hate the Liberal Media" stationary, I'm not advocating a second language. Governmental and legal proceedings should be conducted in English. There should be limits on the amount of tax money spent to accommodate non-English speakers. However, this isn't the issue at hand.

Xeno said she won't, "Shop at stores where the rich heritage of my area is ignored. And the heritage of another country is being shoved down our throats."

Granted, if a brown guy named Juan feeds you frijoles at gunpoint while a mariachi band plays "Happy Birthday" to Benito Jaurez, you've had someone else's culture shoved down your throat. Anything short of that is a minor annoyance at best.

The princess' letter spurred sentiments of indignation including, "We're all watching our own America slipping away from us right under our noses."

America doesn't belong more to you or Gohs than Pablo Incognito simply because we may have more of a general grasp of the English language. Yes, blaming foreign tongues for America's ills is easier than investigating our own inadequacy, but if you think multilingual assembly instructions, DVD menu options and the prerecorded voices on the gas company's hotline will ruin your country, perhaps it's time to increase your dosage.

Lowes can't steal your kids, impinge your whiteness or force you to speak Hindi, they're simply reaching out to the most customers possible.

The good old indignant exasperation doesn't stop there as evidenced by a writer so upset with Spanish signs he phoned Lowes corporate headquarters. If he thinks "Lowes is simply pandering to the incompetent Mexicans and others," he ought to get a load of federal law which dictates any group receiving federal funds must provide services to non-English speakers. Or the Supreme Court, which found students who don't speak English are privy to translators, tutors and materials at taxpayer expense. Let's not forget the billions in food stamps, subsidized housing and health care for those in the U.S. who 'No speaky.'

Following this line of reasoning, you folks have been slapped in the face for far longer than Lowes has been in town.

In the end, Americans still have the right to offend one another — they with their letters, me with this column. I don't care if the Lowes signs translate as "Welcome," or "White people suck," assuming only Joe Whitebread has ownership in the country is simplistic, bigoted and lacks cognitive thought.

By the way, anyone with an urge to complain about the Braille menus available at McDonalds restaurants can call (800) 244-6227. God knows all those raised dots ignore my rich heritage of being able to hear.

LETTERS to the editor

THE SUCCESS EQUATION

Editor:

Often, being referred to as "just a number" isn't a good thing. It implies an impersonal relationship often found in big cities, big business and big government. Those of us who choose to make northern Michigan our home have done so because we want to be considered more than "just a number." But occasionally, numbers can be a very good thing.

Take for instance the numbers below associated with the Charlevoix Cool City Project.

- 23 — the number of community leaders ably serving on the Charlevoix Cool City Process Committee, offering their valuable guidance and keen insight.
- 68 — the number of downtown business owners who submitted surveys detailing their perceptions of downtown Charlevoix.
- 100 — the number of area residents who kindly provided vital feedback regarding their shopping and activity habits.
- 25 — the number of seasonal residents who generously offered their perceptions of our downtown.
- 21 — the number of volunteers who contacted area residents seeking their input.
- 45 — the number of Charlevoix residents ranging from downtown employees to city department heads to key community leaders who took time to share their thoughts with our downtown development consultants.
- 13 — the number of staff members of the Charlevoix Public Library led by its dynamic director, Valerie Meyerson, who supplied the perfect venue for our three days of focus groups and issue sessions, culminating in our successful town hall-style Community Vision Session.
- 141 — the number of community members attended the Charlevoix Cool City Community Vision Session to discuss the future of their town.

The numbers above represent well over 400 community members who wish to make a positive difference in their town. Each of these individuals contributed in their own unique way to making the Charlevoix Cool City project a success. And whether they know it or not, each has earned both their community's respect and my sincere gratitude.

But we have more to do.

In less than two weeks the Charlevoix Cool City project will host the unveiling of Charlevoix's Downtown Blueprint. All community members are invited to this exciting presentation of a five-year plan geared to revitalize downtown Charlevoix. The presentation of the Charlevoix Downtown Blueprint will occur at 7 p.m. on Monday, Feb. 26 in City Council Chambers at Charlevoix City Hall, 210 State St.

Regardless of what this final plan reveals or suggests, one thing has been demonstrated beyond all others during this intensive eight-week process — community spirit is alive and well in Charlevoix.

Charlevoix Cool City Coordinator

STUDENTS NEED SKILLS NOT CRITICISM

Editor:

Thank you, Connie Saltonstall, for putting the kibosh on the ill-considered plan to move a few school administrators into the old library building. It is ridiculous to think that the system's "image" depends upon a new building. And there are certainly better uses for a high-value downtown property and taxpayers' money.

Do the schools have an "image" problem? I managed to wade through the Courier's front-page account (page 1, Feb. 7 edition of the Charlevoix Courier entitled "Teen charged in high school drug bust) of last December's big drug bust, or could-have-been drug bust, at Charlevoix High School. If I understand the facts, one student attempted to inhale what he admitted was one crushed OxyContin tablet, stolen from his mother. Mr. (Gary) Grundman, school principal, interrupted that act, and later questioned him about the incident. Because of a delay in bringing in officer (Rob) Scholey (school liaison officer), who would have brought in Rex (our county drug dog), and the state crime lab, the "scene was not "adequately preserved" for the prosecutor, Mr. (John) Jarema.

I am certainly not an advocate of drug use or abuse. I realize that it is a problem among our youth, and a bigger problem among our adults. Making mountains out of molehills, however entertaining that may be, is just not the solution to the problem.

Here's what ought to concern us — we are talking about our schools, and not one of the individuals involved seems capable of putting a simple English sentence together. Surely police reports must be written at the fifth-grade level at a minimum. Surely a high school principal can say something more sensible than that he was sick and had never seen a situation like this in his 34 years as an educator. Surely a prosecutor, with at least seven years of post high school education, knows the difference between an adjective and an adverb. Surely a newspaper reporter can write a coherent story. And surely the superintendent of schools doesn't need to say that he doesn't believe a conspiracy was involved.

Some of the young people who graduate from our schools need to be educated, because not all of them will be able to find jobs in the schools, law enforcement, the local newspaper or prisons, where apparently we are hell-bent on sending many of our young men. Perhaps ensuring that our young people have the skills they need to get decent jobs or succeed in college will result in less drug use. Perhaps it is a focus on the quality of education, not new offices and high-profile drug busts, that will improve the image of the Charlevoix schools.

Hospice reaches $3.6 million goal to build Hiland Cottage

Hospice of Little Traverse Bay has reached its capital campaign goal, raising $3.6 million toward construction of a seven-bedroom hospice residence and community grief and loss center pictured above.

Hospice of Little Traverse Bay has announced that it has reached its capital campaign goal, raising $3.6 million toward construction of a seven-bedroom hospice residence and community grief and loss center.

"As of Dec. 31, 2006, we have raised $3.6 million, which will allow us to begin construction of Hiland Cottage this spring," said campaign chair Roger Lintz.

Year-end campaign contributions from three area organizations helped put Hospice of Little Traverse Bay at the top. Grants from the Charlevoix County Community Foundation ($5,000), the Petoskey-Harbor Springs Area Community Foundation ($9,000) and the Northern Michigan Hospital Auxiliary ($50,000) were presented at the December board of directors meeting.

"The total cost estimate for the project, including construction and equipment, is $3.8 million," said Hospice of Little Traverse Bay Executive Director Lisa Ashley. "We are still awaiting one final, major gift that will put us over the top and provide the funds necessary for construction in addition to the equipment. It has been a long journey, but thanks to the generous support of our community and many friends, we are on our way home."

While Hospice of Little Traverse Bay awaits that final gift, construction documents have been submitted to the state of Michigan for final review and approval. Construction will begin on Hiland Cottage following receipt of state approval.

Named for long-time hospice advocate and board member Hiland Hall, the 18,000-square-foot, two-story building will house all hospice operations on the first floor, including administration, counseling staff and volunteers. The second floor will have seven patient bedrooms, a kitchen, a meditation room, a family/children's play room, a beauty shop, a library and an office for nursing staff.

Hiland Cottage will be located in Petoskey off of Balsam Avenue near the Northern Michigan Hospital Lockwood-MacDonald campus. It provides a place of comfort for patients and their families as they experience the end-of-life transition together.

The facility will also house all Safe Crossings Community Support Services.

These programs are offered free-of-charge to anyone in the community who has lost a loved one regardless of their participation in hospice services. Funding is provided by grants, memorials and other community gifts.

Hospice care is available to anyone, of any age who has a life-limiting illness. Those who would benefit from a hospice facility are those whose caregivers are unable to maintain care for the patient at home, for those without a caregiver available or those whose symptoms are such that they need 24-hour care to maintain their level of comfort. Hospice of Little Traverse Bay provides care to residents of Charlevoix, Emmet and Cheboygan counties.

For more information on hospice care or the hospice house project, visit www.hospiceltb.org or call (231) 487-4787.

Students showcase Irish Folk Art performance in Grand Rapids

Courtesy photo

On Saturday, Jan. 27 at DeVos Place, Charlevoix band students performed for attendees of the Michigan Music Conference in Grand Rapids.

On Saturday, Jan. 27 the sounds of dulcimers, drums, xylophones and penny whistles filled the air at DeVos Place as Charlevoix band students performed for attendees of the Michigan Music Conference in Grand Rapids.

"It is a great honor to be chosen to perform at this conference which is made up of band, orchestra and choir directors from all over Michigan," said director of bands for Charlevoix Public Schools, Jayne Bennett.

Bennett and the Irish performing students presented a clinic discussing the elements of organizing the Irish Folk Art Festival that was performed last March in Charlevoix. There were performances of Irish folk music and dance by Charlevoix middle and high school students. Teachers showed great interest in the instruments and songs hoping to start something similar in their own schools.

Instruments were purchased using grants provided by the Charlevoix County Community Foundation and the Charlevoix Education Foundation.

What's happening at the Library this week?

Preschoolers are almost ready to read! You can further develop your preschooler's pre-reading skills by reading aloud to your child in order to develop vocabulary, print awareness, narrative skills, letter knowledge, interest in reading and the understanding that words are made up of a number of sounds. Families can make reading to preschoolers child's play by attending story hour. "Story time is a wonderful way to enhance your child's exposure to the written word," states youth services librarian, Chris Hauke. Story hour generally includes stories, songs, movement and finger play. Not only does pre-school story hour bring your child closer to books, it is also a wonderful and safe way for children to begin to socialize in a group setting with other children and adults. Librarians encourage parents to leave their 4 and 5 year olds by themselves for story hour. This gives parents a perfect time to socialize or have a few minutes to browse the library. Toddler and baby story hour sessions bring parents and children together to enjoy stories and songs. "Toddler time is a great way to learn new finger plays and songs to share with my baby," states story hour mom Erika Powell. Call your local library for information on story hours hosted in your area.

The Charlevoix Public Library offers story time in 5-week sessions and pre-registration is recommended.

Story Time 2: "Toddler Tuesdays", Feb 20 – Mar 20, 3 p.m. (open to all ages)

Story Times: Thursdays, Feb 22 – Mar 22 Lapsit (birth - 3) 10:05 and Pre-k (3 -5) 10:30

Sleepytime Stories: Evening pajama stories for families, 7 p.m., Feb 27.

Register your child now by calling the youth information desk in Charlevoix at 237-7351

OBITUARIES

Dwight Leonard: June 8, 1942 - Jan. 29, 2007

Dwight Wilson Leonard, age 64, died on Monday, Jan. 29 in his home in Troy.

He was born on June 8, 1942 in Detroit and grew up in Grosse Pointe. After graduating from Grosse Pointe High in 1960, he joined Cutmore Tool Co. which was founded by his late father, Frederick Wilson Leonard. He worked as owner of this company until his death.

A member of the Detroit Athletic Club since 1968, Dwight enjoyed the various activities taking part in the Beavers, Handball, Suite 500 and nearly 40 years as a Friday afternoon bowler. While boating and golf were hobbies he enjoyed, his passion in life was his friends and family.

As one of the nicest people you will ever meet, he was an inspiration to all.

Services have been held.

Leonard is survived by his wife, Linda; his mother, Florence Leonard; his children, Rick Leonard (Linda), Leigh Leonard-Boyd (Bob); his sister, Colleen Van Gelderen (Ted); step-children, Marny Mellinger (Jim), Lindsey Brodsky and Megan Reedy (Brian); six grandchildren, Emma and Alec, Jonathon and Samantha, Jack and Henry; and many relatives and friends.

View obituary and share memories at www.desmondfuneralhome.com.

Donations in Dwight's honor are welcome at the Detroit Zoological Society, 8450 West Ten Mile Road, Royal Oak, MI 48067.

Beverly Plum: April 9, 1926 - Feb. 7, 2007

Beverly June Plum, of Charlevoix and Traverse City, passed away on Wednesday, Feb. 7 in her assisted living apartment at the Highlander in Traverse City.

Bev was born on April 9, 1926, in Grand Haven, to William and Ida (Kamphuis) Fisher. Her father was a lifeboat station commander in the Coast Guard and Bev spent her childhood in many Great Lakes Coast Guard stations.

Beverly married Melvin L. Plum on Oct. 30, 1947, in Charlevoix, where they lived for the next 56 years and raised their three children, Gary, Mary and David.

After Mel's death, Bev moved to the Highlander in Traverse City to be closer to her kids.

Bev spent many years working in the office of Dr. John Lignell. She was a caregiver to many and so enjoyed doing for others. She enjoyed sewing and knitting, especially for the grandchildren. Bev loved to cook. Her family get-togethers were so special. Bev's Highlander family was such a loving environment in her final years.

Bev was a member of Charlevoix's First Congregational Church, Order of the Eastern Star, VFW Auxiliary and Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild.

Surviving are son, Gary (Gail) Plum, of Traverse City; daughter, Mary Clark, of Reed City; and son, David (Rosemary) Plum, of Virginia Beach; 11 grandchildren; 10 great-grandchildren; and one great-great-grandchild.

Preceding Bev in death was husband, Melvin; her parents; sister, Ardene Anderson; brother, Gerald (Bud) Fisher; and son-in-law, Merritt Clark.

Memorial contributions may be directed to the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix or Munson Hospice and Palliative Care.

A funeral service took place on Feb. 10 at the First Congregational Church in Charlevoix.

Arrangements were handled by Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Joseph Czerkes: Sept. 5, 1917 - Feb. 9, 2007

Joseph Czerkes

Joseph Czerkes, 89 of Boyne Falls, died Feb. 9 at home surrounded by his loving family.

Joseph was born on Sept. 5, 1917 in Hludno, Poland the son of Constantine and Tekla (Szepelak) Czerkes. He grew up in Poland and attended school in Hludno. In June 1944 he married Teresa (Paraska) Halczuk in Germany. He was a member of St. Augustine Catholic Church in Boyne Falls and formerly of St. Josephat Ukrainian Catholic Church in Warren. Joseph enjoyed the outdoors, morel hunting, gardening, baking, traveling and especially spending time with family and friends.

Joseph is survived by his wife of 62 years Teresa; children Stephen (Catherine) Czerkes of Boyne City; grandchildren Michael (Heidi) Czerkes of Lansing, Kristin (Brad) Eaton of Ellsworth, Ann Marie Czerkes, Deanna Czerkes, Adam Czerkes and Eric Czerkes; great-grandchildren Joseph Czerkes, Graham Czerkes and Karlee Eaton.

He was preceded in death by his parents Constantine and Tekla; son Joseph Czerkes; four sisters Teresa, Mary, Anna and Cathy; two brothers Steve and Stan.

A funeral mass will take place at 11 a.m. today, Wednesday, Feb. 14 at St. Augustine Church with Fr. Duane Wachowiak serving as celebrant.

The family suggests memorial contributions be directed to St. Augustine Church Building Fund or Hospice of Northwest Michigan.

Burial will take place at St. Augustine Cemetery early in the spring.

Stackus Funeral Home of Boyne City is serving the family.

Schools break the language barrier

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

What happens in the classroom when a teacher and student don't speak the same language?

In early January, when siblings who speak only Mandarin Chinese enrolled, two Charlevoix schools had to tackle this difficult question. Feng Chen is a 9-year-old boy in second-grade at Charlevoix Elementary School. The other, Ying Chen, is a 15-year-old girl in seventh-grade at Charlevoix Middle School.

The two are the son and daughter of Yong Shen Dong and Yuzhen Chen, owners of Charlevoix's China One, who moved to Charlevoix from the Province of Fuzhou in China.

Charlevoix Elementary School principal Dick Swenor credits school secretary Sue Gengle for taking the bull by the horns and finding a way to break down the language barrier, allowing the schools to educate the kids.

Gengle contacted multiple agencies to find Mandarin speaking tutors including the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District and Charlevoix Area Hospital. Her efforts yielded four leads, three of which didn't pan out and a fourth that proved to be the perfect fit.

"It was an answer to prayer," Swenor said.

Theresa Ma-Gagnon, a 37-year-old Petoskey resident, was hired through PMP to work with the students. The students are now benefiting not only from the common language bond they share with her but the common experience Ma-Gagnon can draw from to reach out to them.

She said Feng will have an easier time picking up English because he is younger but he'll have to overcome his shyness to really blossom and that both are eager to learn. Ying speaks limited English and can understand casual conversation like introductions.

While they have bridged the language gap, their first experiences as students in Charlevoix weren't easy.

"At first, she (Ying) felt very isolated and disoriented. She didn't understand what her day-to-day activities should be as far as getting lunch even," Ma-Gagnon said.

While students stepped in to lend a hand, getting to and from class was a minor part of the huge education mountain this young girl and her little brother have to climb.

Ma-Gagnon did an initial orientation with the students, sitting through classes and explaining lunch options and costs. Now, she spends three hours in the morning at Charlevoix Middle School with Ying and three hours in the afternoon at the elementary school with Feng. The rest of the day, the students spend in English speaking classrooms.

She said they thrive in classes that require less comprehension and lecture like art and math but struggle in history, social studies and science. And of course Feng is flourishing in the universal subject of recess.

Watching the students learn brings back memories for Ma-Gagnon who in 1979 at the age of 10 moved to Saginaw from Korea. Her parents had fled China as communism moved in during the Cultural Revolution which coincided with World War-II.

Ma-Gagnon grew up in a Korean community made up of fellow defectors of the Chinese Province of San Dong.

"I wish my grandma was still around to write a book about her history," she said.

Like the Chen children, when Ma-Gagnon arrived in the U.S. she and her two younger brothers spoke no English, only Mandarin Chinese.

"I didn't even know the ABCs before I got here," she said. "I understand what they are going through having experienced it first hand. It can be overwhelming and scary at times."

Her father who lived stateside for five years before moving his family spoke limited English. Her parents both stressed the need for her to learn English requiring her to copy books to familiarize herself with writing and characters. There were no tutors available to her as she is to the Chen children.

Ma-Gagnon's focus paid off. She graduated from high school in Jackson at the age of 16 and went on to earn an engineering degree from the University of Michigan. After college she moved to Petoskey and worked from 1990-1995 at Big Rock Point as a mechanical engineer and followed that with a promising career in banking.

She said if Feng overcomes his shyness and Ying continues to develop her speaking skills they share her ability to realize a bright future.

"My overall goal for them is independence — for them to be able to converse and do their school work on their own," she said.

Experts discuss the future of health care

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

As with any complex issue, more questions than answers were raised during the presentation and forum on the state of America's health care system hosted by the Charlevoix Public Library last Thursday.

During his 70-minute keynote address, Jack Wheeler, Ph.D, professor of health management and policy at the University of Michigan's school of public health, laid out the history, current state and future of health care and the importance of finding solutions for its many challenges.

"I'm delighted to hear about this kind of program and this kind of community involvement," Wheeler said. "It's just a great idea to have people get together and share their thoughts about public policy and policy issues."

According to Wheeler's research, Americans went from spending a combined $35 billion on health care in the mid-1960s to nearly $2 trillion in 2004.

That is an increase from $172 to $6,280 spent per person each year.

And, as stated in a press release from program planners, "A study completed last summer showed that health care is Michigan's largest private sector employer, providing 737,000 jobs that pump $31.6 billion into Michigan's economy."

"The system has certain characteristics specific to it. Some people call those flaws," Wheeler said. "Let's start with the system of paying for care."

Wheeler discussed the numerous ways patients provide for or have their care provided for them and the disconnect which can result.

"We have a very fragmented payment system so that some people have insurance coverage that is associated with payment for specific services, some people have payment system associated with more like payments per month," he said.

A key aspect of finding solutions to the American health care crisis, Wheeler said, "We have to keep in mind...Americans have a preference for lots of free choice with respect for doctors, hospitals, insurance. Whether you want coverage or not. Whether you want care or not, this is a very strong value that has key structural implications for the characteristics of our system."

Prescription drugs accounted for 11 percent of health care spending in 2003 and Americans only received the recommended health services 54.9 percent of the time in 2003, according to Wheeler.

"We have in this country, in terms of organization and services, health care thinkers have called it a paradox of excess and deprivation," he said. "It is certainly true, if you're sick and have money or insurance coverage, you want to be here in the U.S., maybe even specifically in Michigan because we have some of the best health care in the whole country right here."

He added, "There is also the deprivation side of this paradox, which is to say there are many people who for various reasons don't have access or availability or don't have these services available to them."

But, people weren't always scrambling to get government health care or trying to pay for their own, Wheeler said.

"Employment based insurance began during World War II as a way to raise wages and a way to attract workers when the economy was booming," he said.

"Today," Wheeler said, "We have what I call spotty public insurance," referring to the elderly, poor, military and children who may receive differing forms of tax funded medical benefits.

"We have an issue of cost problems and we have an issue of the fact that many people don't have insurance and that affects their ac-

PA performers miss state qualification

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

Fairies, talking plants and the hangman's noose headlined regional competition at Charlevoix High School on Saturday, Feb. 10.

And, while the Charlevoix performing arts students didn't qualify for state competition with their rendition of "Little Shop of Horrors," they received their fair share of honors.

"We did not do as well as we wanted to, but it was a good competition here and we're not disappointed in any way of how it all ended up," said program director, Connie Ford. "It (Ford's reaction) was kind of a mix. I was really happy with the show and with the awards people got. We have people who have not been getting awards who got awards this weekend, so it added to our kids' self-esteem."

She added, "On top of that, I'm proud of them for running the show. Their work of putting it together and hosting the whole thing and being cordial and gracious to the people that came in was quite outstanding. They worked hard on both ends of it as both competitors and hosts."

Of the six schools in competition on Saturday, East Grand Rapids and Forest Hills Eastern qualified for state competition with their performances of "A Comedy of Errors" and "The Money in Uncle George's Suitcase" respectively.

"The one thing that I was really pleased with was the number of community people who came in not just for our show, but they came in for a number of shows," Ford said. "The students that attended from down state were getting appreciation from our community for what they were doing. A lot of times the community comes in for their home show and that did not happen here."

She added, "I was pleased and appreciative because that was fair to everybody."

Alex Urban

Those honored for the day's competition include Alex Urban with an excellent rating for acting. Sam Kantola received an excellent nod for program design. Urban and Travis Klooster, each earned an excellent for set design. Matt Cross, Mike Lamoreaux and Stephanie Milazzo received a nod for light design. Brian Whitley had a superior rating for plant design. Jennie Withers and Celina Wanek got a superior rating for puppetteering. And Brian Whitley received a superior for his performance as the voice of Audrey II, the carnivorous, wisecracking plant who put the horror in "The Little Shop of Horrors."

"We had a good audience," Ford said. "The kids love it when the different plants appear bigger and bigger and by the time the plant is out there sassing at Seymour, they're having a good time."

While group competition is over until next winter, 40 to 45 students are now preparing for individual event competition which will begin the first weekend of March.

Look for the full stage production of "Little Shop of Horrors" scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 24 and 25 to be performed by the Charlevoix performing arts class in the school's performing arts center.

Follow-up health care forum planned for April 19

cess to health care," he said.

The interactive event saw an audience of over 100 who asked questions ranging from what the biggest issues are facing health care to how those issues can be fixed.

"Using your experience in health care as a gauge, what do you see as the top two problems of the health care system and what alternatives to those problems would you recommend," forum moderator, Anne Marie Conway, asked Dr. James Jeakle of Charlevoix Women's Health Care.

"The obvious answer is cost, curbing cost," Jeakle said. "The drug companies, I think, have some issues that need to be addressed. They have unfair advantages — less competition...they have record profits that they claim are used for research and development and some of that I'm sure is true."

Jeakle said things cannot continue they way they're going.

"They invent a drug and the patent's good for seven years and as soon as that patent's up they have a new product that's had a little tweaking and suddenly that old drug is no good, get it off your shelves, don't use any more, this is better, there are a few little improvements in it," he said. "I see that in birth control pills all the time. They're always pushing new birth control pills and the fact is birth control pills haven't changed much, so that's one of the massive problems."

Jeakle said the upward spiral of technology in the medical field is also part of the issue.

"I kind of liken it to computers. You get a home computer that sits for about three years and then you realize you can't put any new software on it because it can't handle it so you have to buy a new computer," he said. "I see the same thing in health care. Americans want the best health care...and certainly we have the most technically advanced health care."

Jack Wheeler, Ph.D, professor of health management and policy at the University of Michigan's school of public health, laid out the history, current state and future of health care the importance of finding solutions for its many challenges at a forum last week.

Jeakle said whenever someone invents a new machine, even if it only has minor improvements, it becomes the standard of care. Even though sometimes a procedure or test may be unnecessary, if he doesn't run an expensive test on a pregnant woman which could detect Down Syndrome and her child is born with the defect, he could get sued for not following the standard of care.

Wheeler said one of the problems with American health care is that American doctors do more procedures per patient than any other country making this duplicitous system costly.

When asked what he would do to fix these issues, Jeakle said, "Well, I don't have solutions."

Another forum on health care will take place on April 19.

Root Fusion takes a blues challenge

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

Local blues boys, Charlie's Root Fusion, are back from competing in the 23rd Annual International Blues Challenge in Memphis, Tenn. without a title, but better for the experience.

Charlie's Root Fusion, one of five Michigan groups at the challenge, was one of 96 bands and 57 solo acts from around the world competing for $1,500 in cash, promotional materials and high profile performance dates including scheduled gigs aboard the Legendary Blues Cruise.

"It's a great networking chance. We got festival and radio gigs out of it, met new friends, made new connections," said Root Fusion's lead singer and namesake, Charlie Witthoeft. "A huge thanks to all the sponsors and donors that made it possible for us to go."

While Charlie's Root Fusion didn't walk away with the IBC crown, they did score the ear of a radio station in Iowa which will feature their music and an Ohio blues festival gig this summer.

According to the Web site, www.blues.org, the annual blues competition is the best place for blues musicians to show their stuff.

"The IBC is a judged 'Battle of the Bands' in which competitors take the stage and play a short set for a panel of judges. The acts are judged based on an established set of criteria," the site states.

Bands are scored on content, talent, originality and stage presence.

"Competition was the stiffest it's been in terms of the number of bands competing," Witthoeft said.

Charlie's Root Fusion played two 30-minute sets, at 9:30 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 1 and 5:30 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 2., with the ultimate goal of qualifying for the finals. They competed against nine other bands at the bar, Wet Willie's, on Beale Street. Winning the Wet Willie's slot at the finals was WSNB, a band out of North Carolina.

Witthoeft said he knew from the first notes WSNB played they were his band's top competitor.

Nevertheless, CRF pushed on.

"We had a strong stage presence and connection with audience. Our show ended with a standing ovation on Friday night," he said.

However, the judges made the final call and the honor went to WSNB.

"I think their edge was more from a marketing standpoint. Their sound was more traditional, almost predictable — they had the simple, catchy hooks. We had more variety — maybe that's not what they wanted," Witthoeft said. "We do rockabilly, swing, old school blues, where they just concentrated on one style. It was definitely between us and them."

Paula Adams, chairman of the Mid-North Michigan Blues Society out of Traverse City, said this year's blues challenge was one of the best yet.

Local blues band jams at International Blues Challenge

BLUES

"I went down to support Charlie's band and (they) did great. They rocked the place and Charlie went out in the audience and played his harmonica," Adams said. "Jeremy Biggerstaff (on lead guitar) is an excellent guitar player. They have a neat, unique band."

As a fan of all blues, Adams said she was thrilled to hear rock, folk and jazz blues played by acts from as far away as Paris, France and Taiwan.

"This year, they had more bands than ever and it was so well organized," she said. "The bands competed in 13 different clubs on Beale Street in Memphis and each club had around nine bands that competed and solo acts too."

Another local blues band, Mojo and the Boogieman, competed in the blues challenge after the Saginaw Blues Society appointed them to go.

"They played at the 152 Club," Adams said. "They didn't place in the finals either. There was just a huge amount of competition from cities and countries from around the world."

She added, "There was even a girl from Italy who sang in all Italian."

Sweeping the competition's top honors was The Sean Carney Band, lead by Carney, a 34-year-old guitarist from Columbus, Ohio who has been an International Blues Competition finalist twice. Carney performed at the Paris Jazz Festival in July 2006, leaves for a Canadian tour this month and will tackle a European tour in the fall. He also took the coveted Albert King award for guitar players

Taking second place was Homemade Jamz' Blues Band from Tupelo, Miss. The three-piece band made up of two brothers and their sister ranging in age from nine to 14.

Mighty Lester, an eight-piece blues outfit out North Carolina took third place.

Band finals were staged for the first time at the Orpheum Theatre on Saturday afternoon, Feb. 3. The finals were moved out of Old Daisy Theater to accommodate the growing crowd. The New Daisy Theater hosted the evening solo/duo act finals.

Charlie's Root Fusion will continue their local gig schedule this weekend with a show on Feb. 16 at Grey Gables in Charlevoix and on Saturday night, Feb. 17 at Leelanau Sands Casino.

MiSeasons launches regional Web presence

MiSeasons
what's in it for you?

MiSeasons.com launches Monday to build an online community near you.

MiSeasons.com is a regional effort by Schurz Communications Inc., owners of the Gaylord Herald Times, Petoskey News-Review, Charlevoix Courier and two PhoneGuides, to recognize that northern Michigan residents share common interests and life stories beyond geographically specific news.

"MiSeasons.com is your community portal into life in northern Michigan beyond the news. You can watch it, or help create it," said Peter Comings, online media manager for the print publications.

The site is divided by interest according to the seasons, with a year-round section for more permanent interests. While everyone should find something interesting to read on the site, anyone with the desire can apply for a free membership.

"The idea is that two people who live nowhere near each other can come to the site, express their own interests and, in the process, develop their own online community," said Comings.

While the hard launch takes place Monday, the staff has worked for weeks priming the site with content and suggested navigation links.

Peter Comings

The site is built on a Wiki computing platform which will allow members to post text, photos and videos — offering instruction in the process.

"The site is intended to be very flexible in its setup, responding to the interest areas of our viewers," said Comings.

Current year-round links include pages for northern Michigan nightlife, events, entertainment, blogging and more. Seasonal subject areas will expand as needed.

Members may suggest new subject areas at any time and create their own pages within that framework.

Anastasia Forrestal

MiSeasons.com will offer links to the company's newspaper Web sites and will share a "Northern Michigan News" page with the Gaylord Herald Times, Petoskey News-Review and Charlevoix Courier where visitors can see the top news and sports headlines from each related site.

Anastasia Forrestal, the Web site's outreach specialist and content producer, is meeting with groups to sign up new community members.

New to northern Michigan is the introduction of enhanced local search through PlanetDiscover. Input a single keyword into the "Search Northern Michigan" field and get returns for story and ad content; not just from Gaylord, Petoskey and Charlevoix, but from Traverse City to Alpena, Houghton Lake to Newberry.

For more information, contact Comings by calling (989) 748-4524, or Forrestal, (989) 748-4533.

Among the many features of the new site will be:

- a "Northern Michigan News" page with stories from the most recent editions of the Gaylord Herald Times, Petoskey News-Review and Charlevoix Courier;
- a user's ability to load his or her own stories, photos, video or audio files to pages they create;
- a link to myCapture.com for more extensive user photo-loading opportunities;
- a Google mapping function; and,
- the chance to create an active, online community.

Also online

- The Gaylord Herald Times will launch its new online look today, Feb. 14. The site will feature a more user-friendly interface; allow viewers to join for free as members who can blog and respond to stories at gaylordheraldtimes.com; an electronic version of the print edition; national and local video and podcasting products; and a link for viewing all of the photos that didn't appear in print, and from which orders can be placed in a variety of sizes.
- The Petoskey News-Review launched its new look Feb. 7. Included is the ability to sign on for free as a member who can blog and respond to stories at petoskeynews.com; a link for viewing all of the photos that didn't appear in print, and from which orders can be placed in a variety of sizes; and an electronic version of the print edition.

Stanley named Petoskey News-Review editor

BY JEREMY MCBAIN
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW NEWS EDITOR

Kendall Stanley

Kendall P. Stanley has joined an exclusive group of employees at the Petoskey News-Review.

Stanley, 58, has been named editor of the newspaper, joining only two others who held that title since the Petoskey News-Review was created from the merger of the Northern Michigan Review and Petoskey Evening News in the 1950s. The first editor of the Petoskey News-Review was Jim Doherty, who held the position until his death in 1982. Ken Winter was the editor and publisher of the newspaper until his departure in late March 2006.

"It's a privilege to be in the company of Jim Doherty and Ken Winter," Stanley said.

Stanley has been the managing editor of the newspaper for the past 14 years.

"Doug Caldwell, publisher of the Petoskey News-Review, said the decision to make Stanley the editor was actually made some time ago.

"I think the transition will be relatively seamless. He has been doing the job since I arrived," Caldwell said.

He added, "Kendall (Stanley) has demonstrated his leadership skills in the editorial department since Schurz (Communications Inc.) purchased the organization. His greatest asset is he not only has been a part of the Petoskey area for 50-plus years, he knows the people, knows the families, has a great demeanor, is patient and also demonstrates a real caring for the people in the northern Michigan area."

Caldwell added, "By looking internally for candidates for top positions, it provides (readers) with an editor that knows the area and has a handle on the top stories over the past 20 years."

Stanley said there will not be many changes in the newsroom, but he is going to be out in the community more than when he was the managing editor. He will also be spending more time with the regional publications, Gaylord Herald Times and Charlevoix Courier, as well as the newspaper's online product.

For the readers, he said his goals this year are to expand the local news offerings and make the newspaper more visual, as well as tackling the online presence of the company. He is also working on the regional impact of the newspaper, by working with the Gaylord Herald Times and the Charlevoix Courier on coordinating and sharing stories.

In the online realm, Stanley

Grants fund United Way tech upgrade

Grants and donations from several local funding groups have enabled Char-Em United Way to upgrade its computer technology.

"In order to run an effective, efficient office and meet 21st century expectations for information, we drastically needed to upgrade our computer software and hardware," explained Martha Lancaster, United Way executive director.

Northern Michigan Regional Health Systems recently donated to United Way several used computers, a laser printer and technical support to set up the system.

"The Charlevoix County and Petoskey-Harbor Springs Area Community Foundations each awarded us a grant of $3,000 to fund software, data conversion and staff training. We are updating our operating systems and general office applications and — most importantly — converting to a more powerful campaign tracking software system," said Lancaster. "Earlier this year, the Frey Foundation also awarded us a capacity-building grant which has funded staff expansion during our busy, campaign season. This has helped us implement the technology upgrade project."

The new computer system will also enable Char-Em United Way to set up a Web site which will include information about community human service needs, funded agencies, local events and giving opportunities. United Way plans to launch an electronic newsletter to communicate more effectively with donors, agencies and the community. The agency is currently looking for some talented and techy volunteers to help with these projects.

"We are very excited about the changes the new technology will bring to United Way and our ability to support local health and human service agencies," said Lancaster.

For more information about United Way, call (231) 487-1006.

said it will give the newspaper more ways to give readers more information. For example, stories that did not make it in the newspaper because of space, can be put online.

Reporters will also be able to include items with their stories that they are not able to include in the print version. For example, if a reporter writes a story about a city budget, the online version of the story can include a link to the actual budget.

He added readers will also soon see electronic editions of the Petoskey News-Review, which is great for people who go south for the winter, but still want to get their newspaper on time each day.

"There are all kinds of things that will add value to what reporters and editors are doing," he said.

Stanley said this is a challenging and exciting time for newspapers.

"The daily newspaper reading habit is declining. The challenge is increasing the number of readers. The opportunity is you don't necessarily have to reach them with a print product anymore," he said.

Stanley was born and raised in Harbor Springs — his parents still live in the same house he grew up in. After graduating from Harbor Springs High School in 1966, he attended North Central Michigan College and then Central Michigan University, which he graduated from in 1970. From 1970 to 1971, he was a reporter at the Presque Isle County Advance in Rogers City, then worked for the Harbor Light in Harbor Springs from October 1971 to December 1977.

He joined the Petoskey News-Review as a reporter in August 1978 covering Petoskey city government, Emmet County government and cops and courts. After nine years on the beat, he was named the wire editor for the newspaper, a position he held for five years before being named the managing editor in 1993.

He is married to Diana, a retired Petoskey School District speech pathologist, and has one daughter, Bree, a high school English teacher in Bangkok, Thailand, who he said are very pleased and proud of his new position.

"From 36 years, heading onto 37 years, I had the privilege of living and working in the area I grew up in. It is very rewarding to be able to spend my career in a great part of Michigan," Stanley said.

Hey Jane!

I feel my daughter is being a hypocrite. When her daughter wanted to live with a boyfriend during the last year of college everybody had a conniption! She and her husband are very committed in their church values and their position is that living together is sinful and that there should be no sexual relations unless the couple is married. I agree with those values particularly when it comes to me! I've been living in a retirement community and have met another love of my life and we want to get married. My daughter doesn't feel this is a good decision. She suggests that we should just live together because marriage at our age is too complicated. Why is marriage good for the young and not a good idea for seniors? I think she just wants to make sure he doesn't get my money.

Community foundation accepting grant requests

Who: Charlevoix County Community Foundation
What: Invitation to nonprofit organizations, educational institutions, and municipalities who are in need of funding to submit grant requests in support of their projects.
When: Deadline for requests is April 2.
Where to send requests: Charlevoix County Community Foundation at P.O. Box 718, East Jordan, MI, 49727.

Once again, it's time to put local charitable dollars to work on behalf of the community.

The Charlevoix County Community Foundation is inviting nonprofit organizations, educational institutions, and municipalities who are in need of funding to submit grant requests in support of their projects.

During the next few months, the community foundation and their Youth Advisory Committee will review grant proposals to fund health initiatives, community development projects, education, the arts and cultural events, environmental efforts, and human service programs. The committee, which is made up of area teenagers throughout Charlevoix and Emmet counties, will award grants to programs that serve children and teens.

Programs chosen for funding must serve residents of Charlevoix County. The deadline for grant requests is April 2.

Applications are available by calling the community foundation at (231) 536-2440. All applicants must call and discuss their proposals in advance. Foundation staff are available to offer advice and assistance to organizations interested in submitting a proposal for funding.

The community foundation is a grassroots charitable organization made up of various funds established by local donors. Some funds are earmarked for specific causes, and others are open-ended to meet changing needs.

For more information about the grant making process, establishing a fund or making a gift, contact the Charlevoix County Community Foundation at P.O. Box 718, East Jordan, MI, 49727, by phone at (231) 536-2440 or visit www.e3f.org.

Run Charlevoix – June 16

The Charlevoix Chamber is excited to be working with The Red Rock Company, a Michigan owned and nationally recognized Sports Marketing Corporation, to promote Run Charlevoix. This event will draw running enthusiasts from around the country to participate in a marathon, half marathon, 10K or 5K race. The marathon and half marathon are out and back courses beginning on State Street and Park in downtown Charlevoix. The course will cross the bridge then wind through residential neighborhoods, then onto the bike trail at Waller and U.S. 31. The finish line will be downtown on Bridge Street, just north of the bridge. An awards presentation will take place in Bridge Park following the race, after which, Run Charlevoix participants are encouraged to stop down to East Park to enjoy the "Taste of Charlevoix" from 11am - 4pm.

Behind the scenes look at competitive cheerleading

BY KIMBERLY WAY
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

Kimberly Way

Many people do not consider sideline cheerleading a sport. In the world of competitive cheerleading, however, many people stand in awe at what these girls can do.

But what exactly is competitive cheerleading? What are the girls judged on, and how are they judged?

"Competitive cheerleading is where a team choreographs three rounds of specified material to display them to three panel judges, two safety judges, and all of their family and friends," said Charlevoix High School varsity cheerleading coach, Erin Nickel.

Round one is a creative cheer without any stunts or tumbling. The teams are given a list of skills they are allowed to perform during this round. They pick which ones they want to do, perform them as best they can, and are judged on a scale of one to 10 at their ability to execute the skill.

The girls are also judged on the precision of their moves, the creativity of their cheer, floor mobility and sound.

"In our round one we perform two jumps and a waist-level kick. However, we are very talented in other areas that we are able to win in our conference," Nickel said.

Round two has 10 required motions that the judges evaluate strictly. Every girl on the team has to be doing the same thing at all times, this includes yelling the words. Also required in round two are the team's choices of five skills.

The Rayder cheer team performs right side-splits, two high leveled jumps, a one-handed cartwheel and a heel-stretch.

"When we started the season, only about five of the 14 girls on the team could do right side-splits," said Nickel. "Currently, every girl on the team can pull them off."

Round three is the only chance the girls have to stunt. To have a full round three, each team has to perform a certain amount of stunts and skills that add up to a number of points based on the number of girls on the squad.

Because there are 13 girls on the Rayder squad, they are required to have over 700 points to perform a full round three.

"We have roughly 350 points in this round," said Nickel. "It's hard to put them all together and running smoothly in a short amount of time. Also, it's very exhausting to put up all of the stunts while yelling at the top of your lungs — that adds into the challenge of performing a full round."

Throughout the competition, the girls are judged on more than just how well they perform on the mat.

"We've received a few penalties this season," commented Nickel. "We were docked for mismatching socks and briefs, paperwork errors, and where we exited the mat. All together we've had a total of roughly 34 penalty points this season."

On Feb. 14, the squad will be traveling to Kalkaska High School for the Lake Michigan Conference Championships with hopes of leaving with the conference title.

"We're hoping for a really strong finish at Kalkaska. If we win this competition, it'll be the first time in the history of Charlevoix High School that the cheer team has won the conference. In other words, we're very anxious," said Nickel.

The meet will begin at 6 p.m. today. Boyne City, Charlevoix, East Jordan, Elk Rapids and Grayling will be competing.

Northern Community Mediation honors volunteers

On Thursday, Jan. 11, approximately 30 people attended the annual meeting of Northern Community Mediation. Following the year-end reports given by past president Cathy Atchison, president Jill Ryan, treasurer Keith Williams, and executive director Jane Millar, award recipients were named.

Karen Cole received the Rookie Mediator of the Year Award. This award is given to a mediator who has been involved with Northern Community Mediation for less than two years for his/her outstanding service to the center.

The Veteran Mediator of the Year was presented to Connie Saltonstall, an individual who not only has donated numerous hours of her time for mediation, but has also demonstrated remarkable skills in mediating.

The Northern Community Mediation Advocate of the Year was presented to Steve Tresidder. Tresidder was highly involved with getting the Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) plan in place in Charlevoix County. Additionally, he has been instrumental in the success of the 40-hour training program required of all mediators.

The Leah Award is an award to recognize an individual who has devoted years of service not only to Northern Community Mediation but also to mediation as a whole. It is an award in memory of Leah Green, who served as a mediator and trainer for Northern Community Mediation for over 10 years. The recipient of this year's Leah Award was Kathy Lame.

Northern Community Mediation is a non-profit organization that provides an alternative means of resolving conflict. Trained mediators, who meet with the parties involved in a dispute, facilitate so that the individuals themselves can resolve the conflict.

Anyone interested in learning more about Northern Community Mediation should contact Dr. Jane Millar at (231) 487-1771.

Donations to library benefit elderly patrons

Two recent donations to the Charlevoix Public Library will benefit residents who may need assistance walking and/or reading.

Jeannine Wallace donated two wheelchairs to the library to assist patron's who may need help getting around the larger facility. One wheelchair is permanently located in the main foyer for anyone to use. The second wheelchair is available upon request. Wallace saw a need for the library to be more comfortable for our elderly or injured patrons, did some research and then purchased and delivered the wheelchairs to the library.

"This is just one of many gestures from our community that affirm the fact that Charlevoix is full of wonderful people," said Linda Adams, adult services librarian.

The library also received a grant from the Charlevoix Lions Club to provide low vision equipment at the library. For folks with low vision, macular degeneration or age related degeneration, the Charlevoix Public Library now offers adaptive equipment to make reading easier. The Lions Club recently provided funds to equip one of the public computers with ZoomText Magnifying Software and a large print keyboard. The vision aid offers up to 36 times magnification, and control of on-screen color and contrast. The computer is located in the adult services area of the library.

Other help aids are also available at the library, including an electronic magnifier that allows patrons to place documents and books on a platform that enlarges the text. There is also a kit that includes five magnifying glasses that can be used in the library or can be checked out for home use.

For more information, call the library's information services desk at (231) 237-7340.

Scooter thrill seekers take to the streets

During a Charlevoix blizzard on Sunday, Feb. 4 two local men took the Scoot.net, Cold Weather Challenge.

That afternoon, Dave Beane and Gordon Compton of Team Practical Power Sports rode two-wheeled motor scooters for 11.4 miles for one hours and nine minutes.

The two documented the trip with photos taken by Charlevoix police officer Jim Schlappi and entered the scooter challenge with the hope of being named national winners. The national winner will be selected based on the coldest documented ride. The purpose of the contest is to create awareness of motor scooter versatility and fun.

For this effort, both riders rode Kymco Agility 50cc scooters with stock tires. The temperature at the time of the ride was 1 degree with a -17 degree wind chill. Their speed around the City of Charlevoix averaged between 10 and 20 mph on frozen, snow-covered streets.

"It was a bad idea, but we did it anyway," Compton said.

Equalization Ratios, as shown, are the percentages of assessed valuations to true cash value as determined by a survey of individual assessments. The Multipliers are those necessary to bring the Ratios to the required 50% of estimated true cash value. The Multipliers, as shown are tentative and subject to change as the result of possible adjustments by individual assessing officers. Assuming that no adjustments are made, the Multiplier may be applied to each individual valuation.

Note: THESE MULTIPLIERS REPLACE THOSE OF 2006 AND ARE NOT AN ADDITION TO OR SUBTRACTION FROM THEM.

Key employees bid farewell to Harbor Industries

Two long-time members of Harbor Industries are retiring this month.

Norm Starr, whose long and varied career began in April 1964, worked in just about every department before settling in as maintenance manager in 1975. Dale Musser joined the Harbor family in February 1967. He worked in the assembly and packing departments before landing in shipping and receiving, where he's been a key member for 37 years.

Both Starr and Musser have witnessed the many changes Harbor has been through over the years, including a multi-phase building expansion and the addition of many new faces. When Starr started at Harbor, there were approximately 40 employees. Today, Harbor is proud to provide jobs to over 300 people.

After doing some traveling with his wife, Sue, Starr plans to return to Harbor in April on a part-time basis. Musser on the other hand, plans to make a trip out west in the spring with his wife, Iris, and is looking forward to indulging in hobbies such as camping, wood-cutting and attending off road racing.

CITIZENS BANK.

FOR MORE INFORMATION, CALL 1-800-444-6989

Introductory rate is valid on new lines with an 80% loan-to-value and effective for a minimum of 90 days after the loan date. After that time, the applicable interest rate will vary dependent upon your credit qualification and outstanding balance. Your rate may be higher. The variable rate will range as low as the Wall Street Journal Prime (8.25% APR as of 1/01/07) minus 0.50% (currently 7.75% APR) to Prime + 2.25% (currently 10.50% APR) on average daily balances of $25,000.01 or greater. On average daily balances of $25,000 or less, Prime + 0.50% (currently 8.75% APR) to Prime + 3.25% (currently 11.50% APR) will apply. Rates assume automatic payment from a checking account with us. An increase in your APR may increase the amount of your regular payment. Maximum APR is 18%. An annual fee of $50 will be charged starting on the first anniversary date of the account opening. (MI ONLY. If your account is closed within two years of opening, the fee to close will be increased from $100 to $400.) The amount you save on a debt consolidation may vary by loan. Since a home equity loan may have a longer term than some of the bills you may be consolidating, you may not realize savings over the entire term of your new loan. In addition, your loan may require you to incur premiums for propert and, if applicable, flood insurance, which would affect your monthly payment. Offer subject to normal credit criteria. This offer is valid for owner occupied single family residences only. Offer not available for home purchase transactions or manufactured homes. Offer expires 3/31/07

Charlevoix Area Hospital Sleep Center receives accreditation

The Charlevoix Area Hospital Sleep Center recently received program accreditation from the American Academy of Sleep Medicine (AASM).

"The AASM congratulates Charlevoix Area Hospital Sleep Center on fulfilling the high standards required for receiving program accreditation," said Dr. Michael H. Silber, president of the American Academy of Sleep Medicine. "The facility is a significant resource to the local medical community and will provide academic and scientific value in addition to the highest quality care for patients suffering from sleep disorders."

To receive a five-year accreditation, a sleep center must meet or exceed all standards for professional health care as designated by the American Academy of Sleep Medicine. The accreditation process involves detailed inspection of a center's facility and staff including an evaluation of testing procedures, patient contacts and physician training. Additionally, the facility's goals must be clearly stated and include plans for positively affecting the quality of medical care in the community it serves.

The center recently received program accreditation from the American Academy of Sleep Medicine (AASM).

Charlevoix Area Hospital Sleep Center is directed by Nathan Craig Boss, MD, diplomat of the American Board of Sleep Medicine. The center is located at 14700 Lake Shore Drive in Charlevoix. For more information, call (231) 547-8900.

The American Academy of Sleep Medicine is a professional medical society for clinicians, researchers, and other health care providers in the field of sleep medicine. As the national accrediting body for sleep disorder centers and labs, the American Academy of Sleep Medicine is dedicated to setting standards and promoting excellence in sleep medicine health care, education and research.

Rayders bounce back to take Glads 66-63

BY ALLEN TELGENHOF
SPORTS WRITER

The Charlevoix Rayders bounced back from their most disappointing loss of the season to net their higgest win of the season, using a hig second half comehack to take control of the Lake Michigan Conference basketball race, pulling out a 66-63 win at Traverse City St. Francis.

Earlier in the week, Petoskey snapped the Rayders' seven game winning streak with a 56-37 drubbing.

Trailing by 12 at half-time, 38-26, Charlevoix faced the prospect of back-to-back losses to perhaps their two biggest rivals and falling a game behind in the league race. Rather than pack it in, the Rayders wiped out the deficit in three minutes.

Austin Wilhelm started the harrage with the first basket of the second half and Charlevoix hegan pounding the hall inside to big sophomore Justin Friske who had been held scoreless in the first half.

Friske responded, scoring seven straight points — capped by a three-point play to cut the lead to 38-35. Darren Munson scored again before the Gladiators broke their drought to push the lead back to 40-37.

The Rayder press, which didn't seem to affect St. Francis much in the first half, forced hack-to-hack turnovers. Following a Mitch Crandall driving lay-in, a bucket hy Trevor Mays gave Charlevoix its first lead since the Rayders led 9-8 early on.

Following the Gladiators' second time-out in just four minutes, a Crandall three-pointer extended the lead to 44-40 and another Crandall three-ball minutes later pushed the advantage to 47-43.

St. Francis turned the ball over five times in the first four minutes of the half and many of the Glads shots came up short as they appeared to tire under the relentless Charlevoix pressure.

The Glads, seventh ranked in Class C coming into the game, battled back to take a 52-50 lead with 1:28 left in the period, but a three-point play by Wilhelm put Charlevoix back in front at the end of three quarters of play.

It stayed tight in the final stanza as St. Francis opened with a 7-2 run to take a 59-55 lead with 4:52 remaining. The Rayders responded with eight straight points, four on yet two more penetrating drives by Crandall, to take control of the game at 63-59.

Ty Haske hit all four of his fourth quarter free throw attempts but the Rayders missed the front end of a one-and-one with 32 seconds left and only one of two with 18 seconds left to keep the Gladiators in the game.

Wheelock's three-point shot at the buzzer to tie the game bounced off the back rim and the victory was preserved.

Crandall led all scorers with 26 points, including nine in the first quarter when the Rayders were having a tough time finding any offense. He also pulled down eight rebounds.

Justin Friske finished with 11 points — all in the second half, and five rebounds. Cliff Jones had seven key points, driving past St. Francis defenders for some tough layups.

Haske, in addition to sinking the key free throws, totaled six points and seven assists.

Earlier in the week, Petoskey dictated the game's tempo from start to finish and held the Rayders to their lowest point total of the season. Crandall was the only Charlevoix player in double figures with 15.

The Rayders, 13-2 overall, 9-1 conference, host Boyne City on Friday, Feb. 19.

Daman undefeated at Petoskey Wrestling Tournament Feb. 10

Zeke Daman

Rayder wrestler, Zeke Daman was unbeaten on Saturday, Feb. 10 in the Petoskey Wrestling Tournament with five other teams participating.

Against Frankfort, Trevor Cole and Mat Golovich won their matches with a pin. Corey Loucks and Zeke Daman each won by voids and Woody Nitchman won his match by points. Charlevoix won the team match, 27-23.

Facing Kalkaska, Loucks and Daman each had voids and JD Speigl won hy pinning his opponent. Charlevoix lost the team match.

Against Kingsley's full team, Daman won his match with points. Charlevoix lost the match due to many voids.

Facing Petoskey, Golovich, Woody Nitchman and Cole all won their matches with pins and Daman won with points.

The last meet of the day was against Mancelona. Nitchman, Cole and Daman both had voids. Golovich won with a pin.

Charlevoix lost the meet 24-25.

Charlevoix will travel to St. Ignace today, Feb. 14 for team districts and to Rogers City on Saturday for individual districts.

Coach Liz Grunch talks to her Charlevoix High School volleyball team during a time-out Wednesday, Feb. 7. The Rayders defeated Boyne City in five games to remain undefeated in the Lake Michigan Conference and went on to take first place at the Suttons Bay Invitational on Feb. 10.

Rayders claim first place at Suttons Bay Invitational

An already good week got even better on Saturday, Feb. 10 for Charlevoix.

The Rayders remained unbeaten in the Lake Michigan Conference volleyball race on Wednesday with a dramatic five-game win over rival Boyne City, then followed on Saturday by winning the 16-team Suttons Bay Invitational.

Charlevoix, 35-11-1, downed the Norse, 21-15, 22-20, in the title match.

"We had a very good day overall as a team," Charlevoix coach Liz Grunch said. "The girls played well together and we continue to work hard and improve every day."

The Rayders opened pool play with a 21-11, 21-14 win over Mesick, then defeated Benzie Central, 21-11, 21-15; and Leland, 21-14, 21-16. Ashlie Bradley was named Charlevoix's team most valuable player in pool play.

Charlevoix opened power pool play by defeating Suttons Bay, 21-15, 21-14; then topped Kingsley, 21-10, 21-15; before falling to Pellston, 21-16, 21-15, to finish second in the pool.

Charlevoix then knocked off Leland, 24-22, 21-17, in a semifinal match to advance to the final against Suttons Bay, where it topped the Norsemen for the second time in the tournament.

"It's a real confidence booster for us," Grunch said. "We're excited about the rest of the season and we're getting ready for the postseason."

Three Rayders — Sasha Spencley, Aubrey Way and Emily Heffling — were named to the all-tournament team.

Spencley finished with 40 digs, 21 kills, 15 blocks and five aces; Way had 73 assists from her setter position along with 20 digs, 14 blocks and 11 kills; and Heffling was a team-best 83-of-89 on serve receive and also had a team-high 50 digs.

Also for the Rayders, Bradley had 45 kills and 18 digs; Bethany Pearson had 42 blocks, 24 kills and 24 digs; Desi Faust added 26 kills and six aces; Zita Anderson had 52 assists and 19 digs; and Murphy Gillespie added 27 kills and eight blocks.

"We had a powerful attack all day and it's nice we have powerful hitters at all times during our rotation," Grunch said. "It makes it hard for other teams to defend against us."

Pellston finished third, falling to Suttons Bay in the semifinals, 21-15, 23-21.

Rowley leads Rayder-Red Devil skiers to a second place finish

The Charlevoix-East Jordan girls' ski team took second place at the Feb. 10 Charlevoix-East Jordan, Boyne City Invitational at Boyne Mountain.

Katherine Rowley brought hack the 1980s style with her ski wear and led the girls' team with a first place finish in giant slalom and slalom events. The Rayder-Red devil girls finished with 44 points, four points behind first place Boyne City girls in a five-team invitational with Inland Lakes, Detroit Country Day and Okemos rounding out the competition.

The final events placement is as follows: Katherine Rowley first in slalom and giant slalom; Mary Gocha third in slalom and 19th in giant slalom; Emily Bajko fourth in slalom and giant slalom; Liz Hasseld sixth in slalom and giant slalom; Steffy Poindexter 13th in slalom and 21st in giant slalom; Amanda Fritsch 25th in slalom and 13th in giant slalom.

The Charlevoix-East Jordan boys' team finished in third place with 88 points behind Boyne City and Okemos.

The final events placement is as follows: Mac Brennan 5th in giant slalom and 6th in slalom; Nic Williams 9th in giant slalom and 11th in slalom; Tanner Fisher 12th in giant slalom and slalom; Geoff Baier 15th in giant slalom and 18th in slalom; Zack Smith 17th in giant slalom and 19th in slalom; Joe Hidakatsu 32nd in giant slalom and 28th in slalom.

Sign council argues safety over aesthetics

SIGNS

business district.

They claim the proposal allowing internally lit signs may compromise Charlevoix's signature small town feel and be aesthetically displeasing.

"I think it's a mistake to change an ordinance that was put in place with the intent to beautify the community," Charlevoix resident, John Winn, said.

The existing ordinance prohibits internally lit signs.

While council members support the ban on internally lit signs, they have also voiced interest in helping local businesses attract customers. Representatives of the United States Sign Council claim the sign ordinance decision was a step in the wrong direction.

"There's a trend among some small towns to eliminate them (internally lit signs). But according to our research, which is quite accurate, internally illuminated signs are 60 percent more effective (than signs lit from above or below) at night," Andy Bertucci, executive director of the sign council, said. "In a normal traffic scenario (speed limits between 35 and 40 mph) a sign that's not internally lit gives three to four seconds less time for a motorist to read the sign than they would have if it was internally lit."

Bertucci said banning internally lit signs is a safety and traffic hazard and is a disservice to tourists and business owners.

"We think it needs to be a function of whatever is best for the individual. But a town does have an obligation to protect its citizens and visitors and internally lit signs do that better than anything," Bertucci said.

The change was proposed by the planning commission due to concerns with glare from up-lighting and other unsightly measures businesses take to light their signs.

Other revisions to the ordinance which were supported by council would ban billboards in the City of Charlevoix and allow for Tourist Oriented Directional (TOD) signs to announce businesses off the main drag.

TOD signs were first discussed by the Downtown Development Authority in March 2004 and were met with mixed reviews. At that time most members of the Downtown Development Authority and city council made it clear that they are not interested in advertising private businesses. The consensus was to stick with civic directional signs.

Signs that were supported by the group were those that direct people to places like city hall, parking lots, the Charlevoix County building, public restrooms, schools, Harsha House and Charlevoix Public Library. Harsch said the state stood in the way of this type of program.

The program included in the proposed sign ordinance revision is sanctioned by the Michigan Department of Transportation. If city council sanctions the program through its sign ordinance businesses could apply to the state for a sign.

Harsch said those that have expressed interest include Castle Farms and the Belvedere Golf Club. Both would have signs on U.S. 31 directing motorists to their locations.

The revised ordinance requires the final approval of city council. Council members will consider the ordinance at their meeting at 7 p.m. on Feb. 19.

The United States Sign Council is an educational resource for the sign industry, and is the largest association of independent sign shops in the world. The council is classified as a not for profit organization. For more information, visit www.ussc.org.

Spending scaled back in coming city budget

BUDGET

municipal airport runway. Grants are covering a large portion of that project with the federal government funding 90 percent of the cost and the state paying an additional 5 percent.

The sale was expected to go through last year. Environmental testing has stalled the purchase somewhat but Brandi said it won't be a deal breaker.

Some other projects in the capital expenditures list include Chicago Club area infrastructure improvements at $539,800, electrical system improvements at $370,000 and vehicle purchases for the city's motor pool at $307,000.

Mt. McSauba enthusiasts will also be happy to see a $69,000 upgrade to the snow-making water system. City recreation director, Ike Boss, said the upgrade will reduce manpower needed to make the snow and will allow them to make snow and open earlier to increase revenue.

In addition to a large list of capital projects, the budget has traditionally shown a fund transfer from the infrastructure fund of about $100,000 into the general fund for stabilization. Brandi said this will not happen in the proposed budget.

The proposed operating millage has been levied at 9.05 mills, which is the same rate levied last year. The operating millage is expected to bring in about $1.9 million. The infrastructure millage is proposed at 2.237 mills, or $469,400, the same amount levied during the 2006-2007 budget year.

While the proposed city budget is for 2007-2008, the city plans five years out and aims to maintain about 19 percent of its general fund in a fund balance. A fund balance is basically money the city has in the bank, like a savings account for rainy days.

The proposed budget allocates $184,500 from this balance to various projects in the general fund.

With this way of planning out for five years and maintaining a healthy fund balance, Brandi said the city has more time to react to changes in funding from the state or its general tax revenue.

However, the future stability of the general fund is in question. With the proposed transfer, the fund balance will be at $417,500 which is about 12 percent of the operating budget. Brandi said the city's auditing firm encourages a balance of between 10 and 20 percent and the city is now teetering on the low end.

Rick Brandi

He said in the not so distant future the city will have to explore new revenue sources for the general fund and/or cuts to bolster the general fund.

"I don't know how many years we can go without deciding how to approach the declining revenue issue," Brandi said.

Possible solutions include partnering with neighboring municipalities to form a recreation and fire authority.

"It's not something that can wait. In a couple of years we're dead in the water," city mayor Norman Carlson Jr. said of the importance of the authority relationships.

A .1 mill increase in the trash collection millage which brings the total to .8 mill will assist in funding increased costs of providing the service including brush and leaf pickup as well as composting. The millage will generate $168,500.

Proposed rate shifts show a 2 percent increase in water rates which will cost the average user about 96 cents more a month and a 5.5 percent increase in sewer rates which will cost the average user about $1.38 more a month. Increases in electric rates are not in the budget.

The budget also proposes rate increases for Charlevoix Golf Club season pass holders who will pay $35 more for season passes. Season pass holders make up 60 percent of the 17,000 rounds of golf played annually at the club. Daily rates are not proposed to increase. This is an attempt to bridge the funding gap. The golf course is subsidized to the tune of $59,000 in the proposed budget.

"A lot of old time golfers are moaning and groaning about it," third ward Charlevoix city councilman Sherm Chamberlain said. "It's at that price where longtime users of the golf course are starting to think twice."

This rate increase is based in part on discussions of the City of Charlevoix Citizen's Committee, a group of people who met regularly to examine the city's budget and services to see if there are any cuts or changes that need to be implemented in order to find other sources of revenue.

Another budget element Brandi said the citizens committee played a role in shaping is the Brookside Chapel renovation project. Phase two of this project is proposed to be completed in the coming budget year for $19,300. If the budget is approved, funds that were proposed to come from the Brookside Cemetery's perpetual care fund will be drawn from infrastructure dollars instead.

Airport hangar rental fees are also proposed to increase for those whose lease expires this year as are ambulance rates for resident and non-resident transports.

Charlevoix City Council met with city department heads and the planning commission to review the proposed budget at a meeting which took place on Feb. 12. A second council work session on the budget will take place at 5:30 p.m. Feb. 19 at city hall.

A public hearing will be scheduled prior to council passing the 2007-2008 budget.

FEB. 14
OWL PRESENTATION

A live barn owl with a heart-shaped face will be on display from 3-6 p.m. on Valentine's Day, Feb. 14 at SEE-North's Exploration Center in downtown Petoskey.

The owl, named Belfry, was hatched in upstate New York as part of a reintroduction program. At just seven days old he was flown to Petoskey to learn to be an education ambassador with SEE-North's environmental education programs. Belfry, now 9 years old, is a very animated, comical and intelligent bird, and has become a favorite among audiences.

SEE-North Exploration Center is located at 220 Park Avenue in Petoskey.

For more information, contact Alison Falldin at (231) 242-0322.

FEB. 14
VALENTINE'S DAY DINNER DANCE

The Charlevoix Senior Center is presenting a Valentine's Day Dinner Dance, at 7 p.m. on Feb. 14 at the center.

Dinner choices are prime rib or whitefish. The cost is $35 per couple. Live music will be provided by "In Service."

Tickets are on sale now and can be purchased by calling (231) 547-5361.

FEB. 15
WAX MUSEUM

From 7 to 8 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 15, the seventh graders at Charlevoix Middle School will be presenting their second annual Wax Museum entitled, "History Comes Alive!"

The Wax Museum is an evening where students impersonate a famous person and share their knowledge about this person with the community. The students chose their person from one of six different categories including history, science, entertainment, music, art and sports.

More than 100 students will line the halls, dressed in character. They will "come alive" and tell about their famous lives.

This unit incorporates a biography research paper with a career investigation and is taught as a joint project by Pam Swenor and Gwen Catt in their English and Literacy in Action classes.

When parents and community members arrive the night of the performance, they are given a program, which tells the location of the students they wish to watch.

FEB. 16
SIDEWALK SALES

The Retail Committee of the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce is pleased to announce that Charlevoix's Downtown Indoor Sidewalk Sales are scheduled for Presidents' Day weekend.

Schools OK millage request for May ballot

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

SEE RELATED STORY PAGE 9

Voters will decide the fate of a millage designed to help maintain nearly $140,000 of Charlevoix Public Schools' operating fund next year.

The .3 mill proposal, which was approved by the Charlevoix Public Schools Board of Education on Monday, Feb. 12, will be on the ballot at the Tuesday, May 8 election.

According to e-mailed responses to questions posed to Charlevoix Public Schools' business manager, Shawn Biddle, the proposed millage would, "Enable the district to levy the full 18 mills approved by voters in June 2003. We are currently only able to levy 17.6874 mills, due to the rate being permanently reduced by a Headlee override for the last two years."

Biddle stated, if approved, the millage would effect only non-homestead properties which do not include principal residences, certain qualified agricultural properties or qualified forest property.

"Second homes and business properties are the properties that pay this millage," Biddle stated. "The reason we are asking for the millage is because the state assumes that we are collecting the full 18 mills, and they make our state aid payments based on that assumption. By not collecting the 18 mills that were approved by the voters, our district is not receiving the full amount of the per pupil foundation that we could be receiving."

She added, "We anticipate that, if this millage passes, we will collect an additional $138,170 for the 2007-2008 school year."

If the millage fails, Charlevoix Public Schools will have lost nearly $270,000 between this year and next.

Interim Superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools, Jim Cooper, said the voters need to ap-

Local authorities warn Charlevoix residents that checks being distributed claiming to be sweepstakes winnings are fakes and shouldn't be cashed.

Beware of too good to be true

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

Last week, a Charlevoix woman approached city police chief Gerard Doan with four "prize money" checks she received in the mail.

In January, the check recipient who asked to remain anonymous, started receiving what Doan said are bogus checks made payable to her. Each ranges in value from about $2,000 to $5,000 and was mailed with a letter congratulating her on her cash win.

However, before cashing in, the letters request she contact the sweepstakes company at a toll-free phone number. The sweepstakes representative then claims the cash was an overpayment and asks the recipient to send money to get the money. Doan said that's the scam. The check never clears and the money sent by the victim is never returned.

"If it seems too good to be true, obviously it is," Doan said.

MacKenzie Lynn Clark weighing 7 pounds was born Feb. 13 at Charlevoix Area Hospital to Tammy Clark of Central Lake. Her sibling is Chase. Her grandparents are Donald and Cheryl Clark of Central Lake.

CORRECTION

Due to a reporter's error Charlevoix County District Court sentencing information published on page two of the Feb. 7 and 14 editions of the Charlevoix Courier was incorrect. Information on Brandon Johnstone stated he would serve 12 days in jail. It should have stated he was sentenced to pay $300 in fines and costs or serve 12 days in jail. Information on Donald James Hopper stated he would serve six days in jail. It should have stated he was sentenced to pay $150 in fines and costs or serve six days in jail.

Reward offered for break-in information

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office and the Charlevoix City Police Department are investigating recent breaking and entering incidents at several Charlevoix businesses.

On Feb. 16, the Charlevoix City Police Department responded to Randall Chiropractic at 1302 Bridge St. in Charlevoix for a breaking and entering. Additionally the Charlevoix City Police responded to two attempted breaking and entering complaints at Cherry Nails and H & R Block in the Captain's Corners Plaza.

That same day, the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office responded to a breaking and entering at Marvin's Gardens, located at 6625 M-66 in Charlevoix Township.

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office and the Charlevoix City Police are offering a reward for any information leading to the arrest of persons involved in the recent breaking and entering complaints.

Those with information are asked to contact officer James Schlappi at the Charlevoix City Police Department at (231) 547-3258 or deputy William Church at the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office at (231) 547-4461.

Local bank receives fake sweepstakes check

CHECKS

Doan followed up by calling two of the companies himself. The first call connected to an answering machine. He didn't leave a message. The second connected with a representative. Doan said his name was John Smith and he was calling on behalf of the Charlevoix woman to see if the check was "real." The bogus check representative asked him to hold and quickly hung up.

According to Shelley DeYoung, human resource member service representative director for Bay Winds Federal Credit Union in Charlevoix, these checks are typically generated by something done on the Internet that makes these people think they can contact you.

Doan said if you receive a check claiming to be a prize money payoff, "Burn it, destroy it, tear it up or bring it to the police department."

Whatever you do, don't cash it. DeYoung said those who cash the checks are considered to be part of the fraudulent scheme and may face criminal charges.

"There's no such thing as a free lunch. Ultimately what consumers need to know is the responsibility is theirs. They will be the one left holding the bag when all is said and done," she said.

One of these sweepstakes checks for $4,900 was cashed two weeks ago at Bay Winds. DeYoung said the customer is now the one who has to pay the money back.

In order to avoid these situations, Bay Winds takes a number of steps before cashing the check including asking members a series of questions regarding the source of funds..

Northwestern Bank in Charlevoix has not received checks of this nature but Charlevoix State Bank has. To ensure the safety of their customers, bank representatives from both said they ask them questions, place a hold on the check, will contact the bank's security department and will call the bank identified on the check.

"We will not deposit the money and let the customer spend it. We would protect them," said Fran Marsh, assistant manager of Northwestern Bank's Charlevoix branch.

The Federal Trade Commission offers the following tips for avoiding the check overpayment scam:

- Know who you're dealing with — for those selling goods on the Internet, independently confirm your buyer's name, street address and telephone number.
- If you're selling something over the Internet, say "no" to a check for more than your selling price, no matter how tempting the plea or convincing the story.
- There is no legitimate reason for someone who is giving you money to ask you to wire money back.

More advice on how to be on guard against Internet fraud is available at onguardonline.gov.

Consumers are asked to report check overpayment scams to their state Attorney General, the National Fraud Information Center/Internet Fraud Watch, a service of the National Consumers League at www.fraud.org or 1-800-876-7060, or the Federal Trade Commission at www.ftc.gov or 1-877-FTC-HELP.

Levy to raise $138,170 to 'preserve programs'

MILLAGE

prove this ballot measure.

"It will put money into our educational programs and the real key to that is this is money that they (voters) have already voted for," he said. "Because of Headlee, it's being rolled back. The key is the folks already made that commitment and the fact that we're not able to allocate is why were emphasizing the millage now."

He added; "This will give us the opportunity to get dollars already approved, and as far as the money itself, it will go directly into programming. It will make somewhat of a difference as we look into making cuts."

Cooper said, at this point in the state's fiscal fiasco, every bit of funding will help.

"That amount of money ($138,170) is money we won't have to cut, so it's going to preserve programs," he said. "I think what people need to understand at this point is we're not unlike other individuals, businesses or families going through this right now. This is a significant amount of money for us."

Cooper said the school district has an obligation to collect money which has been approved by the voters.

"That amount of money is equivalent to losing 14 students," he said. "If we were losing 14 students, we would consider it significant."

He added, "Another thing I hear a lot about is the erosion of local control. This is a way for people to (exercise) local control."

Protecting by excusing is a dangerous path to follow

EDITORIAL

Reality check time.

Following two incidents involving students of adult age, the Courier received letters and phone calls from people defending the perpetrators.

The most recent "the Courier done the student wrong" response came after we published an article on a 17-year-old student caught attempting to snort OxyContin off a heat register at Charlevoix High School.

The letter writer stated the article was "making a mountain out of a molehill."

If you think snorting a highly addictive narcotic on school property during school hours is a molehill, would smoking crack in homeroom or perhaps the fatal overdose of a student constitute the mountain?

The other incident was this past spring when we reported on the "senior prank," AKA vandalism incident at Charlevoix High School.

That time the "shame on you Courier" letter came from a parent claiming the majority of 15 students who illegally entered the school had "school spirit" in mind. The parent said it was just a few that took it too far.

Breaking and entering is school spirit? Drug use in schools is a molehill?

Wow. As Charlevoixans we love our Mayberry image, but bad things do happen here. Neither incident is a reflection on Charlevoix as a whole nor is this a rant at parents — for myriad reasons, kids screw up. But these aren't six year olds breaking a window while goofing around with a BB gun, they are young adults committing crimes, and sweeping those actions under the rug isn't going to help us be a better community.

The message we are sending is no matter what our students do they should be able to skirt the system instead of facing the music. Some parents argue this will save them from feeling the burn of these "childish" mistakes in adulthood. But ultimately the kids are learning they are entitled to break the law and that's a lesson that won't serve them well in the "real world."

The bottom line here is that a cop, prosecutor and newspaper know a crime when they see one.

To those who think the newspaper has no business reporting these incidents, we want this message to come across loud and clear. There's a big difference between a witch hunt and informing people as to what is occurring at an institution you support with tax dollars and where your kids spend their days.

Your letters are welcome!

Let high spirits carry you through the winter lows

A LOOK AT LIFE

Gayle Gennett

I was reminded the other day about the wonders of the mind and how we can create our own outcomes by the way we face them.

Something that may seem insignificant to us may actually be the ticket to someone else's attitude or perceptual change for the better or for worse. There have been volumes written on the impact of positive thinking and how it affects our lives spiritually, economically and physically. There doesn't seem to be a shortage when it comes to public speakers traveling the country spouting words to spur us to motivate.

With the dark days of winter upon us and increases in our heating and electric bills, I find myself forgetting what I need to be doing, which is thinking in a positive vein. It's easier to get caught up in negative thoughts during the long stretch from January to the first signs of spring. Remaining in this state only stirs the bucket and the lives you touch. This negative vibe could very quickly manifest itself into a life equal to many bad hair days.

No matter what your circumstances are, if you expect favorable results then the situation will change accordingly. It may take some time for the changes to take place, but eventually they do. When working on a board or with staff it helps to visualize favorable results. Being less of a devil's advocate will bring your projects to a successful completion. Smiling a little more may make others wonder what you're up to, or if you might be on some new medication, but it's that smile that keeps us and others thinking positive. If negative thoughts appear, replace them with a constructive one. Persistence in thinking positively will teach your mind to ignore negative thoughts.

Not everyone accepts this philosophy that positive thinking can improve your life. Maybe they haven't spent enough time truly researching the results. Take a look at Abe Lincoln's life and how he was determined to be positive and win the presidency even though he was surrounded by losses — his mother, his bride and numerous elections. He obtained his goal of presidency and freed the slaves. The film "Star Wars" had been turned down by every major studio. Its creator, George Lucas, never gave up and today products tied to this movie still continue to sell. And Lance Armstrong wouldn't still be with us if his affirmation was to give up.

As educators we are taught that for every negative comment made to a student, four positive ones need to follow. With that kind of ratio it puts even greater importance on the need to be careful how we say things to each other. It's easy to say something negative to our child, spouse, co-worker and more so during the winter months when darkness may begin and end our day.

Is negativity a genetic thing or is it learned? Some individuals seem to only focus on the worst case scenario. Their conversations follow suit and for those who listen and believe, they begin to question their own beliefs. If in fact it is a genetic personality trait, I feel it's time to learn that with a little help those thoughts can dissipate. Even individuals with chemical imbalances eventually realize that they can live a much more productive life with the assistance of pro-active thoughts.

The ingredient that is important to include in this positive thought process is perseverance. It helps to write down what we would like to see happen, and take the time to read it every day. This is what psychologists refer to as positive affirmations. Writing down our thoughts and what we want, help us to visualize the success we would like to see. If we read them daily we are more apt to stay the course, not lose focus, and achieve what we thought was impossible. A French proverb sums it up well, "To believe a thing impossible is to make it so."

So as we wade through the dark days of northern Michigan winters, this writer is sending positively wonderful thoughts your way as she boards her plane and journeys to the positively sunny beaches of Florida.

LETTERS to the editor

WATCH MONEY TRAIL FOR ILLEGALS

Editor:

In response to Mr. Gohs' article on bilingualism I have to say I agree with him on some points. If I were a business owner I would attempt to attract as many customers as possible and if that meant having bilingual signs then bravo for capitalism, but I think he's missing the real frustration of many people in Michigan.

I won't resort to name calling as Mr. Gohs does and call a reader a bigot having never even met them. What people are frustrated with is the millions of tax dollars that are being spent to pay for health care, food stamps and other welfare programs to people who are in this country illegally and do not contribute to these programs. We are tired of our politicians not addressing the issue. Let's go after businesses that employ them and pay cash in order to avoid paying taxes on their wages, which support these welfare programs for people who are here legally and our citizens. I've heard the argument that U.S. citizens won't work for the wages you can pay an illegal alien. Well that's true, but the simple fact that they are here illegally allows businesses to take advantage of these people and ignore such things as fair labor practices and minimum wage issues. There are plenty of U.S. citizens working for minimum wage, several millions as a matter of fact. There are also several million illegal aliens working for businesses unchecked by our government and untaxed.

Lastly, Mr. Gohs references McDonalds Braille menus for the blind and suggest complaints can be made to McDonalds corporate headquarters for ignoring my rich heritage of being able to hear? First of all, Braille is for the blind and not the deaf. Secondly, being blind and deaf is a disability, not an inability or refusal to learn a language in the country you live and work then expect everyone there to cater to your laziness to adapt.

CONGRATULATIONS CHEER TEAM

Editor:

Congratulations Charlevoix cheerleaders. Wow! Talk about an improved cheerleading squad. I thought I was watching a Big Ten group of cheerleaders last night in Kalkaska. Girls, you did great. Poise, complex cheers, outstanding aerials and your hard work is what we witnessed. Can't wait to see how well you will do in the regionals where fair and unbiased judging will take place and you won't have to worry about a nuts and bolts outcome. Good luck!

SUPPORT LAKES LEGISLATION

Editor:

Recently I wrote you about some of the environmental challenges with which we in the Great Lakes region are faced. Much legislation, state and federal, has been passed to help us confront these challenges and more has been proposed.

I would like to point out three examples and urge you to inquire more deeply about them.

Great Lakes Legacy Act of 2002 is intended to help clean up industrial contamination in lake sediments to prevent further contamination. Limited funding has been authorized for fiscal 2004 through 2009. Some types of projects promoted by the act require 35 percent non-federal matching funds, while others require no matching funds.

Great Lakes Fish and Wildlife Restoration Act of 2006 is the most recent in a series. This act authorizes the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to fund as much as 75 percent of state or tribal projects in the region that manage, conserve or restore aquatic and other wildlife and habitat.

Great Lakes Regional Collaboration Implementation Act (Proposed) — HR 5100 and S 2545 would supplement existing legislation (such as the two acts discussed above), inhibit invasive species, improve wastewater treatment facilities and address mercury contamination, among other measures.

Contact state and federal legislators in support of programs to heal our waters.

PROTECT RELIGIOUS LIBERTIES

Editor:

With the new Congress in Washington, Americans United for Separation of Church and State is again striving to ban prayers in Jesus' name by military chaplains.

Such a restriction on freedom of speech, freedom of worship, strikes at the very heart of our constitutional freedoms. We need to become engaged in a massive effort to restore, once and for all, our chaplains' freedom of speech. President George W. Bush needs to direct the secretary of defense to issue new regulations to protect the constitutional right of military chaplains to pray according to their faith.

Also, the complexion of our federal courts could be on the verge of changing dramatically, putting our constitutional freedoms and religious liberties at risk as never before — because the new Congress is so different from the previous one. With 52 vacancies on the federal bench right now, the courts could tilt sharply to the left, away from religious liberties and toward the agenda of the ACLU. We the people must be involved in this issue with senators and their staffs to ensure the lawful appointment of federal judges who will preserve our religious liberties and constitutional freedoms.

House speaker Nancy Pelosi proposes to designate as lobbyists any churches, pastors, religious denominations, public interest organizations or other non-profit groups that strive to influence public opinion. This bill would drastically affect the operation of churches that speak out on major moral and political issues and Christian organizations using TV, radio or the Internet to mobilize citizens around an issue. Meanwhile, Pelosi has agreed to hearings on broadcasting's so-called "Fairness Doctrine," a measure that would force broadcasters to present a competing view any time a controversial issue is presented. This is yet another attempt to silence Christian voices in this country.

We must be committed to doing whatever may be necessary to protect our constitutional freedoms and religious liberties and must fight from the small town school boards all the way up to the Supreme Court of the United States if needed. There are about 280 million legal citizens in our country, of which over 90 percent believe in God. If you are one of the 90 percent, and wish to make your voice heard, you may do so by calling the Capital Hill Switchboard at (202) 224-3121 and ask your senator or representative by name or you can give your comments to the president by calling the White House Switchboard at (202) 456-1414.

If we are not a part of the solution, then we are part of the problem. The choice is ours.

Family Fun Day is Feb. 24 at the library

Charlevoix Public Library has the best antidote for cabin fever — Family Fun Day.

The event which will take place from 1 to 4 p.m. on Saturday, Feb. 24 in the community room at Charlevoix Public Library, 220 W Clinton St. will feature hobbies and hands-on crafts for all interests and ages.

- 1 to 4 p.m. If you love the sound of model trains running on the track, stop in to see Paul Hoelderlet's collection. Hoelderlet will be running a large "G" gauge train and also display some of his smaller cars and engines. The "G" gauge has a Shay engine, modeling the historical logging trains used in northern Michigan.
- 1 p.m. Create a stoneware mug with David and Jane Otis from Otis Pottery. Participants will learn techniques to build and decorate a stoneware mug from clay. The Otis' have also volunteered to glaze and fire participant's creations at the studio, returning them to the library for later pick-up. This program is limited to 30 participants over the age of 6.
- 1 to 3 p.m. The younger crowd can delve into clay. Preschoolers through first graders will create and decorate a clay craft to take home.
- 1 to 2 p.m. Participants will have an opportunity to create their own "loom" and quick weaving project. Finger weaving is a fun and fast craft using yarn, straws and fingers to create the "loom" necessary to create an endearing project.
- 2 to 3 p.m. Join "The Apron Lady," Flo Peterson as she presents the history of aprons, how and when they were made and shares stories while showing her private apron collection. Peterson invites participants to bring along their own aprons/stories.
- 2 to 4 p.m. If you've always wanted to learn to knit, but didn't know where to start, join Chris Ahramowski to learn the basics. Ahramowski, an experienced knitter and crafter, will start participants on a simple knitting project that they'll be able to take home. Experienced knitters are also welcome to join the knitting circle.

Library to host pre-opera lecture this Thursday, Feb. 22

Courtesy photo

The Friends of the Charlevoix Public Library and Crooked Tree Arts Center are collaborating to present a free pre-opera lecture at 7 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 22 in the community room at the Charlevoix Public library. The event will highlight the Bulgarian State Opera production "The Marriage of Figaro" coming to Charlevoix on March 1.

Many of us haven't seen an opera anywhere, let alone in northern Michigan.

Crooked Tree Arts Center is changing that, bringing the Bulgarian State Opera to Charlevoix at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, March 1 for a production of "The Marriage of Figaro" in the auditorium at the Charlevoix High School.

"The Marriage of Figaro" is an opera buffa, meaning it's light comedic fare and perfect for the first time opera attendee, as well as the seasoned opera lover.

The Friends of the Charlevoix Public Library and Crooked Tree Arts Center are collaborating to present a free pre-opera lecture, featuring Dr. Robert Pattengale and David Wassenaar at 7 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 22 in the community room at the Charlevoix Public library. Opera tickets will be available for purchase at the library before and after the lecture.

Figaro features philandering Spanish aristocrats, forbidden dalliances, disguises, mistaken identities and more. The curtain rises on a country estate outside Seville, Spain. Figaro, a valet at the estate, is preparing for his wedding, when his fiancée, Susanna tells him their employer, Count Almaviva, has designs on her, Figaro vows to outwit the Count. Thus begins the palace escapades of a mischievous servant in the service of an amorous and buffoonish Spanish nobleman.

The opera features music by Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart and the libretto, or story, by Lorenzo da Ponte.

The Bulgarian State Opera was established in 1996 by Ivan Kyurkchiev, and is based on the great traditions of the art in opera in Bulgaria.

Tickets are available for purchase at Crooked Tree Arts Center, 461 E. Mitchell St. in Petoskey, (231) 347-4337, and on line at www.crookedtree.org. as well as at the door the evening of the performance.

OBITUARY

David Chulick: June 20, 1941 - Feb. 18, 2007

David Chulick, 65, of Charlevoix, died Sunday, Feb. 18 at Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey. A funeral Mass will take place at 3 p.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 21, at Christ Episcopal Church in Charlevoix. Rev. John David will officiate.

David was born June 20, 1941, in Cadillac, to Samuel and Agnes Patricia (Gingrich) Chulick. He graduated from Cadillac High School in 1959. He moved to Charlevoix in the early 1970s, where he married Barbara Godwin on Oct. 24, 1981. David was employed by the Dura Corporation in East Jordan and by LexaLite in Charlevoix. David was also founder and owner of Purple Moose Graphics of Charlevoix. He was a member of Christ Episcopal Church in Charlevoix. David was an active volunteer in "From Decisions to Actions," a mentoring program for at-risk youth, sponsored by North Country Community Mental Health.

David is survived by his wife, Barbara Godwin-Chulick; children, Kimberly (Mark) Cool of Leroy, Sean Chulick of Lake City and Emily Godwin-Chulick and Samuel Godwin-Chulick of Charlevoix; grandchildren, Nicole (Josh) Wanstead and Landyn Cool, Melissa, Susan and Angela Chulick and Ivey Elizabeth Hudson; and great-grandchildren, Bryce Schultz, Javen Wanstead and Hayden Chulick.

In lieu of flowers, contributions in David's memory may be made to Christ Episcopal Church earmarked for the Godwin-Chulick family fund.

Visitation will take place from 7 to 9 p.m., on Tuesday, Feb. 20 at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix.

Boss, Carlson compete for open school board seat

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

Two candidates filed for the seat to be decided in the Tuesday, May 8 election currently occupied by Charlevoix Public Schools Board President, Bill Trubilowicz.

School board hopefuls Lisa Carlson and Dale (Bo) Boss Jr. are running for the seat which Trubilowicz, who will not seek another term, held for over five years.

Carlson, who has been pondering running for office for a couple years said she took her chance now, "To get involved with the school."

"I just know the budget is a big concern for everyone and it's probably not the most favorable time to be on the school board," she said. "I think the past and present board are doing a great job, I just think it's time for me to make an impact in a positive way."

She added, "I think the Charlevoix school system is great and I want to keep it that way for our kids as much as (is) possible."

As a wife, mother of two and nurse at Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey, Carlson feels she will offer the multitasking and commitment needed to be a good school board member.

"As a nurse I'm used to taking care of all different kinds of people and I think I have learned to work with all different kinds of people, so I think I could work with the different school board members effectively," she said.

Other work Carlson has done with Charlevoix schools includes her two years as a volunteer and a six-year stint as junior varsity girls' basketball coach.

Lisa Carlson

Carlson hopes to be involved with the wellness committee, work on budget concerns and do what she can to make Charlevoix Public Schools the kind of place which entices more families with school age children to the area.

"One of my concerns is class size, and I love block scheduling," she said. "From volunteering, I know how much help teachers need and if you lose kids, you lose teachers."

She added, "That all ties in with affordable housing here and supporting our downtown businesses. It takes everyone."

Carlson said she knows it won't be easy, but she feels she is up to the challenge.

"I know I'm just one person and I'll only have one vote, but I'm ready to be there for the community," she said.

Carlson wished her opponent the best of luck.

"I think we're both good candidates," she said. "I'm sure he (Boss) has the same good intentions as me."

Boss, who has been a custom home builder for more than 25 years and general manager of Mt. McSauba ski area for 31 years, wants to be the voice of blue collar workers, struggling families and single parents looking for a good education for their children.

Bo Boss

"Like many other people who struggle to live in Charlevoix, I have worked a second job for the last 31 years," he stated in a Feb. 15 press release. "I have been told by many people that they are afraid to question an administrator or coach because of the repercussions that might follow against their kids. I pledge to open up communications and really follow up on any complaints."

He added, "This is a public school and the staff and school board work for the people."

The father of two school age children attributes his three decades of work in private and government sectors for having a good understanding of businesses and their budgets.

"I feel it is very important to tighten our belts during the tough times ahead," he stated. "We must also take care of and respect all of our employees and listen more carefully to the people's concerns."

He added, "I feel with sound, careful planning, the Charlevoix Public Schools can retain all...existing programs.

Boss' ideas for improvement include looking into hiring an individual to fill the dual role of superintendent and principal since interim superintendent, Jim Cooper, is leaving this coming June and Charlevoix High School principal, Gary Grundman's contract is up at the end of the school year.

"Every operating dollar is so hard to come by right now," he said. "And with our enrollment at its lowest in years, now is the time to cut some cost at the top. It works very well at Suttons Bay (which) is also a Class C school."

He added, "At a cost savings of over $100,000 (annually), I strongly feel that smaller can be better."

Boss also wants to see the 109 Clinton St. property and the current school administration building sold.

"If the board would hire a superintendent/principal...they could move into the existing high school principal's office," Boss stated. "I estimate that both...properties could generate approx(imately) $550,000. This money could possibly be used to build a new energy efficient bus garage at its current central site."

Boss wants to hear any concerns Charlevoix citizens may have. His e-mail address is bosssnowman@msn.com.

"Every response will be kept confidential," he stated.

Trubilowicz cited his busy schedule as the main reason for choosing not to run for office again.

"It's hard for me to be the full service board member that I think I need to be," he said. "It's time for someone else to step up who can provide that service."

He added, "I was really torn because we have a lot of good people in this district and I just feel you want to be there for all the people and continue to help them through the issues we have, but I'm not naive enough to think I'm the only one who can do that. I know a lot of good people out there who will work well with the board."

Interim superintendent is leaving

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

What: Interim superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools Jim Cooper will not renew his contract.

When: Cooper's contract expires on June 30.

What's next: The Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District will conduct the search for a new superintendent. School board officials hope to have a new superintendent on board by July 1.

Jim Cooper

The search for a superintendent to serve Charlevoix Public Schools is back on.

During the Monday, Feb. 12 school board meeting, Jim Cooper, interim superintendent, announced he will not ask for a contract renewal when his time is up on June 30.

"There are a number of reasons (for stepping down)," Cooper said. "Most of them are personal and have to do with my family."

Cooper said he will use his extra time to care for an elderly parent.

"Right now I do not have the freedom to take care of a long-distance problem," he said.

According to school board president, Bill Trubilowicz, the board will likely turn to the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District to conduct the search for a new superintendent.

"They (ISD) will organize the search, they'll find candidates, screen resumes and help us through the hiring process," he said.

Several meetings will be held to allow the public, teaching staff and administrators and the school board to identify what it is they want to see in a superintendent.

"There will probably be three meetings," Trubilowicz said. "We'll factor all that input into our interviews of the candidates."

While there are other services to help the school find a superintendent, Trubilowicz said the Intermediate School District has the lowest prices.

"The ISD will essentially do it for cost," he said.

Using the Intermediate School District could save the district several thousand dollars.

"The other thing is Char-Em knows us and they know the area, so that familiarity helps a lot in doing this," Trubilowicz.

As president of the board, Trubilowicz knows Charlevoix needs a competent leader to face impending financial doom.

"I think he (Cooper) is doing a great job. We would like to sign him on for another year or two because we know there are rough waters ahead for us and stability and consistency is always a plus," he said. "But, by the time Jim (Cooper) and I both leave, we should be able to have a plan for next year."

His leaving, Cooper said, has nothing to do with Charlevoix schools.

"I would suspect I'm retiring from the business," he said. "I don't have any plans to continue in the superintendency."

He added, "That is not to say if there was a short-term situation where my help was needed that I wouldn't consider it, but certainly if I was to come in and take it on full-time, I would just stay here."

Cooper, who lives in Harbor Springs, has spent 32 years working in education, 16 years as a superintendent and the other 16 years mixed as a teacher, administrator and coach.

"This is an excellent school district and I've had an excellent opportunity to work with some very good people," he said. "This community has been welcoming and supportive."

He added, "I've really enjoyed it."

While he is disappointed the super will step down, Trubilowicz said Cooper did exactly what he was hired to do.

"We didn't want him to just be a place holder and I think he was willing to work to resolve issues and bring in new ideas," he said. "We're going to miss Jim (Cooper). We really appreciate all the work he's done for us."

To the community, Cooper said, "It was a very tough decision (to leave). Thanks — I've really appreciated the opportunity to work in Charlevoix."

School board officials hope to have a new superintendent on board by July 1.

Voters to decide school board seat on May 8

ELECTION

Trubilowicz said there is still plenty of work left for him to do before his term expires and he looks forward to working on next year's budget and searching for a new superintendent.

"I'm going to miss the contact with the people who work in the schools and the kids in the schools," he said. "Maybe I'll get to finish my kitchen I've been working on."

He added, "I'll miss handing out diplomas, that's the most fun."

To whichever candidate is elected, Trubilowicz said, "The way I've always tried to live is, I can't complain if I'm not out there pitching in. If you've got a complaint or issues and you think you can help move the school board forward, don't just sit-back and whine — get in there and work."

Grand Traverse Band locally distributes gaming revenue

The Grand Traverse Band of Ottawa and Chippewa Indians recently announced the distribution of their biannual 2 percent gaming revenue allocation to local units of government.

On Jan. 17, the Grand Traverse Band Tribal Council determined which organizations would receive a portion of the 2 percent gaming revenues derived from slot machines. Of the 103 applications received, which totaled $3,836,212.82, the tribal council awarded 57 applicants a total of $999,829.32.

Local organizations that received funding are listed below.

- Beaver Island Community Development Corporation, $15,000 for phase one construction of a six-unit supportive housing development for seniors and disabled adults.
- Beaver Island Fire Department EMS - Health Center and Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department, $20,000 to purchase communication equipment for various response agencies including the Beaver Island Fire Department, Beaver Island EMS, Beaver Island Rural Health Center and local law enforcement.
- Charlevoix Area Hospital, $10,000 to purchase a CAT-Scan machine.
- Charlevoix Senior Citizens Center Inc., $15,000 to help support the Meals on Wheels program.
- Charlevoix County Gov't to Gov't Agreement, $12,775.
- Hayes Township, $10,000 for the Charlevoix Area Community Pool program.

Norwood condo plan passes planning commission

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

Norwood Estates

Developer: Former Norwood Township supervisor, Wayne Boss

What: 19-unit site condominium development.

What happened: Norwood Township Planning Commission approved the site plan.

Where is it located: 11.95 acres on Norwood Road and Center Street.

What's next: Boss will apply for permits through the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality and the Charlevoix County Road Commission.

Despite alleged legal objections by some Norwood citizens, the township's planning commission made Wayne Boss' plan for a 19-unit site condominium development called Norwood Estates.

Approval of the site, which was originally denied in June 2005, was approved on Monday, Feb. 12 by the five members present of the seven-member commission with the understanding certain conditions would be met.

"(Boss) was turned down (in 2005) because he failed to meet the requirements in the site plan review process," said Norwood Township Planning Commission Chairman, Tom Mielke, who was not a planning commission member in 2005. "What we did was approve his site plan because it met the ordinance, but we put conditions on it that said nobody can build anything there until the proper permits...have been issued."

Mielke said someone shouldn't be forced to go through such an expensive, lengthy process only to be later turned down.

In a response to questions via e-mail, Mielke stated, to receive necessary zoning permits, "All driveway and road permits (must) be obtained from the Charlevoix County Road Commission, a soil and erosion control permit is issued by the county (and) all required permits for septic and well are issued on a per lot basis."

Opponents of the proposed development include some property owners of the Sunset Ridge subdivision.

"The commission should disapprove of the Boss site plan and the township should not issue the requested permit," stated attorney Michael C. Grant of Olson, Bzdok & Howard who is representing some of the opponents.

The main objections Grant outlined include issues with Boss' site plan application and the lack of proper Department of Environmental Quality and road commission permits.

"Their contention was that no fee was paid, but the township attorney and zoning administrator agreed that no fee was required," Mielke said. "The township ordinance also states the township shall set the fee for site plan review and we didn't set one."

He added, "And, if the application wasn't complete, it would not have been put on the agenda and the zoning administrator wouldn't have given it to me."

Grant's clients are also concerned with the character of Norwood and consistency of Boss' plan with the township's new master plan and citizen survey.

"There is a master plan in process, but no language has been finalized in the proposed master plan," Mielke said. "They (opponents) say the development is going to change the character of the area. Some of the people that live in the Sunset Ridge subdivision or right to the east of them say the new houses will be built right in the view line of the lake and they didn't like that idea."

He added, "If I lived there, I wouldn't like that much either, but they don't own the (Boss) property."

Though Mielke said all appropriate governmental permits must

Introductory rate is valid on new lines with an 80% loan-to-value and effective for a minimum of 90 days after the loan date. After that time, the applicable interest rate will vary dependent upon your credit qualification and outstanding balance. Your rate may be higher. The variable rate will range as low as the Wall Street Journal Prime (8.25% APR as of 1/01/07) minus 0.50% (currently 7.75% APR) to Prime + 2.25% (currently 10.50% APR) on average daily balances of $25,000.01 or greater. On average daily balances of $25,000 or less, Prime + 0.50% (currently 8.75% APR) to Prime + 3.25% (currently 11.50% APR) will apply. Rates assume automatic payment from a checking account with us. An increase in your APR may increase the amount of your regular payment. Maximum APR is 18%. An annual fee of $50 will be charged starting on the first anniversary date of the account opening. (MI ONLY: If your account is closed within two years of opening, the fee to close will be increased from $100 to $400.) The amount you save on a debt consolidation may vary by loan. Since a home equity loan may have a longer term than some of the bills you may be consolidating, you may not realize savings over the entire term of your new loan. In addition, your loan may require you to incur premiums for property and, if applicable, flood insurance, which would affect your monthly payment. Offer subject to normal credit criteria. This offer is valid for owner-occupied single family residences only. Offer not available for home purchase transactions or manufactured homes. Offer expires 3/31/07.

Residents fight Boss' Norwood Estates plan be acquired before Boss may begin developing the property, Grant claims the process is being conducted improperly.

Mielke said the Department of Environmental Quality and the Charlevoix County Road Commission are the permitting bodies, not the township.

"And, all this is policed by the zoning administrator," he said.

Commission vice-chair, Jerry Straub, who was away on business the night of the meeting, said he is confident in the planning commission's ability.

"I wouldn't want to second-guess anything anybody did," he said.

As far as the potential litigation which may result, Straub said, "It's certainly anybody's prerogative and there are steps laid out in the ordinance and under Michigan law that give people the opportunity to pursue those actions."

He added, "I get more than a little concerned in general in Norwood Township when we stop talking to each other and have our attorneys talk to each other that's bothersome to me. But, on the same note, I would defend anyone's right to do it."

Site plans are required by Norwood Township ordinance to be reviewed when dealing with developments including but not limited to all new uses except one-family residential units and expansion or renovation of existing uses other than one or two family residences which increase the existing floor space more than 25 percent.

"I probably will get started on (the development) in the spring," said Boss, who added that he is, "Not concerned whatsoever" with a potential lawsuit on the township.

The reaction to his proposal is typical, Boss said because, "People generally don't like development going in right next to them."

Boss, who has owned the property since the late 1980s, said he was and is willing to sell the property to Norwood Township for public use.

"The bottom line is I would sell it if they came up with enough money," he said.

Duane Lawton, the other planning commissioner absent from the meeting, and attorney Grant could not be reached by press time.

Peaine Township voters revisit road millage request

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

What: 1 mill, six-year road maintanance millage request

When: Feb. 27 election.

Where to vote: Peaine Township Hall, 36825 King's Highway, Beaver Island.

Existing approved millage levies in Peaine Township

- Operational millage 2.3086 mills
- Fire protection .6930 mill
- Transfer station 1.1786 mills
- Roads 1 mill
- Airport .6626 mill

Peaine Township officials are hoping that during the last six months voters have had a change of heart.

On Feb. 27 the township voters will again be asked to approve a six-year, 1-mill road maintenance millage. The same millage request was turned down by a 60 to 45 vote in August 2006.

"We currently do one voted mill and we have over 72 miles of county roads in our township. We are the biggest township in Charlevoix County as far as road miles. With the (Charlevoix County) road commission's small budget and increased traffic and stress on the roads with dust and things, that one mill can no longer keep up with it," said Peaine Township supervisor, John W. Works Jr.

Works said keeping up with dust control has been challenging with the price of chloride on the rise and the price of fuel increasing fees for gravel. If the millage passes the money will be primarily directed to dust control efforts staged from May through July 4.

The proposed millage is in addition to the existing five-year, 1-mill millage which was renewed 78 to 29 in August 2006.

Works said he feels the proposal has a better chance of passing next week as he feels the voters were confused in August 2006 by the Charlevoix County Road Millage proposal which was also on the ballot.

The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Feb. 27 at the Peaine Township Hall 36825 King's Highway.

Voters who need to have an absentee ballot mailed to them, must apply for the ballot no later than 2 p.m. on Saturday, Feb. 24 through the Peaine Township clerk. Absentee ballots can be obtained in-person anytime through 4 p.m. on Monday, Feb. 26.

Little Shop of Horrors live at Charlevoix High School

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

A man-eating plant from outer space will soon invade Charlevoix — and only a frail nerd armed with a broom and a good heart can stop him.

The Charlevoix performing arts department will perform "Little Shop of Horrors" at 7 p.m. on Saturday, Feb. 24 and 2 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 25 in the auditorium at Charlevoix High School, located at 05200 Marion Center Road.

"We've never tried this in any format," said program director, Connie Ford, of the full stage production of the play. "It's exciting because the puppet (Audrey II, the carnivorous plant) keeps growing and there are a lot of other things in this show that are not in other shows."

This musical version of "Little Shop of Horrors" is the story of a kind but humble flower shop worker named Seymour Krelhorn who purchases a plant with special and horrifying abilities.

"We're using the Broadway play version," Ford said. "But, the movie (Steve Martin, Rick Moranis 1986 version) did stay pretty true to the original."

The performing arts students used a shorter version of the stage production during the recent regional competition of the Michigan Interscholastic Forensic Association which was hosted by Charlevoix High School early this month.

"We were trying to decide what our winter show should be and this grew from student suggestions," Ford said. "The more they talked about it, the more excited they got."

Tickets are available at the door for $7 per adult and $5 for students and senior citizens.

Bosman's Mercantile takes over Farm and Fleet site

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

After about six years vacant, Charlevoix's former Quality Farm and Fleet retail store will be home to new tenants.

In April, Chris Helstrom, 39 and his wife, Melanie Bosman-Helstrom, 31, will open Bosman's Mercantile in the huge retail store located at 6500 M-66 in Charlevoix's Kmart plaza.

In January, the couple moved to Charlevoix from their home in Bozeman, Mont. where Chris owned and operated 14 Murdoch's Ranch and Home Supply stores.

Helstrom said over the past five years he has scouted new communities in which to base stores. During that time his search narrowed to Michigan.

"We looked around for a small community where we could be actively involved," Helstrom said of their decision to relocate to Charlevoix. "When Quality (Farm and Fleet) went down I saw a big opportunity in northern Michigan."

He plans to use a business model similar to that of Murdoch's for their new Charlevoix venture where they will stock 30,000 square feet of retail space with everything from pet and livestock supplies to clothing.

Some items that will be featured include automotive products, welding supplies, power tools, wood, pellet and gas stoves, an extensive line of lawn and garden supplies, fencing and hardware.

The store's clothing line steered by Bosman-Helstrom, the buyer, will include Carhartt for men and women and over 6,000 pairs of jeans including brands like Woolrich, Levi and Lucky. Bosman-Helstrom, a graduate of Wayne State University with a degree in fashion merchandising and design, formerly worked in product management with Carhartt and helped develop the company's women's clothing line.

Prior to opening this spring they plan to repaint the building's interior, install new lighting and build a river rock fireplace in the center of the store.

Helstrom said when they open the store will compete on some level with neighboring Ace Hardware but will differentiate itself through its clothing lines and pet supplies.

"They (Ace) have some of the best customer service I've seen. They run a nice operation. Hopefully, we'll be noted in the same way," Helstrom said.

A second Bosman's Mercantile is expected to open in September in Gaylord. The couple plan to launch a total of three stores within the next two years. Charlevoix will be the operating headquarters.

Aside from traditional products, the store will also host events including on-site horse training and cookouts.

Bosman's to sell hardware, pet supplies, clothing and more

BOSMAN'S

The Charlevoix store will employ 30 to 35 people, 17 of which will be hired full-time. Bosman's Mercantile is currently accepting applications from 3 to 5 p.m., weekdays at the store.

Darren Closson, a Kingsley resident with 20 years of experience in farming retail operations, 13 of which were spent with Quality Farm and Fleet, will manage the store. Jake McCollum, who recently relocated to Charlevoix from Muskegon, has been named the assistant manager.

Helstrom has two children, a son, Casey Helstrom, who is a freshman at Charlevoix High School and a daughter, Kaitlyn Helstrom, who lives in Montana. He and Bosman-Helstrom are expecting their first child in August.

Farm Bureau announces local winners selected in America and Me essay contest

Three Charlevoix Middle School students have been named local winners in the 48th annual America and Me Essay Contest, sponsored by Farm Bureau Insurance.

The three students who earned the first, second and third place awards for their school are Kathryn Sell, April Whitley and Sherry Boss. All three received award certificates for their achievement. As the school's first place winner, Sell's name will also be engraved on a plaque for permanent display in the school.

Sell's first place essay now advances to the state level competition from which the top 10 essays in Michigan will be selected. The top 10 statewide winners, who will be announced in April, will receive plaques, cash, and U.S. savings bonds valued from $500 to $1,000. In addition, the top 10 essayists will be honored at a banquet in Lansing, meet with Michigan's top leaders and be featured guests at a Lansing Lugnuts minor league baseball game.

A team of finalist judges that includes a top state official and the sponsoring teachers of last year's top two statewide winners, will determine the ranking of the top 10 statewide winners this year.

Several thousand eighth-grade students from nearly 500 Michigan schools participated in the 2005-2006 America & Me Essay Contest. The contest topic was "My Personal Hero."

Started in 1968 and open to all Michigan eighth-grade students, the contest encourages Michigan youngsters to explore their roles in America's future.

Friske saves the day with bucket in final seconds

BY ALLEN TELGENHOF
SPORTS WRITER

For the second game in a row, the game went down to the buzzer and for the second game in a row, the Rayders were victorious.

Sophomore Justin Friske's bank shot off the glass with three seconds left in the game gave Charlevoix an exciting 70-68 win over rival Boyne City on Feb. 16. Friske led the Rayders in scoring with 18 points.

With 9.8 seconds left and a tie game, after a Charlevoix timeout, senior Mitch Crandall found Friske open on the low block. Crandall, the Rayders' leading scorer on the season was scoreless for the night.

"Mitch made a good contribution to the team with that pass," coach Keith Haske said. "Instead of forcing something that wasn't there, he got the ball into Justin."

The Ramblers' desperation shot at the buzzer came up short.

"Dan Swenor did a nice job on that play, picking up his guy right away and didn't give him a good look at all," Haske said. "A lot of times after a team makes a big basket like that, they let up for just a second. Dan didn't do that."

Earlier in the night, it seemed unlikely that the game would go down to the wire.

Charlevoix led by as many as 16 in the third quarter, going on a 16-3 run to take a 50-34 lead at the end of the period.

Boyne rallied, scoring 34 points in the final period. The Ramblers never led in the second half but used a 19-6 run over a four minute span to pull within three at 60-57 with 2:26 to play.

"Boyne seemed to finish on everything they touched," Haske said. "We were impatient on offense in the last quarter, made some bad decisions on shots and passes and let them back in the game."

Corey Gotshall posted a double-double with 10 points and 11 rebounds. Ty Haske scored 10 points.

Darren Munson had nine points and six steals. Trevor Mays also scored nine points. Justin Friske corralled seven rebounds.

The Rayders (14-2 overall, 10-1 Lake Michigan Conference) traveled to Kalkaska on Tuesday, Feb. 18 before returning home on Friday to host Elk Rapids. Results from both contests will be in next week's Courier.

The district tournament draw was held last week and Charlevoix will open at Mancelona against the host squad at 8 p.m. on Monday, March 5. The district semifinal will be against Boyne City at 6 p.m. on Wednesday, March 7 and the finals at 7 p.m. on Friday, March 9.

Rowley, lone Rayder-Red Devil ski team qualifier for state meet

The dominance of Katherine Rowley continues.

Rowley won both the slalom and giant slalom Thursday, Feb. 15 to headline the performance of the East Jordan-Charlevoix ski teams in the Class B-C-D regional at Nub's Nob.

It was the second straight year that Rowley, a junior at East Jordan High School, has won both events in the regional. Last year, she went on to win the state GS title and finish second in the slalom.

"She skied just awesome," Charlevoix-East Jordan coach Sue Miller said. "She really got after it and she just skied really strong."

Rowley's winning GS time, 50.18 seconds, was 1.56 seconds better than runner-up Lucy Causley of Harbor Springs. Rowley's winning GS time, 1 minute, 9.48 seconds, was an even more impressive 4.51 seconds better than second-place finisher Rebecca McMurray of Petoskey.

Rowley was the lone East Jordan-Charlevoix skier to qualify for the state meet, which is Monday, Feb. 26, at Boyne Highlands in Harbor Springs.

The Charlevoix-East Jordan girls placed sixth in the 12-team regional with 193 points, while the boys were seventh with 251.5 points.

Petoskey won the girls' regional title, its first since 2002, with 77 points, while Harbor Springs, 89.5, was second and Boyne City, 118, was third. Harbor, 97, won the boys' title, edging Petoskey, 99.5. Iron Mountain, 105, placed third.

The top three teams plus individuals placing in the top 10 in each event from non-qualifying teams earns a berth in the state meet.

In the girls' event for Charlevoix-East Jordan, Mary Gocha placed 20th in GS, 43rd in slalom; Amanda Fritsch was 30th in slalom; Elizabeth Hasseld was 31st in GS; Emily Bajko was 32nd in GS; Hailey Crick was 34th in GS; Steffy Poindexter placed 35th in slalom, 47th in GS.

"We lost some skiers, we had some hikers, we had some crashers and we had some falls, but we're in good spirits," Miller said. "We tried our best."

For the Charlevoix-East Jordan boys, Mac Brennan was 16th in GS; Tanner Fisher was 21st in slalom; Nic Williams was 22nd in slalom, 37th in GS; Zack Smith was 31st in slalom, and tied 41st GS; Michael Cardwell, 36th slalom, 47th GS; Geoff Baier, 49th GS, 51st slalom.

Rayder volleyball team claim conference title

Charlevoix wrapped up the Lake Michigan Conference volleyball championship on Thursday, Feb. 15 with wins over Harbor Springs and Grayling.

The Rayders are 13-0 in the league, 38-11-1 overall after wins over the Rams, 25-18, 25-11, 25-18, and Grayling, 25-14, 25-19, 25-18.

Over the two matches for Charlevoix, Ashlie Bradley had 20 kills and six aces; Aubrey Way, 27 assists and 13 digs; Zita Anderson, 20 assists and four aces; Desi Faust, 10 kills and four aces; Bethany Pearson, 14 kills and seven blocks; Murphy Gillespie, 11 kills; and Emily Heffling, 17 digs.

Charlevoix also won both JV matches, beating Grayling, 25-18, 25-10, 1-14, and Harbor Springs, 25-12, 25-10, 15-9. Charlevoix's JV is 22-11-4, 8-5 in the league. For the Rayders, Sarah Potter had 17 aces, three kills and nine digs; Shauna Spenceley, four aces, eight kills, four assists and five digs; Lauren Mielke, four aces, six kills, a block and six digs; Tammy Potter, eight kills, an ace and five digs; and Katie Withrow, four aces and three kills.

Daman takes first place at Feb. 17 wrestling district

On Saturday, Feb. 17, the Rayder wrestling team traveled to Rogers City for individual districts.

Joining Charlevoix were Boyne City, Rogers City, Onaway, Forest Area, Mio, Kingsley, Pine River, Frankfort, Hale, Mancelona, Fife Lake Forest Area, Traverse City St. Francis, Whittemore Prescott and Manton schools.

Wrestling at 112, Zeke Daman took first place with one technical and two pins. At 119, Mat Golovich had a split with two wins by points and two losses. Wrestling at 130, Woody Nitchman won a match with a pin and lost two. Newcomer Trevor Cole also won one with a pin and lost two. Also new to the team this year, sophomores JD Speigl and Corey Loucks lost their matches, as well as freshmen Zach Smith and Chris Levens.

"We have a very hard district and the boys wrestled great," said varsity wrestling coach, Craig Golovich. "We have a lot of new wrestlers and this was a great learning experience for them. Also, no one is graduating, so everyone will be back next year. We will have a stronger team and hopefully we will make it farther."

In Memory of our beloved Grandmother, Edith LaClair, who always loved her gardening.

We love & miss you, Gigi.

Happy Birthday
February 17th, 1915

God's Garden

God looked around His garden
And He found an empty place
He then looked down upon the earth
And saw your precious face

He put His arms around you
And lifted you to rest;
God's Garden must be beautiful
He always takes the best.

He knew that you were suffering
He knew you were in pain
He knew you'd never ever
Get well on earth again.

So He closed your weary eyelids
And whispered " Peace be thine "
Then He took you up to Heaven
With Hands so gentle and kind.

It broke our hearts to lose you
But you did not go alone,
For part of us went with you
The day God welcomed you home.

Always in our hearts,
Dave, Pattie & Katherine

Just GOLDEN

Hey Jane!

Jane

Hey Jane!

I wouldn't call myself exactly a "senior" but I'm not too far away. My kids are either grown or close to it, and I'm not too many years away from retirement.

My question to you is what do you do when you wake up one morning and realize that you are not in love with your spouse and do not want to spend the rest of your life with that person? Over the years of raising kids, building careers, we were too busy to really notice that we were not in the same world, nor do we have the same goals for retirement. I can tell you that the years of marriage we've had have not been happy ones, but rather ones of enduring, independence, just trying to get through. I can't say I've ever really been in love with my spouse but it was very inconvenient to divorce, and there were children's lives I didn't want to ruin.

What do I do now? How do two people look at each other, knowing they are worlds apart and try to put something together that is satisfying for both parties, and yet allow for the differences? How do we go about reconfiguring our relationship so that we can actually enjoy our years left together? I know this is a tall order without further information from me, but I am hoping you can at least give some general advice that will help me get on the right track

With someone, but feeling very alone

Dear Together Alone:

Here's a thought. I think it was anthropologist, Margaret Mead that said emotionally healthy adults in our culture basically need three types of partner relationships: lover, parent of children and companion. Sometimes, she added, this is the same person. Her observation merely points out that we have incredibly high standards about marriage and they are hard to meet.

Set your mind to the fact that you have a long-term, deeply ingrained interaction process and changing it is going to be an uphill project. It would be easy, but not necessarily correct, to say that so far the strands that have been holding you together have been stronger than the holes that separate you. And, if that is the case, you are good to go with the million or-more suggestions out there on how to improve your relationship. But if you have been held together by the holes, such as addiction or emotional and physical abuse, seek professional help.

In any event you'll need to clarify your values and measure the cost of the bottom line. And you'll need to do this soon as lingering about in unhappiness and indifference is a crappy way to live. Make improving your relationship a priority. Work at it because we aren't getting any younger.

Here's some pressure. Remember those kids you didn't want to ruin? You are in denial if you think that divorce won't hurt them as adults.

Here's a caution. Often long-term marriages end because of infidelity so take care out there. Enough said, get to work.

Jane

Enlightened Elder

Sue Bergmann

During the winter doldrums it is challenging to stay active and fit, especially for seniors with limited mobility or ability to leave their homes. We are very fortunate here in Charlevoix and the surrounding county to have numerous activities to partake in to stay social, physically active and maintain and make new friendships.

Our social lives are centered around food and what better place to go for a nutritious meal than your closest senior center. Maintaining proper nutrition is a vital part of your health especially in the winter months. Weight management is important to reduce your intake of foods high in saturated fat and cholesterol. Stay away from fast food drive-ups and too many frozen dinners are high in sodium. Meals on Wheels are a better alternative if you are homebound. To reduce your risk of heart attack and stroke and promote healthy brains, increase your intake of fresh fruits and vegetables high in antioxidants. Increase your Omega 3's by eating fish like halibut, mackerel, salmon, trout and tuna.

Getting a physical workout or getting outside for 20-30 minutes a day can ward off the SADness or Situational Affective Depression and increase your blood flow to heart and brain, plus keep your joints and body moving. The senior centers are not just for the elderly anymore. They offer walking, exercise classes, sit and fit groups, line dance clubs and lots of music for entertainment. Other activities such as card playing, Bingo, arts and crafts, jigsaw puzzles and scrapbooking can help prevent social isolation and depression.

In the community, there are walking clubs at Kmart, your nearest school and pool exercise/arthritis classes. Your local gyms/physical therapy groups may also offer incentive programs to join this time of year. The Commission on Aging is sponsoring Tai Chi classes for the beginner and intermediate and they are held at your beautiful new local library.

If you are not able to drive or choose not to drive due to wintry conditions, consider using your county transportation. They can be reached at (231) 582-6900. They have lifts for those with walkers or wheelchairs for personal assisted transportation.

Sue Bergmann RN, BSN is the director of the Charlevoix County Commission on Aging. She can be contacted by calling (231) 237-0103.

Charlevoix Downtown Blueprint to be unveiled Feb. 26

Charlevoix Cool City project coordinators will host the presentation of the Charlevoix Downtown Blueprint from 7 to 8:30 p.m. on Monday, Feb. 26 in City Council Chambers at Charlevoix City Hall, located at 210 State St.

The Charlevoix Downtown Blueprint is a product of the suggestions and priorities submitted by Charlevoix's businesses and year-round and seasonal residents. Produced by the national consulting firm HyettPalma, the Charlevoix Downtown Blueprint represents a five-year vision for Downtown Charlevoix.

In July 2006, Gov. Jennifer Granholm awarded the City of Charlevoix the prestigious "Cool Cities" designation. The Charlevoix Cool City Project is a cooperative effort of citizens, businesses and government facilitating the development of the Charlevoix Downtown Blueprint. The Charlevoix Downtown Blueprint seeks to create a thriving year-round downtown business district that will attract jobs, people and opportunity to the area by utilizing the proven success stories of the most competitive downtowns in the United States and preserving the unique charm and appeal of Downtown Charlevoix.

For more information contact Keith Carey, Cool City project coordinator at (231) 547-3270 telephone.

Northwest students score high marks at Solo and Ensemble

Fifteen Northwest Academy advanced band students attended the District II Solo and Ensemble Festival on Feb. 10 at Kingsley High School.

District II consists of all the schools from as far south as Frankfort, across the state to Grayling, east to Cheboygan and north to Mackinaw City.

Approximately 500 students took part in performing solos and ensembles for adjudicators.

Northwest student ensembles that qualified for State Solo and Ensemble competition were clarinet choir Anna Kroon, Phoebe Allport, Gary Toton, Emma Maynard, Kelly Brethauer, Evan Themm and Janiese Kroon; saxophone duet Alanna Leslie and Riki Lent; bass clarinet/baritone sax duet Emma Maynard and Gary Toton; clarinet/tenor sax duet Anna Kroon and Alanna Leslie.

Qualifying for state proficiency with solos were Anna Kroon on clarinet, Gary Toton on baritone sax and Emma Maynard on bass clarinet.

The following ensembles received a division two rating: flute duet Alyssa Themm and Amber Trudeau; flute/clarinet duet Amber Trudeau and Janiece Kroon; clarinet duet Janiece Kroon and Kelly Brethauer; brass choir Keith Sciacca and Sarah Brethauer (trumpet), Sam Keehn (tuba) Jon Way (trombone), Phoebe Allport (bass clarinet); trumpet duet Keith Sciacca and Sarah Brethauer.

"The students that take their time to prepare solos and ensembles are the backbone of every band program in every school district across the state. Northwest Academy has a reputation for being one of the finest small school band programs in the state of Michigan and it is these events that help to make it happen," said Northwest Academy co-administrator and director of bands, Gary Stutzman.

Antique car club opens $500 scholarship application process

The Boyne Country Region Antique Automobile Club of America is offering two $500 scholarships for the coming year to high school graduates and seniors entering school to practice in the automotive field.

Those interested in applying should contact either their school counselor, their automotive high school instructor or by writing to the Boyne Country Region Antique Automobile Club of America Scholarship Committee, P.O. Box 902, Boyne City, MI 49712.

Completed applications for the Boyne Country Region Antique Automobile Club of America scholarship must be received by April 1 and include the high school principal's report which may be obtained by the automobile club and a high school transcript. High school graduates who have entered the work field must complete the application and return it with two letters of reference.

FLY TYING

The Miller Van Winkle Chapter of Trout Unlimited is hosting a general membership winter meeting at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 21 at Charlevoix Public Library.

The meeting will feature Dennis Potter, a famous fly tying instructor. Potter will conduct tying demonstrations on three or four patterns: the Skunk Hopper, Opal Butt Egg, Fat Head Beetle and if time allows, the Opal Drake.

Potter has traveled extensively throughout the Midwest demonstrating his fly tying techniques and patterns. He has been tying for over 30 years and is a contract designer for Umpqua Feather Merchants as well as a Whiting Farms Pro Team Member.

For more information, call John Ochs at (231) 547-4726.

FEB. 22
MASTERMINDS

In response to the rising needs and expectations of arts and cultural leaders, ArtServe and the Michigan Museums Association are proud to present a third year of "MasterMinds: Strengthening and Sharing Arts and Cultural Knowledge."

The MasterMinds Series has been designed for leaders who want and need advanced learning opportunities. These in-depth, six hour-workshops will provide the current best practices and trends used by some of the brilliant minds in each field.

Crooked Tree Arts Center is pleased to host Deborah Doyle-Schechtman on Thursday, Feb. 22, to discuss cultural and heritage tourism, the major economic engines in the state of Michigan and in the nation.

Participants in this workshop will walk away knowing how to inventory and package their cultural assets to create a realistic cultural tourism plan for their communities. In addition, participants will gather ideas about who their community partners could/should be and how to work with city and county governments to utilize resources and achieve stability.

To register, visit www.artservemichigan.org.

FEB. 24

Charter services compete for dock space

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

One commercial boat slip plus two competing charter services equals one difficult situation for City of Charlevoix administrators.

Owners of two charter boat service companies, Gary Dawson of Sunshine Charters and Katharine "Kitty" Rammacher of Charlevoix (Great Lakes) Charters are staking claim to one commercial dock at the Charlevoix Municipal Marina. The situation has befuddled city

Smoking ban: A health plus or business bust?

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

Politicians, tobacco industry officials, Michigan citizens and business owners debate the reality and necessity of a possible statewide smoking ban.

State Senator, Ray Basham (D-Taylor), author of a proposed smoking ban, was one of seven senators to introduce Senate Bills 109 and 110 on Jan. 30.

But, according to Basham's

Pine River Channel swimmers like these will be fined this summer if a proposed ordinance is adopted by Charlevoix City Council.

Council: 'You swim, you pay'

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

While February isn't prime time for swimming in the Pine River Channel, local officials are addressing the activity they say is a safety issue now.

On Monday night, Feb. 19, Charlevoix City Council listened as city police chief Gerard Doan urged them to adopt an ordinance that will allow city police officers to ticket and fine Pine River Channel thrill seekers.

"My job is to look out for people's safety. It's just a matter of time before someone jumps too shallow, jumps out in front of a boat or slips on the pier," Doan said.

He said a strong current runs through the rock-lined channel and the dangerous situation is further degraded by declining water depths.

City attorney Jim Young is writing ordinance language that prohibits swimming in the channel. Charlevoix City Council will review the wording at a public hearing and will take a vote on whether to adopt it. A hearing has not been set at this time.

Under the proposed ordinance, Charlevoix officers will be authorized to patrol the area and fine swimmers $50 for a first time offense, $75 the second time and $100 for third and subsequent offenses.

"I don't think it will take too long before the word gets out. If it doesn't it will cost people money," Doan said.

If the ordinance passes, Doan said the city will post signs at Michigan Beach warning swimmers that the channel is off limits. The ordinance is being modeled around an existing law that bans skateboards, bikers and in-line skaters from riding on sidewalks in the city.

"We've never had an ordinance against swimming in the channel unless you swam in front of a watercraft which didn't give us much leverage to do anything down there," Doan said.

City weighs commercial dock space options

CHARTERS

administrators who are having a tough time figuring out who will get the space and how that should be determined.

In November 2006, former Charlevoix city manager, Mike Wiesner received a letter from Rammacher, a Charlevoix resident expressing interest in using the city's only commercial dock for her charter boat service.

"The city only allows one (commercial service) to operate out of the city marina at one time. Gary Dawson has a lock on that right now and we don't think that's right," captain for Charlevoix Charters, Jason Spegele said.

Rammacher owns and operates The Alyssa B, a 40-foot Lindmark Trawler motor yacht that can accommodate 12 people. Over the past two years she has operated her charter service out of Bay Harbor Lake Marina slip 54. Customers can purchase day, weekend or week-long cruises, family cruises, corporate cruises or dinner cruses. Purchases include a Coast Guard licensed captain and fuel.

"It's like having your own yacht and captain for the day," Spegele said.

While there may be a demand for Rammacher's services, since 1998, the space she wants to use has been leased by Dawson from the city from May 1 through Sept. 30.

He pays the city $7,100 for use of the dock and a nearby kiosk from where sailing excursions aboard his 45-foot cutter-rigged ketch, Sunshine are booked. The city in turn pays Dawson $1,320 through a promotional contract in which Dawson agrees to print the city logo on all of his literature. According to acting city manager Rick Brandi, the city has no contract with Dawson for the 2007 season at this time.

However, Dawson who is currently offering Caribbean Charters in the Virgin Islands said he does plan to return.

While the marina renovation project, which is currently underway, will increase dock space from 34 to 67 slips. There are no plans to up the number of commercial slips. And with the state footing the bill for 75 percent of the expansion cost, Brandi said chances of commercial use of the space won't be increased.

Two possible solutions are being discussed. The space may be determined by Charlevoix City Council through a competitive bid process or the docking space formerly occupied by the decommissioned United States Coast Guard cutter Acacia may be offered to one of the operators. Because the kiosk Dawson once used will be demolished and won't be replaced in the renovation, Brandi said the city may offer the office space formerly occupied by the Coast Guard in Bridge Park.

Spegele said he hopes to see the city find a way to accommodate both.

"We would like there to be more commercial slips open. We think it would be great for the community and downtown businesses. Allowing another company like us to offer a tasteful professional charter service out of Charlevoix would benefit the Charlevoix economy," Spegele said.

Channel swimmers to face fines

SWIM

He added that over the years the number of complaints coming through city hall regarding pier jumpers swimming in the channel has increased and the activity has strained lifeguards at nearby Michigan Beach whose attention is regularly turned from the swimming area to the channel.

Doan, who was the city's lifeguard supervisor for nine years, said while he knows the ordinance won't put an end to the problem, he's happy to be in a position to do something about it.

"I'm sure it will help. But we still have people breaking the speed limit with speed laws," he said.

Prior attempts to address channel swimming and pier jumping were quashed by complications with pier ownership. The South Pier is owned and maintained by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. The key this time is the city ban on swimming in the channel, not jumping from the pier.

In a previous interview, representatives of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Grand Haven office, have said the Corps will not be involved in the enforcement effort because they don't have the authority or manpower to tackle a project like this. But the Corps backs the city's effort.

Misadventures of Gohs, friend and white tail

THE CRYING TOWEL

Benjamin Gohs

As with so many minor, yet annoying adventures and mildly interesting events, I am the cause of my own misery. Don't get me wrong, I volunteered for this, the latest in a long line of self-imposed irritations, but why should that stop me from complaining?

The legal department says you PETA types and those with weak stomach may wish to close the paper and line the bottom of your bird cage now. I say, if you can't find humor in chronic illness or vehicular slayings, you're not trying hard enough.

It all started when a friend hit his third deer in less than a year. He says accidents, I say rethink the shortcut through the petting zoo. Whether or not his frustration over never bagging a buck in season was getting the better of him, I volunteered to show him how to turn his road kill into food.

To tell that story, I must tell you this story. When I was about 9, my family lived in a shack in the backwoods of Indian River. When I say we were poor, I mean my shoes were bound with athletic tape and we subsisted on government cornmeal and surplus honey.

The dark mood at Chateaux Drear drove my father to brave deep snow in hopes of poaching a deer. Dad returned without food, but sitting on a stump, wielding a gray Stanley utility knife, I dry heaved while he showed me how to skin a coyote, the pelt of which fetched enough money for some groceries.

Later, when dad took up taxidermy as a hobby, it was normal during a trip to town for him to jam on the brakes and send me scurrying across the highway for a rabbit, raccoon or possum. With time, I overcame my queasiness, unlike my little brother Joshua, notorious for a hair-trigger stomach, who walked in on us dressing a critter one time and said, "What dat 'mell," before throwing up so hard I swear I saw a boot, a soup can and a fish head hit the floor.

My high hopes of things going better with my anonymous chum's deer were dashed when he said he had to postpone the task until after his colonoscopy. For those of you unfamiliar with this particular brand of torture, also known as a Kentucky Handshake, it involves a colon, a camera and compressed air — didn't Burt Reynolds kill a few fellas for doing something similar to Ned Beatty during a canoe trip back in the 60s?

Mere hours after he was treated like a Macy's float and injected with enough horse tranq' to sedate half of Horton Bay, he called. By 9 p.m. we were in latex gloves and ready to work. The amount of drug present in his system wasn't truly apparent until I saw the area in which he expected me to work.

Courier staff writer Benjamin Gohs tries to lighten the mood while processing a deer killed by a friend in a recent car accident.

A 12-watt space heater kept the garage at 15 degrees while the 60-watt bulb cast just enough light on the World War II surplus aluminum card table to know it couldn't hold a game of pinochle let alone an 80-pound white tail. And the deer was so stiff you could have used it as a battering ram.

We put the heater nearest the creature as we dared and commenced chiseling and cursing.

Snow removal and a wandering mind

EAR TO THE GROUND

Roger Knutson

I make use of a manual snow removal program.

It involves a shovel and a snow scoop of the sort that my brother-in-law describes as a primitive global positioning device. He says if you strap it onto the roof of your car and begin driving south, when someone asks, "What is that thing?" then you have driven far enough. I have come to enjoy the almost daily task of clearing a driveway and a sidewalk of the recent snow.

One of the benefits of a less noisy snow-removal device is the possibility of time for quiet reflection on the world and its mostly clouded meanings. Just a few days ago I was thinking of Sisyphus. According to ancient Greek legend, Sisyphus was the king of Corinth and possibly the father of Odysseus. He was something of a smart-alec or a trickster in the legends. He was both cunning and devious. He was one of those unfortunates who angered the great god Zeus and tried to cheat death by a series of nearly brilliant and almost successful maneuvers. When finally recaptured by the authorities of the time, he was judged and then condemned to roll a very large boulder up a mountain only to have it roll down again. His punishment was to last for all eternity, and has come to be a metaphor for the futility of human life.

I know that snow is not as heavy as a large boulder. It only seems that way. And snow doesn't actually last for all eternity. It only seems that way. Nonetheless, looking out the window each morning at the almost daily accumulation of new snow and pushing it around did get me to thinking about Sisyphus, and what the old Greek myths were trying to tell us. Snow removal is a lot like housecleaning, or laundry or cooking meals or finding food or acquiring firewood or finding water or almost any of those mundane, must-be-done tasks that color most human lives. The Greeks not only had a word for it, they most often had a whole story for it.

It is easy to get pessimistic about human life if you dwell too long on such thoughts, but there is a potentially brighter side to it. Sisyphus may well have been happy with his eternal task — the legends don't tell us that. I am not certain how happy I would be if the snow removal task was genuinely eternal rather than seasonal, but I know that I am happy with the smaller, every winter task. On second thought it is probably just those hormones released by vigorous physical activity that induce a happy state. I suspect that Sisyphus had the same hormones. Hormone is a Greek word for setting in motion or starting. Ancient wisdom is still wisdom, and it may even be the only kind.

THERE IS ANOTHER

Editor:

To continue the letter of Raechel Wright from the Feb. 14 edition of the Courier, I would like to quote from Yoda, the Jedi master, "There is another."

Northwest Academy is a K-12 tuition-free public school academy located on Hurlbut Street within the envelope of the "Cool Cities" program in Charlevoix. THANK YOU CHARLEVOIX

Editor:

Because I have a learning disability. Because I failed second grade. Because other children always made fun of me since I could not read or spell. Because I failed out of Albion College. Then finally, because over the last 12 years I could not stay in my home during the day, or even have a friend visit my home.

Because of all of the above, I have learned and know the meaning of failure, sadness, pain, heartbreak, eminent loneliness and finally happiness.

Two wonderful saviors always helped me through my many dark times. They told me every day I would be OK and I would make it. Those saviors were my mother and my Lord. No matter how difficult my life became they never left my side. They always picked me up and carried me through the storm. Because of them and the unconditional love of my wife, the sun finally shined down on me and my life. I have found happiness, I found caring, I found love, I found friendship and I prospered. Every day I get down on my knees and thank my mother, my Lord and my wife for saving such a wretch as me.

So now you can see why I must help those who are going through what I have endured. I know first hand how terrible and lonely it can be.

Never will I stop helping the troubled and the unfortunate. I will never forget what I went through to learn that with your mother and the Lord by your side you can see the sun and stars of life. You will enjoy the opportunities of a happy life.

So thanks to all of you, particularly the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce for awarding Karen and I, the Charlevoix Chairman's Award for 2006. We call Charlevoix and its citizens our heaven on earth, our pot of gold at the end of our rainbow.

CRF DELIVERS BLUES EXPERIENCE

Editor:

Since I am wintering 1,400 miles south of Charlevoix near the Atlantic, my most recent copy of the Charlevoix Courier (the Valentine's Day issue) arrived just a few days ago. As I also went to Memphis to support Charlie's Root Fusion, I quickly sat on the steps of the post office to read Mr. Gohs' excellent report of the band's experiences at this grand event.

The men of Charlie's Root Fusion were terrific, operating at a level that was far beyond the things that I suffered from the others that I heard. They looked absolutely great, played a varied mix of styles all appropriate for what I had expected from the massive amount of publicity for this event which is in one of what I remembered as the greatest venues in the country for real blues. You see, I grew up near Memphis, Tenn. and Beale Street in the golden days of blues greats.

Excluding Charlie's Root Fusion, most of the stuff in this event was just noise. Lyrics (words) were lost in a nightmare of confusion. Blues used to have class and style. Now, in step mighty technology and vulgar recording studio techniques. As a professional singer, I have been there and know what I see and hear. The event could have been improved if there had been an occasional power failure during some of the acts.

Our Charlevoix men were absolutely wonderful. What a start.

RAINBOW SHOPPE MAKES THE LOAN

Editor:

To say thank you is not quite adequate to express our true feelings toward so many organizations and people for their thoughtfulness and generosity.

The Charlevoix citizens and a few friends from out of town have come through for us with their contributions on our loan with the Charlevoix State Bank.

We are very happy to announce the loan has been paid in full. Now this heavy burden has been lifted for the Rainbow Shoppe.

Yes, "Thank you" isn't enough, but we certainly appreciate everyone of you who gave us a helping hand. We really do have so many beautiful "angels" in Charlevoix and out of town. We are truly blessed, and we pray you will be blessed too for your concern.

Incidentally, our move to U.S. 31 has proved most beneficial. Stop in to see us. The store is just super.

DEER

I wasn't expecting the thaw to produce a burst of orange blossom, but this was not your average stink of raw meat and wet fur, this was the kind of pungency that made you want to run out and bury your face in a skunk. The words, "What dat 'mell" flashed in my mind as I grabbed my gut. Me amigo ceased pounding to retell Bambi's traumatic final moments.

It seems the animal was hit by two speeding cars before being dispatched by one of Charlevoix's finest. That explained the bullet hole and the incontinence, but shed little light on my pal's unique use of a framing hammer to remove the hind legs. For my own sanity, I chalked it up to the narcotic stupor.

Despite the cold, fatigue and too much schnapps, we had the beast washed, chopped and wrapped by 1:30 a.m.

To cap the night properly, fate decided to reinforce the adage, "No good deed..." While stumbling out to meet my cab, I hit a patch of ice and performed a respectable yet painful side split. My screams drown out the loud popping noise which accompanied my derelict descent. Lucky for me and physical therapists everywhere it was only a denim death knell. It seems the crotch of my Levi's are not rated for a portly gymnast bearing 25 pounds of frozen meat.

To his credit, the driver didn't harass me about the fall, the hole in my pants or the blood-soaked packages.

My plan is to try my hand at sausage making, but I'm going to hold off on anymore volunteerism for the time being.

OBITUARIES

Dorothy Kelly: Died Feb. 8, 2007

Dorothy Ann Kelly formerly of Jackson passed away on Thursday, Feb. 8 in Charlevoix at the age of 83.

She has lived in Charlevoix for the past three years after she was preceded in death by her husband Gerald "Mickey" of 61 years. She was also preceded in death by two brothers, Pete Johnson of Key West Fla. and Turk Johnson of Detroit.

She will be remembered by her four children Gerald M. (Annette) Kelly Jr. of Sterling Heights, Thomas P. (Luann) Kelly of Grandville, John C. Kelly of Seattle, Wash. and Karen Kelly-LaVanway (Thomas LaVanway) of Charlevoix. She is also survived by six grandchildren Katie, Carol, Kristen, Erin, T.J. and Parker; five great-grandchildren Mary Jo, Melanie, Maggie, Joey and Sarah; as well as many nieces, nephews and countless friends. Dorothy worked while her husband was in the Army and away in World War II. When "Mickey" returned home Dorothy left work and stayed home to raise their family. She was a den mother for the Cub Scouts for many years and volunteered many hours at her children's school and the church.

At the age of 45 she went back to school and received a degree in nursing. She worked at Mercy Hospital and retired from Foote Hospital after 20 years of service. When Dorothy and "Mickey" were not enjoying each other while traveling or camping she continued to serve the community as a volunteer at Foote Hospital for over 15 years. She was honored by Foote Hospital as the cover girl for the "Silver Lining" magazine. She was very active in the church and was proud to be a fifth generation Lutheran. Dorothy and "Mickey" helped to organize the Trinity Lutheran Church School. She was a longtime member of the American Business Women's Association. Dorothy was always there to lend a helping hand. She had a positive impact on everyone she met and always put her family first. If anyone needed a smile she would gladly share hers. When asked, "What do you know for sure in life?" her reply was quick and simple, "It's the importance of being honest, kind, outgoing, friendly and smile often."

The funeral was held at the Trinity Lutheran Church in Jackson with Pastor Doug Krengel officiating. Interment was at Roseland Memorial Gardens. A celebration of her life will be held at Sunny Bank in Charlevoix in the near future.

Contributions to St. Mary School would be appreciated.

L. Robert Neff: May 15, 1918 - Feb. 16, 2007

L. Robert Neff

L. Robert Neff passed away on Feb. 16 at the age of 88 from complications due to Alzheimer's disease.

Mr. Neff, affectionately known as Bob, lived most of his life in Charlevoix. He graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1937. He left his home briefly to serve as a Michigan State Trooper from 1941 to 1950. He then returned to purchase, with his brother, Gordon, Neff Brothers Quality Food Store. Bob worked to make his hometown a better place as a member of Bethany Lutheran Church as well as an elected member of the city council and one of the founders of Mt. McSauba Recreation Area. He was a devoted husband and father, and a good friend to all who knew him.

He is survived by his wife of 64 years, Eleanor; his daughters, Linda (David) Ziegler and Nancy (David) Lohse; his grandchildren, Erica Ziegler (John) Babb, Paige Ziegler, Hunter Lohse and Betsy Lohse; and his great-grandchildren, Haley and Jackson Babb. He is also survived by several nieces and nephews.

A memorial service will be held at 1 p.m. on June 9 at Bethany Lutheran Church in Charlevoix, with internment of ashes at Brookside Cemetery. The family requests that memorial contributions be made to Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Elbridge Vance: Died Feb. 18, 2007

Elbridge Vance

Elbridge Putnam Vance, 92, of Vermilion, Ohio, known by friends, colleagues and family as "Fuzzy," passed away Feb. 18 in Shelton, Wash.

He is survived by his wife Jean Vance, daughter Susan Vance (Tim Griffin) of Beverly Shores, Ind.; son Peter Vance (Ellie) of Fenton; son Douglas Vance (Kathy) of Grand Rapids; daughter Emily Beynon (Charles) of Houston, Texas; and two step children, Gary Haigh (Kathy) of Shelton, Wash.; Karon Haigh (Terry) of Phoenix, Ariz.; 14 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Born in Cincinnati, Ohio and a graduate of the College of Wooster (bachelor of arts) and the University of Michigan (master's and Ph.D.), Fuzzy resided for many years in Oberlin, Ohio where he taught mathematics from 1943 to 1983. He headed the mathematics department from 1948 to 1975 and was acting dean of the College of Arts and Sciences during two separate semesters. He was the author of at least nine textbooks for high school and college students on algebra, trigonometry and the fundamentals of mathematics. He also spent four years as chair and five years as chief reader for the advanced placement program in mathematics for the College Entrance Examination Board; chaired the Central Coordinating Committee on Films and Television of the Mathematics Association of America; and was associate editor in charge of film and television reviews for the American Mathematics Monthly.

In 1964 he traveled to India to teach mathematics teachers for Aid for International Development (AID). He sought to expand his experience by teaching one semester of high school mathematics to inner city youth in Cleveland, Ohio; followed by teaching one semester at Phillips Academy in Andover, Mass.

Fuzzy generously volunteered in many roles contributing to his community including tutoring and mentoring students, working with the Boy Scouts of America, and serving as president of the Oberlin School Board. He was a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi and is listed in Who's Who in America.

Always the educator, Fuzzy loved Oberlin College where his skills were called on many times for guidance based on his history with the school and for his ability to mediate between parties with conflicting opinions.

Fuzzy was a devoted and generous husband, father, grandfather and friend. Throughout his lifetime he spent his summers at his beloved Sequanota Club in Charlevoix. In his retirement years, he enjoyed continued attendance at Rotary Club meetings across the country; fly fishing, playing bridge and golf, traveling with friends, cherishing his time with his loving wife, Jean and visiting with his children and grandchildren.

A memorial service will be held in Oberlin, Ohio. Further details are yet to be determined.

Memorial donations may be directed to the Oberlin College Department of Development, 50 West Lorain Street, Oberlin, OH 44074 in support of the two Elbridge Putnam Vance Scholarships established by him for students demonstrating marked interest and ability in mathematics and who have had less opportunity than others to study beyond the high school level.

David Holborn: May 7, 1951 - Feb. 19, 2007

David Earl Holborn, 55, of Charlevoix, died Monday, Feb. 19 at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

He will always be remembered by his family for his gentle nature, sense of humor and his wonderful bird calls. He was born May 7, 1951, in Charlevoix to Earl and Nellie (Vosburg) Holborn. David was preceded in death by his father, Earl Holborn.

David is survived by his daughter, Mariah Holborn of Traverse City; mother, Nellie Holborn of Charlevoix; brother, Melvin (Marllynn) Holborn of Hobbs, N.M.; sister, Sherry (Gale) Sheldon of Charlevoix; aunts, Hilda Beach of Traverse City, Vera Harris of Flint; former wife, Jill Holborn of Kalkaska; nephews, Chris (Tracy) Holborn of Manhatten, Kansas, Ty (Heather) Holborn of Manhatten, Kansas, Matt Sheldon of Grand Rapids; niece, Nicole (Bernard) Garrigan of Kodiak, Alaska; special cousins, Sandy Beach of San Carlos, Calif., Cary Beach of Scaramento, Calif., and Yvette Harris of Charlevoix. He is also survived by three great-nephews and many special friends.

Dave attended Charlevoix schools and enlisted in the U.S. Army during the Vietnam War. After leaving the service, David married Jill and moved to Hobbs, N.M., where he worked as a "roustabout" in the oil fields. When Mariah was born he returned to the Charlevoix area where he worked as a mason and carpenter. Over the years David had a great love for the out-of-doors and the beauty of nature. Life was not always easy for David, he spent years fighting alcoholism and finally won that battle four years ago. His biggest battle in life was fighting cancer that was diagnosed last week. Even though we were not ready for him to leave this world, he has gone to a place of joy and rest. Family and friends will miss him dearly.

There will be no visitation but a graveside service will be held in the spring at Brookside Cemetery in Charlevoix. Friends and family will be notified.

In lieu of flowers, the family suggests memorial contributions be made to his mother, Nellie Holborn, the Charlevoix Area Hospital, or the Alanon Club of Charlevoix.

Enjoy the opera with these expert tips

BY BENJAMIN GOHS

On Feb. 22 local opera buff, David Wassenaar shared information for novices attending the upcoming opera. The Bulgarian State Opera's production of Motzart's "The Marriage of Figaro" will take place at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, March 1 in the performing arts center at Charlevoix High School.

Wassenaar's tips on how to survive the opera

- Three operas guaranteed to hook the wary: La Traviata; Carmen; and La Boheme — these three have meaningful stories, exciting music and choruses.
- While opera glasses or binoculars may come in handy if you are seated in the balcony, the nice thing about the opera is you can see all the stage all the time — close-ups in movies can be nice, but they can also be unnecessarily distracting.
- Operas as you know them go back as far as the 1600's, so you get a chance to see historical costumes and hear period music.
- Make yourself familiar with the libretto (the text of an opera), story synopsis and background on both composer and playwright.
- Pick up a CD compilation, often available at your local library, of highlights of opera choruses, overtures or arias ahead of the performance.
- Be patient — what may begin with a slow start and much speaking can lead to wonderful musical and dance numbers.
- Opera is for everyone — the days of only wealthy society types enjoying the show are over — dress is casual and ticket prices are reasonable.

Just say the word "Opera" and many folks will run screaming in the opposite direction.

However, if a night of flirtation, extramarital affairs, deceit and humor sounds like a good time, you might not want to miss the Bulgarian State Opera's production of Motzart's "The Marriage of Figaro" on Thursday, March 1 in the performing arts center at Charlevoix High School.

"The Marriage of Figaro" is the story of a Spanish manservant, Figaro, and his fiancée, Susanna, who both work for the same lecherous aristocrat, Count Almaviva. The couple wish to marry, but the philandering count has his own ideas on employer-employee relations citing droit du seigneur, the ancient custom of a lord's right to deflower all virgins on his estate.

• What generally scares people away from the opera?

"Most people who don't go to the opera have hang-ups. One of their hang-ups is, 'How can these people sing when they're dying?'" said opera buff, David Wassenaar during a Feb. 22 lecture to help ready novices for the upcoming opera. "I've heard that thousands of times. Remember, the opera is the medium, it's not the story, so they have as much right to sing while they're dying as anything else."

He added, "And, if the death scene is too long, then so what? I hope you have at least 10 minutes or a half hour to die."

Another hang-up people say they have about the opera, Wassenaar said, is that they don't understand the language.

"You can tell what the music means by what it sounds like," he said. "Music is universal to a certain extent."

• Wassenaar's credentials as an opera expert?

Wassenaar, who has been a dedicated opera fan for more than a half a century, earned a master of social work from Wayne State University; he has served on several boards of directors for symphonies and music societies; he has been an announcer and narrator for opera programs and spent more than 20 years as a supernumerary — the opera's equivalent of a Hollywood extra.

• What spawned Wassenaar's interest in the art form?

"I think my interest in opera began when I was five or six years old," he said. "I loved a parade and the parade (in his hometown) consisted of the Boy Scouts, the American Legion and two bands."

The marches the band played tantalized Wassenaar as a youngster.

"I loved them so much that I would watch them march down the street, then run ahead of them and watch them again and run some more and watch them again," Wassenaar said. "Overtures and marches were a big part of my early listening. From there I went to symphonies, chamber music, into jazz, into ethnic music and when I got to graduate school, I was very excited about (the) Detroit Symphony and then the Metropolitan Opera came to town."

• How to become a supernumerary?

"After a couple years they (the Met) started doing seven operas in six days and I dared not miss any, so I went every week," Wassenaar said. "About the third year...the guy who was in charge of hiring supers for the opera asked me if I'd like to do that — well that was a big thrill."

He added, "So what I did as a super (were) those non-singing, non-speaking parts where I could hardly get in trouble unless I tripped. We were the soldiers, the slaves the bums, the students, the executioners."

During Wassenaar's tenure as an opera house extra, he was forced to stand still for an hour while action occurred around him, he saw someone faint and be dragged offstage by other players and he stood in the center of six singers crooning at full blast.

"Opera singers sing loud and fast and hard and they spit all over the place," he said.

• How can the novice learn to appreciate opera?

"If you're a music lover, buy a cheap baton and conduct the music as much as you can while it's playing," Wassenaar said. "It's a silly but useful way to dwell on the music and give the music your undivided attention."

Tickets for the show are available at the door or by calling (231) 347-4337. Patron tickets are $50, general admission is $25, $20 for members of Crooked Tree Arts Center, $10 for students, $8 for arts center members.

Charlevoix band students place at state competitions

February is the month for band festivals and the Charlevoix High School Band students have been busy attending these performances.

On Feb. 10 students participated in Solo and Ensemble Festival in Kingsley where they performed in solos, duets, trios, quartets and other ensemble groups. The following students earned medals on their performances: Alina Dhaseleer played a flute solo, Emily Westenhroek a trumpet solo, Elliot Falls a snare drum solo and Brianna Londgren played a solo on the piano.

The entire Charlevoix High School Band performed at the District Band Festival on Feb. 17 in Petoskey earning a second division rating.

In the sight reading room students are to play two pieces of music that they have never seen before. They have seven minutes to prepare the music and then perform it for a judge. The sight reading judge had high praise for the Charlevoix band students stating, "You followed your director extremely well on all the key points — dynamics, tempo and style of the music."

Students steer middle school Web site

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

The Charlevoix Middle School Web site is chockfull of up to date information on events, fundraisers and photos of students in action — and it's run completely by a couple of kids.

According to middle school principal, Keith Haske, sixth graders Carolena Elowski and Maura Brandi take the pictures, write the stories and snoop the scoop five days a week as part of a fledgling enrichment program.

"This is the first year we've done it," said Haske. "We've been real pleased — the two girls have been doing a great job."

He added, "They're pretty much self directed with guidance from Scott Mays (Charlevoix Schools technology director), but mostly it's the girls. They've been professional and done an excellent job of doing current events and keeping the Web si updated."

Haske said the plan was to provide an online enrichment program to teach students Mandarin Chinese, but after that fell through, the idea to let students run the Web site was introduced.

"We still haven't given up on the Mandarin program. We're searching out funding and maybe we'll do that next year," Haske said. "This (student generated content) was a good move and it's good for the kids to learn some skills using the Internet and learning some nice communication, interviewing skills, researching skills and cooperation skills."

He added, "These are skills they'll continue to use whether in the business world or (in) other classes."

While Elowski was out sick the day of the interview, her partner, Brandi, answered questions while posting content to the Web.

"Our parents asked Mr. Haske if we could do something extra. They just wanted us to do something different," said the Rayder athlete and musician.

Brandi said she looks forward to the hour she spends daily working on the site.

"I really like it. It's fun," she said. "I like getting all the stories and taking pictures of everyone."

Brandi and Elowski cover everything from dissection projects in science class to the Pennies for Patients fundraiser.

"Sometimes it's a lot of work, but I really like taking pictures and writing informative stories," Brandi said. "I would encourage it for anybody who wants to do it, because it's a great way to learn what's going on in your school."

Brandi's favorite piece?

"I really like the one we did on the new library," she said. "We took some pictures from up high and between the books."

Brandi said anyone with a grasp on computers could maintain a Web site.

"Mr. Mays got us an information packet so when we needed help we could look at that, but it only took us a couple days," she said.

Check out the girls' work at: http://rayder.net/cms/.

Public Notice?

Without it in your newspaper, you're left guessing what the government's doing in your community.

Public notice is the people's right to know the issues that affect them directly, and people know the place to find public and legal notices is in the newspaper. What you're holding right now is a historical document, printed and published with a date on every page. Public notices have been posted here since the days of colonial America. In our democratic society your newspaper fulfills an essential role in serving your right to know. After all, it shouldn't be your responsibility to know how to look, where to look, or when to look, let alone to know what you're looking for to be informed. Why guess? That is why you have, and read, your newspaper... where your right to know is already being served.

Baby Boddy overcomes health challenges

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

Every day's a gift for a Charlevoix miracle baby and his parents.

Boddy William Whitley was born to Charlevoix residents Michelle Mailloux and Gregg Whitley on Saturday, Jan. 27, after just 24 weeks in the womb. His expected due date was May 21. He came into the world weighing 1 pound, 5 ounces and stretching 11.75 inches long.

"Everything is day by day, minute by minute," Mailloux said of her son's development.

His birth came as many do — on Jan. 23 Mailloux's water broke. While this is a welcomed turn of events for mothers carrying full-term babies (born between 37 and 42 weeks of pregnancy), Mailloux, a first-time mother at the age of 36, said the reality was nothing short of horrifying for her. The reason for her premature labor has not been pinpointed.

She and Whitley rushed to Charlevoix Area Hospital where they were met by Dr. William Mosher who told them if they stayed the baby wouldn't make it. The medical staff pumped Mailloux full of steroids to expedite Boddy's lung development and at 2:30 a.m. on Jan. 24 transported her by ambulance to Helen DeVos Children's Hospital in Grand Rapids.

The couple spent the next few days working to give their baby the things he would need to fight for his life.

Boddy William Whitley was born to Charlevoix residents Michelle Mailloux and Gregg Whitley on Saturday, Jan. 27, after just 24 weeks in the womb. He came into the world weighing 1 pound, 5 ounces and stretching 11.75 inches long. The picture above was taken of Boddy on Feb. 24. He has gained 10 ounces and grown almost an inch.

He entered the world by cesarean section at 7:40 a.m. on Jan. 27. The next three weeks in the DeVos Neonatal Intensive Care Unit were marked by medical highs and lows.

The first hurdle the family faced was the possibility that Boddy may have developed necrotizing enterocolitis, a potentially dangerous intestinal problem which leads to feeding difficulties, abdominal swelling and other complications.

The second was an intraventricular hemorrhage or bleeding in his brain. According to the March of Dimes, a national non-profit organization dedicated to improving the health of babies by preventing birth defects, premature birth and infant mortality, most brain bleeds are mild and resolve themselves with no or few lasting problems. More severe bleeds can cause the fluid-filled structures (ventricles) in the brain to expand rapidly, causing pressure on the brain that can lead to brain damage such as cerebral palsy and learning and behavioral problems.

Since his birth the tiny wonder has beat the odds — fighting off the hemorrhage, the possible intestinal complication and respiratory challenges and undergoing blood transfusions.

Mailloux said the challenging hurdles he's overcome have been mixed with joyous events like when Boddy opened his eyes about two weeks ago, his ability to accept increasing amounts of breast milk and his growth.

On Feb. 21 he weighed in at 1 pound, 15 ounces and measured 12.5 inches long.

While Mailloux, a hair designer at New Creations in Charlevoix, has living quarters at the Ronald McDonald House on Cedar Street in Grand Rapids sleep isn't something she spends much time doing. Most of her day is spent by her son's side.

"I don't want him to open his eyes at night and I won't be here," she said. "He knows my smell, my voice — he's pretty on it for being so little."

Mailloux said she has no illusions that the worst is behind Boddy — with fears of lung development complications and a risk of retinal detachment leading to blindness haunting her. But her fight won't be compromised by trepidation.

"I stay a little guarded," she said. "I've learned great patience and I

Baby born at 24 weeks gestation fights the odds

A guide to pre-term birth terms and risks

Full-term pregnancy: Most pregnancies last around 40 weeks. Babies born between 37 and 42 weeks of pregnancy are called full term.

Premature birth: Babies born before 37 completed weeks of pregnancy are called premature or pre-term. About 12 percent of babies in the United States are born pre-term. Of those, the majority (84 percent) are born between 32 and 36 weeks of gestation. About 10 percent are born between 28 and 31 weeks of gestation, and about 6 percent are born at less than 28 weeks of gestation.

What is the outlook for babies born at less than 28 weeks? Fewer than 1 percent of babies in this country are born this early, but these babies have the most complications. Most of these babies are born at very low birth weight (less than 3 pounds, 4 ounces). Those born at less than 26 weeks are likely to weigh only 1 to 2 pounds. Almost all will require treatment with oxygen, surfactant, and mechanical assistance to help them breathe. These babies are too immature to suck, swallow and breathe at the same time, so they must be fed through a vein (intravenously) until they develop these skills. They often cannot yet cry (or you cannot hear them due to the tube in their throat) and they sleep most of the day. These tiny babies have little muscle tone and most move very little.

How many babies were treated at Helen DeVos Children's Hospital in 2005 that were born at 24 weeks? 38 babies. Of those, 76 percent survived. The 29 survivors spent 92-315 days in the hospital and 12 went home by their due date.

What are the risks of pre-term births? Babies born pre-term face a greater risk of serious health problems for several reasons. The earlier a child is born, the less it will weigh, the less developed its organs will be, and the more complications it is likely to face. Very premature babies also have the highest risk of death and lasting disabilities, such as mental retardation, cerebral palsy, lung and gastro-intestinal problems, and vision and hearing loss.

What is a neonatal intensive care unit (NICU)? A NICU has specialized medical staff and equipment that can deal with the multiple problems faced by premature infants.

Appearance of pre-term babies: Their skin may be thin and wrinkled, and their heads may look too large for their bodies. But these babies look the way they should at their stage of development, and will begin to appear and act more like full-term babies as they continue to develop and grow. Throughout their first year of life, these babies should be evaluated according to their adjusted age (which takes their prematurity into account).

What medical complications are common in premature babies? There are a number of complications that are more likely in premature than full-term babies. These include respiratory distress syndrome (RDS), apnea, intraventricular hemorrhage (IVH), patent ductus arteriosus (PDA), necrotizing enterocolitis (NEC), retinopathy of prematurity (ROP), jaundice, anemia, chronic lung disease (also called bronchopulmonary dysplasia) and infections.

have a huge amount of love for him — he's the love of my life."

Mailloux credits his progress and she and Whitley's strength in part to the community support they have received. From financial contributions directed to the family at a Feb. 7 fundraiser at Villager Pub to cards and notes of encouragement, Mailloux said the outpouring of support has been "unbelievable."

If Boddy continues to progress, the goal is that he will be released from the hospital around the time of his due date.

"I want to see him continue on the path he's on. We'll be patient and wait until his due date and hopefully see him home for this summer in Charlevoix," Mailloux said.

Boddy's maternal grandparents are Bernie and Susie Mailloux and Ken and Birdie Whitley of Charlevoix.

City develops eco-friendly water plan for East Park

BY LOUISE NELLE
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW
STAFF WRITER

The City of Charlevoix has incorporated storm water treatment practices into its designs for the renovation of East Park.

Environmental groups such as the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council and the Water & Air Team for Charlevoix (WATCH) raised concerns regarding storm water treatment for Round Lake, adding that other communities including Harbor Springs and Petoskey have already addressed storm water.

Charlevoix street superintendent Pat Elliott, one of the individuals managing the renovation, said the city has planned to address storm water since 2002 when it designed the plans.

"There's a number of storm water management practices that are already included in the plans," said Elliott.

Overall, treatment includes increasing the amount of water absorbed into the ground and directing water that cannot be absorbed to trench drains where water will be treated before being discharged into the lake.

Pat Elliott

To increase absorption, Elliott said the amount of permeable surfaces will be increased. First, the city will install plant beds above the two new buildings it will construct in East Park.

The city will also eliminate the section of Mason Street that runs to the harbor. By doing so, it will eliminate the water that flows down into the lake, which collects oils, sediments and other pollutants.

In addition, certain areas of the park will be paved in brick. Sand between the bricks allows more water to be absorbed, unlike concrete.

"Not every drop of water gets absorbed by the bricks, so we have to make an outlet for it," added Elliott.

That outlet will be a series of sumps, areas where solids can settle so only treated water will be discharged.

However, not all of the storm water can be absorbed by those practices.

Therefore, Elliott said excess water will be directed toward a trench drain near the sidewalk at the edge of the lake. Water running down the hill in the park will automatically reach the trench drain. In order to prevent water on the sidewalk from spilling into the lake, the city will install a curb on the sidewalk's edge as well as slant the sidewalk downward toward the drain.

Elliott said the city recently joined forces with the Tip of the Mitt. Together, they will consider additional treatment practices that can be included later in the project without hindering the renovation. He added that in the future they plan to treat storm water upstream, farther from the lake. How and when that will happen has yet to be determined.

"It's all got to be designed and approved by city council," said Elliott. "And (options) depend on the space available, which will determine what you can and cannot do. These structures have to be located in a place where they can be maintained."

Louise Nelle can be contacted at (231) 439-9339, or lnelle@petoskeynews.com.

Family's jug of coins helps restore lighthouse

In 1984, Charlevoix residents Dave and Julie Christiansen began saving pennies daily out of their pocket change in a 13-pound glass jug used for the fermentation of wine.

They did this at the request of their very young first-born son Timothy who had been inspired by the sight of a similar jug filled with coins in the home of his baby-sitter. He wanted one just like "Uncle" Skip Young, the grandson of Charlevoix's noted architect and builder, Earl Young.

After his brother Brian arrived, both boys made sure their parents kept up the tradition and contributed their own coins as they got older. The jug gradually filled over 22 years, and by Christmas 2006 weighed 186 pounds.

With both boys grown and gone, Dave and Julie didn't know what to do with the immovable object in their living room. So they consulted with their sons about possibly donating the collection to the Charlevoix Historical Society's Lighthouse Preservation Fund, a project of immense importance to all of them. Timothy and Brian agreed. But after the boys arrived home for the holidays, all were awed at the immensity of the task that confronted them.

They emptied the jug and to their surprise also found 160 quarters, 650 dimes, and 600 nickels.

Julie took the pennies to the Charlevoix State Bank in six large coffee cans where they were run through a machine, counted and rolled. There were 26,730 of them. She and Dave packaged the rest at home throughout January. When they were through, they discovered they had amassed 28,140 coins worth $402.30, which they turned over to the Charlevoix Historical Society in late January.

In early 2006, the National Park Service approved the City of Charlevoix's request to become owners of the light. Title could not be immediately transferred because of a debate between the State of Michigan and the federal government regarding ownership of the bottomlands upon with the south pier is situated. The agreement issues that were reached was that the Army Corps of Engineers would continue to maintain the pier and the U.S. Coast Guard would continue to maintain the light as a navigation aid.

Pending transfer of full title, the City of Charlevoix entered into a historic lease with the Coast Guard in the spring of 2006. This lease requires the city to be responsible for restoring, preserving and maintaining the light, one of Charlevoix' most significant and beloved landmarks. Shortly after signing the lease with the Coast Guard, and with Coast Guard approval, the city essentially sub-let the above responsibilities, along with the fundraising process to finance them, to the Charlevoix Historical Society.

The Charlevoix Historical Society plans to raise around $183,000 over five years to pay for the required restoration work, as well as architectural and engineering specifications related to that work. If enough public support is forthcoming, the society will consider raising an additional $77,000 for a fourth phase of optional work — duplicating the original "Ferdinand the Bull" fog signal and brass ventilators, upgrading the electrical system and replacing bent steel bracing.

HPV vaccine available at health department

Vaccine recommended for females ages 11-26

A new vaccine for girls and women ages 11 to 26 to prevent cervical cancer is now available at health department offices in Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet, and Otsego counties.

According to officials with the health department, the vaccine prevents most cases of human papillomavirus (HPV), the virus that causes cervical cancer and genital warts.

HPV is the most common sexually transmitted virus in the U.S. More than 50 percent of sexually active men and women are infected with HPV at some time in their lives. About 20 million people are infected and over six million more become infected every year.

"Preventing HPV infection is important because it can cause cervical cancer in women," said Joshua Meyerson, MD, medical director for the Health Department of Northwest Michigan. "Cervical cancer is the second leading cause of cancer death among women in the world."

Most HPV infections do not cause any symptoms and go away on their own. Some cause genital warts and warts in the upper respiratory tract. HPV is also associated with several less common types of cancer in both men and women.

Of the over 40 types of HPV, the HPV vaccine protects against four major types, including two types that cause about 70 percent of cervical cancer, and two types that cause about 90 percent of genital warts.

"Protection from the vaccine is expected to be long-lasting, but vaccinated women still need cervical cancer screening because the vaccine does not protect against all HPV types that cause cervical cancer," Meyerson said.

The Health Department of Northwest Michigan is the local health department for Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego counties. For more information or to schedule appointments for HPV vaccine or breast and cervical cancer screening, contact the health department at (800) 432-4121 or visit www.nwhealth.org.

Harbor Industries named United Way lead donor

Harbor Industries is once again the lead donor in Char-Em United Way's fundraising campaign. Employees at Harbor Industries' Charlevoix facility have pledged $23,278 in individual gifts, and the firm has provided an additional $2,500 corporate gift.

"We are very grateful for the support of Harbor Industries and its employees," said Martha Lancaster, United Way executive director. "Their generous support has provided over 12 percent of our campaign and has put us over the 90 percent mark toward our $200,000 goal. I frequently cite Harbor as an example to other businesses considering a work site campaign for United Way."

Support for United Way and other charitable causes is part of the corporate culture at Harbor Industries, at both their Charlevoix and Grand Haven facilities. The firm, which manufactures point of purchase displays, also coordinates the local Day of Caring.

"We encourage our employees to be involved in the community, both as donors and volunteers," said Tim Parker, Harbor Industries vice-president for operations. "As a corporation, we make the same commitment. Our United Way campaign is so successful, in part, because we make it fun for the employees. We celebrate a full week of activities each fall, with drawings for prizes, contests and other employee-driven activities. This year the employees set an internal goal to raise $20,000 with 50 percent participation. I'm pleased they exceeded that goal and we'll be rewarding them with a cook-out next spring."

Parker also served as co-chair of the United Way campaign this year, and other Harbor staff members serve as United Way board members and volunteers.

Other significant support for the United Way campaign has come from Glen's Stores employees and Spartan Corporation at $16,180, UPS employees and Corporation at $13,579, CMS Energy employees and foundation at $12,278, Fifth Third Bank employees at $5,377, Charlevoix Public Schools employees at $1,193, Federal Express employees at $1,768, J.C. Penney employees and Corporation at $2,994, and Wal-Mart associates and corporation at $2,402.

"Later this spring, we will make grants to local health and human service agencies from these funds," Lancaster said.

Char-Em United Way is continuing to accept tax-deductible contributions to the 2006-2007 campaign.

Sonny's Ironton Market expands product offerings

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

The story of Sonny's Ironton Market starts with an East Coast romance.

Market owners Lisa and Matthew Claflin met while attending college, he at Boston University and she at the University of Maine.

Their adventure in the professional world started during the late 1990s in New Hampshire where both were employed in corporate sales. Matt sold office furniture and Lisa worked for Minolta, selling copy machines.

In 2002, a job transfer brought the pair to Brighton. The cash was good and their commitment was strong but their roots weren't planted. When it came time to talk family both agreed they wanted to raise children in northern Michigan.

"We looked for a way to make a living and live up here," Matt said. "We gave up a lot to do this but gained quality of life."

Lisa, a native of Elk Rapids, watched as she and Matt's sons Jacob, 3, and Nathan, 1, ran the aisles in the store and recalled time she spent doing the same thing at her grandfather and father's shop, Ed and Son Food Market in Elk Rapids. In 2000 her parents, Chris and Sonny Szejbach, opened Sonny's Torch Lake Market.

After a few years in business in Torch Lake the Szejbach's wanted to expand their offerings to include pizza and asked Lisa and Matt to lead the charge. The couple traveled to Concord, N.H. to study the art of homemade pizza

Sonny's employs successful three-generation business model

SONNY'S

under Pete Saterelli, owner of Pizzarelli's.

In 2004 the Claflins said it was time to move in their own direction and in May 2005 opened the renovated Sonny's Ironton Market, located at 3619 M-66.

They credit their success at the site, which has housed a number of convenience stores over the years, to the three-generation established family model they've followed.

"We didn't have to reinvent the wheel. We took what we knew works and made it fit," Lisa said.

Matt added that the model that has sustained their business is built on personal customer service.

Aside from homemade pizza, the store offers hot lunch and dinner entrees ranging in price from $5 to $6, soup and chili, deli sandwiches featuring Boar's Head meats and cheeses, a fresh cut meat market, deli platters and a full selection of beer, wine and liquor. They also accept special meat and wine orders.

Coming additions to the store include an expanded baked goods section, a produce section, made-to-order sandwiches and delivery to the public boat launch off Fifth Street in Ironton.

The store is open from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Friday and Saturday and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday.

To place an order or for more information about Sonny's Ironton Market, call (231) 547-2444.

Dates set for Rayder baseball camp

The 2007 Rayder Baseball Camp will take place on Saturdays, March 17, 24 and April 14 at Charlevoix High School.

The camp is open to all students, in first through sixth grades.

Camp times are 9 a.m. to noon for first through third graders and noon to 3 p.m. for fourth through sixth graders.

Campers will learn and practice all aspects of the game including pitching, hitting, fielding and base running. Camp counselors will be Charlevoix High School baseball coaches and players. Prizes will be awarded at the end of each session.

Camp cost is $15 with all proceeds benefiting the baseball program. All campers who register by March 10 will receive a camp T-shirt. Registration forms are available at Charlevoix Elementary School, Charlevoix Middle School and at Little League registrations on Feb. 28 and March 5, 8 and 10 at Charlevoix Middle School.

The sessions will take place at Charlevoix High School.

For more information, call coach Allen Telgenhof at (231) 547-7388.

Volleyball to host districts this weekend

Desi Faust had 11 kills and three aces Thursday, Feb. 22 and Charlevoix put the finishing touches on an undefeated Lake Michigan Conference volleyball slate with a 25-19, 25-15, 25-22 victory over Traverse City St. Francis.

The Rayders, an honorable mention pick in the Class C state coaches' poll, conclude their regular season 14-0 in the league and 39-11-1 overall.

They next play Saturday, March 3, when they host a Class C district tournament.

Sasha Spenceley added eight kills and six digs for the Rayders on Thursday, while Ashlie Bradley and Murphy Gillespie added five kills apiece, and Bethany Pearson added four.

Gillespie led Charlevoix's defense with nine digs, while Faust and Zita Anderson added five each, while setter Aubrey Way had 27 assists and three aces.

Charlevoix won the JV match, 25-19, 16-25, 25-12, to finish 21-11-4 overall, 9-5 in the league.

Tammy Potter had 12 kills and six digs for the Rayders, while Shauna Spencely had five kills and five aces, Sarah Potter added 10 digs, and Lauren Mielke had seven digs and four kills.

Rayders roll over Elks and Blazers headed into post-season play

BY ALLEN TELGENHOF
SPORTS WRITER

It was a couple of close shaves for the Charlevoix Rayders but they came through without a nick, clinching a share of the Lake Michigan Conference basketball title with an overtime win at Kalkaska, 78-75 and a tight victory over Elk Rapids, 71-67.

The Rayders had the opportunity to clinch the outright league crown with a win over East Jordan on Tuesday, Feb. 27. Results were unavailable at press time. Charlevoix is 12-1 in the league with Traverse City St. Francis trailing at 11-2.

"Honestly, I have been disappointed with our play lately," coach Keith Haske commented. "We're not playing the way we are capable of playing right now."

"On the other hand, we keep finding ways to win — and we're tremendously happy to at least be conference co-champs and hopefully we take care of business (against East Jordan)," said coach, Keith Haske.

The referees dominated the play in the game against the Elks, whistling 50 fouls which led to 71 free throw attempts. Charlevoix's flow seemed to suffer as a result, and Elk Rapids, with only one conference win this season, nearly pulled off the upset.

Trailing 68-67 with 7.7 seconds left in the game, Elk Rapids had a chance to take the lead but their shot rolled in and out and the Rayders' Justin Friske controlled the rebound and was fouled. He sank both free throws, but the second was waived off due to a lane violation.

Mitch Crandall's two free throws with 3.7 seconds left closed out the scoring.

The Rayders never trailed in the ball game, leading 15-11 at the end of the first quarter and by as many as eight at 27-19 in the second quarter. In the third quarter, the lead bulged to 50-37 with 2:26 left in the period.

The Elks chipped away, cutting the lead to 62-58 on a three-pointer with 3:25 remaining. Then following two missed Charlevoix free throws, Elk Rapids sank two free throws to pull within two, 62-60 with 2:37 left.

With the Elks gaining momentum and utilizing full court pressure, Crandall broke the press and found Justin Friske for a layup to push the lead back to 64-60. Moments later, Elk Rapids cut the lead to 68-67 with 1:09 remaining.

Charlevoix took a time-out and attempted to run out the clock. Elk Rapids stole the ball with 30 seconds left in the game and called time-out to set up their shot to take the lead.

Justin Friske and Mitch Crandall led Charlevoix with 21 points apiece.

"We didn't shoot very well from the perimeter — we were 1 for 12 in three-point shots — but good teams find a way to pull these games out," Haske said. "We've done that five games in a row now and that says a lot."

Against Kalkaska, the Rayders trailed early, down by as many as 11 in the first quarter but rallied for the win.

The Blazers needed a three-pointer at the buzzer to force overtime, but Charlevoix outscored them 7-4 in the extra period for the road win.

Justin Friske had 21 points and 11 rebounds. Darren Munson and Austin Wilhelm scored 12 and 11 points respectively. Ty Haske had 10 points and seven assists.

Following the game against East Jordan, Charlevoix (16-2) takes on Bellaire (18-0, ranked no. 3 in Class D by the Associated Press) in a game played at Mancelona High School on Friday, March 2.

"My hope for the Bellaire game is that maybe after the conference season is over, the guys can stop feeling like they have this pressure to win every game and they can just go and play," Haske said. "I hope we start to play better and shoot the ball better."

District play will take place the following week, also at Mancelona, with the Rayders taking on the host Ironmen on Monday, March 5.

Wolverines win Klondike Derby

On Saturday, Feb. 17, the annual Boy Scout Klondike Derby was held at Craven Park in Bellaire. Charlevoix Cub Scouts of the Wolverine Patrol, Pack 11, braved 20 degree weather and took first place in the Webelos Division for the second year in a row at the derby. Scouts pull a klondike sled loaded with supplies to several stations where they are tested on the skills they have learned, trying to earn as many points as possible throughout the day. Over 130 scouts from five counties participated in the Northern District event. Pictured above are first place winners in the Klondike Derby, Wolverine Patrol, Charlevoix, Pack 11.

0710 IN MEMORIAM

In Loving Memory

"All endings are also beginnings. We just don't know it at the time."
- Mitch Albom from 'the five people you meet in heaven'.

Robin Merten
Jan. 30, 1994

We were devastated when our lives with you ended. It was too soon and seemed so unfair. But both of you loved life and showed us how to live it to the fullest. You were able to smile and reflect on the positive, even through failing. We had no idea what was in store for us. But your courage and inspiration allowed us to move forward, taking your positive attitudes with us. We thank God for the love we shared with you, and we thank you for the divine intervention which led us to the love we now share with each other. We never dreamed our new beginning would be such a blessing.

Topper Carey

ORDER TO ANSWER
At a session of said Court, held at the County Building in the City of Charlevoix, Michigan on the 22nd day of February 22nd, 2007.
PRESIDING: The Honorable
Richard M. Pajtas

On February 20, 2007, an action was filed by the above named Plaintiff, against the above named Defendants, in the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, to quiet title to real property situated in the Township of Marion, County of Charlevoix, Michigan, and more specifically identified as follows:

Township of Marion, County of Charlevoix, State of Michigan, to-wit:

Commencing at a concrete monument on the North line of Section 23, Township 33 North, Range 8 West, 900.7 feet East of the Northwest corner of said Section; Thence South 30°45' East, 133.6 feet to an iron stake; Thence South 23°53' East, 592.57 feet, being the Point of Beginning of this description; Thence continuing South 23°53' East, 48.32 feet to an iron stake; Thence South 66°41' West, 56.35 feet to an iron stake on the shore of West Twin Lake; Thence North 19°39' West, 50 feet to point on said shore; Thence North 68°25' East, 52.69 feet to the Point of Beginning. The above described lot includes all land to the water's edge of West Twin Lake Southwesterly of the course between the points described on said shore and is intended to include all land between said lake and the county road.

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that Defendants JONATHAN EASTERWOOD and LYNETTE EASTERWOOD, and any heirs, successors, assigns, or others claiming thereunder, and any other parties claiming interest shall answer or take such action as may be permitted by law on or before April 20, 2007. Failure to comply with this order will result in a judgment by default against said Defendants for the relief demanded in the complaint.

PLEASE NOTE that a hearing will be held on:

May 11, 2007, at 2:15 p.m.

in the Circuit Courtroom of the Charlevoix County Building in Charlevoix, Michigan, in connection with this matter.

Hawaiian Luau March 4 to benefit Charlevoix County Humane Society

The Charlevoix County Humane Society will host its annual Hawaiian Luau fundraiser from 5 to 9 p.m. Sunday, March 4 at the Charlevoix Yacht Club.

Featured entertainment will be The Boogieman and Soul Shine. Tickets are $30 per person. Hors d'oeuvres, a cash bar and a silent auction will be included.

Proceeds from the event will assist in funding an outdoor cat room.

"Most of the cats coming into our care have been found as strays and are obviously outdoor cats. An outdoor cat room will give them access to the outdoors in a secure environment," stated society kennel manager, Martha Weisler.

Proceeds from the 2006 luau paid for new kennel doors, completion of a play yard for the dogs and helped fund a new coat of paint for the kennels and cat room.

Tickets are available at the Charlevoix County Humane Society located at 614 Beardsley St. in Boyne City.

Call the Charlevoix County Humane Society at (231) 582-6774 for more information.

Historical society endorses fourth grade essay contest

Michigan students in fourth grade are eligible to compete in the second annual "Our Historic Places" essay contest sponsored by the Michigan Historic Preservation Network.

Essays must describe one historic site, at least 50 years old, located in the student's community. This may be an historic home, commercial building, school, house of worship, farm, cemetery, bridge or other site.

The essays must briefly describe the historic site, explain its significance to the local community and discuss the importance of its preservation for both the student and future generations.

Entries are limited to 500 words.

The essay contest deadline is March 2. Winning essays will be announced at the Michigan Historic Preservation Network's conference in early May at the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island.

Visit www.mhpn.org for complete rules and entry forms.

The Charlevoix Historical Society urges all fourth-grade students to enter this essay contest.

WORD on the street

Charlevoixans voice their opinions ... How would you feel about a statewide smoking ban at most businesses?

Patty Pleak (Smoker)

"For the most part I think it would be fine except for bars and restaurants."

John Vandenbrook (Smoker)

"I'm against it and I say they'll lose businesses because of it."

Gerry Sciacca (Nonsmoker)

"I think that especially because of tourism the community can't ban smoking from restaurants and bars.

Will Wildman (Nonsmoker)

"I'm for it except in bars and restaurants, but everywhere else would be a good idea."

Businesses debate benefits, pitfalls of smoking ban

SMOKE

chief of staff, Andrea Cascarilla. "There have been conversations on it and it's gone to economic development committee (chaired by Senator Alan Sanborn). Sanborn has talked about having a vote as early as this summer."

One of the pieces of proposed legislation would make Michigan, already one of 44 states with counties and cities to pass smoking bans, one of at least 16 states with state-wide bans in most businesses — restaurants and bars included.

"(Legislators) feel the time is coming for this legislation, but the major issue (right now) is not only the current budget but trying to set next year's budget as well," Cascarilla said. "There is a continuing dialogue and they are pushing to get a hearing and a vote."

Basham, who has been an advocate of smoke free workplaces for nearly a decade stated in a Jan. 30 press release, "Whether they're bartenders and mechanics or accountants and contractors, people shouldn't be put at risk by being exposed to secondhand smoke at the workplace.

While SB 109 would prohibit smoking in all businesses except certain businesses wherein the owner/operator lives, SB 110 and HB 4163, a similar piece of legislation, would outlaw smoking in most businesses except bars, restaurants and certain businesses wherein the owner/operator resides.

Molly Cotant, family and community health supervisor for the Health Department of Northwest Michigan, said her agency supports the proposed legislation.

"Secondhand smoke contains over 4,000 chemical compounds and is a class-a carcinogen," Cotant said. "According to the Surgeon General's 2006 report on secondhand smoke, there is no acceptable level of exposure and no amount of ventilation is adequate."

File photo

Local business owners weigh the health benefits against a possible revenue loss in discussions about a proposed state-wide smoking ban that would prohibit smoking in businesses, including bars and restaurants.

HB 4163 defines public places as, "An enclosed, indoor area owned or operated by a state or local governmental agency and used by the general public."

HB 4163 would also prohibit smoking in any indoor area not owned/operated by the state or is used by the general public including: Educational facilities, homes for the aged, county medical care facility, auditoriums, arenas, theaters, museums or concert halls.

Under the proposed law, local health departments could, "Deny, suspend, limit or revoke a license issued under the Food Law of 2000," and issue fines from $100 for first and $500 for second and subsequent offense.

Aaron Moffat, owner of Giuseppe's, bans smoking in his restaurant, but allows smoking in the bar and feels a ban on smoking in bars would be bad.

"In my situation, where I have both, (bar and restaurant) I would like to see them allow (smoking) in the bar and not in the dining room," Moffat said. "The people that go to the bar smoke, that's just a fact of life," he said. "People that drink normally smoke."

Whether the state should impose a ban, Moffat said, "Everybody has their own opinion, I think everybody should be able to choose on their own."

John Fiedorek, owner of The Flight Deck and Paul Bunyan Lanes located off U.S. 31, allows smoking in his bar and bowling alley, but wouldn't fight a ban.

As much as 60 percent of Fiedorek's customers may be smokers — a decrease from 80-90 percent just 15 or 20 years ago.

"I can remember being a kid out here before there were any good smoke removing instruments and you'd have a blue cloud," he said.

Fiedorek doesn't think he would lose 60 percent of his business if the ban was imposed.

"Initially, I think you'll see a downturn in business...but I think that would be short-term," he said. "I also think you will find some establishments setting up outdoor areas because obviously everybody doesn't just quit smoking. You have to adapt and make (your business) accessible for your customers."

Some local businesses aren't waiting for the state to impose restrictions on smoking.

Sherry Bender, owner of the Flap Jack Shack family restaurant, noticed people waiting in line rather than taking a table in the smoking section.

"We tried going nonsmoking for about three weeks and people began talking about how much they appreciated it and how thoughtful it was that we did it," she said. "We don't have that many smokers, and the people that are smokers still come — we did not lose them."

Bender added, "There has been an increase (in business), especially on Sundays, of families that would not come in here because we (allowed) smoking."

While a statewide smoking ban wouldn't affect Bender's eatery, she is worried for local tavern owners.

"I guess the ones I'm concerned about is the people that own bars," she said. "Those are the people you would think it would hurt."

Jail employees: 'Air quality is unacceptable'

Commission commits $30,000 to cleanup

Jail administrator Babbette Meggison holds up pictures of soiled vents taken at the Charlevoix County Jail she said are a health concern for inmates and employees

Amid allegations of a cover-up, the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners recently voted unanimously to hire two companies to clean the Charlevoix County Jail's HVAC system and building for nearly $30,000.

Maintenance head, Tom Meggison and jail administrator, Babbette Meggison, who were two of more than 20 people, most of whom were employees of the Charlevoix County Jail, in attendance at the Feb. 28 board meeting. They demanded to know how much longer they would be subjected to what some consider to be a filthy ventilation system.

"This problem's been going on since...2001 when I wrote a letter that (we've) got an air quality problem and sick people," said Tom Meggison. "I have a bunch of letters...from people that have been sick in the past and it's getting worse and worse. It's not just dust in the air ducts, there's mold, there's a lack of, for a better term, controls of heating units on the roof."

School board members are looking into the viability of using the nearly 3.8 acres of land located at 1021 May St. whereon the bus barn currently resides for the Charlevoix Public Schools administration site.

Bus garage property leads central office relocation talk

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

With the 109 Clinton St. property no longer an option for use as a school administration site, Charlevoix Public Schools officials are working on an alternate plan.

Nearly a month after rescinding a $300,000 offer originally made in the fall of 2006 to purchase the old library property, school board members are looking into the viability of using the nearly 3.8 acres of land located at 1021 May St. whereon the bus barn currently resides.

"Once the library deal kind of fell apart, it really allowed us to move on and look for other options," said Bill Truhilowicz, school board president. "Those options are...we could buy another building somewhere else, we could use some of our existing open land and essentially put up a new building or we could do some reworking of our existing facilities."

He added, "We had a meeting (recently) of our building and grounds committee to determine the probable course of action and our leading candidate right now is probably the bus barn."

The bus barn and property, which act as a holding pen and maintenance garage for busses.

Jarema counters conflict allegations in jail air debacle

JAIL

only getting worse around the jail.

"This has taken six years now and nothing has been done," Babbette Meggison said. "The staff at the jail feel like they're being blown off, that there's a cover-up. Nobody wants to admit that there's a problem at the jail (and) that it's just nuisance dust."

District 2 Charlevoix County Commissioner Chris Christensen said he resented the accusation of a cover-up.

"I'm new to the board and we've inherited this problem" he said. "Quite frankly, if there's any kind of a conspiracy, I feel like it's coming from the other end. You guys have had all this independent testing done, you've brought in individual representation."

Babbette Meggison then showed papers which state dust and mold causes permanent lung damage and showed photos of the jail's ductwork filled with dust and other debris.

Sears will clean the ducts for $11,850 and Flood Professionals will clean the walls, carpet and furniture for $17,627.68.

"It's about time they got it cleaned," said Tom Meggison.

But he worries the bigger problem of a malfunctioning HVAC system is being overlooked.

"Those machines should be exchanging air three times an hour and they're not doing it," he said. "My attitude right now is, let's get the ductwork cleaned and work on getting those machines running properly."

Several people at the meeting, including Tom Meggison, questioned whether Charlevoix County prosecuting attorney John Jarema has a conflict of interest in this matter because his former campaign manager, Barb Sheets, is the daughter of the owner of the company which installed the HVAC system, Haggard's Plumbing and Heating and Jarema has no problem with the job the board of commissioners is doing.

"We know it's not the board's fault. We have nothing against the board," Tom Meggison said. "I'm here to help my fellow employees and I think they're getting a rotten deal. This should have been looked at a long time ago."

He added, "We want to work with the board, but that means we're going to have to get John Jarema out of the middle of this."

Jarema said he was offended by allegations he was unable to do his job in holding the allegedly responsible parties accountable for the problem.

"I can take it. I'm trying to fix the problem and if I'm the devil, so be it. But politics shouldn't ever enter into the health and safety of county employees. It's uncalled-for," he said during an interview following the meeting. "These alleged prolbems have been going on since 2001. Nothing was done until I came into office and had it dropped into my lap in May 2006. As civil counsel for the county, I would strongly suggest to (county) employees that they get their facts straight before they start assigning fault to companies."

He added, "I have found nothing that says anything was installed improperly."

Some of the county commissioners wondered if part of the problem was improper usage of the system by the maintenance department.

"There have been a number of recommendations that have been handed down (from the board to the jail maintenance department) and we have established that some of them haven't been put in place," Christensen said. "So again, who's at fault, the system or the people that are operating it?"

Christensen asked if the maintenance department was contributing to the existing problem.

"You acknowledged that you have not had the vents cleaned because you weren't sure what (was on them)," he said. "(You) were holding on to them to let them accumulate in the event we had to do more testing, which is conspiratorial in its own right because your job is to clean them."

He added, "I think you're contributing. Intentionally? I do not believe that."

Tom Meggison said he felt like the maintenance department was being blamed for problems which began at the jail in 2001.

In the end, Jarema said, the county may not have the system they want and need, but it is the system they bought and paid for.

"If the units on the (roof) are not adequate size and need to be replaced, we'll replace them," Jarema said. "That's on the county guys, that's not forcing them (Haggard's) to replace them because those are the specs that we bargained for. It may be wrong, but that's what we got."

OPINIONS yours & ours

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

Beware of 'The greater good' trade-off

THE CRYING TOWEL

Benjamin Gohs

Michigan legislators may soon vote down the right of business owners to allow smoking in their establishments, but before the diddling despots uncork the nonalcoholic champagne in celebration of yet another freedom dragged into the street and shot, I make this desperate cry for help to citizens tired of falling prey to the conniving cowards ever obsessed with asphyxiating liberty.

Don't get me wrong, I wouldn't dream of appealing to those who support past and future smoking bans. After all, those of us OK with trampling the civil rights of their neighbors most likely see themselves as champions of health and safety, instead of what they are: Oppressors.

This country is touted as free, but as long as we're ruled by an oral minority, or so-called moral majority, we will never be a "Sweet land of liberty."

Still think things haven't gone too far? Check out the following:

- Calahasas, Calif. - No smoking anywhere except your home, and not even there if your apartment is adjacent to a pool, backyard or balcony.
- Omaha, Neb. - Citizens urged to call 9-1-1 if they spot someone smoking in a public place.
- Bangor, Maine - No smoking in any car containing children under 18.
- Charlevoix, Mich. - No smoking in any business other than a restaurant or bar.

With laws like these it isn't much of a stretch to think smoking will soon be outlawed outright.

Proponents of the ban say smoking is deadly and smoking by the uninsured costs taxpayers money. For safety's sake, they claim, your life is not your own.

I hear some of you saying, "But Gohs, why should tobacco use be any less regulated than every other freedom you are denied?"

True, the FCC controls TV and radio. New York banned trans fats. We're extorted into buying auto insurance and wearing seat belts. Your daughters must now be guinea pigs for the latest snake oil—AKA the HPV vaccine—or face being barred from school as could soon be the law in some states. Now, if you allow smoking in a business you own, you'll pay fines and may even have your license revoked.

This country is run by small but well funded groups of nitpicking pansies—can we really blame the classroom snitches and hall monitors of old for seeking revenge for receiving one too many wedgies during their formative years?

Obviously no one has the right to directly harm another, therefore we should ban smoking in any building, park, beach or common area paid for by tax dollars, but allow tobacco use in all privately owned businesses as long as the fact is advertised conspicuously at the building entrance. We don't need an asthmatic accidentally walking into a cloud of blue smoke.

Citizens of a capitalist society certainly have a right to choose whether or not they enter a pub, waffle house or hardware store. They don't have a right to dictate how those shops are operated.

Concerned about nonsmokers working in smoke filled environments? You should know a Michigan business owner recently fired several employees for smoking off the job. If fair is fair, then owners of smoky taverns should only hire smoking waitresses or nonsmokers who sign a waiver of liability. But, reason dictates most businesses which don't serve food or booze won't allow smoking.

In the end, we get the governance we deserve. Unfortunately for my generation, a movement began long before we were born to outlaw the God-given rights of free will and personal choice.

As grueling as the task may be, it is our burden to take back our liberty, for without it, the pursuit of happiness will be forever fruitless.

Tell your representatives there are no small freedoms. Tell them, "For the greater good" is merely a way of justifying tyranny. Tell them that putting control of your body, property and expression up to a vote may be democracy, but it certainly isn't liberty.

You can outlaw sex, drugs and rock-n-roll, but no amount of jogging, oat bran or state mandated medications will ever change this fact—we're all going to die—at least allow us to do so with dignity as we see fit.

Tune in between 10 a.m. and noon on Thursday, March 8 to the Vic McCarty Show on WMKT 1270 AM to hear a discussion of this topic between McCarty, Gohs and angry callers from around northern Michigan. You can also hear the radio broadcast live on the web at www.wmkt-thetalkstation.com by clicking on the "Listen Now" button.

ADDRESS NURSING SHORTAGE NOW

Editor:

Health care is one of the few sectors creating new jobs in Michigan. Yet health care employers are struggling to fill more than 2,500 open nursing positions, a shortage that will, according to the Michigan Center for Nursing, top 8,000 by 2010 and 16,000 by 2015 if not addressed. Nurses are important caregivers at Charlevoix Area Hospital. As northern Michigan's population continues to age, future demand for more nurses will increase dramatically.

The state's nursing shortage is largely due to two factors: A lack of faculty at the state's nursing colleges and a lack of clinical space in which to train students.

Gov. Jennifer Granholm's proposed 2008 budget would fund 500 additional nurse educators who will provide the capacity to train 3,000 new nurses over three years. Without these new nurses, Michigan's ability to ensure accessible, affordable health care services will be seriously compromised.

Nurse recruitment remains a top priority for every Michigan hospital. We urge the legislature to approve the governor's proposal to fill these critical health care jobs and to train a new generation of Michigan nurses.

NORWOOD PLANNERS IGNORE ORDINANCE

Editor:

The article which appears on pages 11 and 12 of our February 21, 2007 issue (entitled "Norwood condo plan passes planning commission") is both true and untrue. (Courier staff writer) Benjamin Gohs was not at the meeting so his information came from (Norwood Township Planning Commission chairman) Mr. (Tom) Mielke. We know this to be true because Mr. Mielke proudly told us all at the Norwood Township Board meeting on Feb. 19 that he had spent a great deal of time interviewing with "the press" regarding the meeting and therefore he deserves a big salary increase to cover the time he has to spend doing interviews, etc. If Mr. Gohs had been at the meeting it would have saved the taxpayers of Norwood Township some money, and would perhaps have led him to a more correct article.

It's interesting that the two board members who were absent were considered people who should be interviewed regarding a meeting where they were not present. Regarding (Norwood Township Planning Commission vice-chairman) Mr. (Jerry) Straub though it isn't made clear in the article that Mr. Straub was chair of the planning commission in 2005 when the plan was first proposed in 2005 and was defeated unanimously because (Norwood Estates developer) Mr. (Wayne) Boss did not have all of his required permits. In 2007 he (Boss) again appeared before the planning commission without all of the required permits and was given an approval with conditions.

Our ordinance requires that all permits be available for scrutiny by the planning commission before the proposal is heard. What has changed here besides the members of the planning commission? Though Mr. Mielke says they were following the law, they did not follow the zoning which requires low density single family dwellings in RR1. Also, if Mr. Boss applied for a site condominium use for a 19-unit development, why is he given permission to do per lot permits. Aren't those things contradictory?

Norwood citizens need to be wary of the trend to ignore the provisions of the ordinance.

Marion Shea-Light
Secretary
Norwood Township Citizens for Health and Safety.

FINES FOR SWIMMERS OVERDUE

Editor:

I read your article regarding channel swimmers to pay fine (page 1, Feb. 28 edition entitled "Council: 'You swim, you pay'"). I am so happy to see that finally something may be done about this awful past-time.

My husband and I own a condo on Lake Michigan and have a clear view of what is happening every summer on the pier. The pier jumpers have been getting bolder. They now wait until a boat approaches, jump in front of it and swim to the other side. So now both piers are being utilized. I was so shocked to see this last summer, and it just continued all summer with no one stopping them. I have seen boaters yelling at them and I think it is just awful that these idiots are putting a boater, who has the right to be in the channel, at risk of hitting a jumper. This is just insane that the city has let this go on for the last five years. With all the complaining of no jobs, there is a job you can create right there — a big bouncer to enforce the rules. And another thing, the quote from (Charlevoix police chief) Mr. (Gerard) Doan who stated that "an ordinance won't put an end to the problem because we still have people breaking the speed limit with speed laws," geez, what a dumb thing to say, this ordinance is very controllable, just pay someone and put that someone on duty.

GOHS NEEDS A TASTE OF THE ISLAND

Editor:

My goodness Ben Gohs' Feb. 28 white tail column was hilarious (published on page 4, entitled "Misadventures of Gohs, friend and white tail"). "Rethink the shortcut through the petting zoo," indeed. Now stand by for the onslaught from the PETA folks.

A few years ago a great story about the annual St. Patrick's Day games on Beaver Island was picked up by Associated Press and went national. Several concerned people wrote to complain about how we were "tormenting the poor fish." They made an assumption. We had to write several nice letters explaining that the large trout was "put to sleep" by our island veterinarian before being frozen solid for the fish tossing event.

Please consider sending your most talented Mr. Gohs to Beaver Island for St. Patrick's Day Saturday, March 17. I promise he will get enough material for several columns. The games start a little after noon, island time. It's best to fly over Friday afternoon. Don't plan a Sunday departure too early.

In addition to the fish tossing contest the shopping cart race and fish stomp are also popular. Rumors of dwarf tossing and excessive adult beverage consumption are simply not true. Best wishes from America's Emerald Isle.

Executive director
Beaver Island Chamber of Commerce

Charlevoix team takes home Quiz Bowl crown

A quiz bowl team from Charlevoix High School took top honors Friday, Feb. 23 in Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District's third quiz tournament of 2006-07, which was hosted by North Central Michigan College.

"The finish was incredible, with two undefeated teams going head-to-head in the championship round," said Barry Cole, quiz bowl coordinator for Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District. "The match wasn't decided until the last question with the Charlevoix A team just squeaking by the Petoskey A team 215 to 210."

This was the first year of competition for Charlevoix, the newest member of the league.

Charlevoix is coached by Bryan Hawkins. The league was started by Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District in 2000 to bring academic teams together for friendly competition.

Six schools attended the event, with all of the schools entering teams in two divisions. Each team played the five others in their division. After five rounds, records were compared and the top two teams in each division played a semifinal round for first through fourth place.

The third and fourth teams in each division then played for places five through eight and so forth.

Two more Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District tournaments are set for March 16 and April 13, with top teams advancing to a state championship April 20-21 at Michigan State University.

For more information, contact Cole at (231) 347-0656.

Girl Scouts earn and learn through annual cookie sale ending March 11

Girl Scout cookie sales are going on now. Pictured here are Charlevoix Girl Scout troop members and leaders (front, from left) Rachel Nesburg, Beth Gower, Hannah Ochs, Lauren House, Madison Olach, Natalie Nesburg, (back, from left) Julia Sape, Gracie Ochs, Olivia Jeakle and Alexandria Snabes. Haley Campbell is missing from the picture.

As part of its community service, local Brownie Troop #253 recently made Valentine's Day cards which were donated to Charlevoix Area Hospital. While the girls do many projects to earn their "try-it" patches, many of their activities focus on community service. The troop, which operates under the direction of leader Maura Snabes, and co-leaders Carol Ochs and Hope House, is currently recycling cans and bottles and the money raised will be donated to a local charity of the girls' choosing.

The Girl Scouts will also be selling cookies until March 11. The cookie sale is the Girl Scouts largest fundraiser and teaches scouts valuable life skills and business literacy. Through the sale they practice skills such as money handling, budgeting and planning and learn the importance of knowing their product and servicing customers with a friendly smile.

Girl Scouts also get an appreciation for others with the Gift of Caring program.

Through Gift of Caring, girls have the opportunity to help less fortunate members of the community or show appreciation for public service employees. Each year, individual troops select a local non-profit organization to receive donated boxes of cookies. This year, some of the donations will be going to BASES, the Women's Resource Center Safe House and Humane Society Volunteers.

There are eight varieties of cookies to choose from including Samoas, Trefoils, Thin Mints, Tagalongs, Dosidos, All Abouts, Café Cookies and the all-new Little Brownie. All varieties are $3 per box.

For more information about the cookie sale, call the Charlevoix Community Cookie Chair, Stephanie Brown, at (231) 547-9887.

Those with ideas for community service projects for any Girl Scout troop, are asked to contact Maura Snabes at (231) 547-5220.

Blueprint maps the path for Charlevoix's success

Blueprint suggestions:
DDA to continue its leadership
Broaden use of downtown
Create a sign system to direct guests to services and attractions
Encourage pedestrian traffic to ease traffic congestion

BY LOUIS NELLE
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW
STAFF WRITER

Charlevoix residents received the Cool Cities downtown blueprint Feb. 26 which addressed residents' main concerns including leadership, diversity, portraying a friendly atmosphere, traffic and parking among others.

Presenting Charlevoix's downtown blueprint was Doyle Hyett, chairman and co-owner of HyettPalma, a consulting firm which specializes in enhancing downtown districts.

"For the next five years, the state of Michigan will be working with you to implement this blueprint," Hyett said. "You can't have a first class town without a first class downtown."

To create a first class downtown, Hyett said the Downtown Development Authority should continue its leadership to enhance the downtown by targeting aggressive business development.

In order to create a diverse downtown, Hyett said the city should broaden the downtown's uses by clustering "impulse-oriented businesses" on Bridge Street and by using more outdoor seating for dining.

Types of services to concentrate on Bridge Street include retail, food, art and entertainment. To maintain stores' locations, Hyett said the city should continue to prevent office businesses from operating in street level spaces on Bridge Street. Rather, these businesses should remain on side streets or on the upper floors of buildings.

By concentrating services, Hyett said each type of business will be located where it will most benefit the community.

"There's an appropriate place for virtually everything in this downtown," said Hyett. "And everything should be in its appropriate place, which is what clustering is all about."

Dining also plays a major role. Hyett said outdoor seating generates a lot of money.

"You need to have the maximum amount of outdoor seating … including your sidewalks, including your rooftops, including your decks," said Hyett.

To encourage outdoor seating, Hyett said the city should allow tables and chairs in the public right-of-way and allow restaurants to serve alcohol with food at outdoor tables.

Aside from creating a diverse downtown, Hyett said the city should stress the downtown's valuable resources and portray the area as welcoming so guests can enjoy Charlevoix's attractions.

Hyett said the city can accomplish this in several ways. First, Charlevoix should design a sign system to direct tourists throughout the downtown area.

"The wayfinding system should include signs leading to public parking, you need to lead people to public restrooms and you need to sign East Park as East Park," said Hyett.

By attracting more people to the area, though, traffic and parking will become even worse. Hyett suggested improving hiking and biking paths to support pedestrian traffic and ease vehicle congestion.

To further encourage pedestrian traffic, Hyett said the city could improve pedestrian safety on the bridge by installing a railing at the curb line to direct pedestrians away from the traffic. The city could also create a wider walkway on the bridge to increase the space between people and vehicles.

Keith Carey leading candidate in authority's search for coordinator

BY LOUISE NELLE
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW
STAFF WRITER

After receiving the Charlevoix Cool Cities downtown blueprint from HyettPalma on Monday, Charlevoix's Downtown Development Authority discussed hiring a downtown coordinator to help implement the blueprint and coordinate activities.

In order to implement any changes, authority members said Charlevoix needs an individual to coordinate downtown activities, to act as a mediator between businesses and city government and to explore funding opportunities.

Keith Carey

Downtown Development Authority officials are looking at Cool Cities coordinator Keith Carey as the best candidate based on his performance throughout the Cool Cities project.

Carey's contract which was approved in November 2006 is for $3,500 a month for three to six months and will expire at the end of March. At that time the authority members have said they would like Carey to continue working for the city as the downtown coordinator.

On Feb. 28, the Downtown Development Authority unanimously voted in favor of Carey. Authority members Norman Carlson Jr., Fred DiMartino and Kirhy Dipert will negotiate a new contract with Carey and bring it back to the board for approval at the next regular meeting.

At the recent meeting, authority members also revisited HyettPalma's suggestion to remove parking meters from Bridge Street to create a more customer-friendly downtown. Authority

Peaine voters reject road millage, again

Road millage proposal fails in 68-32 vote

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

Peaine Township voters have spoken again.

On Feb. 27, 68 percent of registered voters who cast a ballot in the Beaver Island township voted down a six-year, 1-mill road maintenance millage. The final vote was 68 against the millage and 32 in support of it.

"It was pretty clear — 100 voters is a grand turnout this time of year on Beaver Island," said Peaine Township supervisor, John W. Works Jr.

The same millage request was turned down by a 60 to 45 vote in August 2006. According to Works, the township won't be back any time soon to ask for more road millage money.

"This is twice now, no (we won't pursue another millage request). I'm disappointed but the people spoke. I felt pretty beat up after it. I tried," Works said.

Prior to the election, Works said he made about 75 phone calls to township residents to make sure they understood the request and planned to vote. But he said his efforts were thwarted hy a resident group opposed to the millage.

"There's a couple people who started calling people telling them to vote 'No.' They derailed the thing. They convinced the people that we didn't have a plan, saying we weren't clear," Works said.

However, Works feels the message that funding is short for dust control and gravel was clear. And now the only thing left unclear will be the roads where he said dust plumes could be a problem this summer.

"The cost of gravel and dust control will go up this year. So basically we'll do what we can. If it rains once a week, dust won't he a problem," he said.

But if drought conditions that have plagued the island over the past three years return for round four, Works said residents and visitors will feel the environmental, health and infrastructure problems that come with it.

He said the dust is an environmental concern in that it coats trees along the roadway, is a health concern for those who breath it and is an infrastructure nightmare.

> "The cost of gravel and dust control will go up this year. So basically, we'll do what we can."
> John W. Works Jr.
> PEAINE TOWNSHIP SUPERVISOR

"Every cloud of dust you go by, that's a pound of the road leaving," he said.

While Works isn't thrilled with the outcome, he said he understands the apprehension of fellow residents who may not want to fork over more tax money.

"Michigan is in a terrible spot right now, especially northern Michigan. It's tough times. As a business owner myself, I'm concerned about the future," he said.

Peaine Township currently levies one mill for road maintenance which assists in upkeep of its over 72 miles of county roads. This five-year millage was renewed 78 to 29 in August 2006. The failed millage would have been in addition to that.

Existing approved millage levies in Peaine Township
- Operational millage 2.3086 mills
- Fire protection .6930 mill
- Transfer station 1.1786 mills
- Roads 1 mill
- Airport .6626 mill

members also insisted on-street parking be strictly reserved for customer use and are considering the firm's suggestion to incorporate multi-purpose buildings into the downtown, to provide sub-level parking in addition to the services provided by the upper floors.

One suggestion which both the Downtown Development Authority and the public strongly support is to put an ice skating rink back into East Park to create more winter activities and boost the downtown.

In the past, a natural ice rink has not fared well in the park.

"If you're going to put an ice skating rink down in the park you're either going to have to have an artificial one that's not real ice or you'll have to refrigerate it," said Downtown Development Authority member and Carlson.

Downtown Development Authority member Dan Barron said it would he wise to wait until the renovation of East Park has been completed before determining the rink's location.

Louise Nelle can be contacted at 439-9339, or lnelle@petoskeynews.com.

What: Charlevoix's Downtown Development Authority considers hiring downtown coordinator.

Who: Frontrunner for the job is Keith Carey.

Who is Carey: A 31-year-old Charlevoix native, who was hired in November 2006 as coordinator of the Cool Cities project.

Carey's Cool Cities contract: The contract approved with Carey for $3,500 a month expires this month.

St. Mary teachers start Angel Scholarship

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

Teachers at St. Mary School have decided to commemorate the school's 100th anniversary by starting a St. Mary's Angel Senior Scholarship for alumni. Alumni in the graduating class of 2007 from local high schools will be eligible to receive a $500 scholarship. Pictured above are St. Mary staff members who contributed to the scholarship. They are (front, from left) Joe Solomon, Renée Golovich-Keie, Leslie Hoffman, Becky Wimmer, Jenny Diebold, Linda Moore, (back, from left) Mindy Joy, Keisha Veryser, Amy Putman, Mary Plude, Laura Stebe and Kathleen Dvoracek. Lori Bolt, Don Neidert and Monica Mailloux are missing from the picture.

Charlevoix High School senior, Brecklind Golovich-Keie is hoping scholarship opportunities will offset her costs to attend college.

Brecklind has been accepted at private colleges including Lake Forest College in Illinois and Albion and Aquinas, two Michigan schools.

She's leaning toward Lake Forest where annual tuition for the 2007-2008 school year is expected to reach over $30,000.

While she's been awarded a scholarship from Lake Forest, an institution that symbolizes her scholastic future, she's also applying for a scholarship from the Charlevoix school where she started her academic journey — St. Mary School.

"St. Mary gave me a good foundation for my morals and values. Those will be with me throughout my life. All the teachers taught me to work hard," said Brecklind who carries a 3.7 grade point average.

Graduates of the class of 2007 from local schools who attended St. Mary School from Kindergarten through sixth-grade will be the first group eligible for the St. Mary's Angel Senior Scholarship.

Brecklind's mother, Renée Golovich-Keie, who is the Kindergarten teacher at St. Mary School, established the scholarship in conjunction with her fellow teachers at the school and St. Mary Church parish employees.

"I've been in education for 26 years and have seen so many students graduate," Renée said. "We believe in these kids even when they're gone. Their education is important to us. It's about ongoing education and supporting youth."

The $500 scholarship at this time is composed entirely from donations from 15 school and parish staff.

"If everyone gives a little something it turns into a whole lot," Renée said.

Aside from attending St. Mary School, eligibility also requires applicants to pursue a two or four-year program at a college, university or trade/technical program.

To apply, eligible candidates must submit an essay of no more than 250 words on how their experience at St. Mary School impacted their lives.

The essays will be reviewed and the winner determined by a panel consisting of teachers, St. Mary School principal Keisha Veryser and Anne Kelly, a parishioner and former St. Mary School teacher.

The deadline for submissions is April 1. Applications are available from 8 a.m. to 3:35 p.m. Monday through Friday at the school.

The winner will be announced on May 1.

St. Mary School currently offers a preschool through sixth-grade program in which 76 students are enrolled.

For more information about the scholarship or to donate, contact St. Mary School at (231) 547-9441.

Community input sought for superintendent search

Charlevoix-Emmet ISD to host March 8 public forum

Jim Cooper

Area residents will have an opportunity to help Charlevoix Public Schools Board of Education members identify the characteristics they want in a superintendent during a community forum from 7-8 p.m. Thursday, March 8, in the Charlevoix High School Auditorium.

Interim superintendent Jim Cooper announced earlier this month he is leaving the district on June 30. The school board has asked Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District (Char-Em ISD) to assist in the search.

As part of the search process, the ISD will host a series of forums to gather input from the community and school personnel on what they want to see in a superintendent.

At the forum, Char-Em ISD Superintendent Mark Eckhardt will go over the tentative time frame to fill the position by July 1.

High school offers catering to save food service program

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

The Charlevoix High School culinary department is now offering catering in the area.

Started last month as a means to help keep the culinary department solvent, head cook and 14-year veteran of the high school's kitchen, Lori Brown, said she and her staff of six have catered several events.

"This program helps the culinary funding because (school officials) are looking at privatizing," Brown said. "We'd like it where the culinary department runs the culinary department and we're trying to keep away from school funding."

She added, "We're almost there, but we have the high cost of insurance and that kills us."

Charlevoix Public Schools budgeted $15,000 out of their operational fund for the 2006-2007 school year for the food service program.

"What we would do, if they made more than enough to cover the cost of the food service program, is that money would remain in the food service program and we could use it to offset future years' costs," said the school's business manager, Shawn Biddle. "We could use the money to purchase more equipment for the food service program or tables and chairs for the common area."

Biddle said the catering program is the result of a recommendation which came out of last year's financial steering committee. And added Charlevoix schools are not actively looking at privatization.

For those concerned that the school could potentially compete with local caterers, Biddle said, "It's something we're sensitive to as a district. It is not our intention to be taking revenue from local businesses, so we are trying to be sensitive to that and trying to do marketing to our staff and parents."

She added, "We will probably concentrate on high school graduation parties. That will be one of our main focuses."

Brown said her prices are competitive with other local catering companies.

"We're not trying to hurt anybody in town, we're just trying to keep our prices all the same," she said.

While the local economy is a big concern for school officials, Biddle said, "We are also sensitive to the expectation that we are doing everything as a district to generate revenue for the schools."

Owner/operator of Charlevoix Subway and father of two Rayders, Terry Amick, said the school's new business won't affect his catering profit one bit.

"I don't have a problem with it. If they can make some money, that's fine," he said. "It may help teach the kids how to run their own business somewhat."

Brown said she would hate to see the culinary department abolished only to have a fast food company be responsible for feeding students.

"I hate it (fast food in schools). That would be one thing I would put up a picket line in front of the school to stop — Burger King or McDonald's food coming in to the schools is a bad choice and I'm a firm believer in healthy choices," she said. "If you're going to get fat, get it from bread and cheese, not French fries."

Brown said her French fries are made with soy oil, a zero trans fat cooking oil.

"It is way, way healthier with zero trans fat in it. It's almost like taking a French fry and baking it instead of frying it," she said.

Another downside to privatization, Brown said, is that the kids are already familiar with the culinary staff.

"You wouldn't know how safe the food is and people that are hired with a privatized company don't have background checks and we do," she said. "And, we love the kids."

While one of the major reasons for the new catering service is monetary, Brown is pleased to offer some real life work experience for the couple of high school students she has working in her department.

"Our main goal will be to show the kids how to serve properly, how to sanitize properly," she said. "I think they'd get a lot of learning out of this. They will learn the classy way of doing things and the right way of doing things."

While it is not a teaching class per se, students working in the culinary department receive a half credit for their effort.

Brown's caterers will serve food within most of Charlevoix County.

"We have nice sandwiches and fruit and veggie trays and even dinners from chicken Kiev and chicken salad croissants to prime rib," she said. "We're trying to stay away from weddings and bigger events, but we could do... a couple hundred (people)."

Anyone interested in hiring Brown and company can call her at (231) 547-3222 extension 2030 or Shawn Biddle, Charlevoix Public Schools business manager at 547-3200.

"I'm totally excited about it," Brown said. "I love doing this kind of stuff."

She added, "Getting it going is the hard part, but because we all love to cook, it will be fun."

Menus will be forthcoming at a later date.

Rozema suit against Charlevoix County settled

Former county employee claimed damages over $400,000

BY FRED GRAY
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW STAFF WRITER

Jacqueline Rozema, who was awarded a half-million dollar settlement last May in a suit against Charlevoix County and her one-time employer, former county prosecutor Mary Beth Kur, has settled a second suit against the county for an undisclosed amount.

Last week, Charlevoix County clerk Jane Brannon told the Petoskey News-Review that Rozema's suit for the medical benefits she alleged had been denied her was settled in December of last year.

She said papers confirming the settlement were recently filed with the clerk's office. Brannon told the Petoskey News-Review the settlement could not be disclosed to the public.

In her suit Rozema claimed damages of at least $400,000 for medical benefits she alleged were denied her when she was "constructively discharged" by Kur.

Rozema claimed that prior to resigning, she had been assured that she was entitled to, and would receive, retirement health benefits for herself and her husband for life upon retirement.

She claimed that two days after she and her colleague Sandra Ward were awarded more than $1 million by a Charlevoix County Circuit jury, the county terminated her health benefits.

Rozema claimed the denial of health benefits was a violation of the Michigan Whistleblowers' Protection Act, which was the basis for the suit she and Ward had filed against the county and Kur.

At the time of filing, Brannon said Rozema was not entitled to the health benefits. Brannon said that in order to retain retiree health benefits Rozema would have to draw a pension, but she was not eligible to retire because she did not have enough years of service credit.

In May 2005, a six-member jury found that Kur had "constructively discharged" Rozema and Ward through abusive behavior that created intolerable working conditions in the office.

The verdict came at the end of a seven-day trial of the suits that had earlier been dismissed by Grand Traverse Circuit Judge Thomas Power for lack of merit. Power later allowed the suits to be heard under an amended complaint based on the state's Whistleblowers Act.

Rozema and Ward alleged they were made victims of "serial retaliation" and "workplace violence" by Kur for testifying under subpoena in a Whistleblowers lawsuit brought against Kur and the county by John Jarema after he was fired as chief assistant prosecutor in 2002.

Jarema was subsequently elected Charlevoix County prosecutor.

In the subsequent lawsuit, Rozema stated that the county's personnel committee found that conditions in Kur's office were intolerable for her and others, but refused to ameliorate them.

Rozema stated that after she left her job, she was paid no further salary but her health insurance was continued.

She claimed that even after she left, she was informed in writing that her lifetime health insurance benefits would continue for life if she terminated employment.

On April 15, 2004, Rozema submitted a formal written resignation/early retirement to the county and Kur, informing them she was doing so under protest.

She stated that the May 2005 verdict did not include an award for future health insurance benefits, because they had been voluntarily guaranteed by the county to continue for life.

Subsequently, Rozema's attorney negotiated a settlement agreement with the county and the prosecuting attorney that expressly included a term that her existing health insurance benefits would not be impaired.

According to the lawsuit, two days after the settlement agreement was finalized, the county canceled Rozema's lifetime health insurance benefits, and she and her husband were required to pay about $1,000 a month for the health benefits she had received, without payment by her or her husband, up to and including the date of settlement.

Rozema claimed that over the course of their lives, the cost of medical insurance for her and her husband would exceed $300,000, and sued for an additional $100,000.

Mary Faculak (pictured fourth from left) stands with other local conservationists at the dedication of the protection of her 232-acre Lakeview Ranch along U.S. 31 in Charlevoix County. A conservation easement permanently protects the scenic views and farmland heritage of her private land.

A year's worth of conservation work by the Little Traverse Conservancy resulted in the completion of 24 land protection projects that placed 3,475 acres of land into permanent protection either as nature preserves or with conservation easements.

The protected land includes nearly nine miles of lake, river or stream shoreline throughout the organization's five-county service area. In addition, the organization continued its year-round environmental education programs, managed its more than 175 nature preserves and monitored 153 conservation easements on privately owned properties.

The following are some of the 2006 Charlevoix County land protection highlights:

- The protection of 456 acres of Charlevoix County land along U.S. 31 through the purchase of development rights and the donation of a conservation easement.
- The creation of the 40-acre Jordan River Nature Preserve thanks to successful fundraising effort that included local businesses and a coalition of conservation organizations.
- The creation of a new 40-acre preserve on Horton Creek thanks to funds donated for the purchase and a bargain sale by the landowners.
- The acquisition of the former Coast Guard Life Saving Station on Beaver Island for the Central Michigan University Biological Station, a property which includes 400 feet of Lake Michigan shoreline.

Garden Club membership drive

(Above) Charlevoix Evening Garden Club Officers from right to left, president Kathy Hartmann, treasurer Karen Joy, secretary Cyndi Urban and vice-president Robin Pearson. Charlevoix Evening Garden Club is holding a membership drive from 7-9 p.m. on Tuesday, March 13 at Charlevoix Public Library. The club meets the second Tuesday of every month to enjoy guest lectures and field trips on a variety of topics including herbal teas, pest control, garden tool care, holiday crafts and of course gardening. Members maintain the gardens at the three "Welcome to Charlevoix" signs and assist with maintenance of the Depot Heritage Garden. In addition, they participate in community projects like the annual petunia planting, junior master gardener classes and the construction of the water garden at the new library.

Assembly of God hosts 'Date with Destiny' retreat

Charlevoix Assembly of God Women's Ministries is hosting a day retreat for women from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, March 24 with registration beginning at 8:30 a.m.

The church is located at 05291 M–66 North, near Castle Farms. "Date With Destiny" features keynote speaker Deborah P. Bayard from Grand Rapids, three keynote sessions, praise and worship, prayer, luncheon, personal testimonies, communion, special music and drama and the opportunity for fun and friendship.

Bayard is an anointed speaker, teacher and worship leader. She is involved in music ministry, women's ministry, prayer ministry and serves as a lay mentor and counselor at First Touch Ministry as part of Grand Rapids First Assembly.

The cost for the retreat is $20 per person, which includes lunch. Register by March 18 by calling Ginger Stevens at the church office at (231) 547-6430.

Checks may be made payable to Charlevoix Assembly of God and sent to the church at P.O. Box 527, Charlevoix, MI 49720. Designate "Women's Retreat" in the memo line.

County Democrats to meet March 8 in East Jordan

The Charlevoix County Democrats will meet at 7 p.m. on Thursday, March 8 at the East Jordan Senior Center, located at 110 Main St.

The program will include a report on the State Convention in Detroit and a discussion of the Voter Activation Network Program in preparation for the 2008 elections.

Anyone who would like to meet at the Jordan Inn for dinner at 5:30 p.m. before the meeting should contact the Jordan Inn at (231) 536-9906.

Hospice offers four-week Infant Loss Support Group

Hospice of Little Traverse Bay is offering a four-week Pregnancy and Infant Loss Support Group for those who have lost an infant through miscarriage, stillbirth or in the early months of life.

The sessions, which are part of Hospice of Little Traverse Bay's Safe Crossings Program, will meet from 6–8 p.m. beginning on March 13 for four consecutive Tuesdays at the Community Health Education Center, located at 360 Connable Avenue, across the parking lot from Northern Michigan Hospital's main entrance in Petoskey. The sessions will provide a safe and supportive environment for families grieving the loss of a baby.

Services provided through the Pregnancy and Infant Loss Support Group include telephone counseling and support, short-term counseling for individuals and/or the family, library books and other supportive materials, support mailings, newsletters and volunteer-parent mentors who have experienced similar losses.

"A pregnancy or infant loss can leave families with overwhelming emotions such as shock, guilt, anger or sadness," said Pam MacQuaig, Pregnancy and Infant Loss Support coordinator. "This program was formed to offer hope, comfort and support for families facing such a loss."

To register or for more information, call Hospice of Little Traverse Bay at (231) 487-4825 or visit hospiceltb.org.

AAA urges parents to 'Keep the Keys'

In light of new research that was recently released, AAA has issued a challenge to parents to "keep the keys" from their teen driver until a Parent-Teen Agreement is signed. AAA also challenged state legislators across the country to enact laws to strengthen existing graduated driver licensing (GDL) systems currently in place.

The research, "Nationwide Review of Graduated Driver Licensing," funded by the AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety, shows that states that have graduated driver licensing systems with five out of seven components included in the study saw a 38 percent decrease in fatal crashes involving 16-year-old drivers. For injury crashes involving 16-year-old drivers, the decrease was 40 percent.

Traffic crashes are the number one cause of death for teens in the United States, killing more than 4,800 teens in 2005, according to NHTSA.

"Through this study, we have seen that the enactment of laws is key to improving teen driver safety," said Robert L. Darbelnet, AAA president and CEO, at a recent news conference in Washington. "So, today I am challenging legislators throughout the country to strengthen the GDL systems in their states to include the components that this study shows make a substantial difference in saving teen lives and reducing injuries."

The seven components of 'Keep the Keys' (shown in the graphic that accompanies this article) were chosen for that research because they were the most common components in graduated driver licensing systems throughout the country. They should not be considered an exhaustive list of safety provisions for teen drivers.

"This research shows we are definitely on the right track," said Darbelnet. "Easing teens into licensure by limiting their exposure to risky situations while they are gaining needed experience behind the wheel, saves lives."

Darbelnet also recognized that parents play an important role in keeping teens safe on the road, and challenged parents to have their teens sign a Parent-Teen Agreement that, "Spells out the rules for earning the privilege of driving, including components that this study shows work so effectively in GDL systems throughout the country."

A sample agreement can be found online at AAA.com/publicaffairs.

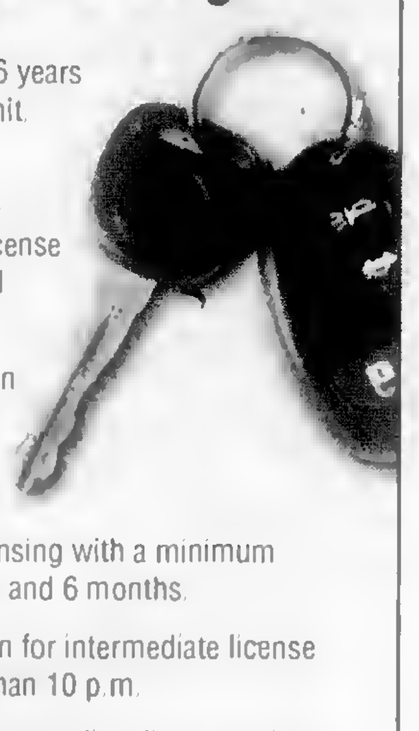
"Regardless of what the law is in their state, parents should set clear driving rules that include limiting night driving, no other teens in the car, and no cell phone use while driving, just to name a few," Darbelnet said.

Darbelnet also encouraged parents to get involved in the legislative process in their states by working to make the licensing requirements better.

"Ask your legislators to institute a three-stage graduated driver licensing system, to place effective limits on nighttime driving, and to set real limits for teen passengers," said Darbelnet. "It may be inconvenient for a parent to be the chauffeur for a while longer, but when it can save many lives, it's worth it."

Since its founding in 1902, the not-for-profit, fully tax-paying AAA has been a leader and advocate for the safety and security of all travelers. AAA clubs can be visited on the Internet at AAA.com.

The 7 components of 'Keep the Keys':



1. A minimum age of at least 16 years for receiving a learner's permit.
2. A requirement to hold the learner's permit for at least 6 months before receiving a license that allows any unsupervised driving.
3. A requirement for certification of at least 30 hours of supervised driving practice during the learner stage.
4. An intermediate stage of licensing with a minimum entry age of at least 16 years and 6 months.
5. A nighttime driving restriction for intermediate license holders, beginning no later than 10 p.m.
6. A passenger restriction for intermediate license holders, allowing no more than one passenger (except family members).
7. A minimum age of 17 years for full, unrestricted licensure.

These items were chosen for that research because they were the most common components in GDL systems throughout the country. They should not be considered an exhaustive list of safety provisions for teen drivers.

Calling all student prose, poetry writers

Submissions accepted for 5th Annual Young Writers Exposition

The Crooked Tree Arts Center (CTAC), in collaboration with the Petoskey New-Review, will hold the Fifth Annual Young Writers Juried Exposition in conjunction with the Youth Arts Show at Crooked Tree mid-March through April 14.

Works by students within the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District are eligible to enter.

Young writers' works of both poetry and prose will be judged in elementary school, middle school and high school divisions.

The winning pieces in each school division in both poetry and prose will be published in the Petoskey News-Review on Friday, April 13. Awards in each of the categories will be presented at a reception at the arts center from 2-4 p.m. on Saturday, April 14. At the reception, winning authors will have an opportunity to read their work publicly.

Students, teachers, family and friends are welcome and light refreshments will be served.

Entries by young writers in the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District will be accepted online only, at www.crookedtree.org from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. March 1-23. Entries must meet the following requirements: All work must be clearly labeled, computer generated and forwarded to Crooked Tree Arts Center by a teacher or principal or home school teacher or parent.

Prose work may be fiction or non-fiction and all poetic forms are acceptable. Works may be entered by accessing the Teacher Connection page on the Crooked Tree Arts Center home page. All prose work is limited to 1,000 words or fewer, while works of poetry are limited to 500 words or fewer.

Complete entry information is available at www.crookedtree.org under the link "Young Writers' Expo 2007."

For more information, contact Mary Wiklanski at the Crooked Tree Arts Center by calling (231) 347-4337.

Friske announces cherry recipe contest winners

Friske's 4th Annual Cherry Recipe Contest culminated a month-long celebration of National Cherry month.

Contestants and their families, friends, guests and staff watched and listened as the panel of judges tasted, commented and selected the winners.

Eleven finalists in two categories, soups and cakes/tortes, prepared their dishes for the judges.

The winners in the soup category are as follows: First place to Michelle Merrifield of Central Lake for her Cherry Plum Soup. Second place was awarded to Bonnie Thomas of East Jordan for her Southwest Tortellini Cherry Chowder. Third place was given to Laurie Hughes of Charlevoix for Lottie's Hot House Vegetarian Chili.

The winners in the cakes/tortes category are as follows: First place to Bethany Bowman of Boyne City for her Cherry Custard Torte. Second place was awarded to Janice Harvey of Charlevoix for her Bavarian Cherry Torte. Third place was captured by Betty Renner of Central Lake for her Cherry Almond Upside Down Cake.

Private Charlevoix jet hangar under construction

Rockford Construction Company recently announced that construction of the Pelican Air Hangar in Charlevoix is underway.

The 19,000 square foot private jet hangar is in the early stages of construction, with footings and foundation now in place.

The private air hangar features several unique elements to its form and function. It is designed and being constructed to have enough clearance, entry space and accommodations to house large private jets. All finishes are very high-end and the facility will be highly customized. When complete, it will have a 105-foot wide by 28-foot tall sliding double-door that will allow private jets enough room to safely maneuver within the hangar for maintenance and storage. And 14 inches of concrete is being poured for the heated interior floor of the hangar. Also included in construction will be 3,000 square feet of office space for pilots and crew as well as a clubroom for the guests.

"Pelican Air Hangar is a highly specialized project in that we must create a space that is very secure, able to support the unique functions of a private jet hangar and look and feel like a first class facility from the moment you walk in," said Rockford Construction Company project manager, Eric Monroe. "Everything in this building is looked at with a scrutinizing eye so we're sure that when it is turned over, the owner will be completely satisfied."

New airplane hangar project underway

HANGAR

The facility, owned by Pelican Products of Torrence, Calif., is expected to be complete in June 2007. The project is on schedule. Dixon Architects designed the facility. Rockford is serving as the general contractor and managing this project through its northern Michigan regional office, located in Traverse City. This is the second private jet hangar Rockford has been awarded in less than two years.

Local woman named Petoskey chamber membership director

Lisa Hoyt

The Petoskey Regional Chamber of Commerce has announced the hiring of a new membership director.

Lisa Hoyt, 37 of Charlevoix, joined the chamber's staff last month and was given the task of retaining and recruiting new members to the chamber, a 750-member business advocacy organization.

"Lisa comes in with the skills and experience to do the job," said the chamber's executive director, Carlin Smith. "We're excited to have her on the team and look forward to the ideas and expertise she will bring to the organization."

Hoyt has worked for nearly 15 years at LexaLite International in Charlevoix, most recently as international sales manager. Other roles she filled in that organization include marketing manager and media coordinator.

Hoyt was selected from nearly 40-applicants by a search committee made up of the chamber's executive director and members of the board of directors.

In addition to fostering strong member relations, Hoyt will also coordinate the chamber's communications pieces including the organization's monthly newsletter Back to Business. She will also provide the staff leadership for the chamber's Ambassadors and Membership Committees, and will be the staff leader for the chamber's networking events, Breakfast for Champions, the golf outing and Festival on the Bay.

Rayder volleyball miss district title

Aubrey Way dives for a save against Rogers City during district semifinals on Saturday, March 3. The lady Rayders will now spend some time recovering from a hard fought season before getting back into training for next season.

CHARLEVOIX — After earning an emotional, hard-fought victory over rival Boyne City in the Class C volleyball district semifinals on Saturday, Charlevoix knew it had a little more work to do in the finals against Rogers City.

Unfortunately, the Rayders couldn't match the intensity they showed against Boyne as they fell to the Hurons, 25-13, 16-26, 25-21, 20-25, 15-8.

It was Rogers City's first district crown since 2004, and the Hurons advance to the Saturday, March 10, regional at Gaylord High School.

"I'm still a little bit in shock," Charlevoix coach Liz Grunch said. "The girls got pretty fired up for Boyne City and I think we came in a little mentally exhausted for Rogers City.

"We just had a lot of errors against Roger's City. We had to play a lot of games going into that match and we had two girls go down with cramps. It was exhausting for us to play that many games."

Charlevoix advanced to the final with a 19-25, 25-23, 25-18, 25-23 victory over Boyne City, while Rogers City advanced by defeating Harbor Springs. Charlevoix opened the tournament with a 25-15, 25-19, 25-18 win over Inland Lakes.

The Rayders, Lake Michigan Conference champions, close a 41-12-1 season.

"We accomplished quite a bit this year," Grunch said. "We put another mark on the board for our program. We have nothing to hang our heads about and one game doesn't stamp out our entire season."

For the Rayders on the day, Aubrey Way had 98 assists, 34 digs, five blocks; Sasha Spencley added 45 digs, 23 kills and six blocks; Emily Heffling had 41 digs; Ashlie Bradley had 38 kills, 28 digs and five aces; Murphy Gillespie had 36 digs, 10 kills and four aces; Bethany Pearson had 30 kills and 17 blocks; Desi Faust had 34 kills; and Zita Anderson had 29 digs.

"We just didn't play that well against Rogers City," Grunch said. "We didn't play our game and we made too many errors at the wrong time.

"It's going to be hard to say good-bye to our seniors. A lot of them have been with me for three years, but our group is where it should be for next year. We should be just as competitive next year."

For Boyne City against Charlevoix, Jessica Nichols had 21 digs, 13 kills and two blocks; Lindsay Clemens had 41 assists; Stacey Spaniak had 21 digs; Lindsay Baic had 17 digs and eight kills; Amber Kotalik had eight kills and five blocks; and Jessica Kynsz had eight kills.

"We came out strong the first game, then we lost our momentum," Boyne coach Casie Parker said. "We never gave up. We've had a great season and are really going to miss the seniors."

The Ramblers finished 31-12-7.

Basketball team just short of conference title

It took overtime to decide it and in a clash of arguably northern Michigan's top two basketball programs, Bellaire prevailed over Charlevoix, 64-59. Earlier in the week, the Rayders wrapped up the Lake Michigan Conference title, beating East Jordan, 52-46.

"I thought we outplayed them but we just couldn't get the ball to go in," Rayder coach Keith Haske said. "The thing that impressed me was that we were still in the game when we shot so poorly."

It looked as if Bellaire would win in regulation as they led 52-46 after sinking two free throws with 47.6 seconds left to play.

Ty Haske scored on a jump shot – capping off a run during which he scored six straight Rayder points. Then, after the Eagles made only one of two free throws, Nate LaBlance sank a three-pointer to cut the lead to 53-51 with 14 seconds to play.

Charlevoix fouled immediately on the inbounds and Bellaire missed two free throws to give the Rayders a chance with 12 seconds left.

LaBlance missed a three-point shot but Trevor Mays grabbed the offensive rebound and missed. Kyle Jones rebounded the shot and was fouled on his putback. He calmly sank two free throws with 0.8 seconds on the clock to put the game into overtime.

In overtime, however, Bellaire took control, scoring six straight for a 59-53 advantage. LaBlance sank a three to cut the lead in half, at 59-56 but Charlevoix would get no closer.

"Give (Bellaire) credit," Haske said. "They made some key free throws in overtime."

After stumbling at the line down the stretch in regulation, the Eagles were seven for 10 in the extra period.

LaBlance led the Rayders in scoring with 13 points. Ty Haske scored 12.

"Ty played a whale of a game, looking for his shot," coach Haske said. "And Nate really came up hig for us."

Against East Jordan, the Rayders fought off a sluggish start and a deliberate Red Devil attack. The score was tied at an uncharacteristic 14-14 at the half before Charlevoix took charge with a 23-7 third quarter bulge.

Mitch Crandall scored 15 points and Corey Gotshall added 10 to lead the Rayders.

Rowley maintains giant slalom crown

Defending state giant slalom champion Katherine Rowley (above) of Charlevoix-East Jordan maintained her crown at the Feb. 26 Division II state finals at Boyne Highlands in Harbor Springs.

Defending state giant slalom champion Katherine Rowley of Charlevoix-East Jordan maintained her crown at the Feb. 26 Division II state finals at Boyne Highlands in Harbor Springs.

Rowley won in 1 minute, 11.58 seconds. Rowley's finish was almost a full second ahead of second-place finisher Lucy Causley of Harbor Springs.

"I still can't believe I've won this two years in a row," said Rowley, a junior who now has five state medals in her stellar career. "It's an amazing feeling to be able to pull off two great runs like this."

The Charlevoix-East Jordan skiers did not qualify as a team to compete at the state finals.

Boyne City secured its first state ski title at the event. According to Boyne City ski coach Bob Simpson the Ramblers used a strong team performance in giant slalom to win the state championship

"I knew we'd do good in GS on this hill," said Simpson, who's coached both Boyne City teams since the mid 1980's. "I wasn't so sure about slalom. The slalom course was a long, hard course, but we didn't have hardly any disqualification's and in GS, we skied really, really well."

THAT'S MY PHOTO!

The photos on this page taken by Charlevoix residents and visitors were submitted to the Charlevoix Courier for this monthly feature. Photos can be dropped off at the Courier office at 112 Mason Street or e-mailed to news@charlevoixcourier.com. Information about the photographer and photo, including when it was taken and a brief description of what is pictured must also be submitted.

Charlevoix resident Chris Martin described the moment he took this shot as "spiritual." Martin was vacationing in Orlando, Fla. when he captured this majestic moment.

Charlevoix resident Dave Christiansen took this rare image of bald eagles on Sunday, Feb. 18 on frozen Round Lake. As he approached them, the one on the right flew away.

Chairman of the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors, Tom Conlan captured a picturesque view of a February sunset over Lake Michigan.

Charlevoix resident Janine Warner took this picture while walking her girls on her property. The dog in front is Lady and the back one is Gaea and they are both 1-year-old. They are watching her other dog, a Border Collie named Gates, as she was lagging behind.

On Feb. 6, Charlevoix resident Bern Cannan took this picture of a rare occurance, the Pine River Channel iced over.

Officials debate to build or to renovate

SCHOOLS

currently do not have a facility large enough to house the busses.

"As with your car, you can always make it last longer if you keep it in a garage rather than a driveway. We want to get the busses inside a building or under a canopy, and doing some combination of a bus garage/central office facility on that site would provide us some savings in a lot of ways," Trubilowicz said. "My vision is you would have a separate bus barn from a maintenance facility and wash rack. If that building was in the same part as central offices they could share a wall and share a heating plant, that would be a savings."

He added, "The plans haven't gelled yet, but we would try to utilize the parts of the building which are in relatively good shape

The building and grounds committee, which consists of board members Trubilowicz, Dean Spencley and Jeff Stevens, is awaiting a recommendation from an architecture and engineering firm.

"Both of these projects (bus barn and central office) have been on a short list of sinking fund projects," Trubilowicz said. "When we laid out the budget I think we had earmarked a half a million dollars just for central offices and obviously we would like to do it cheaper than that, so we could ideally pull off a savings."

If the board was to OK this particular plan, Trubilowicz said, "It would then be a matter of bidding out the project and ideally we would like to have something out there by next fall. A lot of that is going to depend on how the plan lays out."

Though the issue appears to be foregone, Trubilowicz addressed the repeated statements made by Connie Saltonstall, the person he feels was the roadblock to the school's acquisition of the 109 Clinton St. property, that she supported an even swap of the old library building for the new library building several years ago.

"The one thing that never seems to come out here is the problem for us at the time was the old library building was appraised at almost $600,000 and we had an offer for $750,000," Trubilowicz said. "We couldn't trade buildings and walk away from that kind of money. We would have lost $150,000 and then people would have been on us for that."

He added, "I'm disappointed (Saltonstall refused to sign off on the reverter clause) because we thought it was a great location for us."

While the library was willing to sell the 109 Clinton St. property to the school, the school would have been restricted to using the building for educational purposes in perpetuity or face having the property revert back to Saltonstall and her sister, the property's heirs.

The old library property, which is more than 6,000 square feet in size, was most recently appraised at $720,000.

"We're to the point with the old library we want to sell it and get our half of the money," Trubilowicz said. "We've gotten beyond our wishes and dreams and we're OK with it at this point."

Once the board's architect delivers a plan, the building and grounds committee and superintendent will make a recommendation to the full board.

What: School board members on the building and grounds committee are looking into the viability of using the nearly 3.8 acres of land located at 1021 May St. where the bus barn currently resides to build a new central office site.

Other options: Renovate existing central office or buy an existing facility.

What's next: Consideration of the building and grounds committee recommendation by the full Charlevoix Public Schools Board of Education.

Parenting programs offered at local library

The Charlevoix Public Library is continuing to offer parenting programs in the youth activity center.

The free programs are geared towards parents and caregivers of young children and may count toward continuing education units for day care providers. Parents are welcome to bring their young children. Programs are held on three consecutive Tuesdays at 6:30 p.m. in the Youth Activity Center of the Charlevoix Public Library.

"The New Scoop on Immunizations, Birth–College" will take place at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday, March 13. Dr. Josh Meyerson, medical director of Northwest Community Health Agency, will discuss several new vaccines and recommendations for immunizations for your children.

"Music and Movement" with Gwen Sarya, music teacher at Concord Academy in Boyne City and Northwest Academy in Charlevoix, will take place at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday, March 20. Gwen will lead a music exploration for toddlers using the Orff Schulwerk method of teaching young children music and movement. The Orff Schulwerk method encompasses singing, saying, moving and playing.

For more information about these or other youth programs at the library, call (231) 237-7350.

Rayders reign

The Charlevoix High School varsity boys' basketball team claimed the Class C district championship on March 9. Charlevoix (20-3) defeated East Jordan, 82-58 to take the school's eighth district championship in the last nine years. (Above) Team members cheer as they accept their trophy. They are (front, from left) Charlie Hamilton and Justin Erskine, (center) Clifford Jones, Tyler Haske, Austin Wilhelm, Dan Swenor, Brad Cyr, Darron Munson, Kyle Jones, (back) assistant coach Bret Erskine, assistant coach Bryan Hawkins, coach Keith Haske, Nate LaBlance, Trevor Mays, Mitchell Crandall, Derek Friske, Justin Friske, Corey Gotshall, Jacob Hunt and assistant coach Jim Gels. Charlevoix began regional play Tuesday, March 13 at Gaylord High School against Traverse City St. Francis. The Gladiators eliminated the Rayders from the tournament in the regional finals last season. The winner of the St. Francis-Charlevoix game will advance to the regional finals against the McBain-Mio winner at 7 p.m. on Thursday, March 15 in Gaylord. For the complete story on the district win, see page 21 of this week's Courier.

Bellaire man charged in Central Drug Store holdup

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

On Tuesday, March 6, local police, acting on a tip from Crime Stoppers, arrested the chief suspect in the mid-January attempted armed robbery of Charlevoix Central Drug Store.

Robert Jason Wilks of Bellaire, was arraigned via video conference from the Charlevoix County Jail by 90th District Magistrate, Larry Burgess and charged with one count of attempted armed robbery, a five-year felony; one count of possessing a firearm/handgun while attempting to commit a felony, which carries a two-year prison sentence; and one count of carrying a dangerous weapon with unlawful intent, a possible five-year prison sentence or $2,500 penalty.

Jason Wilks

After Burgess advised Wilks of his rights and asked if the suspect planned to hire a lawyer, Wilks said, "I haven't given it much thought sir."

Before appointing Christopher Turkelson to represent Wilks, Burgess told the 25-year-old the charges he faced were serious.

From an affidavit of probable cause dated March 6, Charlevoix City Police Deputy-Chief, Scott Hankins, stated that he interviewed Wilks, who denied ever attempting to rob Central Drugs, located on Bridge Street in downtown

In the days following a Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners meeting fraught with accusations and quick tempers, the county's Personnel/Internal Government Committee voted two to one to allocate additional help to the jail's maintenance department.

District Two Commissioner, Chris Christensen voted against sending a county maintenance man up to the jail three days a week for 30 days.

Alleged robber weeps during arraignment

ROBBERY

Charlevoix.

"(Wilks) showed Hankins a dark hooded sweatshirt that belonged to him," the affidavit shows. "Hankins photographed both the dark hooded sweatshirt and the dark colored vehicle belonging to Wilks. Hankins confirmed from Wilks' employer that he (Wilks) left work in Charlevoix on the morning Jan. 16 at approximately 7 a.m."

The affidavit further stated, "Hankins collected prints from Wilks, who consented, and sent them to the lab. The Michigan State Police lab confirmed that the prints on the holdup note matched the prints of Wilks."

The judge questioned Wilks on his financial state, during which the unemployed machinist lifted his glasses to wipe tears from his eyes.

Wilks said he lived with his parents and could not make payments on his automobile, therefore could not afford an attorney.

"When I was arrested, a local officer was present and I asked him if there was a chance I could go home because I was never in trouble before," Wilks said.

Burgess told Wilks he had taken the suspect's lack of a criminal history into account when he set bond at a mere $10,000.

Assistant Charlevoix Prosecuting Attorney, Mark Muniak interjected, "The people move to increase bond."

Burgess said carrying a gun during an attempted robbery was a serious offense and said while he would not increase bond at the time, "I am not inclined to reduce (bond) any more."

Following the arraignment, Muniak, who wished the bond to be raised to $20,000, said the prosecutor's office would likely seek to raise bond during the preliminary hearing.

Burgess entered a not guilty plea on Wilks' behalf before setting Wilks' preliminary hearing for 2:45 p.m. on March 20 in 90th District Court.

Wilks is accused of entering Charlevoix Central Drugs at approximately 8:30 a.m. on Tuesday, Jan. 16, asking a clerk for paper and pen with which he allegedly wrote a note demanding OxyContin and morphine.

When both the owner and another pharmacist refused to comply with the suspect's demands, the subject then escaped using the rear door of the pharmacy and headed south in a dark-colored vehicle.

Wilks' attorney did not return calls by press time.

Kudos to council for tackling stormwater

EDITORIAL

Charlevoix City Council and staff should be commended for their flexibility and support of eco-friendly treatment of stormwater in the East Park renovation plan.

Currently water from the curbed streets runs into the storm system and into Round Lake and the rest drains into the ground.

While the addition of filters and baffles (installed in manholes to remove oil and things that float like pop cans) in the East Park renovation plan will cost the city some additional cash, there is no price tag Charlevoix can put on its most valuable resource — fresh, beautiful lakes and streams.

Back in 2001, former City of Charlevoix Street Superintendent John Martin told the Courier, "Since God created the universe it has always been that way (stormwater has been discharged into the lake)."

Well, when God created the universe, industry and humans weren't pillaging fresh water resources with sewage and contaminated stormwater.

It's a positive move by city council to recognize that humans have changed the course of nature with pollutants and with park construction underway the time is now to make a change.

The city currently addresses stormwater impact minimization through water testing, catch basin cleaning and street sweeping. In the spring, after the snow melts, sand and salt that accumulated over the winter is cleaned up and hauled out to keep it out of the lake..

But with the health of fresh water resources being compromised by invasive species and pollutants, it's clear that what we're doing now won't be enough for future generations. This park renovation will serve the community for decades, the stormwater treatment plan should be built around the needs of future generations.

Sunshine Week: Exercise your right to access information

THE CRYING TOWEL

Benjamin Gohs

Another spring and another Sunshine Week, March 11-17, are upon us — so what do you care?

The baby is sick, the car needs new muffler bearings and the rent is due, so how are you supposed to make time to ensure your government is doing what it was intended to do?

Nobody's saying you should quit your day job. Frankly, I don't need the competition. But, the next time you visit city hall to pay your water bill or enter the county building to pay your taxes, you might want to ask for a copy of their budget. After all, it's your money.

Sunshine Week began a couple years ago by a group of newspapers, not with the intention of sending angry citizens into the streets with mob justice in their hearts, but rather to remind everyone they deserve an accountable government.

Congress need not allocate $12.6 million to a snipe farm in the Everglades or do a $750,000 study on whether the grass is greener on the other side to be held in contempt by its citizenry.

(Above, left) A public record obtained by the Charlevoix Courier which was approximately 95 percent redacted or blacked out and in violation of the Michigan Freedom of Information Act. (Above, right) A copy of the same public document received from a different government body containing only 5 percent redaction. The organizers of Sunshine Week 2007 hope to bring awareness about this type of impropriety by government officials to light.

If it wasn't so easy for local, state and federal governments to hide things, we might not have as much waste as we currently do — at least $29 billion according to Citizens Against Government Waste.

In addition to wasting money, a lack of transparency at all levels of government allows things to transpire which ought not.

For instance:

- Why would a group of City Council members fail to omit something as big as firing the city manager from a meeting agenda?
- Why would a county board of commissioners constantly change their meeting times, often failing to give notice to the public?
- Why would a government secretary destroy public documents?

A responsible citizen demands to know what the government is doing.

A responsible journalist detects and disseminates governmental information pertinent to the citizen's life.

Both jobs are made easier when a commission, committee or congress is open and honest about their operations.

TURN BIG ROCK INTO QUARRY

Editor:

There is much discussion of the Big Rock Point site near Charlevoix now that the nuclear generating plant has been shut down and the site cleaned up save for the used fuel rods that are being stored until the Yucca Mountain storage facility is completed.

I have a good suggestion, especially given Michigan's poor economic state and poor outlook for the near future. Why don't the powers that be negotiate a mining agreement with St Mary Cement

EAR TO THE GROUND

I'm not too sure about this. I know I have it here somewhere on my desk. But anyway, I believe that January was Organization Month — meant to be devoted to getting our lives and desks in order. February has been declared by the more clear-eyed observer as Procrastination Month, and in celebrating Organization Month in February along with Procrastination Month, I did it mostly right.

In a previous life, when I was a part of the faculty of a small college, our business manager was chided by some compulsive higher-up administrative person for having a messy desk. Rather than taking such sound advice to heart and organizing his desk, the business manager trekked across the campus looking into other offices to find those desks that were far messier than his. I am proud to say that I was one of three offices that he visited which had desks that he could point to as "way messier" than his. It is not a distinetion that appears in my permanent personnel file, but maybe it should. I always maintained that the test was not whether the desk looked messy to some obsessive sort, but whether the proprietor of the desk was able to find the things that he needed. I always found everything on my desk which made sense since nearly everything was somewhere on it, from a small pile of seeds collected some time in the previous year, to a card with an absolutely vital telephone number, to some dark brown goo in a glass beaker that smelled wonderful when warmed in your hand. That last was a product of a flower that had bloomed for the first time ever in my greenhouse. The preceding is, of course, only a very partial inventory.

What I always knew for certain was that things I had placed there earlier were underneath things positioned later. I supported the idea of a geological, desktop filing system.

The first person who complained directly to me about my unsightly desk claimed not to be able to go home at the end of the work day until his desk top was completely cleared. I do not believe that his attitude was the cause of a serious mental breakdown a few years later, but I am certain it contributed to that problem. Unrealistic expectations are often the source of such difficulties.

With the above history in mind, I look for any evidence that messiness and superiority are somehow linked. Such evidence has emerged. The book "A Perfect Mess," by David Freedman and Eric Abrahamson points out that disorganization is often associated with efficiency, resilience, creativity and effectiveness. My desk was and is, not the result of sloth, but of one or more of those other, more appealing characteristics.

Participation in two of those declared months, Organization Month and Procrastination Month, at the same time seems to me to be efficient, maybe even effective. National Messiness Month may soon be on the calendar for some future month. The announcement is somewhere right here on my desk.

to put a quarry at the site with a channel and a harbor that would ultimately serve vacationers and residents of the area. That would take away some of the enormous pressure that the Charlevoix channel and marina feel during the busy summer months. The Beaver Island ferry system and/or barging companies could be allocated space which would be a huge benefit to the bridge problem in downtown Charlevoix in the summer. Further, this would be an excellent location to move the Charlevoix Airport. A move such as this would make it far more regional to the greater Charlevoix and Petoskey area. There could be service roads from terminal to terminal.

Think about it, everyone wins. A former industrial site gets new life, the bridge stays down, the current airport site could be put to better use and northern Michigan would receive an economic boost. This would take many, many years to come to fruition and allow everyone to adjust to the good and bad involved. Mind you, there are few of us who would be around to see the end result, but, with proper planning this could be a great and long lasting project for the north and our children and their children's children. Think about it.

WHERE DO NORWOOD PLANNERS' PRIORITIES LIE?

Editor:

Per your article of Feb. 21 regarding Wayne Boss' proposed site condominium development in the village of Norwood.

I am confused as to why the Norwood Township Planning Commission seems unhappy at the Sunset Ridge owners opposition to the project. I would think the commission would be more concerned with the liability and health issues arising from the two, four-foot deep retention basins which total 10,200 square feet. Also, the sewage going into the proposed 90-foot by 300-foot common drain field next to the Norwood Township Cemetery. In 1996 the Charlevoix County Planning Commission recommended that this property not be re-zoned to R1 due to severely limited septic problems. Yet in 1998, it was.

Nowhere in the legal complaint to this development was the subject of lake view brought up, yet the planning commission saw fit to seize upon this issue. The complaint contends no payment of fees, no DEQ permit, no road commission permit, incomplete site plan, no sense of blending into the village of Norwood, Part 41 regarding the common septic system and who is responsible for maintaining such a system.

Is it the planning commission's contention that 19 approximately 1,000 square foot homes on 12 acres with about half of them dumping sewage into a common drain field enhances the character of Norwood? Has the planning commission asked any of the people who have loved ones buried in the Norwood Township Cemetery if they mind that this proposal puts a 27,000 square foot drain field next to the graves?

Also, the Courier's article of Feb. 21 makes it seem like the only opposition to the project is Sunset Ridge. Actually, there are more people living in the village opposed to the project than those living in Sunset Ridge.

'THANKS' ANONYMOUS COMMUNITY CONTRIBUTORS

Editor:

I feel very lucky to live in a community where so many contribute so much to make Charlevoix all that it is.

They never get their names or pictures in the paper. There are no awards, speeches or dinners in their honor. We will never know the dollar amounts or the sum total of hours spent. They are no less deserving.

So here's to you. To those who give and continue to give gracefully, graciously and with humility. Thank you.

Local fisheries research station to host March 22 open house

The staff of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources Charlevoix Fisheries Research Station invites the public to an open house from 6-8 p.m. on Thursday, March 22 at 96 Grant St. in Charlevoix (south side of the Pine River Channel, near Michigan Beach).

The program will include an overview of Charlevoix Fisheries Research Station history, current fisheries research programs and a description of salmon tagging and weir harvest at Medusa Creek. Also results from Charlevoix area creel/charter boat surveys, an update on Lake Charlevoix walleye tagging survey and an overview of Central Lake Michigan Management Unit activities will be given. There will be a question and answer session and a tour of the fisheries station.

Those interested in attending the open house are asked to reply by March 16 to Cathy Sullivan by calling (231) 547-2914. Persons with disabilities needing accommodations should indicate such when contacting the station. All requests will be accommodated.

For more information about the meeting, contact Dave Clapp at (231) 547-2914.

Pool closes to make way for improvement

(Left) A new dehumidification system to be installed at the Charlevoix Area Community Pool arrived from Maine on March 8. The pool will be closed from March 19 to March 23 to allow for installation. The project cost is $111,000.

The Charlevoix Area Community Pool will be closed during the week of March 19 to install a new dehumidification system. If things go as planned, the pool will reopen on Friday, March 23.

The unit, which was shipped from Maine, arrived at the pool on Thursday, March 8. Total cost of the project is about $111,000. With the passing of the Recreational Authority Millage in 2004, the pool has been able to put $105,000 aside to cover the expense.

Mounting repair bills to the current system in 2006 led to the decision to purchase the new system for dehumidifying the pool air space. The same technology is used at Avalanche Bay Water Park in Boyne Falls and at the Great Wolf Lodge in Traverse City. The closest pool with a Pool Environments system like the one being installed, is located in Ann Arbor.

The new system exhausts humid air and replaces it with fresh air. The goal is for the increase in fresh air to make it more comfortable for patrons and staff. While there will be an increase in the amount of natural gas used, a decrease in electric consumption is expected to offset the cost.

For more information about the project, call the pool at (231) 547-0982.

Charlevoix Women Can/Women Do plan posh luncheon

Proceeds from the June 13 event to benefit Women's Resource Center

The Women's Resource Center will host a fund-raising luncheon on June 13 at the Charlevoix Country Club.

In preparation for the occasion, on Monday, March 12 the Women Can/Women Do luncheon committee met with table designers and table captains at the country club to familiarize them with the event specifics.

The event, patterned after the 2006 Women Can/Women Do luncheon in Petoskey, will feature the work of 15 area designers, each responsible for the theme and decoration of a table for eight guests.

Table captains will invite seven guests to enjoy lunch and a Women's Resource Center presentation for $150 at one of the individually and creatively designed tables.

Captains include Patti Aiken, Barbara Danly, Connie Saltonstall, Joyce Herbert, Mary Johnson, Vel Kammermann, Carolee Macfarlane, Marsha Newkirk, Ralph Stowe, Barb Malpass, Nancy Porter, Carole Vial, Linda Wertz, Nanette Winn, Robin Wottowa and Julie Wright.

Charlevoix County Women Can/Women Do luncheon committee members include co-chairs, Joyce Herbert and Gretchen Tambellini as well as Kathy Lame, Jan Mancinelli, Nancy Porter, Pat Rush, Jean VanDam, Carole Vial, Deb Smith and Trish Wright.

For more information about the event, contact Trish Wright at (231) 582-7601.

OBITUARIES

Jim De Hollander: Died March 7, 2007

Jim De Hollander of Allendale and Charlevoix, was called home to be with his Lord on Wednesday, March 7 after a brief illness.

He was a conductor for the CSX Railroad for 35 years until he retired. Jim was a loving husband who enjoyed spending time with his family. He enjoyed traveling, was an antique car enthusiast and loved the water, especially boating. He had the gift of storytelling and if anyone else had a story to tell, he always seemed to be able to top it with one even better.

He will be lovingly remembered by his wife Nancy (De Korte) De Hollander; brother, Casey De Hollander; sisters-in-law and hrothers-in-law, Carol De Korte and Dale Eding, Jim and Sue De Korte, Dr. Tom and Evelyn De Korte, Ed and Barb De Korte, Janet Potter May and Richard May; numerous special nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held on Friday, March 9, at Matthysse-Kuiper-DeGraaf Funeral Home in Allendale.

Sidney Rayman:
Oct. 6, 1928 - March 11, 2007

A graveside service for Master Sergeant Sidney Rayman (United States Air Force, retired) took place on Sunday, March 11 at Memorial Gardens of Columbia with Rev. David Covington officiating.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Carolina Children's Home, 3201 Trenholm Rd., Columbia, SC 29204.

Mr. Rayman passed away Saturday, March 3. He was born on Oct. 6, 1928 in Charlevoix, the son of the late James and Anna Kosila Rayman. He retired from the U.S. Air Force in 1972 after serving during World War II, the Korean Conflict and Vietnam. He then retired from Dorn Veterans' Hospital in 1990. After retirement he enjoyed spending time with his wife of 49 years, Darleen Coatta Rayman, also horn in Charlevoix, his children and grandchildren. He was a loving husband, father, grandfather and great-grandfather.

Surviving are his sons, Todd (Christy Souders) Rayman, Jeffery (Ruth Phillips) Rayman of Columbia; daughter, Tamara R. (Carroll, Jr.) Foreman of Schenectady, N.Y.; brother, Leonard Rayman of California; sisters, Alma Zietler of Florida, Annabell Sprague, of Michigan; grandchildren, Justin Matthews, Sarah Telford Meehan, Sean Rayman, Katheryn Rayman, Stephanie Foreman, Kymberlie Rayman, Brittany Foreman, Sidney Rayman, Carroll W. (Trey) Foreman, III; great-granddaughter, Hanna Grace Matthews.

He was predeceased by his wife, Darleen; brothers, James, Jerome, Albert Rayman; sisters, Genevieve Cautu and Mildred Castongway.

St. Mary to host March 17 St. Patrick's Day dinner

St. Mary Church will host a community St. Patrick's Day dinner from 5-8 p.m. on Saturday, March 17 in the family center, located on 1003 Bridge St.

Corned beef and cabbage, ham, red skinned potatoes, vegetables, salad bar, breads and homemade pies will be served.

Adult tickets are $8, seniors are $6, children under 12 are $4. Family tickets are available for $25. Take-outs and delivery is offered. There will also be a cash bar.

Schools embark on competitive search for new superintendent

Charlevoix joins 23 Michigan schools in new super search

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

What would you like to see in the new Charlevoix Public Schools superintendent?

Seven people not affiliated with the school board attended the Thursday, March 8 public forum hosted by Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District Superintendent, Mark Eckhardt, at Charlevoix High School to give their input on what characteristics they would like to see.

"Right now there are 23 schools (across Michigan) looking for superintendents and we're competing against all of them," Eckhardt said during a short presentation leading up to the forum. "(We're) probably anticipating, by July, having 40 to 50 openings in the state."

Brochures containing pertinent information about the school district and what they are looking for in a superintendent were sent to every school district in the state.

Eckhardt is acting as the search consultant to Charlevoix Public Schools at no cost. Charlevoix schools spent only $742.47 on printing brochures and $225.81 in postage to mail brochures to 523 Kindergarten through twelfth-grade school districts and 56 intermediate school districts in Michigan.

Eckhardt said a consulting firm from Michigan could run $8,000 to $11,000 while a national firm could charge from $25,000 to $50,000 for similar services.

Aside from assisting in the search, the role of the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District in this process is to do the screening, act as a contact point for applicants, arrange meetings and answer questions applicants may have.

This is the second time the Intermediate School District has performed a superintendent search.

"We'll do the initial screening and reference checks on everybody that sends in their applications, but it's their (school board's) decision to make," he said. "We did this in Boyne City (search for superintendent). We had 44 applicants and we checked out all 44 of them."

Eckhardt, who wasn't surprised at the low turnout to the forum, explained the timeline in which the Intermediate School District will continue to conduct the proceedings.

Once all applications are received by the 4 p.m. April 20 deadline, screenings by the board will be done the week of April 30, first interviews will be conducted the week of May 7, second interviews will follow during the week of May 14, site visits with the finalists will be done the week of May 21, selection of the new superintendent is expected by the week of May 28. The goal is for the new superintendent to take over on July 1.

Audience questions and comments ranged from what the salary and job description will be, to the importance of hiring a superintendent with a strong background in balancing budgets.

Mark Eckhardt

Eckhardt said the salary will potentially range from $105,000 to $125,000 per year.

Tom Barnes, parent of two middle school Rayders, attended the forum.

"I'm concerned about the financial status of the school and I think we need to get somebody in here who can take care of that," he said. "I would ask (candidates) what their history has been with working through difficult financial times. Michigan has gone through cycles over the years of boom and bust, and if the superintendent has worked for any length of time, then they've probably lived through times of bust and I would like to hear how they handled that."

Currently, at least seven people have shown interest in the position.

"If Charlevoix would have had a position open 15 years ago, they would have gotten probably 75 to 100 applicants. Now if they get 20 to 30 they'll be doing good," Eckhardt said. "Right now in Michigan, the average superintendent's tenure is three to five years and in urban areas it's about 18 months."

Barnes found Eckhardt's remarks on superintendent tenure interesting and said he would support hiring an individual on a short-term basis to turn the district around financially.

"I understand this is a very political job and someone coming in and making tough choices might not want to stick around for the hard feelings that could result," Barnes said. "We just need to continue belt tightening and be very diligent with it. We have not made all the hard cuts we need to."

Barnes said his daughter rides the bus to compete in volleyball when she could be carpooling with her teammates.

"We're bussing those kids all over the countryside here and paying for that bussing," he said. "It seems parents could coordinate driving instead of using the busses."

He added, "I would be more than happy to see that cut than core curriculum or electives. I think we've got to get serious about cutting funding in those areas that aren't critical."

Current school board candidate, Dale (Bo) Boss Jr., attended the meeting and voiced his concerns with the proceedings.

"It seems like we're moving fast. I still think we have the cart before the horse," he said. "I think we need to slow down on the superintendent search until we can find the funding to take care of existing staff."

Boss added that he was disappointed more parents and community members didn't attend the forum.

All audience comments will be combined with comments and questions from Charlevoix Schools' staff members and were scheduled to be introduced to the school board during their Monday, March 12 meeting.

Results from this meeting were not available by press time.

Mark Eckhardt, superintendent of the Char-Em Intermediate School District, who is acting as the search consultant to Charlevoix Public Schools at no cost, said the following are the most common desirable attributes of an incoming superintendent:

- Strong financial and budgeting skills and ability to work with state legislators to impact and enhance school funding.
- Ability to work with students, staff, parents and in the community with governmental officials, business leaders, and other community agencies.
- Strong public relations and two-way, interactive communication skills and an ability to articulate a vision for the school.
- Passion for children and life-long learning.

There's more risk to spring break than sun burn

BY KIMBERLY WAY
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

The month of March, otherwise known as "spring break season," is a time for traveling, relaxation and warmer weather.

For many students in this community, the end of this month means a whole lot of traveling, hot weather and fun in the sun.

Spring break starts for students at Charlevoix Public Schools on March 30 and lasts until April 9. Hot spots this year include Florida, Mexico, Hawaii and Europe.

For juniors Bethany Brodin and Sarah Klooster, this spring break is one well worth the wait as they will be traveling to Hawaii with Brodin's family.

Both girls have been looking forward to this trip all year because neither have ever been to the state. This is not only seen as a vacation for Klooster, she also sees it as a prime shopping location.

"I plan on searching for a gorgeously unique prom dress while I'm on the island," Klooster said.

For many seniors, this year marks a bit of freedom they've been waiting for as they will be traveling in a large group to Mexico. But when traveling to a foreign country, there's much more to keep in mind than protecting one's skin from the sun.

City of Charlevoix Deputy Police Chief Scott Hankins emphasized the importance of safety precautions while traveling to exotic locations.

"Common sense plays a large role in staying safe while traveling over spring break," Hankins said. "Don't trust everyone you meet, don't walk alone at night and don't partake in extreme activities like doing drugs or drinking alcohol with people you don't know are only a few pieces of advice to keep in mind while traveling."

Hankins also added that students should keep the law in mind anywhere they're traveling. Following the speed limit, not drinking and driving and being smarter than the situation by using common sense helps make vacations safer.

For more safety tips, call the Charlevoix police department at (231) 547-3258 or speak to local law enforcement officers.

Teen Scene writer Kimberly Way, pictured above with her family in Cape Canaveral, Fla. during spring break 2006, spoke with area teens regarding their plans for the upcoming break and local law enforcement regarding how they can enjoy a safe vacation.

Kimberly Way is the writer and coordinator of Teen Scene. This page will appear the second Wednesday of the month in the Charlevoix Courier. She can be contacted by e-mail at way_kim@hotmail.com.

Northwest Academy Intermediate Band qualifies for state festival

The Northwest Academy Advanced and Intermediate Bands participated in the District II Band and Orchestra Festival on Saturday, March 3 in Petoskey.

The Northwest Academy Intermediate Band with only 15 members qualified for the State Band and Orchestra Festival to take place on April 24. The judges praised the band for their outstanding quality sound and the high level of technique for students in grades six through eight.

The Advanced Band made up of students from eighth through twelfth grades received a Division II rating in concert and a Division I rating in sight reading for an overall Division II rating.

Gary Stutzman, Northwest Academy director of bands, had high praise for all the band students.

"Our band students have been working hard to prepare for the festival. A special thank you goes out to Anna Kroon, Tim Riley and Patrick Hand for all the extra time they have put into working with the intermediate band to help get them ready," Stutzman said.

Advanced Band members are now working preparing for the State Solo and Ensemble Festival on Saturday, March 24 in Manistee.

The Intermediate Band students are also working on solos and ensembles for the Junior High Solo and Ensemble Festival to take place on April 21.

Northwest Academy school board openings

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

Chris Martin

Anyone interested in filing for a seat on the Northwest Academy school board has until 4:30 p.m. on Thursday, March 15.

The seats of Chris Martin and LuAnn Griffin both expire this year.

Board member selections for the two-year term will be made by Saginaw Valley State University officials, who hold Northwest's charter.

"This is open to the entire public. They need not have any connection to the school," said Northwest Academy School Board president, Joe Seidel. "Anyone who has a vested interest in education should apply."

Seidel added that candidates should be from within the school's target area.

Martin said he will definitely file for another term.

"I've had some interaction with the school previously from doing tech work with their computers and I just like what they're doing here," he said. "(If re-appointed) I'll just keep doing what I've been doing. I like the way the school is going, but I'd like to see more kids enrolled."

The 57-year-old added, "I'd like to get the enrollment up and make the community more aware of the school's existence. The fact that it's right in the neighborhood should be a good drawing point."

Applications can be found at Northwest Academy, 115 West Hurlbut in Charlevoix. For more information, call (231) 547-9000.

THE GAMES

Everyone may be Irish on March 17, but no place outside of Dublin celebrates the Wearing of the Green like the flavorful folks on Beaver Island.

Where else can you race a shopping cart, throw a fish and recite a naughty limerick while drinking green beer with true Irish descendants?

"My favorite event is the fish toss," said executive director of the Beaver Island Chamber of Commerce, Steve West. "You get a 10-pound trout and freeze that baby solid, after our vet anesthetizes it of course."

While there are many techniques for hurling salmon while inebriated, West said most people grab either the tail or the head.

"You try to get a good purchase on the thing so you can actually throw the SOB," he said. "And, of course, after a couple of throws, the fish does not remain intact as you can imagine, so the fish gets lighter and harder to handle."

He added, "The fish holds together pretty good for the first 10 or 12 throws, but after that it gets pretty rough."

While numbers vary from year to year, anywhere between 10 and 30 people participate in the annual fish toss.

The St. Patrick's Day games kick off around the crack of noon this Saturday on the street in front of the Shamrock Bar and Grill owned by Eric and Dana Hodgson.

"Beaver Island time is different than time in the rest of the world," West said. "We don't do things on a real rigorous schedule."

Eric Hodgson said the party, which originated at the Shamrock, will rage between there and his restaurant, the Beachcomber, which hasn't been open on St. Patty's Day in a few years.

"The early games take place out in the street and then we have live music and other festivities which continue on late into the evening," Hodgson said. "It's usually a pretty raucous time, and since everybody's Irish on that day, the people have a really good time."

He added, "And, I want to thank Kathy Maudrie, who puts in a huge amount of effort planning the whole thing. She works for weeks and weeks to get this thing together."

West said the daytime games are family oriented with miniature games designed for children.

"You put somebody in a shopping cart and somebody else has to push it up and down the street and we have various obstacles where you run through tires like football players do and those sorts of things," West said. "Then we've got a tug of war and that's kind of the Island thing between the hayseeders and the fishmongers."

The feud between the farmers and the fisherman culminates with both sides battling for superiority over the rope in a best of several competition.

"We probably have somewhere around 600 people living on the island right now and when the games get going, it's not unusual to have 1,000 people there," West said. "So, essentially, everyone who lives here plus visitors come for the games."

THE ENTERTAINMENT

The Shamrock will offer four authentic draft beers on tap, three of which are imported from Ireland, in addition to authentic Irish cuisine like Colcannon — the flavored mashed potato dish, bangers or pub sausages, fish and chips, Reubens, Irish stew and corned beef with cabbage.

The Doghouse Boodlers, a popular island band will play everything from Johnny Cash and original works to traditional Irish music.

Another popular hangout on the island is Donegal Danny's Pub and the Stony Acre Grill, which will also offer authentic Irish food, two imported beers and live music both Friday and Saturday nights.

"We're having a piper on Saturday and we're also having the debut of Inis Aman, which is Irish for Island Soul," said owner Marilyn Racine. "They'll be playing Irish and country favorites and we'll have two of our favorites, Danny Gillespie and Danny Johnson, who will be playing music."

The entertainment will run from 8 p.m. to 2 a.m. both nights.

"And, we'll have our traditional Irish fare of Irish stew, soda bread, corned beef and cabbage, lake perch and some of the best Irish cheer you will ever have," she said. "The island is very Irish and this will be one of the best times you will ever have. It's a lot of fun with great people and authentic Irish stout (beer) from Ireland called O'Hara's which is brewed right in Ireland in both stout and red."

The Stoney Acre Grill will be playing John Wayne's "The Quiet Man" all day St. Patrick's Day.

HOW TO GET THERE

Both Island Airways and Fresh Air Aviation of Charlevoix will offer flights between now and St. Patrick's Day.

Round-trip on Island Airways: $75 — call (231) 547-2141 to book a flight.

Round-trip on Fresh Air: $85 — call (231) 237-9482 to book a flight.

Both airlines will fly nearly every hour into the late evening on Friday, March 16 and most of the day on Saturday, March 17.

Unless you have relatives or friends on the island, you may want to plan a day trip as the only lodging providers open are already booked solid.

Heritage Gold syrup operation revamped

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

Whether you pine for perfect pancakes or wish for wonderful waffles, Parsons' more than 80 years experience in making maple syrup guarantees a breakfast you'll never forget.

Ready to operate during the 2007 syrup season with cutting edge equipment and ready to tantalize you with maple-based treats, Parsons Centennial Farm welcomes you to their open house from 1 to 4 p.m. on Sunday, March 18.

"We revamped our maple syrup making facility and we've pretty much got a whole new process in making maple syrup and we want to share it with anybody that wants to come in and take a look," said owner/operator and third generation syrup maker, David Parsons. "We have a new tubing system that's under a vacuum and we have a new evaporator and a reverse osmosis machine."

Sanitary tubes run from maple trees up to the syrup boiling house via a pump. The semisweet liquid is then cooked to allow a predetermined amount of excess water to evaporate leaving the sweet, maple flavored nectar.

"The new equipment is going to be much more efficient. We've gone from wood to fuel oil and that's going to be a big labor saver and more consistent heat," Parsons said. "We should be able to process sap much faster with the reverse osmosis and it should cut our boiling time down by more than 75 percent, which will make a lighter syrup."

Parsons said his new equipment will also allow him to extract more syrup from the sap.

"Generally the ratio is 40 gallons of sap to one gallon of syrup depending on how far you take it down, but I should be able to make 10 gallons of sap into a gallon of syrup," he said.

The Parsons sell their Harwood Heritage Gold syrup year-round in 50, 100 and 250 ml as well as half pints, pints, quarts, half gallons and gallons in special orders.

Parsons' syrup, which is made by him and his wife, Terri is carried in many local restaurants and shops.

"My wife made a bunch of maple flavored cookies for the open house," he said. "Anybody that's interested in seeing how maple syrup is made should come on out and see us."

For ordering information or to learn more about product history or to get a map to the open house, visit www.harwoodgold.com or call (231) 547-2038.

What? Open house to reveal the revamped Harwood Heritage Gold syrup operation.
When? 1 to 4 p.m. on Sunday, March 18.
Where? Parsons Centennial Farm. Take U.S. 31 south to Barnard Road (about nine miles) and turn left. Go about .8 mile to the first road on the right, which is Parsons Road. Then go 1.5 miles. Parsons farm is on the right-hand side.

Strong defense steers Rayders to district win

BY ALLEN TELGENHOF
SPORTS WRITER

Keith Haske's basketball teams continued their district dominance as Charlevoix (20-3) defeated East Jordan, 82-58 on March 9 to take the school's eighth district championship in the last nine years. Earlier the Rayders beat Boyne City, 66-52 and Mancelona, 76-46.

"I was really pleased with our effort on the defensive end and on the boards in all three games," Haske said. "We played with a lot of intensity. The kids are beginning to realize we will go as far as our defense carries us."

In the district final match-up, Charlevoix raced out to a 14-0 lead and never looked back.

"Our defense really set the tone early," Haske said. "We knew that East Jordan wanted to slow the game down but our defense took them right out of that."

The Red Devils three-man weave was no match for the Rayders' aggressive, hounding defensive pressure which forced numerous turnovers early on.

Another key to the hot start was the shooting of senior Mitch Crandall who buried three three-pointers in the first three-and-a-half minutes of the game and finished with 29 points on the night.

"I was excited to see Mitch break out like that," Haske observed. "He was just catching and shooting confidently. It is very important offensively for us to have him playing that way."

Charlevoix led 18-9 at the end of the first quarter and 35-23 at the half. The Rayders extended the lead to 25, at 51-26 midway through the third quarter.

Late in the fourth quarter, East Jordan closed to within 11, cutting the lead to 68-57 before solid free throw shooting by Charlevoix sealed the deal.

Justin Friske had 13 points and eight rebounds to support Crandall's game-high effort. Corey Gotshall contributed eight points and nine rebounds. Cliff Jones also scored eight.

"The bench kids — the Jones boys (Cliff and Kyle), Dan Swenor, Nate LaBlance, Corey Gotshall, and all of them — did a great job," Haske noted. "We didn't drop off a bit when they were in the game."

Senior Ty Haske, the Rayder point guard handed out six assists and had three steals. Crandall had four rebounds and four assists.

2007 Rayder Baseball Camp starts March 17

The 2007 Rayder Baseball Camp will take place on Saturdays, March 17, 24 and April 14 at Charlevoix High School.

The camp is open to all students, in first through sixth grades.

Camp times are 9 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. for first through third graders and 10:30 a.m. to noon for fourth through sixth graders.

Campers will learn and practice all aspects of the game including pitching, hitting, fielding and base running. Camp counselors will be Charlevoix High School baseball coaches and players. Prizes will be awarded at the end of each session.

Camp cost is $15 with all proceeds benefiting the baseball program. Registration forms are available at Charlevoix Elementary School and Charlevoix Middle School.

The sessions will take place either on the Rayder baseball field at Charlevoix High School or in the gym, depending on weather conditions.

For more information, call coach Allen Telgenhof at (231) 547-7388.

Rayders outpace Red Devils 82-58 to claim district crown

DISTRICT

Charlevoix blew the game open early, leading 29-13 at the half and 49-30 after three quarters.

Four Rayders were in double figures with Gotshall scoring 15, Austin Wilhelm 12 and Haske and Crandall each with 10.

Leading the way against Mancelona were Crandall with 14 points, LaBlance with 13 and Justin Friske and Gotshall each with nine.

Charlevoix began regional play Tuesday, March 13 at Gaylord High School against Traverse City St. Francis. The Gladiators eliminated the Rayders from the tournament in the regional finals last season.

The winner of the St. Francis-Charlevoix game will advance to the regional finals against the McBain-Mio winner at 7 p.m. on Thursday, March 15 in Gaylord.

Committee: Jail maintenance not being performed

JAIL

"My concern is we just agreed to spend $30,000 to clean the (HVAC) system...and to spend $30,000 in cleaning it and resetting it back to square one, with a history of (maintenance) not being done?" Christensen said. "My responsibility (is) to the taxpayer. I have a hard time spending $30,000 and then just continuing on the way we've been continuing on."

Christensen said a personnel change was necessary.

"I'm not suggesting termination, but maybe a (lateral) move where we send another maintenance guy up to the jail from the county building and maybe move Tom (Meggison, Charlevoix Jail Maintenance Supervisor) down from the jail to work in the county building," he said.

Members of the committee, which consist of Christensen, Chairman of the Board and District Six Commissioner, Shirley Roloff and District Four Commissioner, Joel Evans, made aware their concerns about Meggison's attitude and performance to Sheriff George T. Lasater and Meggison himself.

"I was very disappointed with the accusations at the last meeting (Wednesday, Feb. 28) from three people (of) the sheriff's office against John Jarema (Charlevoix County Prosecutor and board of commissioners' civil counsel) who I think, if anybody, wants that problem solved," Evans said. "I thought it was very uncalled for. Those people need to be sat down."

He added, "We're going to get that jail cleaned and make sure the heating and cooling system are working, but we've got to get along."

Several people at the Feb. 28 meeting questioned Jarema's motivations as civil counsel on the matter.

"I was very disappointed at the last meeting with people attacking John (Jarema). We the board wanted (him) to look into this, that's how he got involved," Evans said. "I want to encourage you (Meggison) to work together. You play a part in it, you're the maintenance man and there are certain duties you have to do up there and you need to do them."

"Unfortunately, I was not aware of the...orchestrated response they (jail employees) were going to give you and the civil counsel. To put it bluntly, I was embarrassed," Lasater said. "I felt that I was blind sided as much as anybody else in this room...there was a lack of respect and loyalty to me and I will deal with that and rest assured I will touch base with civil counsel and let him know exactly what I will be doing. I walked out of there saying, 'Jeez, I've been sheriff for 30 years and today I lost control of the sheriff's office.'"

Christensen said he believes the biggest concern in this whole issue is the morale at the jail.

"The conspiratorial attitude that was brought on to us seemed strange to me," he said. "It was almost as if they had their own conspiracy going."

He added, "Quite frankly, the maintenance department should have been handling this issue, not the prosecutor's office."

With such high levels of carbon dioxide in the building being blamed by some on the fact that the fresh air units weren't being left open as directed, an individual from the building department was sent up to the roof of the jail to see if the maintenance department was keeping them open as they had been told.

"It came out at the meeting that someone else in your department had been up on the roof taking photographs of his (building personnel's) footsteps," Christensen said. "Then I started to look through the hourly wages of some of these individuals. I'm sure you didn't hire your people to be wandering around up on the roof taking pictures."

He added, "How much of that was done on company time and on the company dime? I have a lot of concerns with that."

Committee members and civil counsel asked Meggison why he hadn't cleaned certain vents and why he wasn't keeping the fresh air intake units open despite repeated orders to do so.

"You don't work for us, but when we request something through our (civil counsel) like buying humidifiers or cleaning vents, you have to jump on those things," Roloff said. "I think we have a problem with getting things done up there (at the jail)."

Meggison said it doesn't matter how often the vents are cleaned, the internal portion of the system is so dirty it will continue to pose a problem.

Over the course of an hour, the topic of discussion went back and forth from Meggison's performance to accusations made during the Feb. 28 meeting.

"Civil counsel...was asked by the board to review the matter due to the fact that there was going to be some chance of a lawsuit that we had to look at the statute of limitations and make sure we were acting within that time frame and were we getting what we paid for," Charlevoix County Chief Assistant Prosecutor, Shaynee Fanara said. "That's why it was so offensive to say that there was a conspiracy, because we weren't even asked to look into it until May or June of 2006."

She added, "And if the board asks counsel to look at a civil issue, we need to do that."

Roloff said she understands the concerns of the jail workers but, "We're really concerned about the maintenance department up there (at the jail). They've got things in their head that we're trying to hide things from them for goodness sake."

She added, "We do want to do what we can as soon as we can (and) when we do get that cleaned out, I think it will make a big difference."

When asked if they are prepared for potential class action suit from employees and inmates of the jail, chairman Roloff put the question to acting civil counsel Fanara, "If there is a civil lawsuit presented to us, we'll have to address it at that time."

Because engineers all have different opinions on the matter, the commissioners said they, "Still don't really know" whether there is a problem with jail air other than high carbon dioxide levels and if there is a problem, whether it has an engineering, construction or maintenance causation.

Lasater presented copies of a letter dated Feb. 22 he sent to Jarema and Roloff requesting an open meeting with the corrections officers, civil counsel and county board of commissioners.

"It was brought to my attention...(Feb. 22) by the jail administrator that two of the agencies who were giving bids on cleaning the system made the following statements: 'This is a dangerous place to work, you (staff) should be receiving lung scans to see how much damage has been done. Statement made by Brent Raquepaw, Advanced Cleaning Experts,'" Lasater's letter stated. "'This is so bad, why are you (staff) not wearing masks while you're working here?' Statement made by (a) rep(resentative) from Krystal Kleen.'"

Fanara responded, "The two statements that you have (in the letter) listed in here one and two. Mr. Jarema did call both places and asked if those statements were said and they are not true."

Chamber Action & Business Briefs

Charlevoix Group Itineraries

The Charlevoix Chamber is working in partnership with Castle Farms, Friske Orchards & Farm Market, the Convention and Visitor's Bureau as well as the Boyne City and East Jordan Chambers to organize and produce itineraries designed to attract groups and more families to the area. The itineraries highlight the many fun and unique activities that are available in our beautiful community while promoting Charlevoix as an active year round destination. The completed materials will serve as an organized tour guide of suggested activities, both local and countywide, for visitors who may not be familiar with the wonderful businesses, services and natural resources available in our area. Examples include the following specific guides: 1) A Taste of the Good Life...Around Lake Charlevoix, 2) Charlevoix: Small Town – Big Culture, 3) Girls Just Wanna Have Fun – in Charlevoix! 4) Winter in Charlevoix County – Not Just Fun in the Sun, 5) Family Fun for Everyone in Charlevoix County – Featuring Charlevoix, Boyne City, East Jordan and Beaver Island. Many hours of work have gone into this project, and we are proud to be a part of it. Upon completion, the itineraries will be posted on the Chamber website, www.charlevoix.org and the following websites: www.castlefarms.com, www.friske.com, www.charlevoixlodging.com, www.ejchamber.org, www.boynechamber.com. Plans include a printed piece for distribution to also market the suggested tours.

OPEN HOUSE

Harwood Heritage Gold Grand Opening

On Sunday, March 18, from 1:00 to 4:00pm, Harwood Heritage Gold will host a Grand Opening open house at the Parsons Centennial Farm located 9 miles south of Charlevoix at 00016 Parsons Road. Tour their newly renovated maple syrup building, see their new equipment, and enjoy some special maple treats; all treats will be made using Harwood Heritage Gold maple syrup (it's not just for breakfast anymore!). For more information visit HYPERLINK "http://www.harwoodgold.com" www.harwoodgold.com, or call 547-2030.

16th Annual Easter Egg Hunt

The Easter Bunny is coming to Charlevoix for the 16th Annual Easter Egg Hunt on Saturday, April 7th at 2:00pm sharp in downtown Charlevoix compliments of Northwestern Bank. Don't forget to bring a basket to hold your child's share of the 6000 prize filled eggs. Prior to the Egg Hunt, Stafford's Weathervane Restaurant will host the annual Easter Bunny Luncheon from 11:00am to 1:30pm. Children may have a "free photo" taken with the Easter Bunny, courtesy of Charlevoix Camera, and then the whole family can stay for a special lunch. Call the Weathervane at 547-4311 for luncheon reservations.

Charlevoix Downtown Farmers Market

Due to the success of last year's test Farmers Market, the Charlevoix Chamber will sponsor a 15-week downtown Farmers Market this summer. Goals include promoting local agricultural business by providing a weekly venue for local farmers to sell their product, providing locally grown products to the community, and familiarizing the community with their agricultural neighbors. The Charlevoix Downtown Farmers Market will be held on Thursday mornings from 9:00am to 1:00pm beginning June 21st and concluding September 27th. Chairpersons Jacq Dipert and Judy Kehr along with committee members have been dedicating many hours of their time to establish market rules and arrange other details to sponsor a successful 2007 Downtown Farmers Market.

Customer Appreciation Week at Friske Orchards

Friske's Farm Market will show their appreciation to their loyal customers all this week through Saturday, March 17. Everyone who comes in the market will choose a Shamrock and receive the prize stated on it. Kids choose, too! It's a bushel of fun at Friske's. For more information call 599-2604 or visit www.friske.com.

The next Retail meeting is at 8:45am on March 15 at Stafford's Weathervane Restaurant

People at the meeting will hear from Sandy Dryer, Countryside Tours who is partnering with Castle Farms to hold a Women's Only Weekend, WOW! Scheduled for September 14 and 15, 2007. This event will bring many visitors to stay overnight, eat and spend money in Charlevoix during our off-season.

The next First Friday Biz Breakfast is May 4, 2007 at Grey Gables at 7:30am

The speaker is Dr. Steve Hansen who will speak about global warming.

The Chamber is organizing an Ambassadors Committee. If you are interested in helping on this committee please contact the Chamber.

PUBLIC NOTICE

If it's not in the newspaper, how will the public notice?

Zoning changes. Tax increases. Legislative proposals. These are just a few topics where government actions can affect your life and community. Imagine if government no longer had the legal obligation to publish this information in your newspaper. How would public notices get noticed? In our democratic society your newspaper fulfills an essential role in serving your right to know. It should not be your responsibility to know how to look, where to look, when to look or even to know what you're looking for to be informed. It is government's responsibility to publish and deliver public notice information as it becomes available. So take notice. Your right to know is being served... right here in your newspaper.

City manager opening attracts 39 people

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

The City of Charlevoix is one step closer to choosing a new city manager.

As of the March 15 application deadline, 39 people had applied for the city manager's vacancy. Applications postmarked by March 15 that are still en route will be accepted.

While 39 choices may seem to some like a high number, Mayor Norman Carlson Jr. doesn't think so.

"I don't think that's that many. We had over 100 applicants for the police officer's job," he said.

Carlson believes two charter amendments approved by voters in November of 2006 are to blame.

The first, Proposal 5, eliminated the provision for the city manager to be appointed to an indefinite term. The new wording requires appointment for up to a three-year term. The second,

Park renovation takes shape

The $7.2 million East Park renovation showed visible changes last week when on March 15 the Clarence Odmark Pavilion was torn down. The Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce building is expected to be demolished this week.

After 49 years in the same location at 408 Bridge St., the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce made its big move — less than a half a mile away.

Now located at 109 Mason St., just across the road from the Charlevoix Courier, the new chamber building is nearly five-and-a-half times the size of the old one.

"I think it's exciting. It's a new era for the chamber of commerce and the community," said chamber president, Jacqueline Merta. "I think the park project and the marina project are wonderful, very positive things which are happening to the community."

She added, "I think this change is for the good."

Of the $10 million marina and East Park project, the East Park renovation being steered by Hallmark Construction of Traverse City, will cost about $7.2 million.

Demolition of existing buildings that include the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce, the Clarence Odmark Pavilion commonly called the "handshell," the portable bathroom trailer and the fish pond kick off the renovation.

Consumers Energy is negotiating a sale agreement that will include its Palisades property in South Haven and a portion of Charlevoix's Big Rock Point property.

Big Rock sells dry fuel property

BY JULIE WITTHOEFT
EDITOR

Consumers Energy is working on a plan to unload its albatross.

Last week, Tim Petrosky, spokesman for Consumers Energy, a local utility provider which owns the Big Rock Point property in Charlevoix's Hayes Township, confirmed a sale agreement is in the works with Entergy Corporation, the second largest generator of nuclear power in the United States.

The plan is for Consumers to sell its Palisades Nuclear Plant in South Haven to Entergy for $380 million and for Consumers to pay Entergy $30 million to take over 107 acres of the Big Rock property where spent nuclear fuel is stored.

Palisades, an 800 megawatt nuclear power plant, is the only remaining active nuclear plant under Consumers' ownership.

"This makes economic sense for Consumers, for the customer and for Entergy," Petrosky said. "It's very difficult to be a single nuclear power plant utility — there's no opportunity to share

Debate over the impact of charter amendments on manager applicant pool

MANAGER

Proposal 6, limits severance packages to no more than three months pay.

"I know it (the amendments) scared off a few people who called me and asked about the job," Carlson said. "The three years is what scared them. There's no job security. It's not a perpetual job like it was before — every three years you're done unless they (Charlevoix City Council members) renew your contract. Why would someone uproot their family, give up a decent job they have now to come here for a three-year gig when you have no security?"

While Carlson is confident the charter amendments scared some candidates off, he said he doesn't know if the overall quality of the candidate pool was impacted.

First Ward Charlevoix City Councilman, Bob Timms, who supported both charter amendments, said he doesn't believe they chilled the hiring process.

"I think there's plenty of them (eligible candidates for city manager). It might have affected some of them but I don't think it's a problem. I think it's good to have a review (Proposal 5) and it's just so things don't fall through the cracks, I think it's a good change," Timms said.

The Charlevoix City Manager Hiring Committee, which includes Carlson, acting city manager Rick Brandi, Petoskey city manager George Korthauer and city residents John Kurtz and Mary Adams will begin reviewing the applications this week.

Brandi, 59, said he did not apply for the job as he plans to retire as early as next year.

The committee members have been given all the applications. They will bring their individual recommendations to the entire committee which will conduct interviews in early April. These committee meetings are not open to the public. Based on these interviews, the committee will pass along their top picks to Charlevoix City Council for its review. Council members can add or subtract any applicants to the final list they consider. City council interviews will be open to the public.

Brandi said the goal is to have a new manager hired in early June.

Former Charlevoix city manager, Mike Wiesner, was fired by city council in January after 22 years at that post. Council members who supported the action including Timms, first ward councilman, Lyle Gennett, second ward councilman, Gene Beer, and third ward council member, Shirley Gibson, cited mismanagement in a check debacle with a contractor, CCMS, that cost the city over $220,000 and failure to oversee wastewater treatment plant personnel who were charged with falsifying records, as grounds for Wiesner's dismissal.

What happened? As of the March 15 application deadline, 39 people had applied for the city manager's vacancy. Applications postmarked by March 15 that are still en route will be accepted.

What's next? The Charlevoix City Manager Hiring Committee, which includes mayor Norman Carlson Jr., acting city manager Rick Brandi, Petoskey city manager George Korthauer and city residents John Kurtz and Mary Adams will begin reviewing the applications this week.

They will conduct interviews in early April. Based on these interviews, the committee will pass along their top picks to Charlevoix City Council for its review.

When will a new manager be hired? The goal is to have a new manager hired in early June.

Polygamy legislation violates First Amendment

THE CRYING TOWEL

Benjamin Gohs

I got to wondering the other day whether a law is just simply because it is law and why the subjective morality of a few is heaped onto the masses.

We have laws in this country enacted to punish people for and deter them from physically or fiscally harming others, I get that. We also have arbitrary laws passed to apparently indulge the intolerance of the ruling class.

Before I go any further, let me state that I support the legalization of polygamy for all Americans, from apostolic Christian to agnostic. And, while it might not surprise you to hear that Gohs heathen is once again defending the seemingly indefensible, it should shock you that the Bill of Rights is trampled by our politico police and their citizen tyrant toadies every day of the week.

Though it has existed arguably as far back as men and women have felt the need to covet one another, and was practiced by Jews, Muslims, American Indians, Africans, Asians and even some Christians, plural marriage's downfall in these United States began shortly after Latter Day Saint prophet, Brigham Young, announced in the mid-1800s that "the practice," as it is often called, was a vital part of Latter Day Saint life.

Over the next couple decades, Utah and the U.S. government did all they could to destroy the Mormons by seizing property, disincorporating the church and imprisoning known practitioners of plural marriage.

Young's own secretary, George Reynolds, after being found guilty of bigamy and hoping the freedom of religion clause in the U.S. Constitution would release he and his people from state mandated torment, sought relief from the U.S. Supreme Court.

In his opinion on the case, Chief Justice, Morrison Waite, wrote, "There never has been a time in any State of the Union when polygamy has not been an offense against society."

According to Waite, it was, "Impossible to believe that the constitutional guaranty of religious freedom was intended to prohibit legislation in response to this most important feature (marriage) of social life."

Though Waite's willful ignorance demonstrated otherwise, the constitution does not say only certain Christian religious beliefs are protected, it says, "Congress shall make no law respecting the establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

But, by passing laws based on certain sects of Christianity, lawmakers have established a national religion.

Waite further stated, "Polygamy has always been odious among the northern and western nations of Europe, and, until the establishment of the Mormon church, was almost exclusively a feature of the life of Asiatic and of African people."

Of course, Waite's statement came during a time when only certain white, Christian men enjoyed the full protections and benefits of the constitution. Knowing the brutality and subhuman treatment received by both of the nonwhite, aforementioned peoples, it is most certain Waite meant merely to further disparage the practice of polygamy.

Waite continued to express his knowledge of all things odious when he wrote that, while American laws, "Cannot interfere with mere religious belief and opinions, they may with practices."

I dare a modern-day judge to tell the NRA their members deserve only the opinion that they may own guns under the Second Amendment to the Constitution.

I hear the critics of freedom and equality conjuring their asinine arguments in hopes of destroying dissenters.

They say, "But Gohs, polygamy is a breeding ground for child molesters and misogynists."

Unfortunately they are partially correct, predators lurk everywhere, but we already have laws designed to punish pedophiles — as weak as those laws may be. We certainly cannot punish the thousands of those engaged in holy, plural matrimony simply because of a few rotters. To do so would be as silly as calling for prohibition of Catholicism simply because a few addled archbishops knowingly placed pederasts within arms reach of hundreds of young victims.

We must say no to the burning of a witch, the stoning of a heretic and the continued criminalization of civil liberties. Come on kids, just say no to neo-puritanism.

After all, protecting the freedom of those with whom we disagree is the first and most necessary of steps to protecting our own.

Between 10 a.m. and noon on Thursday, March 22, Gohs will discuss this topic on the Vic McCarty Show on WMKT 1270 AM.

You can also listen to the radio broadcast live on the web at www.wmktthetalkstation.com. Benjamin Gohs is staff writer for the Charlevoix Courier. He can be contacted by calling (231) 547-6558 or by e-mail at bgohs@charlevoixcourier.com.

Movement: The key to longevity for some

A LOOK AT LIFE

Gayle Gennett

Movement is defined as "The ability to transcend from point A to point B with smooth transition." This was something I learned in beginning ballet at the tender age of 10. Spending this past week visiting dad at a skilled nursing facility was a re-education as to how important movement really is.

Dad arrived at this new chapter in his life by a fall he had taken involving face-to-face contact with the kitchen counter. The result, a fractured vertebrae near his neck and bruised vocal cords. I marveled at how well he was healing during his hospital stay until I was apprised of his second fall. This time his head met with the cold and unforgiving bathroom sink. Today, dad proudly sports the staples in his head like a child with a lost tooth. "Do you want to see my staples?" he asked.

"No thanks dad, I'm still feeling woozy from checking out your bed sores," I said.

The importance of exercise has played a role in our family for generations. The ability to move body parts and get our brain waves active is a lifeline to longevity. Family members utilizing their physical and mental abilities have outlived those who did not practice this concept. As a child, I was introduced to movement through exercise via exercise guru, Jack La Lanne. I came home from school one day in time to see mom sprawled on the living room floor. Before I could dial "O" for the operator (pre 9-1-1 days), I looked up with my youthful eyes and saw this muscular aperture of man on TV clothed in skintight gymnastics apparel. It was good old Jack urging mom to lift her legs over her head. Now there is a sight to behold and a memory I will never forget.

Let's fast forward to the present and you'll find me looking for a place to stay while visiting dad at his rehabilitation facility. I decided I already had squatter's rights to his apartment in assisted living so I would camp out there. It was quite an education. I wasn't certain how I should react as the residents welcomed me more than the casual visitor. I was quick to remind the aides that I did not require medical attention, a 6 a.m. feeding or to be personally bathed. Some of my new friends invited me to exercise class. "Use it or lose it honey," announced an exuberant, spry, white-haired woman.

As the sun would set near this busy facility the residents could be found scurrying to the sounds

FIGHT SECONDHAND CHILD ABUSE

Editor:

Wow. Which screw came loose prior to staff writer, Benjamin Gohs, penning last week's edition of The Crying Towel? (entitled "Beware of 'The greater good' trade-off," page 4 of the March 7 edition of the Courier). The tone of that piece was so paranoid, it was more reminiscent of the Unabomber Manifesto than real journalism.

I take greatest exception with the list Mr. Gohs presented as proof of the egregious nature of government oppression. Included in his list of atrocities was the ban in Bangor, Maine against smoking in an automobile with children.

People who smoke near an infant should go to jail. The damaging effects of secondhand smoke on an adult lung are clearly known, but the additional injury to the developing neonatal lung can only be estimated. It is thought that 6,200 children die annually in the United States due to their parents smoking. To break that down, 2,800 die from low birth weight due to women smoking during pregnancy, 2,000 die from sudden infant death syndrome, 1,100 die from respiratory infections and 250 die from burns. Another 5.4 million children are treated annually by the medical profession for asthma, ear and respiratory infections, due to living in a smoking environment. The annual cost of these smoking related illnesses in children is $4.6 billion, with another $8.2 billion estimated lost based on loss of life.

Mr. Gohs ended his diatribe by stating "We're all going to die — at least allow us to do so with dignity as we see fit." That is exactly what a law banning smoking near children will do for those kids whose parents are not enlightened or intelligent enough to protect their own children.

So, if my being against what amounts to secondhand child abuse puts me in a category the author calls "conniving cowards," so be it. Mr. Gohs, I have only one question left: Who are you calling a pansy?

THANK YOU, SUPPORTERS

Editor:

I would like to thank the whole northern Michigan community and my family for their love, support and prayers throughout my health and financial concerns. The last 10 months have been a mental and physical roller coaster for me. But I would never have kept such a positive attitude without your support. I still have a couple medical hurdles to overcome, but the outlook and future is very promising. I feel very lucky and privileged to live in a community that rallies together when someone or a family is in need for help. Thank you.

SUPPORT SMOKING BAN

Editor:

I believe that Mr. Gohs is off-base with his criticism of the Bangor, Maine, law regarding smoking around children. While to the great disappointment of your local physicians, our Michigan legislators have not found it necessary to produce a similar law regarding shielding our children from the secondhand smoke in homes and automobiles.

Secondhand smoke contains more than 40 known carcinogens which children take into their lungs with each tiny breath. The federal government estimates that this smoke is the major contributing agent for nearly 15,000 hospital admissions in children less than 18 months of age every year.

The tobacco-producing states of Arkansas and Louisiana passed laws in 2006 forbidding anyone from smoking in cars containing children. Vermont and Washington state prohibit foster parents from smoking in homes or automobiles containing children of any age. Our former surgeon general, Dr. Richard Carmosa, said in June of 2006 that children exposed to second-hand smoke are at a significant increased risk for sudden infant death syndrome.

A Democratic state representative in Arkansas, Bob Mathis sponsored the law that bars smoking in a car carrying a child young enough to require a car seat. Mathis was quoted saying, "We have laws on the books in every state of the union against child abuse. This is child abuse."

Gary Nolan, spokesman for The Smoker's Club Inc., a smoker's rights group, likens smoking bans to the "Salem witch hunts." He states that secondhand smoke is "not dangerous," and states that "If we don't reverse this, they'll be telling us what we can eat and what we can feed our children."

Mr. Gohs' article seems to subscribe to Nolan's perspective. And that's a shame.

MOVE

coming from the TV in the commons area. I joined in — taking turns guessing which letter should appear as Vanna White elegantly moved across this life size projection. Soon after the show had ended, the evening papers were brought in, but many were tossed aside as the print was too small to read. I did find a few individuals fighting over the pages containing cross word puzzles, another mind exercise. Again, the banter would begin as we all wanted to guess which word would fit correctly into the assigned squares.

Now feeling like a member of the village, I decide to help by reading the paper aloud to those who could no longer read the fine print. Trying to keep things positive, I avoided articles that dealt with crime and conspiracy. I focused on the war in Iraq and job layoffs. This was followed by the obituary page, which brought about a flurry of vocal activity. Writing your own obit may be the new creative writing class I'll offer them.

My good deeds and exercising with the group paid off. I did get a part in the Spring Fling Musical, "We Move You." I'm the one in the back row without a walker. I'll be holding a daisy as a sign of spring in case you miss me. You can catch our performance this April at the Oakwood Commons Assisted Living Complex in Melvindale.

Cancer Crusaders plan luncheon for Donna Russell

The Cancer Crusaders and the Commission on Aging are sponsoring a fund-raising lunch from 1 to 3 p.m. on Sunday, March 25 at the Boyne Area Senior Center to benefit Charlevoix resident, Donna Russell.

Russell is a part-time homemaker for Charlevoix County who was diagnosed with stomach cancer in October 2006. She had major surgery and part of her stomach removed in December 2006 and is currently undergoing chemotherapy to be followed by radiation treatments.

Russell has not been able to work since October and the fund-raiser will offset her bills and medical expenses.

The meal will feature barbecued beef on a bun, chips, cole slaw and a drink with a dessert bar and bake sale.

The Cousins Music Group will perform. Donations will be accepted. All checks for donations should be made out to Donna Russell.

Bourassa hosts March 24 benefit guitar recital

Eric Bourassa

Eric Bourassa will host a classical guitar recital at 2 p.m. on Saturday, March 24 in Community Rooms A and B at Charlevoix Public Library.

Admission is free. Donations will benefit Christina Bourassa's internship with Teen Mania Ministries which will take place in fall of 2007.

OBITUARIES

Edna Kennedy: Nov. 6, 1912 - Feb. 17, 2007

Edna Marie Neff Kennedy, 94, of Traverse City died on Feb. 17. She was born on Nov. 6, 1912 to Lance and Esther (Nelson) Neff of Charlevoix.

Edna Marie graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1932 followed by Lewis/Chapin School of Business and Detroit Business College.

Edna Marie married Basil Kennedy of Traverse City in 1941 in Charlevoix. She retired from Munson Medical Center medical records department in Traverse City.

Edna Marie is survived by her children B. Lance (Kathy) Kennedy of Lake Orion, Janice Kennedy Verhage of Traverse City and Bruce Kennedy of Wetmore as well as many grandchildren, great-grandchildren, sister-in-law Mrs. Robert (Eleanor) Neff, many Neff nieces and nephews, Neff and Nelson cousins.

Edna Marie was preceded in death by her husband Basil Kennedy, parents Lance and Esther Neff, brothers Gordon N. and wife Catherine J. Neff, and L. Robert Neff.

Memorials can be sent to Bethlehem Lutheran Church in Traverse City.

Elizabeth Forker: Died Feb. 22, 2007

Elizabeth Nichols Forker, former president of the Junior League of Cincinnati and the Garden Club of Cincinnati, died Feb. 22 at her home in Hyde Park, Ohio. She was 94.

Mrs. Forker, known as Betty, was a founding trustee of the Children's Heart Association and the Visiting Nurse Association and president of the Children's Convalescent Home. She was a board member of the Southwestern Ohio Chapter of the American Heart Association and chairwoman of its annual Christmas card campaign in 1976.

During her younger years, Mrs. Forker was an excellent amateur golfer. She was president of the Greater Cincinnati Women's Golf Association and promoted women's and girl's golf until her death. In 1997, the association's amateur invitational championship named its junior medalist award the Betty Forker Trophy in her honor.

Her husband, David Matthews Forker Jr., died in 1979.

Surviving are a daughter, Margaret Smith of Hyde Park; and two grandchildren. Services have been held. Interment was at Spring Grove Cemetery.

Memorial contributions can be directed to Charlevoix Area Hospital, Lakeshore Drive, Charlevoix, MI 49720; or Belvedere Club Memorial Fund, Belvedere Club, P.O. Box 218, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

Mrs. Forker had been coming to Charlevoix's Belvedere Club since the 1940s and celebrated her 50th summer here in 1996. She was also a five-time ladies golf champion at the Belvedere Golf Club and an accomplished tennis player at the Belvedere.

The club would like to honor Mrs. Forker's memory with a new emphasis on recycling.

Robert Sladics: Jan. 30, 1945 - March 7, 2007

Robert Joseph Sladics, 62, of Hot Springs Village, Ark. died March 7 at National Park Medical Center after a courageous battle with lung cancer.

Robert was born Jan. 30, 1945 to Joseph and Ann Sladics in Baltimore, Md. He attended school at Dundalk High School and Towson State University. He retired from General Motors after 35 years of service at their Baltimore, Detroit and Shreveport plants. He was also a Navy veteran.

Robert is survived by his beloved wife of 40 years, Margaret Helkowski Sladics; daughter, Devra (Jeff) Bafs, son, Brian (Marcie); and granddaughters Abigail and Tessa of Fishers, Ind., Reylin and Laina of Charlevoix; his sister, Kathleen Sladics; and niece, Jessica of Baltimore, Md.

Robert was predeceased by his parents.

Services were held at Sacred Heart of Jesus Catholic Church in Hot Springs Village, Ark. Donations can be made to Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, P.O. Box 27105, New York, NY 10117-2504; (212) 629-2000; www.mskcc.org.

Thode Thodeson: Jan. 8, 1914 - March 12, 2007

Thode B. "Ted" Thodeson, 93, died Monday, March 12 at Chelsea Community Hospital.

Thode was born on Jan. 8, 1914 near Swift Current, Saskatchewan, the first child of Peder and Tilla (Jorgenson) Thodeson. Educated through the eighth-grade on the prairie, he completed his education in the Canadian Navy and served on a mine sweeper off Canada's east coast in World War II. In 1945, following the war, he attended Bible school in Toronto where he met and married Dorothy Wright. They became American citizens in 1949. She preceded him in death on Dec. 19, 1989.

Thode's first pastorate was in Glennie in the Pigeon National Forest of upstate Michigan. He also pastored in Reed City, Charlevoix, Ludington and Chelsea, and was camp caretaker at the Assembly of God, Fa-Ho-Lo campground in Grass Lake. Thode was active for a time in the Chelsea Ministerial Association and served as voluntary chaplain at the Cassidy Lake Correctional Facility. He was an avid gardener.

Thode is survived by his daughter, Loreen (Joel) Aguirre of Spokane, Wash.; two sons, Paul (Kathryn) of Atlanta, Ga., and Robert of Ann Arbor; two brothers, David and John; three sisters, Esther Collins, Toni Seal and Thelma Alexander; five grandchildren, Reed, Drew, Lucas, Susan and Jana; one great-granddaughter, Emily Rose; and many nieces and nephews.

A memorial service took place on Friday, March 16, at the Chelsea Christian Fellowship with Pastor Jeffrey Thomas officiating.

Memorial contributions may be made to Chelsea Christian Fellowship, 339 Wilkinson St., Chelsea, MI 48118, or North Sharon Baptist Church, 17999 Washburne Rd., Grass Lake, MI 49240; or a charity of your choice.

OBITUARY

Lorah Foley: March 10, 1944 - March 14, 2007

Lorah Jean Foley, 63, of Charlevoix, died Wednesday, March 14 at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Lorah was born on March 10, 1944, to Laurence A. and Lorah A. (Cole) Foley. She graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1962, and then took nurses training at Saint Luke's Hospital in Marquette, earning her registered nurse at Northern Michigan University. She then attended Warner Pacific College in Portland, Ore. for three years and then lived in California for three years when Lake Michigan drew her home to Charlevoix.

In 2006, Lorah retired from Charlevoix Area Hospital where she had worked for 22 of her 41 years in nursing.

She is survived by her sister, Mary (Herb) Hilliker of Bloomington, Ind.; brother-in-law, David (Eileen) Juilleret of Charlevoix; nieces and nephews, Becky (Jeff) Resch, Dan (Carol) Juilleret, Jennifer (Charles) Montgomery, Greg (Janet) Hilliker, Jenny (Curt) Byrd, Becky (Rick) Batterbee, Beverly Hilliker, Betsy (Mike) Jarvis, Shelly Mosier, Julia (Todd) Ronngren, Andrew (Nicole) Hilliker, Jodi (Ian) Loudon; many great-nieces and nephews. Lorah's sister, Margaret Juilleret, and nephew, William Mosier, preceded her in death. Memorial contributions may be made to Charlevoix Area Hospital or the Community Church of God.

A graveside service will be held at Greenwood Cemetery in Petoskey this summer. Services will be announced at a later date.

COMMISSIONERS SUPPORT FLEXIBLE LAW FOR BARKLEY

Editor:

Apparently the old adage about the squeaky wheel getting fixed is alive and well in Charlevoix County. Three county commissioners (Joel Evans, Chris Christiansen and Shirlene Tripp) recently saw fit to meddle in township affairs by appearing at a Bay Township board meeting to plead for leniency for Lyle Barkley.

Lyle Barkley, a person who has gone all the way to the Supreme Court and back — and lost — a person who has thumbed his nose at the rules and regulations everyone else has to abide by and most importantly a person who in the summer of 2004, brought in an armed group of people who called themselves "militia" to threaten the lives of our local law enforcement officers if they enforced a court order issued against him. Apparently he and the commissioners believe that Barkley does not have to follow the rules that all of the rest of us have to follow. Rather, they believe he should garner sympathy. I don't get it.

PIER JUMPING IS A GREAT PASTIME

Editor:

My letter is in regards to the letter from a resident concerning swimmers who jump off the pier during the summer time. In this letter a certain resident claimed that she does not approve of persons swimming by the pier and that it is an "awful pastime" as opposed to great pastime.

As a lifetime resident and longtime pier jumper I completely disagree with this resident and believe we should encourage pier jumpers and pier jumping responsibility. In my time pier jumping I have never seen someone jumping in front of a boat purposely and swim the channel as claims the concerned resident. For me pier jumping has been one of my favorite summer time memories. It has brought excitement and fun for many of the residents and tourists alike who need to cool off on a hot day. Stopping pier jumping would be like stopping the children from playing. Something you just can't do. The resident claims also that boats have the right to be in the channel as opposed to humans having the right to swim. What the resident might not be able to see from their Lake Michigan condo view is that most people jump into what is called the "square" or "safety zone" which most residents in the community are familiar with and for those who aren't I encourage you to walk out to the lighthouse someday.

Perhaps the residents who swim in the channel are seeking excitement and find it in our beautiful lakes. To me, this is a great pastime.

QUIT LEGISLATING AGAINST FUN

Editor:

(This letter was submitted to Charlevoix City Council.)

As I find myself unable to attend the upcoming public hearing on the proposed ordinance to ban swimming in the Pine River Channel, and assert fines for doing same, I hereby wish to convey my most sincere opposition to such an ordinance and hope this letter can be entered into the public record accordingly.

There are several logical reasons for my firm stand against the proposed measure beginning with the fact that for more than 100 years we have been able to exist without such a ban. And, our summer population really hasn't increased at all over that course of time. Certainly not to the point where a huge increase in density would serve as the basis for change.

Secondly, there really hasn't been a problem with swimmers in the channel to date. Our chief of police (Gerard Doan) has admitted as much, according to the local paper, by acknowledging only minor incidents where lifeguards have been on alert and where recently, one person sustained a cut which required stitches. An unfortunate circumstance which happens in many driveways each year. If we are to act on that logic, in view of the fact of life whereby we witness drownings on both Lake Charlevoix and Lake Michigan each and every year, not to mention numerous serious injuries, due to various swimming and boating mishaps, then perhaps swimming and boating should be banned from those respective waterways to insure our safety. At some point, and I hope that point is here, we have to stop contemplating laws whose sole purpose is to save ourselves from ourselves.

I personally know of many individuals, both young and old, who feel that taking a plunge in the channel is a traditional rite of summer in Charlevoix. One such person who is now 70 years old, claims to have followed that tradition for more than 50 consecutive years.

I am also an avid boater, and have never witnessed a problem with swimmers in the channel. I would propose a few well placed signs which would indicate swimming is at your own risk to mitigate any liability issues, and would steer clear of trying to establish fines along the lines of those imposed on those terrible sidewalk bicyclers, skateboarders, rollerbladers and other unwelcome visitors who seemingly want to spend their vacations in our "Cool City" without regard to our numerous ordinances already in place opposing such dastardly behavior. Need they be reminded of our latest unwitting slogan? "Leave for Charlevoix on vacation, go home on probation."

I think it would behoove us all to work together to embrace various behaviors as a part of the vacation mentality of enjoying oneself, and channel them (pun intended), where they might cause the least disruption. We can do that by finding ordinances we may safely eliminate, such as "No pets in East Park," rather than seeking to establish ever more confining dictates.

Russell acquitted on Family Video robbery charges

BY STEVE ZUCKER
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW
STAFF WRITER

After hearing more than five days worth of testimony, it took a jury just 40 minutes Wednesday, March 14 to acquit a Charlevoix man on all five charges he was facing in connection with an August armed robbery at a Charlevoix video store.

The five-man, seven-woman jury found Danny Lee Russell, 45, not guilty on charges of armed robbery, use of a firearm in the commission of a felony, felon in possession of a firearm, carrying a firearm with unlawful intent and unlawful imprisonment.

During the trial the jury heard from Family Video employee Bethany Reeves, 21, who said that as she was leaving the store after closing at about 12:30 a.m. on Aug. 27 when a masked man approached her in the parking lot, put a pistol to her head, demanded the night's bank deposit, stole her purse and forced her into the trunk of her car.

Testimony in the case showed that police were essentially getting nowhere in the investigation, and indeed had included Reeves herself among the list of possible suspects until Oct. 24. That's the day that Russell's son, Daniel Scott Russell, 24, came forward from his cell at the Charlevoix County Jail telling police that his father had admitted to having robbed the Family Video store hours after the incident happened. He also said he saw his father burning checks taken in the robbery in a barbecue grill at his ex-wife's house early on Aug. 27.

Based on the son's information, police recovered a shirt that matched Reeves' description of the one her assailant wore. Police also recovered the charred remains of a Family Video bank deposit slip from the grill. Danny Lee Russell also roughly matched Reeve's physical description of the robber. Police arrested Russell on Oct. 25.

Based upon information provided by the son, police divers searched the Pine River Channel for two days but could not find the gun allegedly used in the robbery, nor any other evidence tied to the crime.

One of the key issues in the case was the credibility of Russell's son, who testified on March 13, and the lack of physical evidence tying Russell to the crime.

In his two-hour closing argument on March 14, defense attorney Daniel Hartman told the jury that despite all the evidence, the case came down to determining two things: Was there a robbery? And if there was, who committed it?

The primary defense theories in the case were that the robbery was either an elaborate sham pulled off by Reeves with the help of others and/or committed by someone else — namely Daniel Scott Russell — who was trying to make it look like the defendant committed the

Asian carp threatens Lake Michigan fishery

Electrified barrier proposed to stop spread

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

"They would have pretty significant impacts on other fish like lake whitefish. Those are the things us biologists are worried about."

Randy Claramunt
RESEARCH BIOLOGIST,
CHARLEVOIX FISHERIES RESEARCH STATION

A larger than average menace lurks in waters 50 miles from Lake Michigan, and if action isn't soon taken, it could decimate Michigan's aquatic life.

Experts believe the Asian carp, used by southern catfish farmers to clean their ponds, entered the Mississippi River during floods in the mid-1990s which caused the catfish ponds to overflow. Since the Illinois River connects the Mississippi with Lake Michigan, U.S. Senators and Congressmen representing Michigan, local environmentalists and the leaders of other Great Lakes states are working to prevent the fish from entering Charlevoix's nearest Great Lake.

Pictured above is a graphic of what the proposed electric barrier looks like. Legislation entitled, "Great Lakes Collaboration Implementation Act" and "National Aquatic Invasive Species Act" which would, among other things, support the completion of a permanent electric barrier in the Chicago Sanitary and Ship Canal. This graphic was provided by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

"Biologists believe if the Asian carp were allowed into the Great Lakes, the fish, which can weigh up to 100 pounds, would decimate native fish in the Great Lakes by eating the native fishes' food supply," stated U.S. Congressman Bart Stupak (D-Menominee) in a Feb. 8 press release.

Randy Claramunt, a research biologist with the Michigan Department of Natural Resources Charlevoix Fisheries Research Station, said the carp are an edacious fish which grow up to four-feet in length, reproduce rapidly in large quantities and would find the Great Lakes region to be a suitable home.

"Asian carp can spawn several thousands. A small fish can produce 5,000 to 10,000 eggs, and it only goes up from there," he said. "As far as the effect on ecology if they got into the Great Lakes, it's hard to predict. But one thing's certain, they grow extremely fast and they are planktivorous, so basically they filter the water. There is a lot of potential to consume base nutrients zoöplankton (the smallest non-plant life form) and phytoplankton (a basic plant organism in the Great Lakes)."

He added, "They would have pretty significant impacts on other fish like lake whitefish. Those are the things us biologists are worried about."

A significant reduction in different types of plankton would decrease the number of prey species such as alewife and rainbow smelt, upon which lake trout and salmon depend for food.

"They (Asian carp) eat too much, they can swim fast and they grow so quickly they could escape predation," he said. "After six months of life, nothing in the Great Lakes can prey on them so there's nothing to control them."

Since scientists don't really know what the carp would do to the Great Lakes, Claramunt said, "It's better to just keep them out." To that end, an electrified test barrier was erected in 2002 at a cost of more than $2 million in a section of the Illinois River.

U.S. Senators Carl Levin (D-MI) and Vernon J. Ehlers (R-MI), were among several to co-introduce the Great Lakes Collaboration Implementation Act and the National Aquatic Invasive Species Act which would, among other things, support the completion of the permanent electric barrier in the Chicago Sanitary and Ship Canal.

is a $4 billion per year industry," Levin wrote in his March 2 column. "If the Asian carp reach the Great Lakes, it would be a body blow to an important industry and to Michigan's economy."

Stupak, who co-sponsored the Great Lakes Asian Carp Barrier Act, said the bill would allow the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to finish the permanent electric barrier started building in 2004 to keep the carp from using the Chicago Ship and Sanitary Canal on the Illinois River to enter Lake Michigan.

The idea behind the $9.1 million barrier is that the carp will not want to swim through the 220-feet wide electrical field. The Environmental Protection Agency has stated the barrier will pose no threat to humans.

"The temporary dispersal barrier has helped protect the Great Lakes, but Congress needs to develop a permanent solution to the Asian carp problem," Stupak further stated. "The legislation I am co-sponsoring would take a step in the right direction towards protecting our Great Lakes by giving the U.S. Army Corps the funding it needs to establish a permanent barrier."

Claramunt agrees that a temporary fix is no solution, but disagrees with the idea the electrical barrier method will be foolproof.

"My personal preference is a physical barrier. I'd rather see them separate the channel itself," he said. "I think it's a good effort that buys us time in the short-term, so I am not opposed to it at all, but it's not a long-term fix because no matter how many backups you have, you could have flooding events or power outages that basically open the door for a short period of time."

The Environmental Protection Agency stated no more than one tagged test fish made it through the current electrical barrier.

"The pulse just deters them. Basically what can happen (is) the electrical field can be disturbed when a large vessel moves through and the fish could move through enough to be stunned which means they couldn't swim, but could be alive and the vessel draft could carry them through," Claramunt said. "I don't think this is enough of a charge to kill the fish and all fish should be deterred by this."

Claramunt said the surest way to prevent an invasion of Asian carp would be to separate the Illinois River and Lake Michigan and force ships to dock and transport their goods via land back and forth from one ship to the other.

Paws on books

The Charlevoix Elementary School student body is joining together for a March Into Reading Challenge. Students read to earn minutes towards a paw print. When a paw print is earned, it is placed on the school wall on a pre-measured route to one of the 27 check-in points of the Iditarod. When students reach the finish line, no later than spring break, they will be met with yet another unique challenge by principal Dick Swenor. crime.

"These type of cases are hard on a community," said Hartman, who along with co-counsel Mike Atchison served as Russell's court-appointed defense team.

Hartman went on to praise the conduct of the police and the Charlevoix County Prosecutor's Office in their actions leading up to and during the trial.

"I respect the way the city police department and prosecutor's office conducted themselves the entire case despite the fact that we disputed their interpretation of the facts," Hartman said.

Charlevoix County prosecutor John Jarema said he was disappointed with the verdicts, but he still has faith in the jury system.

"The jury had a lot of witnesses and a lot of exhibits put in front of them. They were attentive to it all and just didn't think we proved our case," he said.

He also commended the case put on by Russell's defense attorneys.

"They are of the same mind we are: Let all admissible evidence come in either through witnesses or stipulations and let the jury decide," Jarema said.

Jarema said he would be willing to consider looking into the robbery again if further information came out pointing to another person.

Russell, who has been in jail since his arrest on Oct. 25, was released March 15 following a court hearing on warrant for failure to pay child support.

Veterans records security breach uncovered

BY BENJAMIN GOHS
STAFF WRITER

> "I came and opened every single drawer."
> Bob Drebenstedt
> DISTRICT FIVE CHARLEVOIX COUNTY COMMISSIONER AND MICHIGAN VETERANS TRUST FUND VOLUNTEER

Local military veterans in financial distress have since World War II received a helping hand from the Michigan Veterans Trust Fund.

According to District Five Charlevoix County Commissioner, volunteer Veterans Trust Fund board member and former Charlevoix County Veterans' Affairs director, Bob Drebenstedt, now that he no longer works out of the veterans' affairs office, he has no place to store the records of veterans and no place to meet them when they need help.

"Usually the spouse comes in and she is in tears and usually the husband is too embarrassed to come in to (say) the wolves are at my door and I need financial assistance," Drebenstedt told fellow commissioners during the Wednesday, March 14 board meeting.

Drebenstedt presented the board with a bid for $2,716 to add two walls to a corner near the county building's east entrance which would make an enclosure of approximately seven by 14-feet — enough to house a couple file cabinets, a table and a few chairs.

A cabinet containing vital information pertaining to the trust fund, from addresses to social security numbers, recently remained in the hallway with a chain and lock to prevent identity theft until Drebenstedt moved it to the county's law library for safe keeping.

But, Drebenstedt said, "I went and opened every single drawer."

Drebenstedt said the chain did nothing to slow him from opening the file cabinet.

While Drebenstedt contends he has talked about needing meeting space since January, District Six commissioner and chairman of the board, Shirley Roloff, said he never officially presented it to the Charlevoix County Building and Grounds Committee.

"I told everybody this in January that Michigan Trust Fund needs their own space," Drebenstedt said. "We're in the third month and we still don't have this room completed."

Roloff told Drebenstedt to take his bid to the Building and Grounds Committee for approval.

"I think we all should know you can't just come in and say I want to build a room somewhere," Roloff said.

When asked why the room is necessary, Drebenstedt said, "We're out initially $2,700 and they've got a space to sit down with somebody who's a little intimidated walking in here. They don't want to be sitting in the hall."

He added, "They can't be sitting in Ed's (Holm, the new veterans' affairs director for Charlevoix County) room because like on Monday (with) me talking to Ed, three times we were interrupted. I can't be in there using his office when he has to be in there talking to veterans and doing veterans' forms."

The trust fund board members meet every Wednesday and on a per case basis for veterans with emergencies.

Drebenstedt said he will likely address the issue at the Tuesday, April 3 Building and Grounds Committee meeting.

Seven county agencies receive emergency food and shelter funds

Char-Em United Way and the local board of the federal Emergency Food and Shelter Program recently announced that grants have been awarded to nine agencies in Emmet and Charlevoix counties.

These funds will be used to expand the capacities of these agencies to provide emergency shelter and food to the local populace.

Emmet County agencies received a total of $33,939 which will be distributed to the Women's Resource Center, Salvation Army, Manna Food Project, Brother Dan's Food Pantry and St. Francis Church.

In Charlevoix County $22,218 has been awarded to the Women's Resource Center, Salvation Army, Manna Food Project, Good Samaritan Family Services, East Jordan Care and Share, Charlevoix Community Food Pantry and the Seventh Day Adventist Boyne City Community Service Center.

The awards were made by a local board that is chaired by Char-Em United Way and includes representatives from the Salvation Army, American Red Cross, Temple B'Nai Israel, Catholic Human Services, Emmanual Episcopal Church, The Little Traverse Bay Band of Odawa Indians, county commissioners, the Department of Human Services, community foundations and a representative of the homeless population.

The local board was charged to distribute funds appropriated by Congress to support local food and shelter programs in high-need areas around the country.

Enlightened Elder: When to ask for help at home...

Sue Bergmann

Seniors are becoming more educated and pro-active in their decision making for care at home.

Preventing a crisis instead of waiting for a medical catastrophe to occur can empower you to choose the people who care for you and the living situation in which you are cared for. The problem is how to recognize when the time is appropriate to ask for help. Here are 10 areas of common behaviors and concerns to consider when is the right time to ask for help.

HOME MANAGEMENT

You are not physically able or experiencing chronic fatigue that prevents you from completing tasks. You are unable to keep your yard free of safety hazards of snow, ice or lawn debris. Hiring a homemaker through the Charlevoix County Commission on Aging or privately can help you manage and stay in your home much longer. You may need help looking for other living arrangements, assisted living or long-term care.

SAFE DRIVING ISSUES

Experiencing fear or inability to drive. Lacking ability to get to the store or doctors and lack of social support and friends or family to assist you in errands and driving. You find yourself canceling appointments to the doctors, dentists, haircuts because you can't get there. Knowing when to give up the driving for your safety as well as the safety of others is being responsible. Ask a friend or neighbor, offer to buy gas and or lunch for a ride. Using the Charlevoix County transit is easy to do and inexpensive. There are local taxicabs now or hiring someone privately can help.

NUTRITION PROBLEMS

Weight loss and improper nutrition. Not eating enough or not eating properly because you can't get to the store. You find yourself eating a lot of take out pizza when meals on wheels, or your local senior center would be a better choice. There are Commodity Food Programs and assistance if you can't afford to purchase your groceries.

MOBILITY/SAFETY

You've been falling more frequently in your home, bumping into things, slipping on rugs and can't maneuver your stairs, your home needs handrails or lift chairs, you need help modifying your home for safety. Having someone come in and install grab bars, handrails, safety lights, removing throw rugs, modifying your bathroom and purchasing a Lifeline or Personal Emergency Response System is relatively inexpensive and can save your life.

BATHING ISSUES

You are neglecting your personal hygiene or are afraid to get into the shower because you might fall or need help with bathing. Personal Care Aides are available to assist you in and out of the bathroom and with personal hygiene, hair care, etc. Registered nurses and cosmetologists are available for foot care/haircutting in your home.

INCONTINENCE ISSUES

Seek medical attention if you are having incontinence problems that require you to get to the bathroom quickly and frequently. This can be a symptom of a urinary tract infection or incontinence problem for which you may need medical treatment.

LACK OF SOCIAL SUPPORT

Have you had a recent change in your support system, loss of a spouse/caregiver due to illness or death. You feel like you don't want to ask your family, friends or neighbors to perform small task's for you. There are volunteer agencies, churches and programs including Retired Senior Volunteer Program and Catholic Human Services for Senior Companion that can help.

MEDICATION MANAGEMENT

Are you are forgetting to take your medicine, taking too much or not enough because it's too expensive? Consider signing up for a Medicare D prescription plan or Medicaid. If you are getting the medicines mixed up and it's overwhelming to manage multiple medications, consider a Medication Management program through the Charlevoix County Commission on Aging or private care. Automatic medication dispensers are available through medical supply companies.

FORGETFULNESS

If you are experiencing forgetfulness, anxiety, paranoia, hallucinations and memory loss, mood changes, depression or withdrawal from social situations, you may need to be evaluated and treated by your physician or Cognitive Assessment Clinic for signs and symptoms of dementia, Alzheimer's or depression.

FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT

Are your bills are piling up and you are getting numerous calls from bill collectors? Can't seem

Hey Jane!

Jane

Hey Jane!

My parents drink too much since they've retired. When they worked it was a one-a-day drink now that they have more time they begin with a glass or two of wine at lunch and it continues all day. By the time dinner comes along they can be smashed. I've mentioned to them casually that "they sure can put it away." I've been hoping they get the message but so far they aren't getting it. Worse, their group of friends also drink too much. Nobody seems to be making the connection that arguments, falls and fender benders are way too common. I worry about the bad combination of alcohol and all the medicine they take. I only know, if I say, "Join Alcoholic's Anonymous," they'll get mad at me and deny there is a problem. Is this a common problem with seniors and how do I get them to see the light? SLS

Dear SLS:

A prominent Yale professor, Sherwin Nuland, has written a book called "The Art of Aging." Of course, he says the obvious: Keep an active mind, exercise, be careful what you eat, no cigarettes and no heavy booze. It seems some of us are ignoring the doctor's orders because alcoholism among seniors is at epidemic levels. A senior citizen, living alone can often go undetected as abusing alcohol because they are isolated. They don't have a job to go to and they drink at home so they don't come into contact with the law. They are lonely, could be grieving or fighting pain. Couples like your parents could still be pretending they are social drinkers and, as you say, that makes it easy to deny they have a problem. The up side of this difficulty, in your case, is that if your parents have a non-addictive history they might listen to reason. So at risk of making them mad, you need to confront them. Not easy, I know. But you need to call it what it is. When they are drunk, say so. Don't stay around them. Go home. Tell them the grandchildren can't be around drunken people. I know a family that videoed an event including a drunken grandfather. After he saw the tapes he changed his own habits. A video can be worth 1,000 words. So tell them you've joined Al-Anon. Do it! 1-888-4AL-ANON. Help them shine a light on what they are doing. Flip that switch!

Jane

Tackle life changes with local resources

HELP

to manage or balance your checkbook? You may be able to get help at your local bank to balance your checkbook, set up automatic bill payment or may need further help with financial aid through Medicaid, budgeting or conservatorship. It may be time to seek legal assistance to set up power of attorneys, living wills and Medicaid estate planning with your attorney of choice.

Regardless of what type of help you need, if you have or are currently experiencing difficulties at home with any of these problem areas, you need help, whether it is asking the neighbor or the mailman to bring in your mail, taking a bus to the grocery store or purchasing a lifeline to ensure your own safety.

For assistance, call the Charlevoix County Commission on Aging at (231) 237-0103. Sue Bergmann RN, BSN is the director of the Charlevoix County Commission on Aging. She can be contacted by calling (231) 237-0103.

Everything's coming up roses

Immediate past president of the Kiwanis Club of Charlevoix, Suzanne A. Muma, prepares a dozen roses for the twelfth annual rose sale fund-raiser last week. Lori Mitchell, owner of Charlevoix Floral, has donated space in her shop for at least the last decade so Muma and other Kiwanis members could prepare the flowers. Nearly 200 dozen roses were ordered this year with proceeds benefiting area youth scholarships. The Charlevoix Kiwanis have been serving the area since 1934 and have helped organizations including BASES Teen Center and the Head Start reading program.

Business Week Customer Service ranks Edward Jones sixth

The global financial services firm Edward Jones is the highest-ranking brokerage firm on BusinessWeek magazine's first-ever ranking of "Customer Service Champs," according to Derek A. Chowen, an Accredited Asset Management Specialist and financial advisor in Charlevoix.

The St. Louis, Mo. based firm ranked No. 6 among 25 national and international companies that — according to the magazine's March 5 edition — are the "best providers of customer service."

Soft opening, solid response

Scovie's Waterfront Grille opened its doors last week with a two-day invite only soft opening. Hundreds tried menu items inspired by flavors of the Pacific Rim and used comment cards to let owners know what the new restaurant's strengths and weaknesses are. The results were resounding support. Pictured above are owners of the new restaurant, Leonard and Joan Forreider and Scott and Vi Forreider. The Forreiders purchased the former Ferry Beach Inn, located at 230 Ferry Avenue, in November and have since completely renovated the facility.

Local quilter's work selected for major international show

Kathie Briggs

The International Quilt Association recently announced that Kathie Briggs, a Charlevoix quilter, has had her work, Luna, named as a finalist in the association's annual spring Judged Show, "Celebrate Spring."

The International Quilt Association founded in 1979, is a non-profit organization dedicated to the preservation of the art of quilting, the attainment of public recognition for quilting as an art form and the advancement of the art throughout the world.

This year, the "Celebrate Spring" contest prizes will include Best of Show ($2,500 cash and hotel/travel accommodations) first place ($650), second ($350), third ($250) and Viewers' Choice ($100).

Finalists had to pass a stringent screening process by noted quilt artists and teachers.

The winners will be announced and all of the finalists will be on display from April 13-15 at International Quilt Festival at the Donald E. Stephens Center in Rosemont, Ill.

For more information on "Celebrate Spring," the International Quilt Association or International Quilt Festival visit www.quilts.com.
